PLANT SERICEA NOW

Lespedeza sericea has been declared a wonder crop because of its outstanding performance and wide capabilities.

The greatest opportunity with sericea lies in its use for hay and grazing for livestock that will, when sold, supplement income from cotton and other crops.

Here are some results from the A. P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station on the use of sericea for grazing. During 1947 and 1948 a field of sericea on the Piedmont Substation carried an average of one milking cow per one and one-fourth acres from April 25 through September. In 1948, at the Upper Coastal Plain Substation, 14 milch cows were grazed on sericea from late April to October 14.

In the experiment, 11 cows were in production from July 1 until the end of the sericea grazing season. After deducting the cost of concentrates fed, hauling, and home-used milk, these cows paid $10 per acre per month for the sericea grazing. The price of the milk was $3.90 per hundredweight on a basis of four per cent butterfat.

Most Alabama farmers should be able to get the same results. Sericea can be grown on upland which is not adapted to permanent pasture mixtures.

A number of local farmers are ready to verify the practical values of this crop as the following statements will verify:

J. S. SHARP, Verbena Route 1, says: "Sericea is a very good soil protector. I plan to add two more acres to the five that I have now."

GLENN SESSIONS, Clanton Route 1 — Mr. Sessions has two acres of sericea that he plans to use for cattle and hog grazing, water disposal and as a hay crop.

HOYT THRASH, Jemison Route 2, says: "Sericea makes a good water outlet and a good field border crop. My cattle relish sericea hay. It is a very good milk producer." Hoyt further states that "Sericea is the cheapest hay that can be grown on our place." Hoyt is planning to plant 1½ acres of sericea this year in addition to the 3½ he now has.

O. H. LAWRENCE, Billingsley Route 1, says: "I know of no other crop that will hold soil better and build it faster than sericea. I plan to tinally have 25 to 30 acres in this crop."

R. O. WILLIAMS, Clanton Route 1, says: "Sericea is an excellent plan for water disposal to hold soil. I plan to add 8 to 10 acres this spring. My sericea carries two cows per acre from April 15 to frost. My cows stay in good flesh on sericea without additional feed."

SHELTON COOK, Maplesville Rt. 2, says: "I have 2 acres of sericea. I think it is excellent. I am glad I planted it and plan to sow some more."

R. WALTER KENDRICK, Plantersville Route 2, says: "A good stand of sericea on land means that the soil is fully protected from erosion and of course gets richer each year. My plans now are to plant 45 acres more this year. Last year my 11 acres of sericea produced 5,800 pounds of clean seed which was good pay for my sericea acres."

A. B. JONES, Plantersville Route 2, has 5 acres of sericea (4 in pasture and 1 in orchard). Mr. Jones says, "Cattle graze sericea along with other pasture plants. It is easily made and keeps down growth of weeds in orchard."

CLAUDE GLASS of Jemison Route 2, says: "Sericea is an extra good soil builder, I intend to increase my acreage to 20 acres this year. It is the best grazing, hay, and soil building crop that I have tried."

LESLIE ROBINSON of Clanton Route 3, says: "All my sericea is on sloping land. Some was thin and getting thinner, but there has been no more erosion on this land since planting sericea." Leslie has 7 acres of sericea that he uses for cow pasture, hog pasture, water disposal and for hay. He gets 4 tons of good quality hay per acre off his sericea.

Similiar results to the above are reported by: C. C. Gay, Stanton Rt. 1; G. M. Baker, Clanton; J. C. Gibson, Verbena; W. A. Williams, Clanton Route 4; M. J. Barkley, Clanton Rt. 2; W. C. Moore, Clanton Route 2; E. A. Killingsworth, Montevallo Rt. 1; Dewey Hill, Billingsley Rt. 1.

From the latest seed movement reports, Chilton County farmers will plant near 4,000 acres of this wonder crop in spring of 1950.

Have you made plans to get a part of your idle acres protected and at work with sericea?

4-H CORN PROJECT RECOMMENDATIONS

DO YOU KNOW? That Chilton County farmers plant near fifty thousand (50,000) acres of corn each year? That in 1944 each acre averaged less than 13 bushels per acre? That in 1949 each acre produced an average yield of 25 bushels per acre?

AND DO YOU KNOW? That 4-H boys and girls proved to adult farmers that this increase was possible with their "highly fertilized, thickly spaced corn projects."

Yes! The 4-H Club corn project club members have proved that better methods of producing corn are effective and profitable. The twelve bushel average increase last year was more valuable than the county's peach crop and was nearly as valuable as the county's cotton crop.

This is, indeed, a valuable piece of work that you and the other 4-H Club boys and girls have done to improve Chilton County farming. But the job is just started. Corn yields throughout the county should average near 50 bushels per acre.

We know that club members want to continue to lead the way and help Chilton County farmers reach this production goal. Let's make every acre of Chilco corn produce 50 bushels by 1955.

We hope that every club member, in addition to the projects that you are now carrying, can have one acre of hybrid corn this year. We hope that every club member will follow the recommendations below and try to make a 100 bushels or over on the project acre of corn.

Here's how (recommendations for proejct acres only):

1. Select the best corn acre on your farm. Use vetched land if possible and add a heavy coat of stable manure.
2. Use Dixie 18 or North Carolina 27 hybrid seed.
3. Plant 8 pounds of seed per acre on thoroughly prepared land as near May 1st as possible.
4. Space rows 3 to 3½ feet apart and plant corn thick in the drill. Use 600 pounds of 6-8-4 under the corn and side dress with 400 pounds of 16% nitrate of soda if vetch was not turned ahead of corn.
5. Cultivate corn shallow and lay by early.

SWEET CORN GROWERS RECOMMENDATIONS

The items listed below have been proved most successful by 4-H sweet corn growers in Chilton County over the past three years.

Make your commercial sweet corn production methods fit these suggestions as near as your facilities will allow.

1. Variety to use — Aristogold Bantam Evergreen.
2. Planting time — To be arranged by sales agencies.
3. Soil — Plant on well drained soil capable of producing a bale of cotton or fifty bushels of corn per acre.
4. Fertilizer — 800 pounds complete fertilizer per acre 10 days to two (2) weeks before planting. Heavy application of manure before turning. Side dress with 200 to 300 pounds of nitrate 25 to 30 days after planting, or when corn is 6 to 12 inches high.
5. Spacing — 3½ foot rows, 12-15 inches in drill.
6. Seed per acre — eight (8) Lbs.
7. Cultivate — same as other corn —lightly, NOT WITH STEEL BEAM. Usually only two (2) plowings are necessary.
8. Maturing about 87 days from planting.
9. Dust for corn ear worm—start dusting when first shoot show silks. Dust every four (4) days until 4th application has been applied. Buy 30 to 40 pounds of 10% DDT for each acre of corn.
10. Start cutting corn when grains first fill and show pale yellow color. Don't wait for fully mature kernels and dark yellow color to develop.
11. Plant only those acres that you can treat as specified above.

Believe It Or Not

A Beat 4 farmer, one L. L. Traywick of Samaria Community, planted and cultivated 26 acres of corn in 1946 to fill his small crib. That same year his 4-H Club member daughters, Gulma and Margie Nell, had one acre of hybrid corn as a club project. The club girls followed certain recomdations and, needless to say, beat papa's production record considerably.

In 1947, Pap Leonard was catching on. He reduced his corn acreage to 14 acres and used a little of the information that the club members had used to beat him the year before. He filled his crib from the 14 acres and sold two loads of corn.

In 1948, Leonard reduced his corn acreage to 7 acres. He turned a legume ahead of the corn crop and again increased his rate of fertilization and thickened his row and drill spacing. Harvest time in '48, Leonard again filled his crib and sold one load of corn.

In 1949, this same farmer used only 4 acres for corn production. He applied the methods that he had proved sound, and produced his crib full of corn plus 28 bushels for the market.

The practices that Mr. Traywick used to reduce his corn acreage from 26 acres to 4 acres without reducing volume of production, have been those that good farmers in all sections of the county are finding sound and profitable.

They are:

1. Soil improvement with legumes.
2. Recommended hybrid seed.
3. Approximately May 1st planting date.
4. Thick spacing and adequate fertilizing.
5. Shallow cultivation and early lay by.

A "box-score" comparison of the above mentioned 1946 and 1949 crops display proof of the fact, 1950, "More Corn Per Acre Recommendations" are sound.

ENRICHMENT IN CORN MEAL VALUABLE HEALTH AIDE

Although cornmeal is a delicious food, it lacks certain vitamins and minerals necessary for good health. Pellagra, a common disease in the South, is largely a result of diets containing too many foods, such as corn, which do not supply an adequate amount of niacin.

John P. Bell, food enrichment specialist, further points out that the high ratio of corn in our diets is in part responsible for many other serious diseases, including anemia, nervous ailments, and poor bone formation.

"When nutritionists discovered these facts," says Mr. Bell, "they set out to find a means of remedying our malnutrition problems. Since cornmeal is a cheap source of energy and an almost universally used food, an enrichment formula composed of niacin, thiamine, riboflavin, iron and calcium was devised, and a simple enrichment attachment of grist mills was perfected. The enrichment of cornmeal remedies the major nutritional deficiencies in this food and results in improved health for the people who eat a lots of corn products."

The specialist points to another factor involved in making corn products better. It is cleanliness. He suggests that farmers store corn properly and use fumigation to control weevils and rats. It is estimated that rats and weevils destroy over 15 million dollars worth of Alabama corn nually. This is one of our major crops, and after farmers go to the trouble of producing high yields, the crops should have proper storage facilities.

"So far as enriched cornmeal is concerned," says Mr. Bell, "the public has been eating enriched flour, grits and other foods for a number of years. Farmers provide their livestock with reinforced feed; then, surely, the one food eaten by so many people should be important enough to their health that they will demand enrichment and better processed corn products." Your miller has equipped his mill to add needed vitamins and minerals. Ask him to add enrichment to your meal.

A Plea From Mayor Patrick—

Some thirty days ago, the State Health Department made a survey of the Town of Thorsby as to health conditions in our town. Mr. Sloan, the health officer, reported to me that with a few exceptions our town was one of the cleanest, most sanitary towns in the State.

I have mailed out notices to all resident owners of the town, who had anything on their premises that were not sanitary, such as old abandoned privys, or privys that needed repairing, or waste water not in the sewerage, also hog pens removed.

I am asking everyone who lives in the Town of Thorsby to please check your premises and make the proper necessary adjustments, in order to make our town more sanitary and a healthy place in which to live.

The health officer will check our town again within the next thirty days, so let's do our best to have as near 100% as we can.

I will appreciate your cooperation in helping to make our town a better place in which to live.

Respectfully,
W. J. PATRICK,
Mayor of Thorsby, Ala.

CLANTON METHODIST MAKINGS ALTERATIONS IN DEPARTMENTS

The first floor of the First Methodist Church is being redecorated and additional classrooms constructed to care for the increasing attendance at the Church School. The first floor is being refurnished to house the Childrens Division of the Church School, thereby giving more room for the organization of new classes for young adults and youth. This work was planned by the Board of Education, and authorized by the Quarterly Conference at its recent meeting.

The Tower Chimes have been repaired after being struck by lightning recently, and the southeast corner of the Sanctuary will be repaired as soon as adjustments can be made by the insurance company. This was struck by lightning a few days ago, but the damage was very slight.

Other post-Easter activities are planned. The High School Seniors will be honor guests of the Alabama Mills at a luncheon Friday of this week, and the luncheon will be served by the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the dining room of the First Methodist Church.

The Board of Education will meet Monday, April 17, in the evening. The Hon. Omar Reynolds is chairman of this board, and the board is doing a splendid job in building up our church school.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference will be held at Mt. Nebo on May 28, at 7:30 p.m., according to the planning at the last meeting.

Many of the members and friends of the First Methodist Church attended the Easter Sunday worship, and a large number returned their Lenten Self-Denial Banks, containing funds for Benevolence. Others will carry their banks to the church next Sunday. This was one of the plans of the Finance Committee, of which Mr. Roy Roper is Chairman.

Atlhough, this is a short year for Methodists in this Conference, because of the change of date for holding the annual session, the First Methodist Church will present one of its very best reports to conference this year, according to the records. Much work has been accomplished.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS FINISH SEASON

In its third and final concert of the 1949-50 season at the First Baptist Church of Clanton, the local Community Concert Association presented Edwin Steffe, baritone, with Collins Smith at the piano. Mr. Steffe had a wide variety of selections in his program. Though a number of the old masters were represented, folk lore and spirituals also were there. The brilliance of his performance brought continuous applause from the audience.

After each division of his program Mr. Steffe graciously responded to the encores of his audience.

Following the intermission Mr. Collins Smith, accompanist, delighted the concert members with two compositions of Chopin in his delicate and colorful style. He has gained for himself wide recognition. Soon he will accompany the noted singer, Miss Jeanette MacDonald, on a month's tour.

When Mr. Steffe had completed the numbers on his printed program, the audience applauded so vigorously and continuously that he returned many times with an encore. He became comedian and impersonator in his rendition of "The Flea" and "What Do You Do With A Drunken Sailor?" "Old Man River" and "Homing," stirred the emotions of his listeners. "The Lord's Prayer left them in silent acclaim of his power as a singer, for they reluctantly withdrew from the building as the young people eagerly pressed forward to obtain the autographs of the artists.

JOHN M. HIGGINS WRITES VOTERS

Dear Friends:

I am a candidate to represent you on the State Democratic Executive Committee. I have not made a very active campaign for this office and it has been impossible for me to see everyone. This county very definitely needs proper representation on this important committee, and we have not had a committeeman in eight years.

I favor a primary election in 1952 which will permit the people to make their choice for presidential electors and convention delegates. Candidates who favor the Truman administration will be free to run and candidates who are opposed to the Truman administration will be free to run and the people will be permitted to choose their presidential electors in the constitutional manner.

If elected, I will introduce or support such a measure which will insure the right of the people to make their choice based upon the issues existing in 1952, and I will further work for any measure based upon economy and common sense and the preservation of our right of local self-government.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN M. HIGGINS.

Better Highways for Chilton County Are Promised By The County Road Program

Word comes from Probate Judge W. L. Parrish this week that with the cooperation of our representative the county has sent to the state their check for thirty-five thousand dollars and has turned the Jemison-Maplesville Highway over to them for completing.

Henceforth this highway will be state maintained and owned and paving work on its completing will be started immediately.

Drainage and surface work on the Lay Dam Road is about half complete according to the Probate Judge and within the next 30 or 40 days will be completed.

Another report was to the effect that plans have been made to pave the road at Verbena that runs from U.S. 31 to the school and churches. Also at Cooper the road will be paved running from U.S. 31 to the church and from the highway to the railroad.

There has been a wonderful amount of paving done in Chilton County within the past few years and plans for much more is underway. The County Commissioners — Neal Harrell, Jim Dunlap, Jack Lenoir and Hoyt Freeman, along with Judge Parrish, have several other projects in mind for the county along the subject of roads and will get to them within the next few months.

NEWS OF OUR CUB SCOUTS

Last Wednesday afternoon Cub Scouts of Pack 57, which is sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club, held their first Cub-O-Ree at City Park. Scout Executive Bill Crane, of Selma, supervised the activities; while Den Mothers, Mrs. Lake Jones of Den 1 and Mrs. E. J. Morris of Den 2, and Den Chief Edward Robinson, directed the Cubs participating in the various activities and contests. Rev. John R. Smith and Mr. Crane served as judges.

Handicraft displays, based on the cubbing theme for the month, "Things That Go," were judged first; and the award, a Cub Scout Scrapbook, went to Den 2.

The best made kite award was won by Cub Scout Charles Polk, of Den 1; and Sterling Mayo, of Den 2, had the best made novelty kite. The three highest flying kite awards were won by Cubs Mayo and Donnie Ross, of Den 2, and Charles Polk, of Den 1.

Mrs. Jones's Den 1 won the Tug-O-War contest, and was awarded a Cub Scout Scrapbook.

The sack races came next; and were they a scream? Eight year old winners were Billy Miller, Ervin Dailey and Sterling Mayo. Nine year old winners were James Studdard and Charles Polk; and the ten year old winner was Jerry Teel. The two-legged race for ten year olds was won by Terry Jones and Jerry Teel. How are those two names for tongue twisters?

Den 1 also won the relay race, and was given a Totem Pole carving set.

Then Wednesday night a Pack meeting was held at the Boy Scout Hut, and the following awards were made: John Hollis Jackson and Billy Todd received Bob Cat badges; Erwin Dailey, Marco Jones, Billy Miller, and Donnie Ross won Wolf badges; and Terry Jones, Johnnie Mac Taylor, Charles Polk and Alex Tyndall were presented Arrow Point Awards for achievement.

The attendance award, which is given to the den having the most parents present, was given to Den 2, but Den 1 promised to give them more competition at the next meeting.

Mrs. Jones, Den Mother for Den 1, led group singing; and later the two dens did their den songs and yells.

After Ott Miller was selected as Cubmaster for the pack, the meeting was adjourned.

On the following Saturday afternoon Cubmaster Miller and Walter Gwathney carried the Cubs to Selma where they competed in the District Cub-O-Ree with two hundred and three other Cub Scouts. Those making this trip were: Jimmy Dennis, John Hollis Jackson, Marco Jones, Terry Jones, Billy Miller, Eddie and Joey Morris, Edwin Mullins, Charles Polk, Dwight and James Studdard, Johnnie Mac Taylor, Alvin and Jerry Teel and Ralph Vines. This was another brand new experience for all of us, and we learned some things that we plan to use on the next occasion of this type. We were satisfied with winning second place in Tug-O-War, but are confident that we can do better in the next meeting.

Our Pack is proud to announce that we have several new members; and, in this connection, would like to advise the public that this program is associated with Boy Scouts of America, and is open to boys 8 to 12 years of age. Anyone eligible can obtain details and application blanks from any one mentioned in this article, and are welcome to come and be one of us.

THE FIRE HAZARD

A great deal of attention is given to safety on the highways annually by American newspapers, which is all well and good, but attention should be given and speedy action taken to safeguard inmates of penal institutions and insane asylums from fire hazards. Authorities at such institutions know or should know that fire is liable to occur at any such institution, and proper safety measures should be made for releasing inmates in case of fire. Twice in less than twelve months inmates of insane asylums have been burned to death in the United States, and occasionally prisoners have been burned to death for lack of proper safety measures at penal institutions.

It was sickening to read about nine men chained to concrete blocks, being burned to death in Pennsylvania last week. There they were helpless to save themselves, and outsiders were helpless, also, on account of the raging fires. — Mountain Eagle.

WHERE DOES IT GO?

When you paid that income tax on March 15th, did you stop to consider that a major portion of what you paid is going to be wasted?

The federal government, through its various tax sources, takes out of Alabama each year the staggering sum of $472,000,000 each year. We get back through grants in one form or another, $50,000,000. In other words, we come up short $422,000,000 each year.

Of course we know that Alabama must contribute millions as its share of the amount needed for national defense and for essential governmental services. But don't we need to ask our elected officers where the rest is going?

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce says that every day the sun goes down the federal government goes in debt another $15,000,000. How long can we continue such a policy?

We think it's about time we stopped asking congressmen to "give us the moon" and called upon him and our senators to do everything in their power to see that the government economizes in every way possible. —Haleyville Advertiser.

SOME QUESTIONS

Pyrotechnics are lacking in the Governor's race. There is just no name-calling.

But right after May 2, it will be a two-man affair. Then the brass knuckles will show.

What type of questions will the run-off candidates have to face? Here's what we calculate will be asked:

If ex-Governor Chauncey Sparks comes through, he will have to answer: "Who will administer insurance affairs during your second term?

At Gordon Persons, the query sure to be fired will be: "How do you retain state office in a campaign, when stenographers and secretaries have to resign to make statewide races?

Bruce Henderson, if he makes the run-off, must figure out this riddle: "How will you replace revenue lost if prohibition is brought back to Alabama?"

"How's the tricycle rolling?" is salt in the craw of Buster Bell.

Of Phil Hamm, many will want to know: "Will laws adopted in your administration require the counter-signature of James E. Folsom?"

"What was the score?" Are the four words that will forever confound the future of Judge Elbert Boozer.

Joe Money will catch: "Why do contractors want to be elected governor, not for Money, surely?"

"Do exterminators ever backfire?" might put "Bull" Connor on his horns.

"Are you for or against Folsom?" is an inquiry Bill Beck has never yet answered.

"Next time, won't you let your red-headed spouse be the candidate?" might confuse Reuben Newton.

"In how many days, or was it weeks, or months, was it that you were finally converted to the State's Rights cause?" will leave Albert Stapp red-faced.

And if any of the four remaining candidates, Gordon, Farnell, DuBose or Dement get into the championship finals, we feel that the question should be put to the people of Alabama, in just one word:

"How?" — Andalusia Star-News.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

(by TUCK)

Last week's girl was Pat Broadhead, keeds, and I wasn't fooling about the boy friends. She changes so often even the boys know when they're in good standing.

Looks like somebody is going to have to start studying a little more and a little harder, because if they don't the Beta Club isn't going to get to make its trip to Washington this summer. Miss. Perry says we need at least three or four more people before we will be eligible for the trip. There has to be at least twenty-five so you Einstein's had better get busy.

I don't believe the baseball team is doing as well as it should this year or maybe they're just getting warmed up. In which case they had better hurry or they might get trampled on by these little scrawny fellows from other schools that say they're baseball players.

Just think, kids, approximately 25 more days and we will have gained our freedom (from school, that is!) But then we hafta go to work somewhere else. (Oh well, when you get tired working you can always look for ward to coming back to school. (Some fun, huh?)

I guess we hafta have a boy next week, don't we, folks? (Although I don't see why). Anyway, we've got one and if you don't like it you may put the paper down. (Thank you). Now, lessee, he has sort of light brown hair, kinda short, I'd say about 5 ft. 6 in. tall, wears glasses, weighs about 140 pounds, and if you want to know what color eyes he's got, well, ask most any girl, she'll tell you. By the way, the girls say he's very fresh but I think they like him that much more.

Boy, I don't believe I have ever seen as many funny looking hats as I did Sunday. Man alive, there wasn't much sense in trying to go to the movie or see the preacher, you couldn't anyway. (See, I mean).

Boy, these conceited girls, or vain or something, anyway, it doesn't matter. Every day when I pass by the jailhouse coming from school the good patrons (boarders, to you) whistle when the first person passes and they don't stop until the last one passes. Man, you oughta see the sly grins on the girl's faces, from Polk Bros. Motor Company all the way down the block. Every one of them thinks they're whistling at her. (Boy, the conceit of some women. Why, they could be whistling at the boys, you can't ever tell you know.)

Looks like somebody's going to have to open up an ice cream parlor between town and the high school. They probably would make a lot of money. Man, the drug stores have gotton to where they look like a bargain basement selling hose during a depression. Boy, little people running around all over the counters and under tables and everything. (Well, maybe that is putting it a BIT MILDLY but it gets pretty bad about 3:00 every afternoon).

AAUW SPONSORS ART EXHIBIT

On Thursday, April 6th, the Chilton County A.A.U.W. sponsored an art exhibit of the works of local artists of Chilton County. This exhibit was presented by the Creative Arts Committee from 3:30 until 9:00 p.m. in the library of the Chilton County High School.

Miss Carlotta Mitchell, chairman of the committee, presented the artists and gave a brief account of their work.

Each artists when presented discussed their work.

After the exhibition a reception was held in honor of the artists.

The library was decorated with Easter lilies and pansies.

Miss Elizabeth Barton asked the guests to register in the A.A.U.W. guest book. Mrs. Sara Palmer, Miss Elizabeth Andrews and Mrs. Walter Haywood of the Creative Arts Committee were assisted by Mrs. Joe Moore and Mrs. Morgan Reynolds in serving refreshments to the guests.

About one hundred guests registered in the guest book. Among the out of town guests registering were Dr. and Mrs. David Rich of Birmingham; Dr. Bert L. Quick, of Wisconsin; Mr. Robert L. Davis of the United States Experiment Station, Thorsby and Senator Charlie Gulledge of Verbena.

Brother Frank Mims

Last week the Lord called home one of the most faithful church attendants in the State of Alabama. Brother Frank Mims, age seventy years, had been faithful in church attendance for fifty years. He became a Christian when a young man, and set his face toward heaven like a flint, and kept pressing onward till he reached the end of life's journey. He was a charter member of the Temple Church, and for near fifty years he was present at Sunday School and worship service every Sunday, not being absent over two dozen Sundays in all these years. Regardless to who came to his home on Sunday morning, when time came for him to go to Sunday School and Church, he either took his visitors with him to Church, or left them till he returned. No one kept him from attending the House of the Lord. He remained faithful in this record till he was taken sick shortly before he was taken from us.

Had Bro. Frank lived longer, he said "there were other things he wanted to do for his Lord and Master." We believe he would have done what he desired to do had he lived. During all these years Brother Frank was a worker in his Church and Sunday School. Always on the Sunday School workers list. He taught a class or was an officer in the school. After becoming a member of the Temple Church near fifty years ago, he never did move his membership to any other church; and regardless who his pastor was, he was faithful right on.

Friends, this record is remarkable, since so many people allow their personal feelings to come in the way of their being faithful. Some people take out when things do not go to suit their whims and whines, but not so with Brother Frank. His consecration to God, and to his church surpassed all such folly. He was ready to be offered when the time of his departure came. For he had fought a good fight, and he had finished his course, and he had kept the faith. Therefore there is laid up for him a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give him at that day; and not only to him, but unto all them that love the coming of the Lord.

Let us be faithful to God, and to our church, till death, and we will receive a crown of life. Because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold, but he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I test the purity of butter?

A. Place a small amount of butter in a teaspoon and hold it over a flame. If the butter is pure, it will foam quietly and boil. If impure, it will crackle and sputter as it becomes heated.

Q. How can I stop a small leak in a pan, bucket, or tub?

A. Turn the receptacle upside down, cover the leak with a little powdered sulphur, heat an old knife blade until it is very hot, and spread the sulphur around the leak.

Q. How can I help sick gold fish?

A. If the gold fish are ill, the chances are that they have been overfed, or their bowl has not been kept clean. Over-feeding or lack of fresh water will soon kill them.

Q. How can I overcome the unpleasantness of taking a medicine?

A. When medicine is unpleasant to take, try placing a bit of alum in the mouth for a moment before taking the medicine. It will usually overcome any unpleasantness.

Q. How can I remove stains from the inside of the percolator?

A. Place one teaspoon borax, some soap, and hot water in the vessel, and allow it to come to a boil. Rinse well with boiling water and dry thoroughly.

Q. How can I prevent patent leather from cracking?

A. Rub the leather occasionally with olive oil, glycerine, or sweet oil.

Q. What is a good bait for the mouse trap?

A. Try baiting it with a piece of fried bacon rind instead of cheese. Pumpkin seeds are also effective as bait. Always scald the trap thoroughly with strong soap suds after trapping a mouse, before using it again.

Q. How can I secure a better surface on thin material when making buttonholes?

A. Rub a little library paste on the wrong side of the material, allow it to dry, and it will give a much better surface for working.

Q. How can I prevent silk from cracking or becoming hard?

A. Always press it under a piece of damp muslin, using a moderately hot iron, until the muslin is dry.

Q. How can I remove burnt food from an aluminum pan?

A. Fill the pan with cold water to which a little vinegar has been added, and bring to a boil. Allow to boil for five or ten minutes. For pans other than aluminum, use a solution of one tablespoonful of washing soda to a quart of cold water and boil.

NUTRITION OF CHILDREN

Application of nutrition to children has not kept pace with present-day knowledge, according to a report to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association. "In a general way we have done reasonably well nutritionally for our babies, but not so well for children past infancy," points out Dr. Philip C. Jeans of Iowa City.

Nutrients most commonly found deficient in diets of children are vitamin D; calcium; riboflavin and thiamine (factors of the vitamin B complex; protein, and vitamin C.

"Vitamin D commonly is deficient in the diet of the child," Dr. Jeans emphasizes. "Many children receive an inadequate amount of sunshine in the summer and few receive a sufficient amount in winter. Giving vitamin D preparations has become routine in infancy, but relatively few mothers realize that vitamin D is important throughout the growth period." Milk is the only constant good food source of calcium. Calcium deficiency, at least in moderate degree is believed to be widely prevalent in childhood. A quart of milk daily contributes an abundance of calcium and supplies most of the protein need of the young child and half the protein need at the beginning of adolescence.

Use of whole grain cereals and enriched or fortified cereal foods contributes importantly to the satisfaction of needs of children for the vitamin B complex factors, according to the report. Eggs also contribute importantly to the supply of B vitamins and should be included in the diet frequently, preferably daily.

Data indicate that the great majority of children studied have a protein intake below that needed for best nutrition. The weight of such children usually is within what is considered the normal range. Vitamin C can be supplied by eating citrus fruit or tomatoes daily. Lack of appetite in children brought to pediatricians usually is dependent on training in feeding habits and generally originates in infancy, the report says.

"The interrelationships which are set up between mother and child during the early days and weeks after birth set a pattern which is important in determining the response the child will have toward eating." An infant fed by an impatient or exasperated mother is not likely to eat well or digest his food satisfactorily. Changes in the type of food or manner in which it is given may be upsetting to a baby and are best made when the infant is in a mood to acept them.

"Feeding by both parents is helpful in fostering emotional development," the report says. "The infant's manual preparedness in feeding develops after six or seven months and should be encouraged so far as is feasible. Acceptance of new foods is affected greatly by the attitude of the mother toward those foods. If a mother has a revulsion toward a food, communication to the baby of her emotional state is common, with the result that the baby refuses the food.

"The so-called self-demand schedule has become fairly common. Much is to be said in favor of having the baby's feeding time when he is most frequently hungry. Usually such a schedule is regulated by the mother. Thus the schedule is easily subject to abuse and the baby may be fed every time he cries, a procedure that leads to faulty feeding habits."

I The State's function is to satisfy as near as possible the common good of all mankind; in other words, the State should do for man what man cannot do for himself. When in Congress, I will work toward this end.

II I will support Legislation for the welfare of all men without curbing personal liberty as much as possible.

III Individual initiative and freedom of thought must not be constrained by authority, in order for America to grow and develop and progress in the future.

VACCINES SAVE FARM PROFITS

New vaccines developed by veterinary science during the last few years are saving livestock and poultry raisers millions of dollars.

Vaccines now produced from chick embryos.

Unhatched chicks play a big part in the advances that have been made. New methods have made it possible to grow disease-producing viruses in the chick embryos. By this technique, scientists now produce vaccines against such diseases as equine sleeping sickness, fowl pox, Newcastle disease and laryngotracheitis of fowls from the infected embryos.

Through similar methods, veterinarians have developed a vaccine which protects cattle against rinderpest — the deadly "tropical cattle plague."

Another system is being used to make effective vaccines against foot-and-mouth disease of cattle and contagious sore mouth of sheep. This method is based on removing the disease-causing power of a virus, but leaving its ability to immunize. Thus, when the vaccine is injected into an animal, the animal does not come down with the disease, but builds up resistance to it.

Not only have these discoveries proved valuable in veterinary medicine, but also they are being used to develop vaccines that will protect human beings against virus diseases.

The search for new vaccines is by no means ended, for many of the known virus diseases of man and animals have yet to be conquered.

BRUCE HENDERSON for GOVERNOR

"The MAN for the TIME"

Message from Edward A. O'Neal

Longtime president of the Alabama and American Farm Bureau Federations—the nation's foremost living champion of Agriculture:

"Bruce Henderson, the farmer-statesman, is the best qualified man in this race. His leadership in the Legislative fight against treasury raiders and spendthrifts saved the people millions. A man of character and experience, he is the leader who can and will clean up the mess the Folsomites have made. We farmers not only have the best qualified candidate, but we have the votes to elect him—by rallying behind Bruce Henderson not only for our own best interests but for the best interests of all Alabamians who want honest, efficient government."

Message from Donald Comer

Famed Industrialist, Civic Leader and Humanitarian:

"There has never been any question in my mind, BRUCE HENDERSON, as to your fitness or preparedness for running the affairs of the State of Alabama. Certainly no one in the race could claim any better background or better training or finer record of past performance.

The thing we have got to have is not only a good man . . . but a man WHO CAN WIN!

I HAVE MADE UP MY MIND TO SUPPORT YOU, BRUCE HERDERSON."

A Message to the People of Alabama from

BRUCE HENDERSON, Candidate for GOVERNOR

"I want to be governor to give back all that has been given me in firmness of conviction, experience in government and knowledge of the state's current affairs:

1. To rid the state government of the inefficient and corrupt leeches who would undermine and destroy the moral, religious, social, political and economic solvency of the government and the people.
2. To protect the people's right to control their own internal affairs and to preserve our constitutional freedoms.
3. To stamp out radicalism, socialism, Trumanism and communism.
4. To stop the trend to pyramid the tax burden and squander the money.
5. To lift the public morals and increase respect for law and order.
6. To insure progress in education, public health, paved roads and other vital state needs.
7. To lead the way to an unsocialized but sound and just balance between agriculture, labor and industry.
8. To restore and preserve honest, progressive government and democratic decency.

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's Garage talking about the best spot to fish up at Green Lake.

"Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-pooh's" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years."

Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!"

From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

'The Store That Constantly Lowers Your Cost Of Living'

As One Neighbor To Another

As you know Autauga, Chilton and Elmore Counties comprise the 19th Judicial Circuit.

We have always cooperated with each other in making desirable changes from time to time.

We people of Elmore County feel that the time is at hand when a new Circuit Solicitor should be elected.

Glen Curlee is a young World War II Veteran with twenty-four months service in the Pacific and the Orient. He was born and reared in Elmore County in a Christian home, and has a reputation for honesty and sobriety with morals beyond reproach. Prior to his entrance into World War II he was graduated from the University of Alabama Law School. A portion of his war service was devoted to apprehending and prosecuting the Japanese aliens considered dangerous to the security of our country. He has been schooled in both the apprehension and prosecution of criminals.

GLEN CURLEE

When this background is considered with his renowned ability as a public speaker, we believe that you will help us elect him as our next Circuit Solicitor.

J. S. (Jim) PLOTT

I am for mail box roads.

I am for Old-Age Pensions, first, last and always.

I am for 12 months pay for school teachers.

I am for free lunches for school children.

I am for putting the sales tax on the wholesaler to collect instead of the merchant. That would take the tax agents off the road and save the taxpayers two to three million dollars annually.

I am for exempting everything that is a necessity of life from sales tax.

I will not pass any local bills without first submitting them to the people.

I will not vote any increase in taxes.

I am for exempting wives of Veterans from poll tax.

These things I promise to work for if you will send me to Montgomery to represent you in the State Legislature.

Sincerely,
JIM PLOTT.

Church Items—

Rev. Lee Ratliff of Selma, Ala., preached at the Baptist Church last Sunday morning. After B.T.U. the members attended the Easter program at the Methodist Church Sunday night.

The Methodist Church was filled to overflowing for the Easter program Sunday night, and everyone enjoyed it very much.

The program was as follows:

Prelude — "Onward Christian' Soldiers," "All Hail The Power," by the choir and children.

Prayer by Pastor Rev. Jones.

Reading, "He Has Risen," by Bettie Williams.

Song of Solomon, 2-11-13, by the Primary Department.

Scripture, Matthew 28-1-10, by the pastor.

Recitation — "In The Garden," Louise Smith.

Prayer — Sandra Day.

"Praise Him, Praise Him," by Jerell and Wayne Atcheson.

Scripture, Mark 16-1-8, Rev. Rube Bearden.

Reading — "The Glad News," by Kenneth Smitherman.

Recitation — "The Kite," by Eddie Higginbotham.

"E-A-S-T-E-R," by Beginner's Department.

Song — "I'll Live For Him."

Benediction — Mr. B. F. Atcheson.

Congratulations to those who had part in this service, for it was indeed a very interesting and impressive program. The floral decorations were most beautiful.

If God believed all that tomb stones say, He'd sure have a crowded heaven.

One of the Ten Commandments, "Thou shalt not covet," is as important to live as a Christian as anyone of the other nine. Covet means being jealous of what others do or have.

Goings and Comings—

Many interesting visitors were in and out of Maplesville last week end.

Mr. John Foshee of Montevallo, Ala., candidate for State Senator, was in town last Wednesday. He was dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cobern. Mr. Foshee is no stranger in Maplesville, as he was born and reared here. His many relatives and friends are always glad to see him.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bates and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Houston, spent Easter Sunday with Mrs. Bates's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lee, on Maplesville Route 1. Other guests of the Lee's were Mrs. M. W. Jacks and son, Donnie, of Calera, Ala. All reported a wonderful dinner and enjoyed the fellowship together.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Hathcock of Brent, Ala., a nephew of Mr. Claud Hathcock and cousin of Mrs. Claud Gray of this town. His wife was formerly Miss Winnie Jones of Centreville, Ala. We extend to this family our heart-felt sympathy.

Last Sunday guests of Mrs. Douglast Averett were her parents and sister from Meridian, Miss.

On the Randolph Road near the high school is beginning to be quite a town with all the new buildings. Mr. Moodie Chambers has started the construction of his new home in this vicinity, also Mr. Ray Stremming is building a new building for a grocery store and cafe. More competition for the Maplesville business places.

Miss Bonnie McGee was away last week end visiting with Miss Katherine Rich in Clanton.

We are sorry to report that Mr. Eddie Haigler, brother of J. W. and W. L. Haigler is in a Mobile hospital suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davenport, who moved to Clanton a few weeks ago, have moved back to Maplesville. Sure, Maplesville is a very good, small (but growing) town to live in. Our town is what we make it.

Mrs. W. L. Hampton spent last Saturday in Clanton visiting her father, Mr. W. J. Watson, and her sister, Mrs. A. L. Cox.

Shopping in Montgomery Wednesday of last week were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hampton and Mrs. Frances Watson.

"Likes it fine," according to letters received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hampton. Bobbie writes home often and recently wrote: "Don't worry about me, the food is good; I've gained nine pounds." We all feel proud of the boys who go so far away from their home and loved ones to serve ur country. We can never repay them. Congratulations to Bobbie for his recent promotion and his many friends here are wishing him the best of everything.

Mrs. J. O. Mize, Mrs. Luke Garner and Mrs. Emma Smith were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Smith in Isabella Community last Friday.

They left Florida and went directly to his mother's home. Mr. Stremming returned to his home here Sunday. At this time we do not know about the condition of his mother.

Stopping here Sunday for a visit with relatives were Sgt. and Mrs. Layden Hicks and two children of Forest Homes, Selma, Ala. They were en route home from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Horton Walker at Prattville, Ala.

Others visiting with relatives here Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Fonzo Hathcock and twin babies from Marion, Ala.

Maplesville has been in quite a political uproar for the past two weeks, and the uproar will probably get still louder for the next few weeks.

Miss Virgie Bearden of Birmingham has been visiting here with her brother, Rev. Rube Bearden for a few days. She has many relatives and friends here who welcome her back home.

We probably have failed to get all the visitors arriving or town folks away, so let us know of any news you may have.

The insects may be laughing at man. We developed DDT for them, but saved the H-bomb for ourselves.

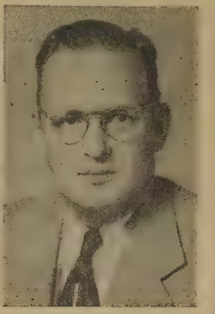
Tabor Named 1950 Festival Chairman



At another meeting of the Chilton County Peach Festival Committee held last Monday night, April 17th, Bob Tabor, local manager of radio station WKLF, was elected 1950 chairman.

The meeting was necessary because of failure of the previous named officials to accept responsibility of the Festival this year. Previously named were Erle Ellis and Grady Heflin, both had to refuse because of heavy personal duties and local civic responsibilities that already consumed their spare time.

Along with Mr. Tabor was named Mr. "Kirk" Kirkpatrick, who will act as Secretary-Treasurer.

The entire Committee pledged their full cooperation to Mr. Tabor and Mr. Kirkpatrick to make the 1950 Festival successful.

City Council Says No Signs

The City Council last week passed an ordinance prohibiting the posting of signs on telephone, light and power posts and on buildings within the city limits.

The steps were taken in order to keep the city streets looking as neat as possible and at this time because of the hundreds of political signs that are promiscuously tacked on every post and fence and tree available at this time of year.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated Tuesday that the ordinance would be strictly enforced.

Our Hearts Were Young And Gay

The Senior II Class of Chilton County High School presents "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," a three-act comedy to be given tonight and tomorrow night, April 20-21, at the City Hall.

Since tickets are now on sale it is advisable for everyone to get them beforehand so as to get a good seat; however, tickets will also be sold at the door.

The curtain will rise at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are only 40c for everyone.

PENSION MEETING

The Chilton County Unit of the Alabama Old-Age Pension Association will meet Saturday, April 22, at 10 o'clock a.m. at the Courthouse in Clanton. This is an important meeting and everybody is invited to attend. Young people and old people are urged to attend. The oldest and youngest members present will receive a prize. —T. W. Bryan, Chairman.

OLD-TIME SINGING CONVENTION TO BE HELD

The Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony Singing Convention will hold its semi-annual session at New Harmony Church, near Lomax, the 1st Sunday in May.

All singers in both books are urged to attend and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone.—Mrs. Era Culver, Secretary. 2ts

Ed deGraffenried And Son Visit

Congressmen Edward deGraffenried and son, Jeff, visited Chilton County Tuesday. The congressman is doing fine and was here making contacts in behalf of his race for reelection.

Jeff deGreffenried is a candidate for membership on the State Democratic Executive Committee from the Sixth Congressional District. He made many friends here campaigning for his father two years ago.

Lowe Says Postal Service To Be Curtailed

Beginning immediately upon receipt of orders from Washington Postmaster R. W. Lowe stated Wednesday that local delivery in the city would be curtailed to one delivery each day.

It is reported that the order was issued because of a large deficit in the post office department and other cutbacks in postal service would be announced later.

Mr. Lowe stated that full details would be announced next week.

DOUBLE WEDDING IS CEREMONY AT NOON

The marriage of Miss Anonia Louise Suggs and James D. Harrell, and Miss Joan Marie Roberts and E. J. Harrell, took place at a double ceremony at high noon April 2nd, in the First Baptist Church of Cairo, Ga.

The bridegrooms are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Harrell of Montgomery.

Mrs. James D. Harrell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Suggs of Montgomery and the granddaughter of Mrs. W. J. Duke, formerly of Clanton.

The Rev. R. H. Perry, Jr., performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

Both brides wore white gabardine suits with accessories of cocoa brown and corsages of purple throated orchids.

Mrs. Suggs, mother of Mrs. James D. Harrell, wore a suit of copper colored gabardine and the bridegroom's mother wore a suit of Navy Blue.

After brief wedding trips both couples are residing in Montgomery.

SENIOR CLASS PRESENTS PLAY AT ISABELLA

The Senior Class of Isabella will present "A Poor Married Man" on Friday evening at eight o'clock.

PLEASANT GROVE BAPTIST CHURCH NO 1

The Pleasant Grove Baptist Church No. 1 is having a home-coming and dedication service of their new building the fifth Sunday, April 30, 1950. A cordial invitation is extended to all former members, former pastors and friends to attend.

The program will begin at 10 o'clock and the dedication sermon will be preached at the 11 o'clock hour by Rev. Maurice Hodgens of Shawmut. Rev. Hodgens was reared in this community, baptized into the fellowship of the church, ordained and served for a time as pastor. Much of the time both morning and afternoon will be given over to singing. We are inviting the quartets and singers.

"Coffee Day"

Alabamians are going to drink a lot of coffee next Tuesday.

Along with the rest of the state, Chilton County will observe Coffee Day on April 25, when eating establishments throughout the county will serve coffee "on the house" and drinkers will "pay" for their coffee by making a contribution to the American Cancer Society.

Mr. E. A. Fulmer, who is serving as county chairman for the observance of Coffee Day, said that restaurants, cafes and drug stores are participating. They will donate the coffee, cream and sugar they serve on April 25, and will ask their patrons to put something in the "coffee pot" to help fight cancer.

Proceeds from Coffee Day will be used to help finance the programs of public education, research and service to cancer patients.

Mr. Dent Williams is chairman of the current American Cancer Society campaign in Chilton County to raise $875.00.

All Is Peace And Quiet

Up until now our local political races have been quiet and orderly. This is as it should be. Throwing "mud," as it is commonly called, does nobody any good and usually reacts against the one who started it.

All of our local candidates are to be congratulated in their effort to run a clean political campaign and we are glad to be first to commend them on their behavior.

Little Projects Worth While

Every citizen of Chilton County has an opportunity to promote its development by making a distinct personal contribution to the life of the community.

This does not require that one be rich or even well-to-do. All that is needed is for the individual to realize that the welfare of every citizen can be improved as a result of multiplied unselfishness.

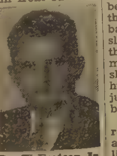
We do not advocate, of course, that a citizen entirely forget self-interest or that anybody neglect his, or her, business and interests. Volunteering some of your time, or a little of your money, for a public purpose is entirely compatible with every demand of absolute individualism.

It seems to us, at times, that many communities fail to accomplish little projects because they have their eyes on mammoth undertakings, entirely impractical under present circumstances. Anything that adds to the comfort, convenience or enjoyment of our citizens is worthy of our activity. There are many such undertakings that require little financial support but can be successfully accomplished by concerted effort.

We do not attempt to list these enterprises because each inhabitant has different ideas about what is important. Most worthwhile ideas can gain the support of a substantial group and these should receive attention. It might be a good idea for some of our readers to make suggestions as to feasible goals for civic activity.

WHO'S Crippled?

SUCCESS STORY OF THE MONTH



Ben W. Fortson, Jr.

A handicap which has confined Ben W. Fortson, Jr., 45, to a wheelchair for the past 21 years hasn't stopped him from successfully filling the job of Georgia's Secretary of State. Despite his disability, Mr. Fortson was appointed by Governor Ellis Arnall to fill the unexpired term of office when Secretary of State John B. Wilson died in 1946. That same year, Mr. Fortson made a wheelchair campaign tour throughout the state and was elected to the full four-year term of Secretary of State, carrying 151 out of 159 Georgia counties.

For successfully outwitting this handicap which would have discouraged most people, Mr. Fortson has received the "Who's Crippled?" citation conferred by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Easter Seal Agency. The presentation was made by Lawrence J. Linck, executive director of the National Society, on behalf of the Crippled Children League of Georgia, a National Society affiliate, at the recent Second State Conference in Cerebral Palsy. This conference, held at East Point Auditorium in East Point, Ga., was jointly sponsored by the Cerebral Palsy Society of Georgia, the National Society and the Crippled Children League of Georgia.

In 1929 when he was 24 years old, Mr. Fortson, an erstwhile farmer and the eldest of eight children, had gone out to cut a load of hickory poles to stake the beans in his garden. He loaded the poles on his car and started back home. Suddenly one pole slipped under the car, jamming the steering gear just as he was making a sharp turn. The car shot over an embankment and hurled him against a tree, injuring his spine and paralyzing both of his legs.

After he got over the shock and resentment of being confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life, Mr. Fortson began to read and developed a love for good literature. In 14 years he had read more than 2,000 books and then suddenly became interested in politics. The more he studied public questions, the more he longed to go out and make speeches on public issues. Finally, he gave way to this yearning and began to make public talks from his wheelchair.

In 1938 some of Mr. Fortson's friends suggested that he run for the Georgia State Senate. He ran for the office and was elected. He served as state senator for two terms and state representative for two terms.

Mr. Fortson holds the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws conferred on him by the John Marshall Law School of Atlanta in 1949 and is an honorary member of Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Mr. Fortson serves as a shining example by dramatically illustrating that if given a chance, a handicapped person can lead a full and useful life.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Hundreds of friends are mourning today the death of Miss Kate Aldridge, long-time clerk at Reedie Taylor's Chicago Sales Co. "Miss Kate" died early Saturday morning of cancer after a long life of service to her friends and family. We learned to know "Miss Kate" the past few years and admired her greatly for her Christian character and her loyalty to her friends. She was truly one of God's noble women.

Bale of hay, bale of hay, make a wish and turn away. Away out to Ben Brinkers where they are nice enough to furnish it for hay rides for the kids. That's what Ben did last week for the Methodist Youth Fellowship group when they wanted to go to Nix's Pond over at Maplesville. All report a fine time and credit the hay with a small part of the whole in making the trip successful. And that reminds us of the tenderfoot after riding a few miles atop a horse for the first time said he didn't see how anything that ate hay could be so hard.

Little Willie lit a rocket
That his dad had in his posket.
Next day he told brother Dan
His daddy was a traveling man.

The other day as a L. & N. train was pulling out of the station a fellow came running around the corner at S. A. Jones and right along the track after the train. He never did catch it and came back puffing within a very short time. "Miss your train," asked Oliver Esco who works around there some times. "Naw," puffed the stranger, "I was just chasing it out of the station."

Took time-out to run down to Panama City the other week end and while there visited Rev. Carlisle Miller and the new church there. You know the present pastor here, Rev. W. B. Atkinson, was pastor at Panama City when the church was planned and built. It is really a beautiful church building and Carlisle Miller is proud to be there in so fine a structure. However, seems funny but although they are just finishing the building, they are in need of more room already.

Dave Jaffe of Birmingham, who is here directing the sale at the Parisian Store is a mighty likable fellow. He makes friends wherever he goes and always has a pleasant smile for everybody. Dave says within the next few weeks the store will be remodeled and a new stock brought in. Full details will be announced later.

Our old friend, Mr. J. L. Penton, says you won't have to quick freeze your strawberries this year—they're freezing in the patch.

Mr. H. T. Pipes was telling us about forgetfulness. He said that one time a fellow gave him two dollars to attend to some business for him. A couple of months later he met Mr. Pipes and asked him if he had attended to the matter. Mr. Pipes reached in his watch pocket where he had put the two dollars two months before and there it was still there. So he told his friend: "No, I haven't yet—but I will."

While drinking coffee the other day at the Dixie a man came in and asked for Melvin Mims. When the lady told him Melvin wasn't there, he wondered if Melvin wasn't the owner. The lady told him where he could find Melvin but told him he must have been away a mighty long time not to know where to find him and that he didn't own the Dixie now.

EVERY FARMER URGED TO GIVE ACCURATE CENSUS

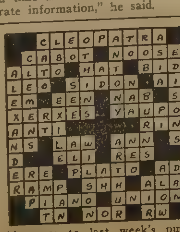
Every Chilton County farmer should make sure that the information he givos U. S. census takers is as complete and accurate as possible.

With this statement, County Agent, M. R. Glasscock, reminded farmers that it is to their own interest that a true picture of their farmingg operations be obtained in the 1950 census of agriculture, which is underway.

"This census may be important to you in ways not experienced before. For example," continued Mr. Glasscock, "if in the future we have government marketing quotas on livestock, they are certain to be based on present livestock numbers. A state or county with a high number of hogs, beef animals, or dairy cows will naturally get a bigger quota than a section reporting fewer head."

It was emphasized by the agent that the census is used for statistical purposes only. Information given cannot be used for taxation or determining individual farm allotments and marketing quotas.

Mr. Glasscock urged farmers to do a little figuring and jot down a few notes on farm operations ahead of the census taker's visit. "This will save you time and insure giving more accurate information," he said.



(Answers to last week's puzzle)

Sign Of The Time

One of the signs of the times in which we live is the "Non-endurance" of sound doctrine. Paul told timothy to preach the Word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the Truth, and shall be turned unto fables." (II Timothy 4:2 - 4). Friends, do not be surprised if some church members turns "thumbs down" on any preacher who stands up and proclaims to them the sound doctrine of the Word of Truth. They rather have some smooth tongue preacher who will not tell them of their sins. They say, "prophecy unto us smooth things". . . ."Use more tact and diplomacy in the pulpit." This is a fulfillment of the words of Paul to Timothy, saying, "That the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but will after their own lusts heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears, while they shall turn their ears away from the Truth. But may we ministers of the Word of God rise up with courage and holy boldness to preach the Word of God today as ever. There is a demand everywhere for straight-forward, clean-cut preaching. The hewing to the line, and letting the chips fall where they may.

A. T. HICKMAN

The experience with the Rev. Clyde Cruse at Springville, Ala., seems to be an example of church members not willing to endure sound doctrine. The pastor's church board rejected his "strong" preaching against sin in general, and against drinking in particular. It has been my pleasure to know the Rev. Mr. Cruse for many years. Knew him before he entered the ministry. Never known a finer man, a clean God-fearing man, a real Christian man. The Methodist Conference in north Alabama will do well to get and keep such men as the Rev. Cruse. The churches everywhere in America are in need of preachers who are not afraid to preach against sin. The Temple Church of Clanton hears the Word of God in its fulness every Sunday. There is no comprising, or soft-soaking our preaching at Temple. And the people like it. Come thou with us, and we will do you good.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I make a good polish for mahogany furniture?

A. Use one tablespoonful of olive oil mixed with one teaspoonful of vinegar. Dust the article thoroughly. then apply the polish with a soft flannel cloth. Follow by polishing with another soft, clean cloth.

Q. How can I dry matches that refuse to strike because of dampness?

A. Rub them back and forth in the bristles of a clothes brush.

Q. What can I use instead of fat for frying foods?

A. Fat is not absolutely necessary; merely rub the pan with common table salt, then shake it out, and place the meat to be fried in the pan.

Q. How can I remove stains from the fish bowl?

A. Vinegar and salt will remove these stains very readily.

Q. How can I prevent window sashes from sticking, after being painted?

A. Newly painted window sashes should be run up and down several times a day for a few days. When this is not done, any sash is liable to stick to a certain extent.

A. Try using a little ammonia and soap added to cold water, and apply it to the fabric. Ammonia in which salt has been dissolved will also remove grease spots.

Q. How can I keep milk that is to be boiled from curdling?

A. A pinch of soda stirred into the milk will prevent its curdling.

Q. How can I remove ink stains from a silk dress without injuring the material?

A. Try placing the stained part over a saucer and covering it with powdered borax. Then pour peroxide of hydrogen over the borax. Do not pour water over the borax.

Q. How can I prevent my linens from acquiring a gray-looking appearance?

A. Soap adhering to the linens causes this appearance. Rinse the linens first in soapy water, and then follow with two hot rinses.

Your Health

CATARACT

A cataract is not a growth or a tumor. Actually it is a clouding of the lens of the eye which results in blurring and dimming of vision and, if neglected, ultimate loss of sight. The lens focuses the rays of light on the retina, or the sensitive membrane inside the eye which, in turn, conveys images to the brain.

When a cataract develops, the lens becomes cloudy and images are blurred. While impairment of vision is one of the first symptoms that a cataract is developing, the same characteristic is associated in many other eye conditions. The blurred vision is a signal that something is wrong and should be investigated. While cataracts can occur at any age, they commonly develop in older people.

The most effective treatment of cataract is surgery. In a small percentage of cases, the results are not beneficial and eyesight is not restored. Many factors must be considered, chief of which is the general health of the individual. Nutritional deficiencies, diabetes and other conditions must be corrected.

Because cataracts may occur in one or both eyes, some people think they are infectious. This is not true. Another fallacy is the notion that drops and medicines can be used in the eye to dissolve the cataract. While it is true that an eye physician will, in some patients, prescribe a medication, the aim is to retard the development of the cataract and increase the nutrition of the eye.

One of the prevalent misconceptions about cataract is that they must be "ripe" before they can be removed. The extent of vision loss and the individual condition of the patient are considered by the eye physician in determining whether an operation is indicated, and not the degree of ripeness.

Since a cataract is a disease of the eye, only an ophthalmologist or an eye physician is capable of treating it. An ophthalmologist is a doctor of medicine who has studied the body as a whole and concentrated, in particular, on diseases of the eye. Be suspicious of red eyelids, blurring vision, headaches or drowsiness from reading or close work. Your eyes are precious. Take care of them.

Census Taking Particular Care To Enumerate All

So you think you aren't listed in the Census?

You say that several Censuses have been conducteddu ring your life-time but you've never seen a Census taker?

Do you want to lay a small wager that the Bureau of the Census at Washington doesn't have you listed in its records?

The chances are about a thousand to one that you would lose your bet. Of course there is always a remote chance that an occasional individual is overlooked. If you have been on the American scene for three or four decades, the odds against your having been overlooked in all of these censuses are astronomical.

Believe it or not, some babies miss out on their first census because the parents forget to mention the infant when the Census taker stops by. To safeguard against this, the Census Bureau has equipped its Census takers with a special infant card on which all babies born in the months of January, Februaryy, or March of this year will be listed. The infant also will be listed on the regular Census of Population record. Thus double assurance is given that the babies will be counted in the 1950 Census. The information given on the infant card also is used for checking birth registration records to determine how nearly complete birth registration records are. This is important because the Census Bureau's annual population estimates for the Nation and the States are involved.

Likewise, the Census taker has difficulty in catching up with transcients, people who are travelling away from their homes at Census taking time. In cases where some members of the family remain at home, the information on the missing ones is obtained there. But many people do not maintain a permanent home base, or they live alone and when they are away there is none to provide the Census taker with the information. So the Census Bureau makes special provision for this too.

The enumeration of transcients has presented a problem a coverage at every Census. For this reason, the Census Bureau makes an intensive drive to enumerate, in a single evening, the occupants of certain places usuallyy devoted to housing transients. In addition to hotels, these will include such places as tourist courts and "Y's." Missions and cheap one-night lodging houses ("flophouses") will also be covered by a similar procedure on another evening.

To make assurance doubly sure, the Census Bureau publishes, through cooperation of local newspapers and radio stations, just before the close of the Census (April 15 in urban places and April 30 in rural places) a notice calling attention to the approaching end and requesting all persons who believe that they have not been enumerated to get in touch with the local Census district supervisor or crew leader.

In the spring bloat becomes a serious problem to the cattleman. It can often be prevented by having a winter grass growing in the clover and by having a stack of dry feed in the field that the cows are grazing. The dry feed can be any rough hay, such as oat straw.

1st. The education of our children is the first and foremost duty of our State... Additional appropriation for the cause of education will receive my every support.

2nd. The establishment of a Department of Pensions, within the Department of Public Welfare. This is the only way under the present set-up that it can be done, and in this way, the old people will receive their checks each month from Montgomery.

3rd. I will vote any time and anywhere to outlaw liquor, I have never voted for liquor in my life and will never do so.

4th. Place the sales tax on the Wholesale House, and the little merchant and the people will not be bothered with this nuisance.

5th. Place a $5.00 tag on all automobiles, now this can be done, with the number of automobiles now in use, and if enough Members of the Legislature want this done, and it can be done, I will vote for it.

6th. I will not pass any law or permit it to be done abolishing the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama.

7th. I will not accept any job with the State, if I am elected as your Representative, I will represent the people of Chilton County, as best I can, and then come back home.

Friend Favors Lonnie L. Cost

Friends I have known this man life long and he has always proven fair and honest dealings. When you deal with a man you learn what he stands for. He and I owned and operated a sawmill for some years.

Friends he is a man that believes in the upbuilding of schools and churches. He is a businessman and has never asked for anything before. So we are earnestly asking the good people to help us elect Lonnie L. Cost for our Commissioner in the 1st District. —Jadie Porter, Rt. 5, Clanton, Ala.

(Pd. pol. adv. by Lonnie L. Cost, Jemison, Ala.)

A Message To Voters Of Chilton County

Friends I am trying very hard to see and talk with you in person. I would like for you to know what I stand for in our county government.

It will be impossible for me to see every voter in the county. If you happen to be one of the voters I failed to see and talk with, it will be unintentionally.

I would like to take this means of asking your support and vote in the Democratic Primary Election on May 2, 1950, for Commissioner of District No. 1.

Thanking you in advance for your support and vote, I remain yours for a better county government.—Lonnie L. Cost, Rt. 2, Jemison, Ala.

(Pd. pol. adv. by Lonnie L. Cost, Jemison, Ala.)

A WORD FOR A BETTER COUNTY

Friends I am interested in a representative for this county for that is an important office. Friends we need a man that will hold up for his county, for the working man, for the benefit of the people who send him down there. Friends we don't need a man that when he's elected to represent the county to help pass bills that will favor everything but the county.

Friends we don't need a man that is in favor of getting rid of the Commissioner's Court. Friends we don't need a man to go down there and report that the people in Chilton County are so crazy until they don't know what they do want. Now people we can do something about that on May 2 and it is going to be done in this part of the county.

A life-long Democrat. — A. T. Ellison.

Baby Girl Survives After Lung Collapse From Inhaled Bean

CHICAGO, ILL.—A 14-month-old girl whose lung collapsed when a bean lodged in it, is recovering after a 107-mile race in which her ambulance burned out its motor, attendants forgot all-important X-ray plates and her supply of oxygen ran out.

The chain of incidents was set off when a common navy bean fell off a shelf in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Airgood at Berrien Center, Mich.

Their daughter, Patsy Ann, found the bean and put it in her mouth. Then she inhaled it into her right bronchial tube. By the next day the bean had swelled with moisture to the size of an apricot. It blocked off her breathing passage and collapsed her right lung.

Soon she began turning blue and an X-ray showed she was likely to die. A doctor recommended that she be taken to Chicago as quickly as possible.

Undertaker Francis A Bowerman, of Eau Claire, Mich., volunteered to drive her in his ambulance. The Airgoods accompanied him and the X-ray plates were stowed in the glove compartment. Scores of officers in Michigan and Indiana kept track of the ambulance by radio.

At Gary, Ind., the ambulance's motor burned out. Officers quickly transferred Patsy Ann to another ambulance. But they and the attendants forgot the X-ray plates until the ambulance was out of town. Bowerman was driven back in a police car to pick up the plates.

Meanwhile, the second ambulance's supply of oxygen, necessary to keep Patsy Ann alive, ran out. East Chicago firemen heard of the situation by radio. An inhalator squad intercepted the ambulance and supplied a new tank. That was where Bowerman, carrying the X-ray plates, caught up with the ambulance.

Chicago police took over the escort job at the city limits and the ambulance tore through the main business district with sirens screaming.

Arriving at Children's Memorial hospital, officers took the girl directly to the operating room, where surgeons performed a bronchoscopic operation within minutes and removed the bean.

Hospital officials Thursday said the girl was "resting fine" and that her condition was "much improved," although still critical.

Law Has No Way to Punish Young British Bank Robber

GLASGOW, SCOTLAND.—Because the law could find no way to punish him, Britain's youngest bank robber, age 8, must go scot free.

The boy, whose identity was withheld, broke into the British Linen bank of Glasgow. He was caught in the act. Detectives said the boy admitted he broke in with intent to steal.

The child's lawyer insisted his client was simply "imbued with the spirit of Alice in Wonderland." He told the court:

"He wanted to know what was on the other side of the bank window. When he got in, he found not the March hare or the mad hatter, but an astounded bank teller."

It was the teller who seized the culprit.

The puzzled magistrate said the boy could be sent to a reform school, but observed: "But I don't expect they would be pleased to see an 8-year-old boy."

He freed the boy with a scolding and a warning to the parents.

START WITH STAPP

ALBERT STAPP

Alabama has more miles of navigable rivers than any other state in the nation. Alabama produces more yellow-pine lumber than any other state in the nation. Alabama has the only spot in the world where all of the materials for making steel are found lying side by side. Alabama has the sixth largest port in the nation. Alabama has one of the greatest sources and one of the greatest supplies of electrical power in the nation. Geologists marvel at the lavish richness of our natural gifts, their close proximity, their great diversity, their splendid quality and their almost inexhaustible quantities. Yet, due to years of miserly, do-nothing, sloppy rule, we closed our books in Montgomery September 30, 1949, with a lot of unpaid bills, no money on hand and a bonded debt on our back of $46,870,000.

Mississippi closed her books December 31, 1949, with all bills paid—no outstanding bonded indebtedness—and a cash-on-hand balance of $42,135.603. (Report of State Treasurer, R. W. May, in Memphis Commercial Appeal, January 1, 1950.) Twenty years of honest, able, efficient, businessman leadership did this for what was, at one time, one of the poorest states in the nation.

We have been soaking, socking, harassing and hounding our storekeepers and industries with increasing tax demands and Gestapo-like investigation methods. This short-sighted policy has kept new concerns from coming to Alabama. It has discouraged further development and expansion of our present establishments. This has meant fewer job opportunities for our workers and for our boys and girls graduating from high school and college. And that means less income tax, tobacco tax, gasoline tax, sales tax—hence less money for our over-crowded schools, the aged, our out-moded highways and other essential state services and functions.

Texas says "come here and build your plant." Georgia says "come here and build your plant." Mississippi says "come here and build your plant." We care nothing about taxes on brick and mortar. We want the plant payroll. We want our people employed at good wages." Mississippi secured 360 new plants during the past four years.

The first twelve plants built under Mississippi's program to balance agriculture with industry brought in wages of $43,539,000, in four and one-half years. That was twenty years ago. Mississippians asked themselves, "If that is what twelve plants could do, what could 25, 50 or hundreds do?"

Read Mississippi's ad in the December 19, 1949, issue of News Week Magazine. The ad says, among other things, that Mississippi has potentially available $161,128,900, which can be used to purchase plant sites and construct buildings for acceptable industries.

I wish time permitted my giving you the list of little towns in Mississippi which have during the last few years secured from one to three plants. I am sure you never heard of many of them. Take Iuka, Miss., as an illustration. This little town, just across the line from Florence, Ala., has secured two plants during the past year which will employ fifteen hundred Mississippians when complete. Both of these plants could have been had for Alabama. The owners of both of these plants investigated the possibility of locating in Alabama. They received little encouragement and, of course, no guarantee of any fixed tax program. Mississippi probably built the plants and then leased them for a dollar a year. The plants, in turn, probably guaranteed an annual payroll for the period of tax exemption.

Too many of our fine little towns have little or no cash income except from the farmers. Look over the town with a plant or two, bringing in a cash payroll of several thousand dollars each week. You see a lot of pretty new homes, new brick stores, air-conditioned cafes, a general air of prosperity. Farmers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, laborers, teachers, everyone benefit. One authority stated recently that 75% of the plant payroll is spent with retailers and farmers.

To show you what these millions in new payrolls have meant to the people of Mississippi, particularly the farmers, Mississippi's cash farm income for the first seven months of 1949 over 1948, jumped from $165,000,000 to $239,000,000. Alabama's increased only from $144,000,000 to $153,000,000. This means simply that the farmers of Mississippi had $65,000,000 more to spend for these seven months than Alabama's had. These figures were released by the Department of Agriculture in Washington on September 17, 1949. Since 1939, the purchasing power of the people of Mississippi has made the greatest leap of any state in the Union—237 per cent.

Our State Health Officer reported on November 30, 1949, that Alabama had 4,644 hospital beds but needed 12,797. We have, therefore, about 35% of the beds we need. Mississippi led the nation in new hospital construction in 1948. Yet she had 21 hospitals under construction on November 2, 1949. She now has 75% of the beds she needs.

We stand at the bottom of the list in the number of babies born in hospitals. We stand at the bottom of the list in the number of persons able to go to a physician for professional services. We stand second from the bottom in the number of persons able to attend a dentist for professional services. We stand at the bottom of the list in the Southeastern States in the amount of money contributed by the states to the fight against tuberculosis. We contribute 36% of our TB dollar. Mississippi contributes 76%.

We have the fourth heaviest school load in the nation. We stand forty-fifth from the top in ability to finance it. In the 1947-1948 school year we had 756,000 children of school age, 26.7% of our population. We had 65,301 babies born in Alabama in 1941. We had 87,242 born in 1947. These 1947 babies will be coming into our schools in 1953. We spent 2.7% of our total income for school purposes during the school year 1937-1938. We spent only 2.5% of our total income for school purposes during the school year 1947-1948. With all of the new explorations and advances in nuclear energy, alchemy and other technological fields, education is going to be more essential than ever before as time goes along. We just can't fail to educate our children.

Last June, the average sum paid to public welfare cases in Alabama was $24.17, as compared with a national average of $48.31 and an average for the South of $31.31. The average old age pension in Alabama, in June, was $22.62, the national average was $43.41 and the Southern average $29.50.

Millions of dollars in tourist trade are being lost to the people of Alabama because our arterial highways have not been modernized. Very few of them have been improved much since Model T days. Tourists are now being routed down through Mississippi and Georgia. We have been spending too much of our money on political highways — another sign of poor planning and mismanagement. A recent report states that approximately $15,000,000 in federal funds are now available to our State Highway Department for matching. We are way behind in our matching, and we may lose much of this money because of our poor planning.

We have done much, considering the unfortunate publicity and irresponsible leadership we have had in this state the last few years. We must do a great deal more, if we are to improve our position in the family of states.

With all the blessings which God has placed in our hands, there is no reasonable excuse for our average income of only $891 per person in this state. The national average per person is $1,410. New York's for instance, is $1,891. Every New Yorker has exactly $1,000 more per year than Alabamians do.

I say we have got to build, produce and create new wealth. We have got to encourage and assist new enterprise and industry, if we are to have the money for the people's needs.

It is indeed regrettable, embarrassing and, in fact, tragic that our state has been held up to ridicule in these last few years. Some of the ridiculous things I'm talking about are familiar to you. You have seen them constantly in the headlines.

And now, instead of offering programs for the development, improvement and betterment of Alabama, we find some persons running up and down the state with corny gadgets, gimmicks and other campaign contraptions. Let me assure you now that I will not jump up tomorrow, the next day or any other day with any such campaign tomfoolery.

Alabama is too desperately in need of more business, agricultural and industrial development necessary to provide more educatoinal facilities, modern highways and other vital state functions, for me to trifle with your future and the future of your children.

I want to see Alabama go forward and attain the position of leadership, which she so richly deserves. God has endowed no other state so richly. Yet, as I pointed out a few minutes ago, Alabama is at or near the bottom in so many fields in which she should be the leader.

You, of course, have been told over and over again just how big a business our state government has become. It should be operated efficiently and with some good, old-fashioned horse sense.

Many people ask what is the matter with our State Highway Department, which should be constructing modern highways up and down and across Alabama. Instead, the way this department is being handled, it is bungling the job and failing to take advantage of some $15,000,000 federal highway funds now available for building roads.

There are a number of things that should be done in straightening out the Highway Department. But one of the things I plan to do at the outset of my administration is to put this department under the Fletcher Budget Control Act.

And there are other state departments I would put under the Fletcher Budget Control Act. I'm referring to the State Revenue Department and Department of Corrections and Institutions, or State Prison Department. I will do my best to see that every department and agency of the State is placed under this control act.

Getting back to the extremely important Highway Department, I expect to select a career highway engineer from the present Highway Department—a man who knows the state from one end to the other and who knows how to build and keep up roads. Such a man will be my highway director.

I will go along with the Legislative Reference Bureau, in that I will recommend to the Legislature that it immediately pass a bill taking our badly abused State Pardon-Parole Department out of politics. This bill would provide that one board member be appointed by the Alabama Supreme Court chief justice, that another be named by the presiding judge of the Alabama Court of Appeals and the third member be appointed by the governor.

Thugs and murderers must be made to serve their time under orderly process of law. They must not be allowed to run at large, endangering the lives, and preying upon the rights and property of our citizens. This bill would correct the present chaotic condition in our Pardon and Parole System and never permit it to happen again.

I will also recommend that the Legislature immediately pass a bill to take our State Conservation Department out of politics. I would have at least one member from each of the nine congressional districts on an advisory board. It would be the responsibility of this board to select a career conservation man as director of this department. The director should serve at the pleasure of the board and not in any manner or degree be under the governors thumb. All appointments to this advisory board should be confined by the State Senate. I will insist that the bill or bills contain these provisions.

I would like to see the Department of Corrections placed under a non-political board also; this board to select a trained and experienced director for this department. Under such an enlightened and modern system of penology, I believe our prisons would no longer be breeding places for further crime careers. I believe it would actually help to decrease criminal activity in our state. I will insist that the Legislature pass such a bill.

As for our State Military Department, I shall select a combat veteran of substantial rank, with educational qualifications and background in keeping with the importance of this department. We must at all times keep our National Guard strong. My long experience in veterans affairs, and my experience as a member of the American Legions National Defense Commission, and as chairman of the National Merchant Marine Committee of this organization, give me a rich background of experience. I know what we need.

Now, as to the liquor question, I had the unusual experience of serving as a Deputy Clerk in the Criminal Courts of Jefferson County for a couple of years before the state went dry, and for about the same length of time after the sale of alcoholic beverages was legalized. I had a first-hand opportunity to see and hear about the corruption and gangsterism of the dry era. I have since seen the evils of increased drinking. However, I still don't believe you can legislate morals. While I am personally "a dry," I believe this to be a problem for education and Christianity to solve.

If the representatives of the people of Alabama pass a law effecting the sale of alcoholic drinks in this state, and it is laid on my desk, I expect to sign it. Provided, however, such legislation provides for the replacement of the twelve to fifteen million dollars in revenue now derived annually from the sale of alcoholic beverages in the State of Alabama.

I know the people who want to stop the sale of alcoholic beverages in this state believe their program to be of noble intent and purpose. I hope, therefore, that in their concern for the welfare of all of the people of Alabama, they don't overlook what will happen to our schools, and other essential functions of the state, if this revenue on legalized liquors is given back to the bootlegger. I might add that I speak from the pulpit occasionally on the evils of alcohol. I know both sides of the question.

I will ask the Legislature to pass a bill separating the Banking and Insurance Department. I believe this department has grown to the extent that the best interests of all the people can be best served by dividing its responsibility. Both these fields are highly specialized and their interests now widely divergent. They have grown up, in fact.

If by economical, honest and efficient administration, I can reduce the State's operating expense sufficiently —I would like to see the people given a one-dollar license tag. We, as you know, pay ad valorem taxes on our automobiles as we do on other property. The price we have to pay now for tags amounts to double taxation. The tag should be issued only for identification purposes and at as small a charge as the State's financial circumstances will permit.

But I keep thinking about the schools and what's going to happen to our increasing school population. And what about our retired teachers who have given their lives to the teaching profession? The average retirement pension received by teachers at the present time is $32.07. Some retired teachers in Alabama are now receiving old age assistance from the Department of Public Welfare. I think it is a shame and a disgrace. And the schools are now operating in the red at the rate of about ten million dollars per year. I think it would be wonderful if we could give our retired teachers an adequate pension; and reduce license tags to one dollar. I will certainly do my best to do that.

I want to say something about the differences between the Democratic Party of Alabama and the National Democratic Party. Every sensible man knows that these differences exist, and some of them have to do with fundamental issues. It is my judgment that the Democrats of Alabama should make every reasonable and feasible effort, within the National Party, to settle these differences. That is a fair, reasonable and sensible approach to the problem. However, if time and patient effort should fail in this respect; and if the National Democratic Party remains committed in favor of measures which are repugnant to our way of life in Alabama, and contrary to the fundamental principles which all men everywhere have recognized as being basic in the party for generations, I would be opposed to remaining a part and a member of such a party. To do so, under those conditions, would be swapping a birthright for a mess of pottage. It would be selling principle and good sense in order to secure the doubbtful advantage of being called a "Democrat" in the national sense. A man who would do that would be a hypocrite and a slave. Every well informed person knows that FEPC will violate the citizen's freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of association, freedom of opinion, and that greatest of all rights—the right to be let alone. The investigations and regulations directed by this legislation would vex and harass the business man and the worker to the point where orderly management and efficient work would be impossible. The business man could not run his own business and the worker could not feel secure of his job. That we might grow and develop in an orderly manner, in a friendly and enlightening atmosphere, I will continue to oppose the Civil Rights' legislation as an unconstitutional violation of the rights of the individual citizen—and an invasion of the power of the states. I believe I can best do this through the Democratic Party of Alabama.

I believe our Civil Service Law to be one of the greatest bulwarks against waste, extravagance and corruption in public affairs. I will do all in my power to broaden and strengthen this essential adjunct to good government. I am one of the early supporters of Civil Service, having attended a seminar conducted by Dr. Roscoe C. Martin, of the University of Alabama, for several months here in Birmingham prior to the passage of the original Civil Service Act affecting Jefferson County. Being an employee of Jefferson County at the time I had a first hand opportunity to see its value.

Wanton waste and extravagance in our government must be stopped—all the way from Montgomery to Washington—if our way of life is to prevail. But let's start at home by electing Albert Stapp Governor of Alabama.

Why have I spoken at such length about the things which we must confess are wrong with Alabama? Why have I dwelt upon our sins and neglect? Let me tell you.

It is because too long we have been burying our talents in the earth. It is because too long we have been wasting what was bestowed upon our state with a bountiful hand by the Creator Himself. It is because of what we could have done and have not done.

There is no need for us to feel ashamed when we are told of what other states have accomplished. You find no better brains when you cross our boundary lines. You find loss of the natural advantages and beauties of nature.

Too long have business men like myself been content to finish their years thinking only of their own shops or stores or factories. The time is here for us to begin. I can see a vision of the Alabama that might have been—of the Alabama we together can create.

I can see people of the far states, riding along the smooth highways of the new Alabama, swelling with pride at the natural beauty of a state of their own country—the natural scenery with which no Switzerland or California can compare—the loveliness of our own State of which the world today knows little.

I can see the cargoes of commerce, plying the liquid highways that the Creator placed within our State, countless ages ago. I can see a happy, contented people, a thriving Alabama—A State of homeowners—proud and prosperous—envious of no man. I can see the workers delving into the bowels of the earth, the factories, the farms, happy teachers in the schools.

Centuries ago, we are told, that in the far reaches of the earth, men held their heads high to say: "I am a Roman!" I can see a vision of the day when we, too, wherever we go, can lift our heads to say: "I am an Alabamian."

It can be done. It should be done. I have pledged myself to the task. To do it needs only you. I dedicate myself to that accomplishment. Please God, some day soon, you and I can complete that task together.

I am for mail box roads.

I am for Old-Age Pensions, first, last and always.

I am for 12 months pay for school teachers.

I am for free lunches for school children.

I am for putting the sales tax on the wholesaler to collect instead of the merchant. That would take the tax agents off the road and save the taxpayers two to three million dollars annually.

I am for exempting everything that is a necessity of life from sales tax.

I will not pass any local bills without first submitting them to the people.

I will not vote any increase in taxes.

I am for exempting wives of Veterans from poll tax.

These things I promise to work for if you will send me to Montgomery to represent you in the State Legislature.

Sincerely,
JIM PLOTT.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

(by TUCK)

Last week's "Young Gentleman" was Buddy Burdette, folks. Boy, he's strictly a ladies man (who'd wanna be a man's man?) Seem like all the girls guessed him right away. Either I made it too easy or the girls really take notice of him. Which is it, Buddy?

Boy, you really hear a lotta cracks going around about the Senior II and III plays. The Seniors are saying theirs was the best and the Senior II's are saying it was no good. Confidentially, I don't think they really know.

You know, I kinda believe Bobby Shaw likes Joan Scott. If you'll look in any of his books you'll see what I'm talking about.

Richard Muncher has really got a good looking car, hasn't he? Anyway, to be so old it's good looking for its age and I know a lotta guys that would like to have it. (Take me for instance, I'd like to have any kind of car.)

Our girl for next week is a little on the plump side. She's very friendly and I'm not going to venture so far as to say how much she weighs. She is about 5 ft. 6 in. tall. Has blonde hair and is in the Senior I class. (Now it's your problem.)

Man, we're really hearing some tall tales about Wallace Neeley and his so-called hotrod. It seems that every boy in town, practically, has had experience with (or should I say) in it. They say "Frog" is really a CAREFUL driver. (Sometimes I think maybe he pays them to say that. How could he?)

BATES - SOPFI

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin James Bates announce the engagement of their daughter, Naomi, to Robert Maurice Zopfi. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Zopfi of Birmingham. The wedding will be May 19 at Woodlawn Baptist Church in Birmingham.

Jemison Banquet A Great Success

The Community Banquet sponsored by the Jemison Athletic Association last Friday night was declared by over four hundred attendants to be the finest and one of the most enjoyable ever to be held in this area. Twelve committees, of three to ten members each, had worked incessantly to make this, one grand gala affair. Their efforts were well rewarded by a complete sell-out of the original printing of 350 tickets. Additional tickets were printed.

Heading up the general committee, which had over-all charge of the planning and organization, was Leo C. Langston, who also served as master of ceremonies for the banquet. He was assisted in setting the preliminary and final plans in motion by Messrs. C. C. Conway, Donald Jones, Clyde Harrell, Lonnie Cobb and Lester M. Pate.

Fifteen adjacent communities joined their neighbor, Jemison, in promoting this worthy cause, and advancing it to a rousing and enthusiastic climax.

Following the assembly at 7:45 p.m. was the invocation by Rev. G. H. Carroll, pastor of the Jemison Baptist Church. The merry group then chimed their voices together in singing America, direct by Mr. Bittinger, accompanied by Mrs. R. B. Johnson at the piano.

The welcome address was next presented by Jemison's genial mayor, J. Fred Smith, who is also president of the association. Eight High School girls dressed in sports uniforms and with bats, balls and gloves, sang "Take Me Out To The Ball Game." They were: June Hamby, Annette Reynolds, Barbara Jo Beamon, Janice Jones, Alice Jo Langston, Louise Lenoir, Marjorie Springer and Carolyn McNeill. They were accompanied by Mrs. C. L. Walton.

Jemison High School Coach Alton Cobb then gave the progressive History of the Jemison Athletic Association.

While the evening meal was served a quartet of F.F.A. boys, composed of Sidney Samples, Jimmy Cofer, Billy Conway and Dempsey Franklin sang a number. This was followed by a piano solo by Mary Edna Reynolds. Next came a beautiful sacred song, rendered by a quartet of F.H.A. girls: Lorene Cofer, Betty Sample, Faye Cost and Jeanette Cobb. The two quartets were accompanied by Anne Killingsworth.

Spot-lighting the occasion was the introduction of candidates for the various county and state offices by the Master of Ceremonies. Recognition was then given to those candidates who were unable to attend. Several sent representatives or contributions or both.

At this point of the banquet, the audience was now set in the frame of mind for the feature attraction of the occasion by the masterful introduction of the principal speaker by Prof. J. A. Petersen who presented Mr. Ian Stuart from Dublin, Ireland. Mr. Stuart launched into his address with a fine display of Irish wit, that gripped the attention of a spell-bound audience. His address was woven around the central theme of American Opportunity, Education and World Trends. For forty-five minutes (it seemed like only ten to your correspondent) Mr. Stuart made a comparative analysis of the modern age with the pioneer age; the New World with the Old World. He spoke of how the modern world had forced the United States into world leadership and that we must accept this responsibility with Christian courage and a philosophy of fair play. To do this we must produce thinkers. Thinkers with that indominable passion for freedom, justice and honor shown by the early founders of our great nation.

Mr. Stuart told of how the small community is the solid bulwark of our nation. It is there we find the true spirit of force and power. It is there we must plan for the future. Make certain our philosophy is strong, firm and resolute, in order that our way of life might not be destroyed by the infilteration of foreign idealoligies.

Only by education, the producing of thinkers, can we hope to preserve those rights of individualism and American tradition that have been woven into our heritage.

With several announcements and closing remarks the Master of Ceremonies wrote finis to the 1950 banquet and the large group departed, feeling greatly relaxed and highly inspired from having attended and participated in this timely and charming community gathering. — Robert B. Johnson, Publicity Director.

FRILLY WASHABLES LOSE SHAPE IN TUB

Look for simple lines, strong but not heavy finishes, flat fastenings, flat seams, and durable trim, advises Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

She explains that the fancier the trim and the more intricate the pattern, the less likely the garment will take the frequent tubbing required.

CORN CAN OUTGROW GRASS AND WEEDS

Some authorities actually state that cultivation is the worst enemy of high corn yields. Of course, what they mean is that cultivating too deeply and too late will reduce yields.

"No doubt," admits D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "many Alabama farmers reduce their yields of corn by deep and late cultivation. But quite a few of them avoid this mistake by following the practice of narrowing corn rows, leaving corn thicker in the drill, and increasing the use of fertilizer which makes it possible to 'layby' earlier. The corn comes up fast and 'takes charge' of the land. In other words, the corn outgrows the grass and weeds after not more than two or three shallow cultivations."

Attention Voters Of Chilton County

"24 YEARS IS A MIGHTY LONG TIME"

The first and one of the greatest Presidents of the United States, George Washington, was one of the first to recognize the danger in one man holding office for too-long.

For the first time in twenty-four years there are two candidates seeking the office of Circuit Solicitor of the 19th Judicial Circuit. This is the first time in twenty-four years that the voters have had a choice. One of the candidates has held this office for almost a quarter of a century without opposition.

The office of Solicitor is a young man's job. Most people agree that we need a change. Therefore we

GLEN CURLEE

Elmore County friends, call upon you to help us get a change by electing Glen Curlee to the office of Circuit Solicitor. Help us elect a young, energetic, capable, fearless Prosecutor who is in good health and fully qualified to fill the office and who will devote his full time to the job and lend dignity to the office.

Glen Curlee does not have paid political agents riding and working for his election. So we friends of Elmore County earnestly ask you of Chilton County to join hands with us in electing Glen Curlee the next Circuit Solicitor.

(Paid Political Adv. by Elmore County Friends of Glen Curlee)

GROW CANNING SUPPLY EARLY IN THE SEASON

Gardeners and farmers should grow their canning supplies of vegetables early in the season because the weather is more favorable and insects and diseases give less trouble. These advantages mean much better yields for early plantings.

But how much should a family plant for canning, freezing or drying? The A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station has some useful information to guide those who are interested in this question, states J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist. "A row 100 feet long, on fairly good land, should average the following yields if five or six quarts of a good cotton fertilizer are mixed with the soil: Sweet corn, eight dozen good ears; tomatoes, 40 to 50 quarts; bush snap beans, 15 to 20 quarts; pole snap beans, 30 to 40 quarts; bush lima or butter beans, 15 to 20 quarts; pole limas, 40 to 50 quarts; and okra, 60 to 80 pounds of green pods."

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Miller, Mrs. Lewis Mitchell and children and Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay J. McAfee and son all visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAfee Sunday.

Mrs. Thelma Hathcock went back to Selma recently for a checp-up from the doctor.

CARAMELIZED CUSTARD, RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Auburn, Ala. — Now that eggs are plentiful, here is a recipe that homemakers will want to try, believes Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

It is caramelized custard and calls for two eggs or four yolks, one-fourth cup of sugar, one-eighth teaspoon of salt, one and one-half cups of rich milk, one-half teaspoon of vanilla, and brown or maple sugar.

The nutritionist says to blend eggs, sugar, and salt. Add scalded milk slowly, stirring constantlyy. Add flavoring, pour into buttered casserole or individual baking dishes. Set in pan of hot water so that it comes to within a half inch of top of dish. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, until inserted knife comes out clean, about 35 to 45 minutes for individual dishes, [illegible]0 minutes for casserole. Remove from hot water and chill. Cover surface with one-fourth to one-half inch layer of brown sugar. Place under broiler (with broiler door open) until sugar begins to melt. Watch carefully, as it requires only a few minutes cooking. Chill again, and the result is four delicious servings of caramelized custard.

TWO FOR THE PIG—ONE FOR THE WORMS

When three ears of corn are tossed to wormy pigs, the worms get one ear. Runty slow-growing, pot-bellied pigs usuallyy have large roundworms.

Rotated green grazing, using movable hog houses—instead of muddy, poorly-drained hog lots—is best prevention.

Best treatment is sodium fluoride. Here's how:

1. Mix one part, by weight, with 100 parts dry ground feed. I ounce to 6 pounds feed is same proportion.
2. Give 8 to 12 weeks old pigs all of treated feed they'll eat in one day. Repeat treatment in 2½ months, if necessary.
3. Any kind of dry ground feed may be used that pigs will eat; corn meal, peanut meal, bought hog feed. It may be necessary to feed a day or two before treatment to get them used to it.
4. Be sure sodium fluoride and feed are well mixed. Feed mixture dry; never mix with slop or water. Keep clean drinking water before pigs at all times.
5. Confine pigs on day of treatment; don't crowd; be sure each pig has enough trough space. Don't treat old hogs, especially pregnant sows.
6. Sodium fluoride is poisonous. Handle it as such. Most drug stores sell it. It's inexpensive. Get them to weigh out the ounces or pounds needed.

FARMERS' RESPECT FOR SERICEA GROWS

Auburn, Ala. — Record acreages of sericea are being seeded in practically all Alabama counties.

"For example," says J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "the county agent of Marion County declares that farmers are chasing out sedge grass with sericea. The old worthless sedge fields grow good crops of sericea; and this fact holds true throughout the state. For this reason, many farmers expect to save seed this fall which they will sell or use to plant more sericea."

Lowery adds that poor land planted in sericea becomes good land in just a few years. For instance, in 1949 the Sand Mountain Sub-station grew more than 100 bushels of corn per acre on land that had been in sericea for six years—without using extra nitrogen, too.

Education

I am thinking first of the children. It is time that our children were given what they need in our public schools. Eighty-five percent of them will have only public school training. Since such training will complete their formal work preparation, they must have the best educational program that is available.

Progressive Government

I am thinking next, of the parents and the citizens who desire progressive government. A progressive government that provides good roads, satisfactory employment practices, that make for happy working conditions. I am thinking of an Alabama that holds her head proudly and with dignity before her sister states.

Aid For The Old Folks

I am thinking, too, of aid for the old people. This group has been neglected. They should no longer be put off with promises for future consideration.

Farmers & Agriculture

The cotton mills I operate consume over three (3) million dollars worth of cotton annually. We have sponsored crop improvement contests, FFA cattle raising contests, 4-H Club programs and always participate in county and statewide plans to improve the lot of the farmer. We have a well known interest in agriculture and encourage its betterment at every opportunity. I will always support legislation for the betterment of agriculture.

I Will Appreciate Your Vote And Support

ENTRANTS IN STATE WIDE TYPING CONTEST

Miss Ruth Waldrop won the Special prize for the highest score by any student from Jemison High School. Another girl from Jemison High School who won the highest score from Jemison School in the division of students having only one year of typing was Miss Annette Reynolds. Miss Patricia Ann Strain also entered the contest.

Jemison students were in competition with 200 high school students from 50 or more other high schools from different sections of the State of Alabama.

Winning first place in division one was Miss Mary L. Weeks, Jackson County High School, Scottsboro, Ala., winning a typewriter.

Miss Shirley Meadows, West End School, Birmingham, Ala., won a typewriter as first prize in division two.

Other valuable prizes were awarded.

THIS YEAR PASTURE YEAR IN CHILTON COUNTY

Farmers are improving permanent pastures and sowing other grazing crops. All records in seeding lespedeza sericea are being broken this spring.

Interest in grazing has never been so great. Since January 1, hundreds of farmers have come to our office (county agent's) for pasture information. The four pasture tours we have held were attended by approximately 400 farmers.

Here are some things you need to think about now in expanding this year-around grazing program for Chilton County.

1. Plan to save plenty of planting seed of crimson clover, Caley peas, and bur clover.
2. Arrange to harvest seed from some of the acreage you have in lespedeza sericea.
3. Look ahead in planning your winter grazing crops. Have land prepared so you can plant grazing mixtures in July, August, or early September.

We set out this year to make 1950 the pasture year. But with all the interest there is in pastures, we think we shall change the slogan to read, "Make Chilton County the Pasture County."

$14,000.00 WORTH SWEET CORN SOLD BY 4-H BOYS IN 1949

For years Chilton County has produced a large acreage of roasting ear corn. Practically all roasting ear corn was of a white field variety. Without exception, the local supply alwayys exceeded the local market demands. Since practically all corn was one of the field varieties, there was little use in concentrating and shipping corn to distant markets.

In 1945, 4-H Club members made twenty-five trial plantings of two varieties of sweet corn. The purpose of the trial plantings was to check the adaptability of sweet corn to Chilton County and to determine the best variety and most practical cultural practices. From these small plantings, it was observed that the variety, Aristogold Bantam Evergreen, would grow well, produce corn of excellent quality, and out yield any known variety, of field or semi-sweet corn.

In 1946, Aristogold Bantam Evergreen sweet corn was placed with 400 4-H Club members to observe yields under varied conditions. By the end of the roasting ear season, it had been proved that sweet corn could be expected to consistently produce good yields of high quality corn.

In 1947, local seed dealers sold sweet corn seed to 600 farm families to be used in the home garden; however, it still remained to be seen how local retail markets would respond. Ten small (⅛ to ¼ acre) 4-H projects were planted to be sold in local retail stores and on the curb markets. As long as sweet corn could be supplied from this small 4-H acreage very little white corn could be sold in competition. At the same time, the 4-H project was under taken, a few adult farmers were encouraged to make plantings for the Montgomery A & P stores. Believing that sweet corn would not sell in competition with white corn, the adult farmers failed to follow through with the marketing testing.

By 1948, 50% of all Chilton County home gardeners were planting sweet corn for home gardens.

Before planting season, the County and Assistant County Agents discussed the possibility of a 4-H sweet corn project with A & P's produce specialist, Mr. I. F. Sewell. Mr. Sewell agreed to give sweet corn a trial in the five Montgomery stores under his supervision.

Chilton County 4-H Club members planted a total of 18 acres of Aristogold Bantam Evergreen corn as a 4-H project. Before corn was ready for market, Extension Service specialist prepared publicity material for local newspapers to advertise and promote sweet corn. After sweet corn was offered in the Montgomery A & P stores, it was found that the volume of corn being sold was considerably higher than during the same period the year before when only white corn was being handled. Produce managers stated that 4-H sweet corn was of excellent quality and counter losses were practically zero throughout the market test period.

In the final analysis of the 4-H sweet corn project, it was found that Montgomery, a white corn market, has consumed yellow sweet corn and liked it. Also 15 4-H Club boys were $1,800.00 better off and the project had promoted excellent producer-buyer relationship.

In 1949, the local Extension Agents, State Extension Specialists, Chain Store Council Representatives, and the manager of the Atlantic Company's Terminal Warehouse, discussed the possibility of conducting a 4-H project in Birmingham. In February, a meeting of 4-H producers and buyers was held in Clanton to work out marketing details.

Approximately 150 acres of sweet corn was planted by 70 4-H Club members. As soon as sweet corn was ready for market, it was distributed throughout the Birmingham area. Sweet corn was sold in competition with white corn and was never forced on the consuming public. However, newspapers, radio stations and Extension Consumer Marketing Specialists did a very good job of advertising the product. In less than two weeks, after sweet corn was introduced in Birmingham, produce managers had more calls for yellow sweet corn than they did for white field corn.

In summarizing the 1949 4-H sweet corn project, it was found that 4-H Club boys sold approximately $14,000.00 worth of sweet corn. It was also proved that previously unheard of yields of roasting ears could be produced with sweet corn properly managed.

Here is a suggestion to prevent ironing from drying out when you don't complete as much as you have sprinkled. Purchase a plastic pillow cover that will allow ample room for a large family's ironing. You will find that you lose less moisture in your clothes if they are wrapped in plastic and that they will not dry out as much while waiting to be ironed.

BOOZER LEADING AS RACE SWINGS INTO STRETCH DRIVE

Anniston Candidate's Sound Program Gaining Thousands Of Votes Daily

As he brought his campaign back to north Alabama for the home-stretch drive last week, four impartial polls showed that Elbert Boozer, Anniston candidate, was leading the governors race by a comfortable majority.

Drawing by far the largest crowds of any candidate in the race, Boozer is making four, five and sometimes as many as six speechs a day with a radio talk thrown in at night for good measure.

Boozer

Political observers throughout the state say that Boozer is the front-runner in the gubernatorial parade because of his sound business platform he has offered the people in every county in Alabama.

In a speech at Huntsville Saturday he pointed to the staggering amount of money received by our state treasury every year. "Last year we poured $213,000.000 into our state treasury", Boozer said, "and I don't believe we are getting our money's worth. When I am the governor of Alabama, I guarantee you that you will receive $1 worth of sound government for every dollar you put in the state treasury"

In his latest speeches the Anniston candidate has repeated his strong support of continued educational expansion to keep pace with our ever increasing school population, and a $50 a month old age pension. "We owe a debt to the old people of this country who pioneered an built a nation and we must pay it not only in love and gratitude but by providing the neccessities and comfort in their declining years", he said.

Boozer also repeated his support of a strong state merit system. He asserted that he favored a merit system with teeth in it and would favor making it a part of our state constitution. "We must also stop this daily slaughter on our highways. As governor I will recommend traffic laws strong enought to stop killing on our roads and highways and sufficient highway patrolmen to enforce the law".

His plan for an industrial board to sell Alabama to new industry has been gaining Boozer strong support throughout the state. Under his plan an industrial board would be created whose sole function would be to bring new industries and new payrolls to every city and town in Alabama. "We are lagging behind in this important phase", he said. "To have a happy and contented people we must have jobs and payrolls and I belive an industrial board working with your officials in every county and state can do the job".

He said he would continue the farm-to-market road program, set up a planning board to introduce new cash crops and a farm marketing system in every county so the farmers in this state can sell their produce and crops for cash.

The former Calhoun county probate judge is advocating automobile tags for $3, $5, and $7.50. He also said he would recommend a farm truck tag for $3. "I don't believe farmers should pay more than $3 a year for tags for light trucks to be used for farm work only", Boozer said.

Boozer will bring his capital trailer back to his home county for the first time Saturday, speaking in the morning at Piedmont and Jacksonville, at Anniston in his homecoming address at 2 o'clock, and at Oxford at 4 in the afternoon. A paid pol. adv. by Boost Boozer and Build Alabama committee, Anniston, Ala.

VISIT TO MOUNDVILLE

OUR MOUNDVILLE TRIP

The Better Speech Club first decided to go to Moundville while studying the Aztec Indians of Mexico. We decided to go April 7th if the weather were suitable. Before going, we decided to learn as much about the Moundville Indians as possible.

A few mothers agreed to take us in their cars. They were: Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Littleton, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Fulford and Mrs. Oglesby.

Friday, April 7th, dawned clear and warm, a perfect day for our trip. We left the school about 8:15 and arrived in Moundville about 11:00.

We went first to the museum where we saw bone needles, copper fish hooks, and clay pottery made by the Moundville Indians.

From the main room of the museum we went to see the pits where the Moundville Indians were buried. One pit contains about twenty-three skeletons and the other about fifteen skeletons.

Mr. Chapman, an archeaologist from Anniston, Ala., was our guide through the museum.

About 11:45 we left the museum and went to the picnic grounds on the banks of the Black Warrior River and ate our lunches. After lunch we went to the largest mound—Mound B, which covers about two acres.

After we left this mound we started on toward Tuscaloosa, Ala., where we were going to visit Smith Hall, the museum at the University of Alabama.

In Smith Hall we were shown minerals from all over Alabama. We saw a petrified tree which was found in a coal mine near Jasper, and is believed to be about 300 million years old.

On the third floor of this museum we saw various stuffed animals including a huge brown bear which some boys who attended school at the University of Alabama shot and killed in Alaska.

About 3 o'clock we left this museum and rode through Bryce Hospital and Partlow School grounds, also in Tuscaloosa.

We then started back toward home. We reached Centreville about 4 o'clock where we stopped and bought cold drinks. Then we started home again and arrived in Clanton about 5:15.

This day at Moundville had truly been a day to remember all our lives. ELIZABETH OGLESBY.

OUR MOUNDVILLE TRIP

While we were studying Mexico in social studies, we found some ruins of the Mayan Indians had been excavated. Mrs. Thomas suggested we take a trip to Moundville, Ala., where some ruins of Indians had been uncovered in our state.

When we began making preparations to go, our group captains set up rules for us to follow on our trip. Some of our room mothers were kind enough to furnish cars for us to go in.

We left the school at 8:30 a.m., Friday, April 7th. While we were traveling, we saw beautiful scenes of large green fields with cattle grazing in them.

We arrived at Moundville State Monument at 10:50.

Inside the museum we saw Indian skulls and skeletons. Some of the Indians were buried on top of each other while others were buried doubled up so it wouldn't take such a large hole to put them in.

The Indians were called long heads and round heads. Some of the round heads moved in with the long heads.

A man from Philadelphia found the burials in the year 1905. Forty burials were found in mounds C and O.

At Smith Hall we saw a petrified tree that lived approximately 300 million years ago.

The most amazing thing was a model ship carved by George Curling with an ordinary pocket knife.

There were heads of different types of animals. There was a great big Alaskan bear stuffed that was killed by some Alabama boys in 1942.—Curtis Baker.

WE VISIT MOUNDVILLE

In our class we were studying about South America, and came to a study of the strange things being excavated down there. Mrs. Thomas told us about some strange things people were finding over at Moundville. So that is how we got interested in Moundville.

We started off on April 7th, 1950. I was so excited! Mrs. Thomas had told us it was about a hundred miles over there, so, I knew it would take a long time to get there.

At Moundville we saw the skeletons of the Indians that used to live there. Our guide said that these bones had not been moved. We also saw many things the Indians had made. After we finished looking at things in the museum, we went to the picnic grounds, where we ate our lunches. When we finished our lunches, we jumped in our cars and were off to Mound B. It was fun to run up and down that high mound.

Our next stop was Tuscaloosa where we visited the museum in Smith Hall. Mrs. Clausen, Secretary of Alabama Museum of Natural History, told us some things about the museum. After we finished looking at the things there, we started home. We arrived at Clanton about ten after five. We had a wonderful time!—Katharene Ann Mayo.

A MOUNDVILLE TRIP

To Mound State Monument we decided to go
Where bones are lying in a row.
Now, who, they were, no one can know.
There were painted jars and other things,
Many necklaces and tiny rings.
Through an open door we quickly went
To listen politely to the gent
From whom we learned it took many days
To dig those queer old Indians graves
Where bones are sprawled in curious ways.

TIME MEANS NOTHING TO A HOG

It's true. Time means nothing to a hog But time means much to the hog's owner, who's looking for the most profit.

Mangy pigs lose time, growth and dollars. And pigs with mange don't enjoy scratching and rubbing themselves. They are "poor doing" pigs.

The mange mite is a little "spider" that burrows into the skin and lays eggs in the tunnel it forms. The hair appears dry and dead. The hide becomes heavy and thick, finally cracks open.

There's a new simple single treatment method of control. It's benzene hexachloride, commonly called BHC. One complete spraying is usually sufficient. And lice are also killed.

Treatment is easy. Take one pound of 5% gamma, wettable powder, mix well with 4 gallons of water, and spray pigs completely. An air sprayer is good but not necessary. Just be sure the body is completely wet with the material.

And be sure the BHC is a wettable powder. The form usually used in boll weevil poison is difficult to use.

BHC has an "un-delightful" odor—smells like a wet, musty basement. The odor will stay on clothes for several days, so it should be put only on the hogs. They don't mind the smell

Sparkman Wants Alabama Stay In National Demo Party

(Senator John Sparkman, in a recent letter to a constituent, gives his reasons for wanting Alabama to stay in the National Democratic Party. We reproduce it for the information of our readers.)

Washington, D. C. — "I have your letter of March 6, regarding the present political situation as it affects Alabama. I appreciate the frankness with which you have dealt with this matter. So far as you and I are concerned, there is no difference in our objective. I want to protect the customs and traditions of the South. You feel that this best can be done one way. I happen to feel that it best can be done another.

"The present political problem is not one merely of a local nature. The manner in which it is solved will certainly affect me and my job over the next four years and may very well affect the interests of the State of Alabama for many years to come. This being true, I certainly feel that I not only have a right to take part, but that it is my duty to do so. My great concern is to make certain that the people of Alabama understand just what the situation is and how it may affect our future interests in the Congress of he Unied Saes.

"Alabama Democrats have one of three choices. These are: (1) To rejoin the National Democratic Party, (2) to join or to form an alliance with the Republican Party, (3) to be in a splinter party.

"Our joining up with the Republican Party is to me inconceivable and yet according to a story in the New York Times on March 8, we are told by Mr. Guy Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, that he had been in conference with high Dixiecrat leaders regarding just such a movement. The story does not say, but I am told that those "high Dixiecrat leaders" included some from Alabama.

"When I came to Congress over 13 years ago, there were two splinter parties with members in the House. I saw those splinter parties dwindle away to nothing because of the absolute lack of influence or standing that they had. Today in both Houses of Congress there is only one splinter party member. That is Congressman Marcantonio, a Left Wing member from New York City. He has no legislative committee assignment. Both the Democrats and the Republicans refused to give him a committee assignment. His influence on legislation, as you may well imagine, is practically nil. I know that the people of Alabama would not be content for our members of Congress to occupy such a position.

"This leaves, as the only practical position for Alabama Democrats to take is in the National Democratic Party. There we shall be able to fight for the things that we want and against the things that we do not want, and our members in both Houses of Congress with Democratic committee assignments will be able to make themselves felt in getting good legislation through Congress and in defeating bad legislation. I believe you will agree with me that in the past we have done pretty well in this respect.

"The thing that I very much fear is that people think we can be Dixiecrats in Alabama and still be represented by Democratic members of Congress. This is not true. There was a strong sentiment last year in favor of taking away from the congressmen and senators from the four Dixiecrat states our assignments as Democratic members on the various committees. In other words, the sentiment was in favor of forcing us into a splinter party position. This would have meant that I would have lost my position in seniority on the committees that I hold, that I could not have served as chairman of any subcommittee. Senator Hill would have lost his important committee assignments and his positions as chairman of two very important subcommittees. The same thing would have been true with the House members and all of the others from the four Dixiecrat states.

"I believe that the people of Alabama ought to understand this clearly. It is not a matter merely of patronage or of getting projects for Alabama. It is a matter of having a delegation capable of making itself felt for good legislation and against bad legislation. It is the only way we shall be able to continue to defeat the civil rights program. We have been able so far to do that as Democrats working inside the Democratic Party. This has been our strongest bulwark. I do not believe that people of Alabama want to take it away from us and from themselves.

"This is not a question of supporting President Truman or not supporting President Truman. I oppose his program just as strongly as you do and I know that there is much to be done in the Democratic Party. Once, however, we take ourselves out of it, we shall no longer be able to do the job.

"I wish you could think of this from the standpoint of its consequences in Congress and not just in the personal feelings of all of us who detest many of the things that have been done. I want to set them right just as strongly as you do, but I feel quite definitely that the only way we can hope to do it is to be able to continue to fight it out inside the party.

"By the way, I assume that you know that Senator Russell of Georgia, whom the Southern states supported in the Democratic Convention two years ago, advocates staying inside the Democratic Party and so does Senator George. The same thing is true of Senator Byrd and Senator Robertson of Virginia, both senators from Arkansas and others. Jimmy Byrnes announced just a few days ago that while he would oppose many parts of President Truman's program, he would do so from inside the Democratic Party. It is my understanding that even Governor Thurmond of South Carolina is going to ask for the regular Democratic nomination for the United States Senate.

With best wishes and kindest personal regards, I am,

Sincerely,
JOHN SPARKMAN."

SOUTHERN BELL EMPLOYEES TO RECEIVE WAGE INCREASES

Three out of four of the non-supervisory employees of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in the nine states it serves, will receive automatic "progressions" wage increases within the next 12 months under the present contract with the Union, it was revealed today by Mr. P. J. Kreis, Southern Bell Manager.

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Kreis said, "over the length of our present contract with the Union, which runs until June, 1951, the total of the automatic increases alone will be 8 cents an hour ($3.20 a week) per employee, or about $8,000,000 a year.

In the face of these facts the telephone manager said the CWA-CIO Union is demanding a general 15-cent-an-hour wage hike which would amount to $15,500,000 a year, or 70 per cent of Southern Bell's net earnings for last year.

"The rate increases obtained by the Company have fallen far short of meeting the cost of wage increases already granted," Mr. Kreis said. "Any further general increases in wages would have to be paid by telephone customers."

Mr. Kreis said that according to a recently completed survey which covered 3,799 firms employing 727,379 persons, the wages of Southern Bell workers compare very favorably with the pay of other workers in the community possessing similar skills.

"The fact that Southern Bell's wage rates for non-supervisory employees have been boosted 8 times in the last 10 years for an increase of 117 per cent, while living costs for southern cities jumped about 73 per cent, shows that CWA-CIO Union demands for a 9th round wage increase are completely unjustified," Mr. Kreis added. "And these wage rate increases of 117 per cent do not include promotional increases or the regular progression increases which non-supervisory employees receive until they reach the top rate for their jobs."

STANTON NEWS

Your Reporter has been taking the 17th Decennial Census, covering the west side of Highway 22 and Miss Dorothy O'Neal has covered the east side of Highway 22. Our enumeration has been completed and we truly hope that we have not missed a single person or dwelling; not even an acre, but if we have missed you kindly drop us a card advising us of your whereabouts. We will call on you. (Mail your card to Miss Ruth Hicks if you live in Beat 8—west side of Highway 22—or if you live on the east side of Highway 22 to Miss Dorothy O'Neal. Address of each is Stanton, Ala.)

We wish to take this means of thanking each of you for your fine spirit of cooperation, the many favors extended us and the manner in which you accepted us.

Really during our work we sometimes wondered if we were taking your census or if you had gotten ours.

The only unfriendly and non-cooperative in this work were the hound dogs and the goats that were left behind by their master in charge of the house when we made our visit to that home. We got stuck in mud holes, worked in driving rains, walked in plowed fields, walked for miles alone in woods and drove miles and miles in our work.

Even though we were not allowed to carry anyone with us in our car; not even to drive, we did have friends along the route that would saddle their horse and meet us at the mud holes. Sure enough in the mud hole we landed and for sure stuck fast. These friends guided our efforts to get unstuck and of course ended up doing the drudgery for this government car to carry on the taking of the census.

Then along our route we had friends who would hear in advance that the Census taker would be at their house the next day and when we arrived a nice hot dinner would be prepared for us. These courtesies we could not accept.

Then came the day when our respondents would gladly answer all questions and as we were leaving that house would ask us to view their flowers and vegetable gardens. This pleased us very much and we always ended up with flowers or vegetables to carry home to our folks.

This work, and I mean work, among you was indeed pleasant. You are a bunch of swell people and we thank you from the depths of our hearts.

It is with a feeling of remorse our work has ended as it ends for the time being our work among you, the pleasure of meeting you, the real joy of making friends, contacting old friends and loved ones.

We wish to thank also our boss, Rev. John C. Rountree. He has been swell. He has helped us solve our problems, checked us on every occasion and never seemed up-set over the errors we had made and did make. We never knew when he would pop up, and pop up he did. This association with him we hope has cemented a friendship between us that will last through the years.

Mr. L. C. Warr is the "big boss" over all. He is a swell guy to work with. He has eight counties to supervise. Tabulation of this work starts soon, and if I don't miss my bet his headache starts. Miss Dorothy O'Neal and I will be in there pitching for him for about three weeks in Clanton, Ala. We're going to enjoy this work under Mr. Warr, I feel confident. It is our sincere hope that when the Census workers take over in 1960 that they will meet with people just like you. With this we close our chapter on the 1950 census. (We would like to make one suggestion to our Government. In the taking of the Census in the future that they furnish leg-o-meters to the rural enumerators to register the miles walked.)

Just heard that Johnnie Brooks Burnett, better known throughout as "Buck Burnett," is running for Justice of the Peace. Don't think he has any opposition and we are truly glad that he has considered asking for this job. Mr. Art Sample, now deceased, was Justice of the Peace in this section for years, and it is work that is badly needed in this section. Good luck, Buck.

The James Colburn family moved from this section to Mr. Joe Hicks' place Saturday just out of Maplesville, Ala.

Mrs. Morris Collins and children and Mrs. Curt Harris spent Sunday in Birmingham, Ala., with relatives.

Mr. Buck Burnett and many others attended the singing at Macedonia last Sunday. They reported a very enjoyable day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Earl Hosey and sons took Saturday night supper with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and sons.

Rev. and Mrs. John C. Rountree had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosey and family.

Rev. and Mrs. John C. Rountree spent a while Sunday afternoon with Mr. Sam Broadhead's mother who is ill.

VanLandingham is an outstanding minister. Let us all work and pray that we will have the greatest revival here that we have ever had.

The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 6, will meet at the Willingham Hotel on Monday evening, April 24th, at 7 o'clock.

BABY CHICKS NEED A WELL-BALANCED FEED

Auburn, Ala. — The importance of giving a chick a well-balanced feed is realized when one considers its extremely fast rate of growth.

A baby chick weighing one and one-fourth ounces at hatching time should weigh 20 ounces at six weeks of age. Thus it increases its weight 16 times. If a baby boy weighed eight pounds at birth and grew this fast, he would weigh 128 pounds at six weeks of age.

"From this observation," says John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist, "it can be seen that if a chick is to make its extremely fast rate of growth, it must have a feed that contains the food elements needed to build a chick's body."

PROTECT FLOORING

Wood flooring, unless it has been chemically preserved, should never be laid directly on the soil or on concrete that is in contact with the soil. Always keep in mind that dry wood is practically decay-proof.

The People Of Chilton County Are Grateful To Hon. Winston Huddleston

Highly paid propaganda to the contrary not withstanding, the people of Chilton County are squarely behind Hon. Winston Huddleston, of Wetumpka, Ala., in his race for re-election to the office of Circuit Solicitor of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit.

The people of Chilton County know that Winston Huddleston did a splendid and noteworthy job of prosecuting the recent county missing funds cases. His batting average was 1000, and this is especially significant in face of the fact that Mr. Huddleston was opposed by the very best and most learned legal talent in the State of Alabama.

Preparing and winning these cases was and is no boy size job. It required knowledge and experience; and to finish cleaning up the mess will require still more fortitude, ability and experience. Winston Huddleston has this fortitude, ability and experience.. Again let us emphasize, this job of Circuit Solicitor is no job for a totally inexperienced boy.

The hordes of friends of Winston Huddleston in Chilton County urge the voters of the Circuit to stick by him in the primary of May 2nd. There is little doubt of his re-election; but the voters should not be misled by highly paid propaganda.

SEPTIC TANK CONSTRUCTION

In the last few years there has been an ever increasing demand for modern plumbing and the conveniences of the toilet, bathtub and sinks. Science and education have greatly influenced this demand by pointing out the great dangers of health incident to the careless disposal of human wastes. No group of diseases is so readily—so absolutely—controllable, as the ones caused in this manner, which include typhoid fever, hookworm, bacillary and amebic dyysentery, and diarrhea. The improper disposal of sewage is frequently the greatest menace to the health of a family or community . Besides being a danger to health, the improper disposal of sewage creates a nuisance, detracts from the appearance of the surroundings, and prevents the greatest enjoyment of the home.

A septic tank with adequate disposal is the most satisfactory and sanitary method of disposing of sewage, where a community sewerage system is not available.

Cesspools and the like are strongly disapproved. If they are built water-tight, the owner will frequently have to empty them. When not built water tight, wells may be polluted.

Several years ago the State Health Department adopted, after many tests, certain plans by which all septic tanks constructed in Alabama must be built. The State governing body enacted legislation which prohibits the use of any type septic tank other than this.

If you plan to build a septic tank, contact the County Health Department beforehand. A member of this department will come to you home or place of business, explain the plans, lay out the tank and disposal field and otherwise assist you materially. —E. M. Moore, M.D.

VALUE OF A MULCH

A layer of mulch protects the soil from erosion, conserves moisture, and protects seedlings from drying sun and winds until they can get well started.

KEEP GAME ON THE FARM

Many farmers realize that their farms can be improved for wildlife and still not reduce cash income or affect cropping operations.

WILEY GORDON CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Can Pensions Be Paid?

Wiley Gordon, candidate for Governor, is the business man of considerable experience. He is the founder of the "State Social Security Pension Plan." Below answers the above question, we quote him:

"It is most regrettable that Alabama has continued to elect men to public office who promised a "Lavish" pension to our fine old people without the remotest idea of a plan to get the money. Many states with far less resources than Alabama, have elected governors who had visions and ability as well as plans. Today their old people receive a liberal pension.

Alabama could have paid last year, more than $65 a month if the "State Social Security Pension Plan" had been in operation. It would not have required any additional taxes to have done this. Remember we pay out in Federal taxes ($275,000,000) two hundred seventy five million yearly, a part of which could have been matched, brought back and paid out in pensions to our old folks.

Alabama voters failed to ask the "Pension Promisers" to tell about their PLANS. If other states elect governors who have plans ready to pay the pensions—Alabama can also.

I advocated the "State Social Security Pension Plan" eight years ago, two administrations since then have refused to listen, therefore, today I am a candidate for governor, and I have a plan that will provide the money. When Wiley Gordon is your governor, pensions will be paid."

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

In our day we have been locked out of many banks for one reason another, but we never heard until this week of a banker being locked out of his bank. That is what happened the other day to Otto Jones and Earl Parrish of the First National Bank. When they returned from lunch they couldn't get into their bank. They had to get a bank breaker-inner to saw open the door so they could get to work. That's getting to work the hard way.

The guy that wrote that book "The Postman Always Rings Twice" didn't know what he was talking about. At any rate from now on for a while he won't ring but once—each day, that is. Uncle Sam has said the post office department isn't making enough money taking the mail twice each day and has issued orders to have it delivered only once. O.K., so what. Folks on the routes don't get but one delivery each day.

Did you ever go motoring, stop for gas, and drive off without your wife. A fellow the other night did just that thing. We imagine his address now is some hospital. He stopped at Jimmy's Service Station in South Clanton and had the attendant "fill 'em up.' While he was busy at that his wife went into the wash room. After the servicing of the car was finished the man got in his car and drove off. In about a half minute the wife came from the wash room yelling: "Where is my husband? where is the car?" To make a short story of it, when the husband got to Thorsby or thereabout, it slowly dawned on him that his companion was missing. He also probably began to dream of a missing "two front teeth." Anyway, he rushed back to Jimmy's Service Station in South Clanton and picked up his wife and drove off into the night. We'll have to write our own ending to that little yarn.

Mr. Willie Hamilton said that he heard that there were so many candidates Saturday on the streets of Clanton that a fellow held his hand out to make a left turn at Upchurch Drug Company and three candidates shook hands with him before he could make the turn.

P. J. Norwood was in to see us Monday and we enjoyed his visit very much. Mr. Norwood is plumping for the "Dixiecrat" ticket and is running an ad this week to prove it. Although we cannot agree with Mr. Norwood on his stand in this matter, we certainly agree that he has the right to his own opinion and invite him back to chat with us some more. Other than Dixiecrat versus Democrat, we see eye to eye.

Harold Smith is in a dither. He has been advertising his campaign for County Commissioner of the Second District using the name "Harold" and his name will appear on the ticket next Tuesday "A. H." Now all Harold wants you folks to remember when you go to the polls next Tuesday is that A. H. Smith and Harold Smith is the same guy.

Arthur Watson, who saved the fellow's life at the Dam the other week had his picture in "Powergrams," the magazine published by Alabama Power Company, in the last issue.

C. C. (Jack) Owens is running for reelection as a member of the Alabama Public Service Commission. He's a fine man and has done a good job. He deserves another term and indications are that he will get it too. Owens is a mighty good friend of Tom McKee here and Mr. Tom is pumping for him right along. Really we shouldn't vote for Jack Owens though. We saw him in the Dixie a few weeks ago and passed right by him and he didn't even speak. Course the fact that he didn't know us and we didn't know him personally might have had something to do with it. But people like to be recognized, don't they? Especially election year. It's the only time we get any recognition or a chance to feel important.

Sally Rand And Her Star Studded Revue To Appear In Montgomery May 1-7

Sally Rand, the girl who fanned a breeze into a tornado with a gracefully swishing set of ostrich plume fans, is the headline attraction with her star-studded revue with Cavalcade of Amusements shows. The huge midway presentation, sponsored by the 40 and 8 of the American Legion, Voiture 426, will be held at the Chisholm Road showgrounds May 1st through the 7th at Montgomery.

Still creating an undiminished breeze with her famous fans, Sally is the first "name" performer to appear in person under a canvas top. Her reason for this current tour, which is considerably different from appearing in leading theaters, night clubs and hotels in major cities throughout the country, is simply explained by her.

"Since there is a definite need to keep kids in small towns and on farms," she says, "shows and fairs, which are centers of attraction for them, should be highly selective. Therefore, to move in with hootchie-cootchie shows and shady gamblers would defeat our purpose. Our show is a Mardi Gras where young and old can come and find complete entertainment in a pleasant environment."

Miss Rand has produced a completely new show featuring top acts available in the show business today, as well as the lovely girls who make up the chorus of "Heavenlies," who prompt excited comment from everyone who sees the show. Handpicked as they are, each girl is in herself a specific type of feminine beauty.

SALLY RAND

Sally is deserving of unlimited bouquets of praise for her latest and most beautiful show. It is the very ultimate in artistic and dazzling entertainment, complete with original music and lyrics by Midge Fielding and Charles Barnes.

Sally herself is the "piece de resistance" of her own production, as she is more bewitching and sexquisite than ever in performing her world-famous fan dance.

Elbert Boozer Leads As Voters Get Set To Choose Next Governor

ANNISTON MAN SPEAKS TO MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CANDIDATE

Elbert Boozer's feat of drawing the biggest crowds in the larger cities has also been duplicated in the smaller towns, newspaper and radio men as well as political observers say as the Anniston candidate for governor rides the political trail in closing out his campaign.

The crowds that greeted Boozer successively in Tuscaloosa, Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, Huntsville, and Gadsden, have outnumbered the ones who came to hear any other candidate in the race for governor, and his home coming last Saturday in Anniston drew the largest crowd that has ever heard a political speech there.

BOOZER

"The trend to Boozer in more than 60 counties in Alabama has been the most remarkable that has happened in Alabama in many years. Old line political observers are comparing his gain in popularity with the voters with the spectacular rise made by Governor B. M. Miller when the Camden judge won his election to the governorship."

That Boozer is leading in the governor's race is attributed to his sound and successful business background and the planned program of progress he has offered the people in every county in Alabama.

The Anniston candidate has been bearing down on his lans for new industries and new payrolls in every town and city through an active State Industrial Board that would work with city and county officials in obtaining new industries; new cash crops and farm marketing systems in every county, farm-to-market roads and a long range plan for four lane highways on our main traffic arteries.

Since the beginning of the campaign Boozer has advocated stronger support for Alabama's educational program to keep pace with our ever-increasing school population, a teacher retirement plan and salaries for teachers in line with the cost of living 12 months a year.

Boozer said he would advocate $50 a month pensions for needy people over 65 years old and said he would recommend that prices of automobile tags be cut to $3, $5, and $7.50, with a $3 price tag for small trucks to be used on the farm only.

He favors a strong merit system for protection of state employees and will advocate that the merit system be made a part of our constitution.

The former Calhoun county probate judge feels very strongly about the reckless driving on our highways. He said "we must stop this daily killing on our highways and to do this we must have stronger laws with teeth in them and a sufficient number of trained highway patrolmen to enforce the laws. Human lives must be protected."

He will campaign in the Chattahoochee Valley Friday, speaking at Fairfax, Langdale, Shawmutt, Lanett, and LaFayette. Saturday he will be in Cullman, Guntersville, Albertville, Boaz and Gadsden, and will wind up the campaign Monday in Scottsboro, Rainsville and Fyffe. VISIT! Recreation Roller Rink, where the crowds go!

To The People Of The Nineteenth Judicial Circuit

Since the beginning of the campaign for Solicitor, my opponent has devoted his entire time to going over the Circuit meeting people and asking you for your vote. This privilege has been denied me for the reason that for many weeks I have been in Court prosecuting cases, or have actually been engaged in preparing these cases for trial. There has been much extra Court, and as your Solicitor I felt it my duty and that you would want me to do the job that you have commissioned me to do. This I have done and the results obtained for the State in what is known as the "Missing Funds Cases of Chilton County" speak for themselves. If my worthy opponent has had anything to do other than run for office during this time, I do not know of it. He certainly has had no cases in Court. Although he, for the first time bought his Probate Office law license on the 29th day of October, 1949, I feel sure he could have had an opportunity to demonstrate how well he could handle a case in Court during the time that I was attending to the duties of the office to which you have elected me. I feel certain that you will not fail to vote for me for not seeing you in person while nearly all of the time of this campaign I was attending to a job that you had commissioned me to do.

There have been many falsehoods spread among the voters, but out of all that you have heard, no one has dared state that I have not served you ably, vigorously and efficiently as your Solicitor. Some of the things said are that I have had the office a long time. This is true, but the issue is what kind of service will YOU get. There are many young lawyers in the Circuit. All of them have had actual experience in the trial of cases except my opponent. None of them saw fit to run against me. I have even heard it said that should you elect my opponent, some of his friends will hire an able and experienced lawyer to work with him. If this is true, why isn't this able and experienced lawyer named so that you will know whom you are voting for. There have been other campaign slogans circulated too numerous to attempt to answer in this letter, but certainly all circulated with the view of misleading the voters and creating prejudice against me.

When I ran for this office I had attended Barnes High School, had two years in Marion Military Institute and graduated from the University of Alabama. But I never would have dared run for this highly technical position without also having years of actual experience in the Courts; and never in the long history of this state have I ever known anyone who ran with no experience in the Courts until now.

There is a County Solicitor in each County. In two of the Counties he is elected by the people. I have no control over him. His duties are prescribed by law. I maintain an office in Wetumpka at my own expense. The County or State does not pay one cent of my rent. All stenographic help is paid for out of my own pocket. The law does not contemplate a Solicitor sitting in his office all of the time, as there is a County Solicitor in each County, and much of the time of the Circuit Solicitor is spent in three Counties in the Courts and in doing research work of the law and preparing cases for trial. It has even been circualted, while I was in Court during this campaign with some of the best lawyers of Alabama as adversaries, that I was in bad health. To stoop to this kind of political tactics shows nothing more than desperation. A man would have to be in excellent health to go through what I have, up against as many lawyers as I have, in the Courts of our Circuit this Spring.

I want to take this occasion to thank you for the high honor which you have bestowed upon me. I am deeply grateful for your confidence in the past, and I assure you that if you re-elect me your Solicitor, I shall endeavor in the future to serve you as I have in the past to the very best of my ability. I sincerely hope that you will treat this as a perosnal appeal, and that you will give me the benefit of your vote and influence.

I would like to warn you against last minute campaign propaganda. As you have long ago learned it is never true.

Very respectfully,
WINSTON HUDDLESTON.

A Final Appeal To The Voters Of Chilton County

Friends and Voters:

This is the last opportunity I'll have to ask for your support and vote next Tuesday. I'm listing below some of the things I will do if elected for Commissioner of District No. 1:

1. I will deal honestly and fairly with everyone.
2. I will take the same interest in the county's money, when buying equipment and material, as I would my own, always spending it wisely and saving the county's money in every way possible.
3. I will support improvements in our county school system in every way possible.
4. I'll help the old people of the county in every way possible.
5. I will support road improvements in every way possible.
6. I will support improvements in the general health of Chilton County in every way ossible.

I have several other things in mind that I would like to do, if possible. It will take the cooperation of the Commissioners Court to get some of these things done, so I'll not make any definite promise on things I'm not sure on. I will say that I'll cooperate with the other commissioners in every way possible in order to make our county a better place to live financially, physically, morally and mentally.

I hope you will support and vote for me for commissioner of District No. 1 in the Democratic Primary May 2, 1950. I want to thank you in advance for anything you can do to help me.

-For The Common Good-

The State's function is to satisfy as near as possible the common good of all mankind; in other words, the State should do for man what man cannot do for himself. When in Congress I will work toward this end.

I will support Legislation for the welfare of all men without curbing personal liberty as much as possible.

Individual initiative and freedom of thought must not be constrained by authority, in order for America to grow and develop and progress in the future. When in Congress I will hold to these truths steadiastly.

I advocate the following exemptions in Income Taxes: A single man or single woman should have $1500.00 exemption; A married couple without children $3,000.00 exemption, and $500.00 exemption for each child. In other words, I advocate a cut clear across the board in Income Taxes, in fact, I favor A NEW LAW.

I have finished my fight, I have kept the faith, I have run a clean race; I am now ready to place myself into the hands of you, the voters. We face the results with perfect confidence of being victorious on May May 2nd.

Writes In Behalf Of C. B. Cox

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As a voter and citizen of Chilton County, I wish to say a few words on behalf of Mr. C. B. Cox for Representative. I think that the voters of Chilton County have a serious decision to make on May 2 in the selection of a Representative.

If we send a man to the Legislature who is without experience or who would not be able to do anything for Chilton County, we can expect nothing in the next four years. A member of the House of Representatives has power according to the committee memberships that he has. Mr. Cox has served for eight years and has been a member of some of the most powerful committees in the House, and has had great power in both Legislatures in which he has served. I think that the people of Chilton County ought to consider the fact that he has done many things for Chilton County that have been very beneficial. It was mostly through his efforts that the Horticultural Experiment Station was secured for this County, at a cost of over $60,000.00, with an appropriation for its maintenance and operation. He has secured two fire towers for this County, at a large cost, and has secured a federal appropriation of $35,000.00 for an Armory.

Mr. Cox has had long experience in road building and is chiefly responsible for the paved roads that we have secured in Chilton County under the Farm-To-Market Program. If the people of this County want to continue building good roads, he is in a position to render great service to the people of this County, and will not have to learn the procedure in these matters, but already knows them.

The people of this county should not be misled by wild promises of pensions or assistance—free lunches, or otherwise, unless they are informed at the same time as to how such a program can be paid for. None of us want greatly increased taxes, and we should take into consideration the fact that these promises cost money. Promises are easy to make, but so many of them are hopeless when it comes to having the money to carry them out.

After serving in that capacity during Governor Miller's term, was elected successively as Secretary of State, State Auditor and again Secretary of State. Was requested to serve as a member of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles, later appointed Chairman and is now the Minority Member of the Board. He has filled all these positions with competence and dignity.

Experience Counts

Any new employee must always go through a training period. This training period costs in efficiency and money. I've had five years of it- and am ready to go right ahead! I would like to have a chance to follow up so that you may receive the benefit of this experience you have given me.

True, no community has received from me and the Board all it would like to have and what it needs in school facilities. This is the fault of no one person or group but is the result of inadequate finances.

Auditors examining my books have been very complimentary and have never charged a cent against me.

I have not meddled in any political campaign since being superintendent but my own. Nor have I in any way sought to contribute to the assistance or downfall of any candidate other than to cast my vote. Neither have I solicited any such interference in my campaign because I believe, as most of you do, that our school system should never become a political tool.

I have tried to be efficient, fair and honest. I promise to continue in this direction and this is my only promise. If re-elected, I will have a clear title to my position and will not be tied by promises or other obligations.

Please Consider These Points In Making Your DECISION!

Nivens Charges Mud Slinging

During the past few weeks since we have been in the midst of a campaign I have endeavored to conduct my campaign as a gentleman and a respected official of Chilton County. I do not believe in mud slinging and do not practice it.

It has come to me that my opponents are their friends have started a humor that I have sold out to the bootleggers. This, of course, I emphatically deny, and challenge anyone to prove such a statement.

Because of the busy season at the courthouse I have been unable to see all of the voters but I have done my best. I will appreciate your support in my behalf on May 2nd, next Tuesday.

I want all of you to know that I am grateful for anything you have done in behalf of my campaign and assure you of my effort to give the best that is in me for the good of Chilton County.

I have conducted my office in a business-like manner and have cooperated with the city and state law enforcement officers whenever asked to do so.

This I will continue to do if reelected. Again I ask your support and influence and will justify your faith in me.

Thanking you one and all, I am,

J. A. NIVENS.

Wispy Fleece, Seen on Rivers, Really Is Steam

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—That Wispy fleece seen on rivers and which looks like real steam—is real steam, according to a physics teacher.

Mothers who tell their children, when asked, that what they see is not steam, are all wrong, according to this teacher.

There's an explanation for this phenomenon says Manfred Olsen, head of the physics department at Milwaukee State Teachers college. In fact, there are two of them—one for any body of water that steams in cold weather, and a special, additional one for the Milwaukee river.

"It's simply because cold air can't hold as much water as warm air," Olson says. "So the water that evaporates from the river condenses in tiny droplets on specks of dust in the air. That's the steam you see coming off the river."

Just how much water vapor can be carried in the air at certain temperatures is shown in a chart called the vapor pressure table. At 32 degrees, which is freezing temperature, water vapor pressure does not quite reach a pound per square inch.

Pressure Goes Up

At 212 degrees, which is the boiling point of water, the pressure goes up to 15 pounds per square inch. At zero temperature, the air can hold only one-sixth the amount of water it holds at 32 degrees.

When a body of still water, such as a pond, starts freezing, here's what happens.

The top layer of water gets cold first. But as water gets colder, it also gets heavier, up to a certain point. That point is 39.2 degrees. When the top layer of water reaches that temperature, it sinks to the bottom of the pond and the next highest layer goes to the top. That, too, reaches 39.2 degrees eventually and sinks.

When the whole pond reaches 39.2 degrees, the top layer then freezes up. The top layer of water stays on top because water gets lighter as its temperature goes down below 39.2 degrees. And that's why water freezes from the top down instead of the bottom up.

Special Reason

Now, the special reason for steam on the Milwaukee river. It is the relatively hot water that pours into the river from the Commerce St. plant of the electric company.

According to company engineers, the plant takes in an average of 100,000 gallons of water from the river every minute of the day. This water is used to condense steam in the power plant, and then is discharged back into the river through a conduit about nine feet in diameter. The used water temperature is about 60 degrees, which is at least 20 degrees higher than the regular river water temperature.

Sicilian Takes Big Fortune From Salt Water Annually

TRAPANI, SICILY.—Many are the schemes and dreams of taking treasure out of the sea—but there is one man who is making the ocean provide him with a fortune.

He is Rocco Ricevuto, owner and manager of the Trapani salt marshes from which he is taking about one million dollars a year. The marshes yield about 200,000 tons of salt annually for which Ricevuto receives an average of $5 a ton.

Water from the salt-laden Mediterranean is pumped into drying basins where the hot Italian sun evaporates the water and leaves the salt in a growing pile.

In 1943 fleeing Germans destroyed all the plants in the salt marshes "because they could have been of use to the American troops." Ricevuto said he still wonders how the Americans could have used the salt marsh plants for war purposes.

"Destruction was carefully planned and faithfully carried out," Ricevuto said. "When I came back after the Nazi-Fascists evacuated Trapani, I found that nothing remained of the plants my father had built with loving care through 50 years of hard work.

"For a year I came here every morning, and studied how much of the rubble could be salvaged.

"One day, that was in 1944, I decided that I must do something to make the plants work again. We always had a group of more than 500 men working in the salt marshes. I called them to a big meeting in the place where the old silos were built and asked them to help me out.

"In two years I got my plants running again.

"Little by little we recovered our business. Ships come here now at an average of one every week or two loading salt for eastern and northern countries.

Listen to Broadcast for States' Rights Candidates

6:30 P.M. Thursday, April 27th

Pd. Pol. Adv. by Alabama States' Rights Democratic Campaign Com.
TOM ABERNETHY, Talladega, Chmn.

Dr. Hubert F. Wheat was born 16-miles North of Tuscaloosa, one-half mile close to the Moore's Bridge Road, in a log house similar to this picture. The family lived in the log house until he was fourteen years of age. His father tore it down and built a frame house. It is in good condition today.

Hubert spent his boyhood days on the farm, doing the kind of work that is to be done on the farm. The pots rattled at his father's house early every morning, and they plowed until the whippoorwill hollered.

On rainy days Hubert was at liberty to do what he wanted to do, so he made toy wagons, wind mills, fly guns, and all kinds of toy machinery. It seems as if he wanted to produce something. He went to school from six weeks to three months a year, and some years not at all, doing his studying by a pine-knot fire light.

When he became twenty-one years of age he was at liberty to follow his own intuition. Feeling the need of more education, he went to Jacksonville State Normal School, and entered low but picked up speed as he went along. He played in "As You Like It" and "Mid-Night Summer Dream," and stole the show in both. He graduated from Jacksonville Normal School on May 22, 1918, with honors. World War I was in full bloom then.

The Army turned him down on a minor physical disability. He felt he should do something about it. Having some knowledge of physics and chemistry, he made it known to the U. S. Government. They received him readily, sending him to Warners, N. J., and taught him how to make ammonium nitrate, which is one part T.N.T. by the cyanamid process. When the course was completed he was moved to Muscle Shoals, Alabama, and was instrumental in putting Nitrate Plant No. 2 in operation. Here he was cited for his excellent service.

After the war was over the Government did not need his services any longer. He came home and taught in his home school, which is known as the Bethabara School. It was a one-teacher school. He persuaded the Superintendent of Schools to make it a two-teacher school. It was poorly equipped. He rang the bell, called in the Trustees, had a box supper, which sold well—raised enough money to equip the school with desks, black boards, maps, etc., and left about $100.00 in the Treasury. He then turned tooth-ward, graduating from Atlanta Southern Dental College, May 28, 1924, with high honors. He has been doing Dentistry successfully in Tuscaloosa ever since.

Oh, yes! One other thing—his father appointed him Executor to his Will. He handled it with the diplomacy of a diplomat. All the children were pleased with his actions.

SHACKLED or FREE?

The Only Issue in the State Committee Race

When you vote May 2nd for members of the State Democratic Executive Committee you will decide these vital and far-reaching questions:

1. Shall we shackle Alabama Democrats now to Harry Truman and his anti-South Civil Rights program in 1952?

— OR —

2. Shall we have in 1952 a free and open primary election at which Democrats of Alabama can make their own decisions?

If we elect a State Democratic Executive Committee composed of States' Rights Democrats, we can keep the right to decide for ourselves whom we will support for President in the 1952 primary election. States' Rights Committee candidates have signed a pledge to let everyone vote either FOR or AGAINST Truman as they may desire. That is what our State Committee has always done.

If we elect the so-called "Loyalists" to the State Committee, we now bindd ourselves for the 1952 election to Truman. Trumanites plan to pass a rule requiring all candidates to pledge support to Truma nand every other nominee of the Democratic National Convention, even though they favor the Civil Rights and all the rest of the anti-Souther nprogram. Truman wants to tie Alabama NOW to Truman. This is why Truman is using the power of his office and the money of the National Democratic Committee to purge States' Rights members of our State Committee, and put i ntheir places patronage-seekers who will take all their orders from Washington. This is why public office-holders, who have no business trying to dictate the membership of the Committee to Alabama people, ar interfering i nthis election.

Vote May 2nd for a State Committee of States' Rights Democrats who will preserve for the Democrats of Aabama the right to vote for the Democrat of their choice, whether it be Truman or some one who is a friend of the people of Alabama.

These candidates from this district will carry on Alabama's States' Rights fight:

JOHN M. HIGGINS

Chilton Organizing For Total War Against Cancer

Chilton is organizing its shock troops for the war against cancer.

Mr. Dent Williams, chairman of the 1950 Cancer Crusade for the county, announced today the appointment of his principal lieutenants for the financial campaign.

Solicitation of business houses and industrial plants will be in charge of a committee headed by local business men, Mr. R. C. Williams and Mr. A. Reedie Taylor. The group will also handle arrangements for solicitation of employees at their places of work.

The Women's Division has been organized by Mrs. W. E. Huddleston. Her committee will conduct a house-to-house canvass in Clanton.

Radio publicity and promotion will be under the direction of Mr. R. B. Tabor, manager of Station WKLF. Special broadcasts over WKLF are being arranged and narrated by Miss Helen Parrish, well known for her dramatic ability.

The County Chairman pointed out that there still is a need for additional volunteers to work with the committee chairmen and urged citizens to offer a few hours of their time to the cancer fight. They can contact Mr. Dent Williams at the Dent Williams Motor Co.

"Our campaign in Chilton County for a minimum of $875.00 is the most important one in the history of the American Cancer Society. Demands for the Cancer Society's services are becoming so great we cannot continue to operate on the budgets of earlier years. We must raise more than ever before to fight cancer," he said.

Funds raised in the 1950 campaign will be used to finance cancer research, service to cancer patients and both public and professional educational. If not contacted by a worker, please send your contribution to "Cancer," Clanton, Ala.

VOTE FOR JACK LENOIR

A Letter to the Voters of Chilton County:

We would like very much to take this means of asking the voters of Chilton County to help we people of District One to elect V. O. (Jack) Lenoir as our commissioner.

Since he has served one year and four months, he has proved himself worthy by giving the people of his district good roads. He is able and honest to give the people of this county the very best consideration of any other business matters concerning the affairs of our county.

We have written these few words in behalf of Mr. Lenoir, since it is possible that every citizen might not know him to be such.

Cordially yours,

For better government of Chilton County. — W. Wilson Clements and Lonnie Porter, Jemison, Ala., Route 1.

(Pd. pol. adv. by W. Wilson Clements and Lonnie Porter, Jemison Rt. 1)

V. O. (JACK) LENOIR WRITES

This being my last chance before the Primary Election next Tuesday, I want to thank all my friends and fellow Chilton Countians for their support and encouragement during the campaign.

If elected I will do my best to make a good commissioner and keep the peoples' interest first in mind.

If I have failed to ask you personally for your vote it was because I was unable to see all the people during the short campaign and not because I didn't try to see you.

I now ask your support and vote for good government in our county.

Yours truly,
V. O. (Jack) LENOIR.

WHO'S WATERING THE ELEPHANT?

DEMOCRATS VERSUS DIXIECRATS

Shall Alabama Stay Democratic Or Join The Splinter Party?

The issue in this campaign is not States' Rights, or Civil Rights, or FEPC, or Southern traditions.

Loyal Alabama Democrats feel about these things just like the Dixiecrats claim they feel. The difference is that the Dixiecrats can't do anything about it. But Alabama Democrats have used their POWER AND INFLUENCE IN THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY to protect State's Rights and promote Alabama's welfare. AS DEMOCRATS they have helped defeat FEPC and the other so-called civil rights bills. AS DEMOCRATS they have successfully fought off all anti-Southern legislation in the national Congress.

The issue in the campaign is simply this: Shall the people of Alabama continue their long and successful fight to protect their rights and their traditions from within the ranks of the regular Democratic Party? Or shall the people of Alabama entrust their protection and their welfare to the weak and ineffective Dixiecrat splinter party?

Hundreds of thousands of Alabama voters — farmers, businessmen, laborers, factory workers, lawyers, doctors, teachers, housewives and voters in every walk of life — are determined to stay within the National Democratic Party. The people believe this is the best way to protect their own interest and the future of their children. and the best way to serve their State and their country.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

In your spring cleaning, flannel cloths or other heavy, lintless cloths are best for rubbing and polishing furniture and woodwork after applying wax. Chamois is good for windows and mirrors. Old dish towels or napkins are excellent for scouring and polishing metals.

Here's a simple tip for preventing the crease on trousers hung on coat hangers. Fold a thin magazine in half over the lower round of the wire hanger. Two paper clips, one at each end, will hold the magazine in place.

Served Honorably As Veteran Will Serve Honorably As Sheriff

To The Citizens of Chilton County:

The time is drawing near for you to select your sheriff for the next term. I feel that this is one of the most important posts of our local government for the safety and welfare of the citizens; also the peace in our different communities depends on the kind of sheriff we have in office.

When crimes have been committed, it is the duty of the sheriff's office to investigate, gather and preserve the kind of evidence that can be used in Court. If the officers fail in any one of these phases the result will be weak prosecution and a light punishment or a "not guilty" verdict because a jury cannot make up a just verdict when the officers get on the witness stand and the majority of his answers are "I don't remember."

The sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer in every county, and it is very necessary that he be well trained and experienced in the different phases of law enforcement. Since I joined the highway patrol in 1941, I have had considerable training and experience, which included report writing, under some of the best instructors in law enforcement that our State and Nation affords. This, I think, well qualifies me for the office of sheriff of Chilton County. Most of you have had the opportunity to observe me "in the harness" here among you on the Highway Patrol since March, 1943 (except 21 months I served in the U. S. Army) where I have been instrumental in helping solve some of the worst crimes committed in Chilton and other counties. I am not boasting when I refer to my record, however, I am proud of it.

The records in the office of the Highway Patrol at Montgomery state that I have continually led my district in my work. If elected sheriff, I intend to try to make the same record there.

Some of you probably have been told that I have already selected my deputies, or have heard some other "cheap political rumor." This is not true. I have not promised any one a job and I will not promise any one a job until after I see whether or not I am elected. I have not made a "trade" with any one and will not make any "trades." I am not sponsored by any person, group or clique. I will not place any of my relatives on the payroll as deputies, bookkeeper or jailor. If elected I will select good reputable citizens for these jobs. When I receive reports of violations by any one, I will keep their identity strictly confidential. I will also put the sheriff's office on a business basis and will have some one there to serve the people during business hours. The only promise I make is good, clean, fair and impartial law enforcement.

My house to house campaign of the county was interrupted by almost two weeks in court as a witness, which is going to make it impossible for me to see each of you as I had planned to do, but if you are one of the number that I have missed, I would like to take this means of asking you for your vote and support.

I am the only veteran in the sheriff's race. During World War II, I served our country honorably for more than a year with the combat forces in Europe and if you people will give me the opportunity, I will serve our county honorably as your sheriff. I am asking you to "give a young man a chance" by going to the polls in the Democratic Primary on May 2, 1950, and casting your ballot for me for Sheriff of Chilton County.

Thanking you I am sincerely yours for a Better Chilton County,

LUTHER KENDRICK.

THEY'RE CATCHING BIG ONES IN CHILTON COUNTY

The Alabama Power Company 1950 Fishing Contest is under way with a grand start. Entries are coming in from all three lakes on the Coosa River and many, many others are expected as the Spring fishing season swings into high gear. New weigh-in stations have been established at most boat docks and convenient stores up and down the Coosa Valley to help weigh some of the big ones that got away last year.

J. B. Kelly's Store, Wetumpka, reports: Clifton Shealy, Montgomery, bagged an 8 ounce Blue gill Bream on Lake Jordan with the aid of worms. W. B. Bowder, Wetumpka, caught a beautiful Crappie, 1 pound 6 ounces, with a live minnow on Lake Jordan. C. C. Beverly, Montgomery, had no trouble landing his 1 pound 5 ounce Crappie from Lake Jordan with a live minnow. And another king size Crappie, 1 pound 1 ounce was taken by L. S. Estes, Eclectic, with a live minnw from Lake Jordan.

Joe Stanley's Fishing Camp, Jordan Lake, reports: E. M. Smith, Montgomery, caught two fighting Smallmouth Bass, 3 pounds and 3 ounces and 2 pounds and 12 ounces, with a fly rod and live bait on Jordan Lake.

H. R. Evan's Store, Holtville, reports: John M. Carter trolled with an artificial minnow and picked up a whoppin' 1 pound 9 ounce Crappie on Lake Jordan.

W. D. Culp's Store, Lay Dam Road, reports: Harry L. Williams, Clanton, drop fished with worms on Yellow Leaf Creek, Lake Mitchell, and caught a healthy 6 ounce Blue gill Bream.

G. H. Kelley's Cross Roads Store, near Rockford, reports: Robert Knight, Ashland, eased up Swamp Creek, Lake Mitchell and brought back a 1 pound 12 ounce Striped Bass. A live minnow on a casting rod was used in making the catch.

Charlie Depoister's Fishing Camp Lay Lake, reports: Shelly Weldon Sylacauga, fished Blue Spring Creek, Lake Lay and was blessed with a fine 1 pound 5 ounce Crappie, a live minnow and cane pole did the trick. Another handsome catch was made on Blue Spring Creek, Lake Lay, by Roy Winslett, Sylacauga. Roy had a fight on his hands landing his 4 pounds 4 ounces Smallmouth Bass with a small hook, and a small pole, and a small minnow.

Be sure and enter your catch at one of the several friendly and convenient weigh-in stations, for the fun is only beginning, with the cream of this year's fishing just ahead in the ever beautiful Coosa Lakes — who knows, you may become a "Whopper-Catcher" or win an attractive trophy. A new twist in the 1950 Contest is the "Whopper-Catcher Club." All contestants whose entries equal or exceed weights listed below become members of the "Whopper-Catcher Club" will receive a Certificate of Membership. The club has no officers, constitution, meetings or dues. Its only rules are those of good sportsmanship. Qualifying weights are as follows: Largemouth Bass—5 lbs., Smallmouth Bass—3½ pounds, White Lake and Stripe Bass—2 pounds, Crappie or White Perch—1½ pounds, Shellcracker Bream—10 ounces, Blue gill Bream—8 ounces

Whopper Catchers of the week:

Clifton Shealy, Montgomery, Blue gill Bream, 8 ounces.

John M. Carter, Wetumpka, Crappie 1 pound 9 ounces.

Roy Winslett, Sylacauga, Smallmouth Bass, 4 pounds 4 ounces.

Good April buys in protein foods will be in fresh and frozen fish, pork, eggs, broilers, fryers, hens, and manufactured dairy products. Best supplies in the fruit line are canned peaches, raisins, apples, and dried prunes.

From an editorial in the Birmingham Post

"Law enforcement is no longer a function which can be entrusted to amateurs or run of mine job holders.

Waitress' Kindness Pays Her Off to the Tune of $90,000

CHICAGO.—One of the most outstanding cases on record where kindness "paid off" is provided in the experience of Mrs. Leona Smith, a 40-year old, red-haired waitress.

Declared by him to be his only friend, Lucien Gerald Walker, 83-year old retired businessman, left her his estate of more than $90,000. Walker, retired owner of a fabric import and export firm, named Mrs. Smith his sole beneficiary in a will signed five days before he died.

Mrs. Smith had been with him almost constantly during the last 10 days of his life. She had a cot in his hospital room on which she took short naps whenever she could find the time.

Two of Walker's relatives began a contest of his will. His sisters-in-law, Mrs. Wylma Perry Spann and Mrs. Olive Perry Maupin of Vicksburg, Miss., charged that at the time he did so, Walker was "wholly mentally incompetent to execute a will." They wish to admit to probate an earlier will which named them his beneficiaries.

Mrs. Smith met Walker 12 years ago when he began taking his two daily meals in the coffee shop in which she worked. Walker was a permanent resident of the hotel. She said she knew that he was a lonely man and tried to do "little things" for him, such as seeing that he got plenty of white meat when he ordered chicken and being sure that his bacon was crisp.

About 10 years ago Mrs. Smith invited Walker to her home for Christmas dinner. After that he spent every Thanksgiving and Christmas and most Sundays with Mrs. Smith, her husband and daughter, now 15.

In the last year, Mrs. Smith said, Walker had been too ill to go to her home for dinner, so she and her daughter would meet him downtown on holidays.

Walker's simple, one-page will read:

"I bequeath all my personal property to my friend, Leona M. Smith of Chicago, who in my old age and last illness has really proven to be my friend."

Alabama Mills and Mitchell Dam are the only two communities that have reached their quota so far. The County likes approximately $1,000 reaching their quota, remember "All May Help."

Cairo Typist Seeks World Championship As Heaviest Eater

CAIRO. — Mohammed, the "muncher" is out for a world's title—he would like to be the champion eater of the entire hemisphere.

His full name is Mohammed Riad, an Egyptian typist, who is now down to an eating weight of 225 pounds.

In competitive eating, to vie for the world's singles, two-handed eating title, the contestant must include hardboiled eggs. However, they may be shelled first, the rules say.

According to the best information on the subject, the present world record for hardboiled egg consumption is held by an American who put away 60 eggs in 30 minutes.

So far Mohammed's single weakness—hunger—has kept the title just a few dozen eggs out of his reach.

He made a title attempt only a few weeks ago. But listen to Riad's sad story:

"While I was waiting for the judges to arrive, I went to wash my hands and found a large piece of chocolate in my pocket. One of my fans had put it there and I could not resist it.

"Believe me, this was the cause of my failure. Also, I ate a large bowl of pea soup before the contest. This was a mistake, too.

"I am ashamed to say I ate only 43 eggs and drank two bottles of soft drinks in 23 minutes."

One of the hazards of the sport, a sharp pain in the region of the stomach, put him out of play at that juncture. He turned pea green and bolted from the room.

"Now I am training for a new championship attempt," Riad said, "I absolutely will eat 100 eggs for a sensational new record. My honor is at stake.

"Also, I am thinking about changing my technique. Do you think I made a mistake in dipping each egg into red pepper first?"

Gabby Enjoys Going to The Dentist

One of my molars was giving me a bad time Tuesday afternoon, so I slipped over to Doc Jones, hoping to catch him free. When I arrived Gabby Jackson was sitting there reading a magazine. I said hello to Gabby and he nodded.

Doc comes out and says I'm next. "Wait a minute," I says. (My tooth seemed to have stopped aching.) "How about Gabby—doesn't he have an appointment?" Doc smiles and says, "Gabby? Why, he's got the finest teeth in the county. He just comes up here and reads the magazines whenever he's in town!"

As Doc went to work he told me that he's glad to have Gabby come up and read magazines . . . they might not all be fresh off the newsstand, but if Gabby—or anyone—wants to while away some time who is he to stand in their way?

From where I sit, this "live and let live" spirit helps make America what it is. If I prefer a friendly glass of beer with my supper and you prefer milk—who's to say one's right and the other wrong?

Feather-bedding scheme of Firemen's Union to put an additional fireman on diesel locomotives has been CONSIDERED TWICE!

Fact Finding Boards appointed by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman have said these demands were "devoid of merit" and they were REJECTED TWICE!

Now the Firemen's leaders seek to paralyze railroad transportation to compel the railroads to employ a wholly unnecessary additional fireman to ride on diesel locomotives. This scheme is plain

FEATHER-BEDDING!

Leaders of the Firemen's union have called a nationwide strike starting with four great railroads on April 26. These railroads are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, and Southern.

The union claim that a second fireman is needed on grounds of safety is sheer hypocrisy. Safety has been dragged into this dispute only in an unsuccessful effort to give a cloak of respectability to vicious feather-bedding demands.

After a careful study of the first demands of this union, a Presidential Fact Finding Board on May 21, 1943, reported to President Roosevelt that there was no need for an extra fireman on diesel locomotives.

Again, on September 19, 1949, after a second hearing on the union leaders' demands, a second Board reported to President Truman that: "there presently exists no need for an additional fireman . . . upon either the ground of safety or that of efficiency and economy of operation."

Safety Record of Diesels is Outstandingly Good

Although the railroads accepted the Board findings, the union leaders have brazenly rejected them. They represent that an extra fireman is needed for "safety" reasons. Here's what the Board had to say on that point:

> "The safety and on-time performance of diesel electric locomotives operated under current rules have been notably good . . .
> "Upon careful analysis of the data submitted on safety, we have concluded that no valid reasons have been shown as a support for the Brotherhood proposal under which a fireman would be required to be at all times continuously in the cab of road diesels. The proposal must be rejected."

The real reason behind these demands is that the union leaders are trying to make jobs where there is no work. In other words, a plain case of "feather-bedding."

The railroads have no intention of yielding to these wasteful make-work demands.

"The Safety Record of Diesels is Outstandingly Good . . ."

Presidential Fact Finding Board Report

Read these excerpts from official reports of Presidential Fact Finding Boards:

> "The safety record of Diesels is outstandingly good, and it follows that the safety rules now applicable have produced good results."
> "The safety and on-time performance of Diesel-electric locomotives operated under current rules indicate that Diesel-electric operation has been safer than steam locomotive operation . . ."

Remember! These are not statements of the railroads. They are just a few of the many similar conclusions reached by President Truman's Fact Finding Board which spent months investigating the claims of the union leaders.

Hiway Department Warns Public About Trash on Roads

Gentlemen:

It has come to the attention of this Department that there has been a considerable increase during recent months in the amount of garbage, trash, and debris which is being dumped and thrown along the right-of-way of State Highways. It is believed that this situation has resulted mainly from thoughtless and careless action on the part of a few persons who have little or no regard for the interests of their community and state.

The objections to such practices are many and obvious. In the first place, the dumping of garbage and trash along our highways clutters and litters the area immediately adjacent to the pavement with a large variety of unsightly and unscenic objects. Such objects are displeasing to the eye of local travelers and tourists alike and create an unfavorable impression upon all who observe them. Moreover, the dumping of garbage and dead animals along the highways is a very unsanitary practice and often gives rise to unpleasant odors. Finally, rubbish and trash interferes with effective drainage and imposes an additional burden upon maintenance operations which seek to keep the roadways clean.

In addition to the practical objections stated above, the dumping or throwing of any rubbish within the limits of any public road is forbidden by law, the violation of which may subject the offender to a fine of not more than $50.00. Title 23, Section 131, Alabama Code of 1940, states as follows:

Whoever puts, throws, dumps, or leaves any tin can, old iron, brush, boxes, tools, machinery, vehicles, rubbish, brick, glass, glassware, glass bottles, glass jars, broken glass, broken glassware, or debris of any kind, or character whatsoever, in, upon or within the limits of any public highway, shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not exceeding fifty dollars.

It is the intention of this Department to seek to obtain strict enforcement of the above quoted statute. For this reason, I am writing you with the request that this letter be published in your newspaper in order that this matter may be brought to the attention of as many of our citizens as possible. The Alabama Highway Patrol and local law enforcement agencies are being asked to remain particularly alert to detect violators of this statute and to bring such offenders to trial.

It is believed that the above program will meet with the approval of every good citizen in this State. Your cooperation and the cooperation of every citizen in bringing an end to the use of our highways as public dumping grounds is respectfully solicited. Every citizen is invited to bring to the attention of this Department any information which may come into his possession regarding the violation of the above quoted statute.

Yours very truly,
WARD W. McFARLAND,
State Highway Director.

New Religious Cults Doing Immense Business in Japan

TOKYO, JAPAN.—Still booming are some 300 religious organizations in Japan as religion, following the war, is becoming even more topsy-turvy.

Buddhism and Shintoism are gradually recovering from their great loss of prestige following the surrender and Christianity is said to be spreading very slowly, despite the occupation.

It would appear that the tight money situation would discourage new cults, but it is very much otherwise. These new sects are doing a thriving business, attending the sick, advising disturbed businessmen and telling fortunes for the lovesick. Meanwhile, long-established churches are having trouble making both ends meet. Their followers either have deserted or have become impoverished.

The religious section in the ministry of education reports that the 42 prewar organizations have been joined by 300 newcomers and that registrations are continuously pouring in from all over the country. The newcomers are credited with a following of 12,000,000 persons.

The new religions are mostly mixtures of Buddhism and Shintoism. Their common characteristics are that the religious doctrines are simple and their founders are medium-like soothsayers. They stress the present world and do not distinguish much between clergy and laymen. They offer solutions for present ills such as sickness, poverty and crop trouble.

Most of the founders of the new religions know something about medicine, magic and fortune telling, and use this knowledge effectively.

Declares There Is No Middle Ground On States' Rights

Special. — Bruce Henderson stated today that the States' Rights issue will be met head-on. He doesn't say, "I am for States' Rights, but . . ." Bruce Henderson says, "I am for States' Rights! PERIOD!"

Henderson Author Or Co-Author Of Many State Bills

The Blood-test law, Pre-marital Blood-Test law, Mass X-ray for T.B. law, Regional T.B. Sanitary law, Early detection for cancer law, Early Classification for Malformations, two Education for Temperance bills — vetoed by the Governor, three Farm Fish Pond bills, 67 bills to close Open End Appropriations—vetoed by the Governor, Farm tractor gas refund law, Farm-to-market road law, Little Taft-Hartley law, Uniform truck load law, County Engineer law, Coliseum and Agricultural Center Board law, Lower coastal plain sub-station law, Artificial insemination for livestock law, Airport construction amendment, Aeronautics program law, Stadium construction law, are all bills either authored or co-authored by State Senator Bruce Henderson.

Henderson Offers The People Of Alabama Performance, Not Promises!

Special Release.—Bruce Henderson's capable record in the State Senate and as a business man makes him unquestionably a man of his word. His aim is to restore and preserve honest, progressive government and democratic decency.

BRUCE HENDERSON

Bruce Henderson Will Clean Up The ABC System

Special Release.—Bruce Henderson stated that he will go as far as the law will permit with any reasonable suggestion for cleaning up the ABC system, including the closing of honky-tonks, the elimination of crooked highjacking of political funds from those in the liquor business, and the elimination of costly and crooked agents acting as middle-men between the state and the distilleries. "I will comb the state for honest and able men willing to undertake the administration of this rotten mess we call the ABC system," he stated.

Henderson Is Scientific Farmer

Millers Ferry.—As a farmer, Bruce Henderson is unquestionably a progressive. He was one of the leaders in the trend toward livestock raising, which brought new prosperity to the Black Belt's rolling acres after the boll weevil had ruined them as cotton country. He was the first president of the Alabama Cattlemen's Association, is a member of the livestock committee of the American Farm Bureau.

Henderson Wants Economy, Efficiency In Alabama

Bruce Henderson believes in economy, but not economy of the pinch-penny type. He simply wants the governmental dollar expended for the greatest possible return.

35th Annual Convention Of Kiwanis At Miami May 7-11

Eight prominent leaders in business, government, education and religion have accepted invitations to address the 35th annual convention of Kiwanis International, May 7 to 11, at Miami.

This announcement was made recently by R. C. Williams, president of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, who said that advance indications pointed to an attendance of at least 10,000 from all sections of the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Yukon Territory.

Latest in the galaxy of nationally known figures to join the Kiwanis and castiny your ballot for me for convention program are Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration, and Rep. Walter H. Judd, Minneapolis, former Chinese medical missionary and recognized as one of the outstanding speakers in the Congress.

Others who will highlight the five-day meeting include Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson; General Carlos P. Romulo, president of the General Assembly of the United Nations; James M. (Jimmie) Fidler, Hollywood radio commentator; the Rev. Marshall R. Reed, bishop of the Methodist church in the Detroit, area; John Fisher, Toronto, widely known Canadian newspaperman, and J. Hugh Jackson, dean of tre graduate school of business at Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., and president of Kiwanis International.

Many other unusual features are being planned for the delegates, representing 3,100 clubs and 200,000 members, Mr. Williams said. Their wives, he added, also will be guests at a colorful program of entertainment events, beginning Monday, May 8, and continuing through Thursday, May 11.

The public probably will be invited to the Orange Bowl Wednesday evening, May 10, to see the "Main Feature Entertainment," a tradition of each Kiwanis convention. This year's outdoor pageant will take the form of a Tropical Fiesta with a cast that will number several hundred.

Local members who will attend are: R. C. Williams, Joe Campbell, Dent Williams, Will Gulledge, Leo Thompson, Cliff Jones, Simmie Scott, B. N. Studdard and Dock Levine.

Car Robe Collection Starts After Autoist Finds They're Rare

DELAVAN, WIS.—In 1922, Carl S. Ramsey decided he ought to have a car robe, inasmuch as he had purchased a car. So he began to search around in many places in order to get just what he wanted. But all those in stock were dark, drab, colorless affairs. Ramsey wanted something "flashy."

He could remember when the roads around here were used by Chicago millionaires and their ladies driving shining carriages drawn by sleek horses. Each of these buggies, he recalled, was equipped with lap robes—and those robes were something! Some were of red plush with pictures of horses. Some had tigers reclining in beds of roses. That, Ramsey decided, was just what he wanted.

He bought his first robe at an auction at Beloit. Then he found out that such robes were not being made any more. So, in case his first robe wore out, Ramsey looked about and bought a second one. Soon he had 10, then a dozen. Now he has 66 stored in eight mothball-packed trunks. There isn't a one in his car.

He says he isn't finished yet. Now he thinks he'd like to have 100, then he'd quit collecting lap robes and give the whole kit and caboodle to a museum.

Meanwhile, he drives around the southern part of the state paying particular attention to wash lines. When he sees a carriage robe airing on the line, Ramsey stops to dicker. He has paid from $2.50 to $25 for an old robe.

He explains: "Too many people collect stamps. That's no fun — it costs too much and it takes too much brainwork. Beer mugs the same way.

"It's different with lap robes . . ."

Girl Scout Says Training Saved Her in Lost Ordeal

LONGVIEW, WASH.—A lost Girl Scout, who had waited patiently in a wilderness cabin four chilly nights for her rescue, was finally found alive and well.

A physician said 16-year-old Ruth Aberle of nearby Kelso was not in any danger from her ordeal.

Ruth, herself, credited her Girl Scout training with keeping her alive until she was found. She remembered the coaching given Girl Scouts on what to do when lost—"find a sheltered place and wait for rescue."

She found an old 12 by 12 foot cabin, made herself a windbreak out of an old door, and just stayed there. She went only far enough away each day to drink creek water and see if anyone was around.

The four days of hunger seemed to have done little harm to the brown eyed girl. The Cowlitz general hospital here, where she was rushed for observation, said her condition was very good.

"I'm all right, mother," Ruth comforted as Mrs. William Aberle, tears streaming, leaned over the girl. "I'm all right; I'm happy now."

A Rose valley rancher, Charles F. Smith, came across the girl above Goble creek in the afternoon as she went down for a drink of water.

Man Is Starving Slowly As Hiccuping Unchecked

GLENDALE, CALIF. — Jack O'Leary, 24, hiccuping for the past 18 months, is slowly starving to death.

"It seems to be a race between starvation and the hiccups," said his mother, Mrs. Margaret O'Leary. "We're praying and hoping that something can be done, that somehow we can save Jack."

Jack's weight dropped from 120 pounds to 80 since he first started hiccuping after he suffered a burst appendix and peritonitis. Doctors said then that the infection affected nerves and muscles controlling his diaphragm, bringing on the hiccups.

His stomach retains food only for five minutes.

Ancient Monastery Found In Suburbs Near Cairo

CAIRO.—A 64-room monastery, believed to be of the Byzantine period, has been reported unearthed. It was found at Helwan, a suburb of this city, according to reports.

Dr. Zaky Saad, of the royal excavations, said it was a Coptic monastery and is believed to have housed many famous Egyptian historians.

Fragments of glass and pottery, as well as gold, silver, and bronze coins found on the site, show that the monastery was in use as early as the 8th century A.D. There is no evidence of the time when it was finally deserted.

It is believed that this is the monastery mentioned by the Arab historians Sbu Salih and El Shaboshty, who state that Caliph Abdel Aziz Ibn Marawan stayed at a monastery in Halwan during an illness.

To the north of the monastery are the remains of small red brick canals, obviously used for irrigating gardens there. To the south is a cemetery containing 36 tombs, of which 15 are intact. The bodies were wrapped in cloth, completely decayed, and nothing was left of the coffins but pieces of rusted iron.

This cemetery was obviously the burial place of monks, as all the bodies recovered are those of men. With one of the bodies was a flat rectangle of ivory, bearing a Coptic inscription, but it was too decayed to be deciphered.

This Is Novel Joke Twist In Radio Give-Away History

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO. — There is a new trend in "practical joking" that's giving radio give-away programs a bad jolt.

A local housewife reported that she received a phone call purportedly from a radio station. An unidentified voice offered her $100 for the best suggestion on "how to tame your wife." She said she quickly replied, "Why, spanking, of course."

The voice then repeated the promise of $100 if she would have her husband spank her loud enough to be heard over the phone. Eager to win the $100, she called in a neighbor to administer the spanking because her husband wasn't home.

When the spanked housewife called the radio station to arrange to collect the $100 prize, she was told the whole thing must have been a hoax, as the station hadn't offered any such prize.

FIFTH SUNDAY MEETING

Next Sunday, April 30th, the Lord willing, we will hold our third meeting of this kind. We will meet this time with Mt. Pleasant Church, four miles northwest of Clanton and expect a large crowd. If you haven't attended one of the meetings before, you had better come. We are trying to revive the old-time fifth Sunday district meetings of the Baptist churches that our fathers told us about: "Where Brethren dwell together in unity, and harmony and fellowship abound."

The preachers that have to preach every Sunday gets as hungry for the Gospel as anyone else. So this will be a good time for those who can, to come and get a good spiritual feast.

There will be two sermons in the morning and two in the afternoon by some as good preachers, I think, as we have in Chilton County. There will also be plenty of good Gospel singing. So come out and spend the day. Those who can, bring your lunch and all spread dinner.

Bro. Arthur Headley will have charge of the devotional at 9:30, followed by the first speaker at ten; another at 11 o'clock, 1:15 and at 2:15.

Major League Baseball Brought To Chilton County

For the first time since it went on the air in 1947, Radio Station WKLF is now bringing to the citizens of Central Alabama major league baseball every afternoon of the week with a double header on Sunday.

This announcement was made the first of the week by Bob Taber, manager of the local station, after he had signed the contract for the full major league season with the Liberty Broadcasting System, Inc., of Dallas, Tex.

"Although Liberty is a comparatively new radio network, Taber said, it boasts one of the best play-by-play baseball broadcasters in the industry. The Liberty Broadcasting System was first organized on an experimental basis in 1948 with a total of only 55 radio stations. Last year Liberty extended it's operations to more than one hundred radio stations in 13 states and has grown to some 300 stations during 1950."

Taber went on to point out that today Liberty is the fifth largest major radio network in the nation. "We here at WKLF are more than proud to offer the programs of this young, but aggressive radio network to the people of Central Alabama and hope that before the year ends that we will be offering many more shows from the full program schedule of the Liberty Broadcasting System," Taber said. The baseball broadcasts begin each day at approximately 12:30 p.m., except yhere previous committments have already been made and it was impossible to change them. Taber pointed out that these committments would only hinder the baseball broadcasts through the first of the week.

At the same time Taber was making the baseball announcement, Paul Reid, program director of WKLF, announced the following program changes that will take place immediately as necessitated by the carrying of the baseball broadcasts.

The Auburn Daily News, which is usually heard each day at 12:30 p.m., will be moved back to 12:15. "Southland Spirituals" will be heard Monday through Saturday at 10:45 a.m., The Liberty Hill Quartet will be heard at a new time each Sunday at 9:15 a.m., with Rev. Aplin at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday, Rev. Gentry, of Prattville, will be heard at 10 o'clock each Sunday morning, The Sunny South Quartet will broadcast their songs each Sunday afternoon at 5:00 p.m., and the well-known "Concert For Pleasure," with Jon Will Pitts and Henry Grady Heflin, Jr., will be heard each Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock. "Tag Time" has moved over to the baseball broadcasts and the news usually heard each day at 12:15 p.m., has been moved back to 7:55 each morning.

Mr. Reid pointed out that with the broadcasting of baseball by the Liberty Broadcasting System over WKLF that the whole program schedule of the local station has been strengthened immeasurably. He further stated that with the baseball broadcasts on WKLF it will give the radio station a much wider and larger radio audience.

Builders of Clanton ONE OF A SERIES

Mr. M. L. Brown, our present street maintenance man is literally speaking, a real Builder of Clanton. It goes undisputed that he has worked wonders with the streets and sidewalks of Clanton for the past three years.

Mr. Brown was born at Pleasant Grove in this county in 1898, and has lived here since except for a few years he has worked outside the county.

He worked with such construction companies as Newell Const. Co. and Lamb and McLemore. He spent 13 of his 52 years building roads for the State Highway Department. In 1947 he came back home and took a position with the City. The results on our streets tell the story of what he has accomplished since.

He married Myrtle Traywick who lived in the Shiloh Community and they have three children—two daughters and one son. The oldest is Mrs. Fred C. White of Cullman. The other daughter married Dr. W. O. Young of Milledgeville, Ga.

M. L. Brown, Jr., is in the United States Air Corps, and is stationed at San Antonio, Texas. All are college graduates and their Dad is proud of them. He admits partiality to the son, however.

So long as Mr. Brown is employed by the City our streets will improve. He is truly a builder and knows what he is doing.

He has made his place as a Builder of Clanton.

Election Returns Broadcast Over Loudspeaker From Courthouse Tuesday Night

With election night less than a week off, the management of Radio Station WKLF is working overtime in an effort to bring state-wide election returns to the people of Chilton County.

Plans for the give out of the election returns were announced jointly this week by Leo Thompson, Bob Windham and Bob Taber. The returns will be sponsored by the Clanton Laundry, the City Grill and the local radio station as a public service to the people of Chilton County.

The state-wide gathering of the returns will be received at the Chilton County courthouse beginning about 8:30 election night and will continue through midnight. Loud speakers will be set up both inside and outside the courthouse so that the public can either relax in their cars outside or are invited to come inside the courthouse to hear the returns.

The joint announcement of the public service stated that special arrangements have been made with Radio Station WAPI, Birmingham, to furnish the returns. These returns will be prepared by The Birmingham Post and it's state-wide news gathering facilities, and the facilities of both the United Press and the Associated Press, as well as the facilities of The Birmingham radio Station.

It was further understood that expert news analysts from The Birmingham Post and WAPI will be giving a running commentary of the election returns and it's expected that several of the candidates will also be interviewed.

Mr. Thompson, Mr. Windham and Mr. Taber have issued a blanket invitation to the general public to come to the Chilton County Courthouse on election night and get the first-hand election returns as they are reported by the counting agencies from throughout the whole state. At the same time local returns will be given out as often and as quickly as possible after they are tabulated.

When this change was attempted a mass meeting was called at the courthouse and Mr. Cox stated at the time that he would introduce the Bill only if the people authorized him to. Mr. Cox has never advocated abolishing the Commissioners Court for a Board of Revenue, not withstanding the fact that the bill was advertised twice—he refused to pass either.

Mr. Cox further stated that he would suggest the Merchants Association appoint a committee to work with the legislature and he will cooperate with them in any way to pass a sales tax bill satisfactory to the retail merchants of Alabama.

ONLY CHOICE

The people of Alabama have one of three choices.

FIRST, join the Republicans.

SECOND, follow the Dixiecrats into a splinter party.

THIRD, stay with the National Democratic Party.

We cannot join the Republican Party. That is the Party that sent armies to rule over us; that imposed on us the first civil rights legislation known as the Force Bills; that has fought the development of Southern industry; and has in general battled against the South's interests.

Neither can we afford to follow the Dixiecrats into a splinter party and thereby lose all the influence we now hold in fighting for those things that help Alabama, and against those things that harm us. Alabama would cease to have an effective voice if we should follow the leadership of the Dixiecrats.

The only wise choice then is to stay with the National Democratc Party—the Party of Jefferson, Jackson, Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt; that is, the Party that our forefathers founded and nurtured, and to which Alabama has belonged since it became a State more than 125 years ago.

It is the Democratic Party that has helped Alabama and the South to become an equal partner with other sections of the country. The TVA that has brought thousands of new industries to us, that has made farm life much easier and that has increased our people's income more rapidly than that of any other part of the United States was given to us by the Democratic Party. It is the Democratic Party that has brought electricity to our farmers through the REA programs. Before REA, only about 6% of Alabama's farmers had electricity, today about 80% have electricity and we are moving rapidly toward the day when every farm will be electrified.

Every person in Alabama who has any money in the banks is safe from loss because of the insurance Corporation. Never again can we be threatened with the Bank failures of the 30's. This security has been given to our people by the Democratic Party.

The GI Bill of rights which has been as widely used in Alabama, if not more so than by any other State, is a Democratic measure. It has enabled thousands of our veterans to secure homes, to go to school, and to get training that enabled them to make their own way in life and to be better citizens of this country. Farm programs, such as price support for cotton and peanuts, soil conservation helps, and expansion of farm experiments to teach better ways of farming, are among the more important farm measures that the Democratic Party has made possible.

Old age pensions, aid to the dependent and the blind, and many other measures, more helpful to Alabama and to the South than to any other part of the country, have been measures of the National Democratic Party.

The Democratic Party has done these things for the South because it has been a National Party in which Southern members have had strong influence and power. Southern members have had, and still have, key positions in committees. Every bill introduced in Congress is referred to an appropriate committee, which usually holds life or death power over that bill. It is these key positions held by Southerners in the Democratic Party that enables Southern Democrat members to fight so effectively for legislation that helps the South.

William B. Bankhead was Speaker of the House, and the late John H. Bankhead was probably the most powerful single Senator in Congress. These two men exercised tremendous influence, not as splinter party members, but as members of the Democratic Party. Senator Hill was able to get through the Hill-Burton Hospital Act, to get through the Senate Federal aid to education, to have passed the Rural Telephone Bill, and other important measures because of his influence within the National Democratic Party. Senator Sparkman is a leading member of the Senate in the field of housing, he is Chairman of the Senate Housing Committee and he holds this position within the Democratic Party. Likewise, he is a member of the committee that handles road legislation, also a member of the Small Business Committee. One of Alabama's Congressmen is a member of the Agriculture Committee. Another is a member of the Appropriations Committee which determines the amount of money that is going to be spent, and for which projects it will be spent. These men will lose their positions of influence if we should follow the Dixiecrats into a Splinter Party.

Senator Eastland of Mississippi is Chairman of the Subcommittee that handles FEPC and other Civil Rights legislation. Senator Stennis is a member of the Rules Committee that acts on poll tax. Senator George of Georgia is Chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee. You can go down the list of Southern Democrats, one by one, and you can find that in nearly every single instance they hold key committee positions. They hold these positions because of their membership in the National Democratic Party. Everyone of those positions would be lost if we should follow the Dixiecrats into a splinter party.

It is within the Democratic Party that we have defeated the so-called civil rights legislation. There has been no civil rights bill passed since the Democrats regained control of the South following the Reconstruction days and yet, civil rights legislation has been a part of the platform of the Republican Party ever since the 1860's, and for the most part, has been in the platform of the Democratic Party. Today is not the first time we have been threatened with civil rights legislation, but the important thing to remember is that it has always been Southern Democrats working within the Democratic Party that defeated such legislation. We would lose all our effectiveness in this fight if we should follow the lead of the Dixiecrats into a splinter party.

Certainly the Republicans want civil rights legislation. This Party forced such legislation on the South following the Civil War, and our people have not forgot the horrible ordeals thru which we went before the Democrats were able to regain political power. The Republican Party has never been a friend of the South. Members of that Party have exploited the South and have fought against practically every constructive measure in Congress that would help the South. Senator Wherry, the Republican leader, pledged enough votes just a few days ago to break the cloture rule through which Southern Democrats expect to defeat civil rights legislation.

There was a News item in The Birmingham-Age Herald on April 13 to the effect that Senator Taft of Ohio was insisting that the Senate take up FEPC.

Yet the Dixiecrats would nullify our power to defeat civil rights legislation under the false pretense that the way to do so is to form a splinter party or to line up with the Republicans. The Chairman of the National Republican Party gleefully announced a few days ago that he had conferred with high Dixiecrat officials about working out a kind of alliance. Since that time leaders of his own party have repudiated such relationship, frankly acknowledging that it could get nowhere. This is further proof of the futility of following the Dixiecrats into a splinter party.

Members of a Dixiecrat Splinter Party would have absolutely no influence on legislation. The whole history of splinter parties proves this to be true. Today there is only one member of a splinter party in Congress—Vito Marcantonio—a left wing member from New York. He holds no legislation committee assignment and his influence is practically nil. That is exactly the position our Senators and Congressmen would be in.

This country has grown great under a two-party system. The people have been able to place party responsibility. If they become dissatisfied with one party, they can turn to the other party. The results of splinter parties are weakness and instability of Government. France is a good example of a splinter party government in which rule is made possible only by a coalition of parties. Usually, several times each year the Government of France is over-thrown and a new Government has to be formed. This makes for uncertainty and weakness. It makes much easier infiltration by communists. Today, one-third of the members of the French Government are communists. The same kind of uncertainty and the same kind of disaster would befall this country were we to form splinter parties. And the inevitable result, if we follow the Dixiecrats, would be a splinter party with all its resultant ills.

These Dixiecratic leaders have appropriated the name of States Righters. What a mis-use of that important word! Of course, we are all for states rights—we are against the Truman civil rights program and much of the balance of his proposed legislation. So this is not a fight between States Righters and Democrats. It is a fight to remain within the Democratic Party so that we can more effectively fight for states rights principles and so that we can defeat the civil rights legislation and any other proposals that would harm Alabama and the South.

Remember that these very same Dixiecrats, so-called States Righters, are by and large the same people who tried to lead Alabama out of the Democratic Party and into the Republican Party in 1928. They were defeated then and they are trying now to lead us down a path that would be even more dangerous.

There has always been differences in the Democratic Party, just as there has always been differences in any other major party. The Democratic Party is big enough to settle these differences within the Party. The compromises that have been reached and the give and take among us account in a great measure for the constructive programs which have characterized the Democratic Party. It would be foolish to weaken the Party now just because there may be some of its officers that we do not like. There will be a change in the officers, but the Democratic Party will continue to live because it is bigger than any member of it.

Let us resolve then to stay with the Party and make it the kind of party we want it to be. Let us stay with the party that claims such great leaders as Andrew Jackson, Thomas Jefferson, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

This is the Party that Senator Russell, whom southern delegates voted for at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia, says that he is going to stay with. This is the Party that Senator Byrd, the watchdog of the Treasury, and Senator Robertson of Virginia, have announced that they will stick by. It is the Party that Jimmy Byrns, the ex-Secretary of State and a candidate for Governor of South Carolina says that he will stay with and fight from within against the things to which he objects. It is the Party that Senator Maybank, Chairman of the powerful Senate Banking and Currency Committee, and Senator Johnson, Chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee, pronounced their allegiance. It is the Party in which Senator McKellar of Tennessee of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee and Senator Tom Connally of Texas, head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, will remain.

It is the only choice for the people of Alabama!

Visiting The Sick

For twenty-nine years that I have been in the Gospel ministry serving as pastor and evangelist it has been my work to visit in the homes of sick people, and in the hospitals at the bed side of the sick and dying. I have always thought that it was my duty as a minister of the Gospel to visit the sick and suffering and dying.

A. T. HICKMAN

To this duty and conviction I have tried to do. But I will agree that it takes lots of time and patience, as well as sympathy, to visit the sick; and at times I have wondered was it all worth while anyway? Some appreciate the service and some seem not to appreciate it. And as a pastor I have at times questioned myself, saying, "Is it worth it?" "Does my visit in the homes of the sick and suffering, and at the bed side of the sick and dying in the hospitals mean anything?"

Well, last week I was all-in with a strained back; not able to get out of the bed, much less out of the house. I have never appreciated the bed only at night. I love the out-door life. I lay on my bed and listened at the birds singing their Springtime songs. I heard the school children passing by on their way to the house of learning. I looked out of my window as the cars would go whizzing by, some with fishing poles tied onto them; and there I lay, unable to even turn over in bed. Then a knock at the door. Who would it be? Some one who believed in visiting those who are suffering and sick. Some time my room was circled around within with friends who had come to "pay back" some of those visits. While my friends were sitting in my room I forgot the song of the bird, the cars with fishing poles tied onto them no longer attracted my attention. The visit of friends meant more to me.

Now I know that it is worth while to visit the sick and the suffering. I promise this, I shall always visit them when and where it is possible. Now I know what it means to take a little sunshine in where it is most needed. Jesus said, "I was sick, and ye visited me." "For inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Friend, let us not forget to visit the sick.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I darn stockings and socks more efficiently?

A. Darn the stockings diagonally across the weave, and the darn will give as the stocking stretches, preventing holes from appearing around the darn. Stockings can be more effectively darned at night over a lighted flashlight.

Q. How can I clean plaster walls?

A. Use a solution of curd or laundry soap in lukewarm water, and scrub the spots and stains until they disappear; then sponge with clean water.

Q. How can I make a skin whitener?

A. An application of equal parts of rose water and lemon juice makes a good skin whitener.

Q. How can I take proper care of the wash wringer?

A. When finished using the wringer, wet a piece of cloth with kerosene and rub the rollers thoroughly. It will clean and whiten them. Give them this treatment every week after washing.

Q. How can I clean alabaster ornaments?

A. The best method is to immerse them for a length of time in milk of lime, made by mixing a little slaked lime in water, followed by washing in clean water; and when dry, dust with French chalk.

Q. How can I treat ferns that have white specks on the leaves?

A. Spray them with a solution of white oil soap. Be sure that the solution reaches all portions of the leaf.

Q. How can I make a good fruit punch?

A. Mix one cup of pineapple juice and one and one-fourth cups of white grape juice. Add two cups of water and sweeten to taste. Then pour into large bowl, add one quart of raspberry ice, and serve.

Q. How can I purify the air in the refrigerator?

A. By keeping a saucer of powdered charcoal in the refrigerator and renewing every couple of weeks, the odors will be absorbed and the air purified.

Q. How can I relieve soft corns?

A. A treatment that is often effective is the use of camphor on absorbent cotton placed between the toes.

Q. How can I remove insects from vegetables when washing?

A. Put a little vinegar or a pinch of borax into the water. This will bring the live insects to the surface of the water almost immediately.

Q. How can I remove dampness from a closet or cupboard?

A. Place a saucerful of quicklime in the closet or cupboard. This not only absorbs all dampness, but also acts as a disinfectant.

BALDNESS

The reason the hair falls out, leaving the scalp bald, is not known. Many theories have been advanced, but thus far there is no proof to substantiate them. Heredity seems to be a factor in baldness, for it has been noticed in family generations, and, in particular, affecting the male sex.

Certain diseases accompanied with a high fever play a role in the "falling out" of hair. This is usually a temporary loss with the hair growing again just as it did before the illness. Bald patches are also noticed frequently with boils, carbuncles, and some accidental injuries when the scalp has been scraped.

Each hair grows from a bud or root known as a papilla, about a quarter of an inch below the surface of the skin. That is why it is good to stimulate the circulation beneath the skin by rubbing the scalp with the finger tips. There is, however, no medical proof that the growth of hair can be restored.

Dandruff is a dry, scale-like substance that accumulates on the scalp of the victim. This unpleasant condition is identified with an overactivity of the sebaceous or oil glands. Since dry and falling hair are suggestive of a physical disturbance, it is wise to have an examination to rule out any internal condition.

Cleanliness of the hair is essential in the care of the scalp. Even when the hair is light and fine, odors will cling to it as will dust. Brushing of the hair helps to keep it clean as does washing at regular intervals. Singeing the hair is not beneficial.

If the hair is dry and unmanageable, the application of a little oil or grease will keep it in place. However, this application does not nourish the hair. True nourishment of the hair comes from within. If the internal machinery of the body is in good working order, so that food is properly assimilated and distributed, necessary fuel or nourishment is provided.

Since baldness is associated with many different factors, such as inefficient glands, heredity, injuries and certain systemic conditions, it is evident that many causes are involved. More study and research are required to make the diagnosis and treatment of the condition an uncomplicated procedure.

Mr. Neal Harrell and his crew of workers are doing a swell job of road improvements throughout their district. They are building up roadbeds, cutting vines, trees and bushes along their roads. Your reporter followed the Motorcycle Woods Run recently and had the real pleasure of seeing and enjoying driving over two or three of these roads. The West Chilton Road is certainly a wonderful improvement as well as the road leading down by the Old Charlie Walker home and beyond the Clarence Latham property. The swamp just below the Clarence Latham property has been impassable at times, but Mr. Tarrell has this road in good shape now. I know that the people living along these roads feel proud that they have a good road and are grateful to Mr. Harrell for seeing their need of improvements. Cars from Texas, Georgia, and all parts of Alabama were on these two roads and commended our cimmissioner and his workers on these roads. Well done, Mr. Commissioner and all the gang.

WIN WITH WOOTEN

L. W. Wooten will be elected State Senator from the 15th senatorial District (composed of Autauga, Chilton and Shelby Counties) because he is capable, efficient and has the confidence of the people. He stands for a sound, safe government and believes in the following:

EDUCATION

The youth of our state is our greatest asset and we must give them an opportunity for an education. To do this we must have well trained teachers. To attract the kind of teachers we need, and want, we will have to pay salaries comparable to other vocations that require special training. We cannot expect our teachers to continue their work through loyalty and love of their profession. Furthermore, our transportation for school children is inadequate and, in many cases, unsafe—this situation should be remedied.

SOCIAL WELFARE

This is a function of state and local government that is not taken care of in an adequate manner. Additional funds must be appropriated and he feels sure that the distribution of present funds can be improved.

AGRICULTURE

Has always been and will continue to be the back bone of our state economy. As far as production is concerned, great progress has been made, but getting these products to the consumer is too expensive. This needs attention and study. One remedy is to encourage industry to locate in Alabama, to bring a better balance between agriculture and industry and widen our local markets.

LABOR

Should have the right to organize and bargain collectively, and be protected in this right.

INDUSTRY

Alabama is enriched with natural resources of raw material and the state should invite and encourage the location of new industries in the state, and assure the present ones that they are welcome through wise legislation.

PRISON AND PAROLE SYSTEM

This system needs overhauling in Alabama. He thinks that our youth, and first offenders should not be confined in our prison camps with old and hardened criminals. We have the facilities to carry this out and should be forced to do so by law. By doing this we can rehabilitate many that now are being taught how to be bigger criminals. Our parole system should be taken out of politics.

LOCAL SELF GOVERNMENT

He believes that the closer you can keep self-government to the people, the better off and happier everyone will be.

ROADS

Highways and public road construction should be continued within our ability to pay for same, but not to mortgage our future. L. W. Wooten realizes that it will be necessary to increase appropriations to some departments in order to gain the above improvements, but that enough money can be saved by economy and consolidation to meet this additional expenditure.

HOLTVILLE RIVERSIDE BAPTIST CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED

The Holtville Riverside Baptist Church in Elmore County will have its dedicational services the fifth Sunday, April 30th (next Sunday). The church was organized September 11th last year with eight charter members. The Rev. M. Lockhart was called as full-time pastor and moved on the field October 1st. The membership has grown to 23. The church has a wide-awake Sunday School, Training Union and W.M.U. Three deacons were ordained April 16.

Mr. Morris Sanders, one of the deacons, gave the plot of ground on which a nice block church now stands. The church is amply provided with educational departments underneath with rest rooms.

The church, however small, has a wonderful spirit of cooperation and non-members have also lended their support both in cash and labor. The cost of the building is about $9,000.00.

The dedicational program is well planned. The Bible class in the Sunday School will be taught by Judge Oakley W. Melton; Dr. S. J. Ezell is scheduled to bring the morning message; Rev. J. W. Lester and Mr. E. A. Herron will bring the afternoon messages; The Vickery Family and the T. L. Collier quartets and others will render special numbers during the day. Mr. Marion W. Easterling, T. E. Wyatt and others are also expected to be with us.

The church is located on the Wetumpka-Holtville Highway, seven miles out of Wetumpka on Highway 111. You cannot miss it. Come and spend the day with us.

Skunk Goes to His Grave Keeping Tub-Entry Secret

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.—Robert K. Carter built a new home here. Several weeks after he moved into it, he heard strange tapping sounds on the bottom of his bathtub. He sent for the contractor.

The contractor said, "Forget it—the tub is set in concrete."

The Carters would have been willing, but they couldn't forget it for the reason that the tapping continued. Mr. and Mrs. Carter would crouch outside the bathroom door and then leap suddenly inside. Nothing was visible, but the tapping was audible.

Carter was studying his bathtub one evening when a piece of tile no bigger than a nickel popped up like a tiddly-wink. In the tiny hole there appeared a black nose.

Carter baited a rat trap near by and retired to his post outside the door.

Peeping in, Carter observed what was unmistakably a skunk's head emerging from the hole. The skunk couldn't get out and shortly retired under the bathtub.

A new tenseness came on the scene now and the atmosphere became—one of the olfactory anticipation—a disquieting thing for new homeowners.

A game warden was on hand finally with a plan to dispose of the skunk. An access door for getting at the plumbing was opened and bait was placed in the bathroom. A board was thoughtfully slanted from floor to window—on this the skunk was to walk to freedom. The skunk sampled the bait and returned to his hole.

The next day the skunk did not emerge on any inducement.

At the suggestion of unidentified experts, a cagelike rabbit trap was set and at last the skunk walked into the trap.

When the skunk was taken to the woods and shot, he took with him the secret of how he got under the bathtub.

Church Items—

All who attended worship service at the Baptist Church last Sunday morning and evening enjoyed the wonderful sermon by Rev. George Bagley, of Montgomery, Ala., our State Baptist Training Union Secretary.

After the worship service, a business meeting was held to call a pastor for the church. Rev. Evan Johnson was called by secret ballot. By standing vote he was called for an indefinite time. Rev. Johnson is from Alexander City, Ala., and is a recent graduate of the Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky. He is very highly recommended as a devout Christian young man, a good worker for the Lord, a fine preacher. He will need the cooperation of all the members.

What kind of a Christian are we? Tired Christians! Will work if coaxed to do so; but will complain so much while working that the joy is all taken out of service.

Retired Christians? We believe we have done our share, and sit idly by; we are spectators—usually the critics, too.

Rubber-tired Christians? We demand a smooth road. Everything must be so-so, or we refuse.

Flat-tired Christians? Once active and faithful, but suffered a puncture and have never recovered our wind. We need to be refilled."—Copied.

As they met here for their noon day check, the mayor, Mr. McCain, graciously allowed the riders to use the town hall for their work. They had lunch here at the local cafes. Four trophies were awarded to the four high point winners. Sorry we failed to get names.

Maplesville continues to be in a political uproar. Promises to the aged, promises to the teachers, promises to the veterans, promises to the farmers, in fact, promises to everyone.

Can these promises be fulfilled? So far they haven't been, usually all the rural roads gets worked just before election.

Welcome visitors recently to Maplesville were Rev. and Mrs. Clayton Gilbert of Tuscaloosa, Ala., former pastor here. They didn't forget the sick friends they left when they moved away. Their many friends here are always happy to see them.

Mental Expert Asserts Men Are Overworked

NEW YORK.—Anyone who pursues his quest long enough is sure to find a psychologist somewhere that will support almost any belief that may be trotted out.

For instance, take that old wistful, masculine feeling that it's really the man of the family who does all the work, while mamma does the playing. Most men would say that it's no use to try to convince the "little woman" of that, and have long since given up the effort—but Dr. George Lawton, a specialist in the psychological problems of people who are getting along in years (as who isn't?) is convinced that such is the case.

With trepidation or apology he told a mixed audience at Cooper Union that "women in the middle income brackets tend to do less work than they should," and he added, equally as boldly, "and their husbands do more work than they should."

Should Share Work

Looking the mixed audience squarely in the eye—there is, in such cases, safety in numbers—the psychologist went on: "In such cases, a wife, in order to help her husband enjoy life more and perhaps even live longer, should help share her husband's work load and share his economic and mental burdens."

Man, the doctor (a man) said, is really not the stronger half of the species. In fact papa has more severe emotional illnesses, more physical illnesses and lives on the average eight years less than his wife. (Lawton also mentioned that men have a higher suicide, delinquency and alcoholism rate, but it might be just as well not to inject that into the argument.)

"Men, both in the realm of employment and in sexual performance, face more dramatic crisis indicative of aging," the psychologist went on. "The dividing line between the first and last half of life in men and women is very much sharper for the man."

Many Men Overworked

Declaring that it's more difficult for men to "age successfully," Dr. Lawton declared that as a male got older he had to "exchange speed and quantity for strategy, skill and quality."

"Many a tired businessman is tired because he is overworking as an escape from close emotional relationships with his wife and members of his family," he said.

"A good husband will provide most women with the greater part of the things that they need out of life for fulfillment, but a modern woman needs even more than her home, a husband and children in order to have a complete sense of purpose and intellectual stimulation.

"Every woman, regardless of her financial situation, needs a part time job, community activities and some creative outlet."

ERYSIPELAS TAKES ON VARIED FORMS

Many fine droves of swine are ruined because owners delay in finding out just what is wrong with their hogs.

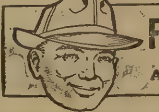
For example, two or three lame pigs in a drove or a few with big leg joints, curling ears or bob tails may not seem at all serious. But more often than not, these simple symptoms may be the outward signs of a herd infection caused by germ-borne swine erysipelas—and a sudden flare with serious losses may follow.

A case of erysipelas

Swine erysipelas, perhaps more often than almost any other livestock disease, may appear in a masked or so-called "atypical" form. It can kill a pig without the animal having appeared sick. Or, it may cause an affected hog to linger on for months without normal gain or growth. And the disease is further confusing because some outbreaks of erysipelas may look much like true hog cholera.

Of course, the answer to cholera and erysipelas are entirely different. In some localities cholera may not have appeared for years, whereas erysipelas may be a more or less recurring problem. Yet hog cholera can jump over wide distances very unexpectedly. And, when that happens, the farmer who makes a quick conclusion that the disease is erysipelas, is in for some very serious losses. Similarly, if cholera is supected, and erysipelas is the real offender, the losses can be heavy.

There is only one safe rule when symptoms appear, like those mentioned above. A prompt veterinary diagnosis can determine the true condition, and help save needless deaths.



Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

Anaplasmosis—Cattle Killer

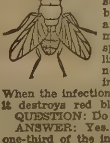
QUESTION: What is this strange-sounding disease "anaplasmosis", and how serious is it?

ANSWER: A blood disease of cattle which is spreading slowly throughout the country. Veterinarians say it's the third most costly cattle disease in America.

QUESTION: How does it affect cattle?

ANSWER: The heart beats faster, the skin may get yellowish, milk production falls off; the animal gets listless and loses weight rapidly. A laboratory blood test often shows the dot-like parasite in red blood cells.

QUESTION: What causes anaplasmosis?

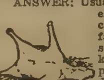


ANSWER: A tiny parasite which is sometimes carried by flies, mosquitoes and ticks. Anaplasmosis may also be spread by unsterilized vaccination needles and dehorning instruments. When the infection is well established it destroys red blood cells.

QUESTION: Do cattle die from it?

ANSWER: Yes. From one-fifth to one-third of the infected animals die. The ones that don't die remain carriers of the disease parasites.

QUESTION: What should the owner do with cattle that recover?



ANSWER: Usually, because recovered animals are carriers, it's best to fatten them, and send them to market, but that depends upon the local disease conditions. The meat and milk from these animals is safe for human consumption.

QUESTION: Is it a summertime disease?

ANSWER: Usually, although it may appear during the winter in regions with mild climates. Also, it is mostly a disease of mature animals; young calves seldom get it.

QUESTION: Is there a vaccine available?

ANSWER: No, but research veterinarians are attempting to develop one. Also, they are using several drugs for treating the disease, but they have not yet found one that is entirely satisfactory. Many infected animals can be saved, however, if treatment is started soon enough.

NOTE—Due to space limitations, general questions cannot be handled by this column.

Statement From Charlie Cox

To the Voters of Chilton County:

This will be the last opportunity that I will have to address the voters in the May 2 Primary. As you know, I am a candidate for re-election as a member of the Legislature from Chilton County. I have tried to see all of the voters, as far as I could, but know that there will be some whom I have not been able to see personally. I wish to express my appreciation for the voters and confidence that the people of Chilton County have given me in the past, and wish to express teh hope that I may receive your vote and influence on May 2.

I think that my record of eight years in the Legislature should speak for itself. I have held positions of power by way of committee appointments, having been, for eight years, a member of the Rules Committee of the House, the most powerful committee in the Legislature. I have been able to secure many benefits for Chilton County, among which are the securing of $35,000.00 of Federal Aids funds for an Armory, two fire towers for this County at a cost of $15,000.00, the Horticultural Experiment Station, with the aid of the Commissioners of Chilton County, at a cost of some $60,000.00, with an appropriation of $12,000.00 annual maintenance and operation, and in addition to this, I think that I can fairly say that I have been instrumental in securing the benefits under the Farm-To-Market paved road system, and improvements by way of paved roads in this County.

I have always voted for old-age pensions and supported every bill that has come before the House to aid the old folks.

Education has always found me ready to back every constructive movement by the department and I have always voted "Yes" on matters where the good of our children was involved.

There have been many false rumors started against me and may be others, but there is one rumor and charge that has been made that I wish to answer. I have not been in favor of a bill to abolish the Commissioners Court and to establish a Board of Revenue, and I am not in favor of it now, and will not pass such a bill. I submit to the people of Chilton County that I have had two opportunities to pass such a bill and have refused to do it. I think this is a full answer to any question of that kind.

In conclusion, I desire to say that I believe that if I am re-elected as a member of the Legislature, that I will be in a position, in the Legislature, with the Governor's office, and with the State Highway Department, to render invaluable service to the citizens of Chilton County.

Respectfully yours,
C. B. COX.

'Talking' Tomcat Declines To Converse With Newsmen

BALTIMORE, MD.—Dr. Clara B. Fishpaugh, retired college professor, has a big black tomcat named Kiki. She and the cat get along very well. In fact, she says, she and the cat hold frequent conversations.

According to Dr. Fishpaugh, Kiki first talked about four years ago. She says she had brought him some lamb kidneys and informed the cat that a "Mr. Will" had sent them.

Dr. Fishpaugh says she asked Kiki if the cat didn't think he should thank Mr. Will for the kidneys.

"Kiki distinctly replied 'yeah,'" says Dr. Fishpaugh.

Since that time, so the story goes, the cat's vocabulary increased enormously. Dr. Fishpaugh says that often on hot days, Kiki will come crawling home, collapse on a cushion and remark that he's "aw in."

It seems Kiki lost his patience when told about a cat which could warble "Silent Night," warbled a few notes himself, as though there was nothing to it.

However, when Dr. Fishpaugh and Kiki held a press conference at which the aim was to demonstrate Kiki's talents as a conversationalist, the cat uttered not a single word.

Persons And Hamm In Run-Off For Governor

Boozer, Henderson, Sparks Follow In That Order

Gordon Persons took the lead from the start in the race for governor Tuesday night and maintained it throughout the balloting. Hamm, Boozer, Henderson, Sparks, followed in the order named and unless late boxes change the picture materially the run-off will be made by Persons and Hamm.

In the local race it looks like Luther Kendrick will be spared a run-off in the offices having three contestants or more. Tom Phillips also has a lead of some 600 votes over his two opponents in the Senatorial District of Shelby, Chilton and Autauga.

Latest totals in the governor's race before going to press are: Persons 85,315, Hamm 32,539, Boozer 25,305, Henderson 24,959, Sparks 17,033, Connor 14,383, Bell 12,176, Newton 9,728, Money 5,843, Gordon 4,307, Stapp 4,051, DuBose 1,811, Dement 1,617, and Farnell 400.

DISABLED VETERANS MAKE MEMORIAL POPPIES

Making memorial poppies to be worn in honor of the war dead on Poppy Day, May 27th, is providing employment for thousands of disabled veterans in hospitals throughout the country. The work not only enables the veterans to earn much needed money, but also is valuable as occupational therapy. Mrs. L. A. Lambert, president of the American Legion Auxiliary Chilton County Unit No. 6, said.

Poppies which will be worn here are being made by patients at the Veterans' Hospital in Montgomery, under the direction of the Volunteer Hospital workers of the Auxiliary. They will be distributed on the streets here on Poppy Day by members from the Auxiliary. Contributions received for the little red memorial flower will go enitrely into the rehabilitation and child welfare funds of the Auxiliary.

The flowers are made of crepe paper with wire stems and are accurate replicas of the wild poppies of France and Belgium, which grew in such profusion on the battlefields of both world wars. This "Flanders Fields" poppy has been the memorial flower of all English-speaking countries ever since the first world war. Millions are worn throughout the world each year and, in adition to keeping bright the memory of the war dead, they are an important source of funds for the welfare of the disabled veterans and their children.

The veterans work on the flowers in their hospital beds, wheel chairs, or in the hospital hobby shops. The veterans develop great skill and speed in shaping the flower and are able to earn substantial amounts without overtaxing their strength. For them the poppy fills empty hospitals hours with interesting, profitable employment.

Chilton County will show a profit on her strawberries and peaches yet. In fact, we are looking for some real money from our peach crop. Signs are not near so bad as was predicted a few weeks ago. Maybe the big money isn't still there as it was a few years back, but Chilton will still realize quite a sum from her orchards.

Some face hereabouts were nearly dragging the ground the morning directly after May 2nd.

And come to think of it, if money really talks, after the past election we know a lot of fellows who will be silent a long time.

* * * *

Does Your Vote Count?

Frequently you hear this question: What good will one vote do? Well, one vote has had a lot to do with a lot of things in this country.

Thomas Jefferson was elected President by one vote in the electoral college.

So was John Quincy Adams.

Rutherford B. Hayes was elected President by one vote. His election was contested, and it was referred to an electoral commission. Again he won by a single vote.

The man who cast that deciding vote for President Hayes was a congressman from Indiana, a lawyer who was elected to Congress by a margin of just one vote. And that vote was cast by a client of his, who, though desperately ill, insisted on being taken to the polls to vote.

Just one vote gave statehood to California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington.

Pause for a moment . . . by just one vote there came into the nation the states of California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington. That's a big chunk of territory . . . and today all the millions in those states are American by just one vote.

Now you may say that the one vote situation applies only to the past. Well, don't forget the Draft Act of World War II passed the House by just one vote . . . and you can carry this one vote history on and on.

In 1944 for instance, one more additional Democratic vote in each of Ohio's 8,800 precincts would have defeated Mr. Taft and in 1948 one more additional Republican vote in each of the 8,800 precincts would have carried the state for Dewey instead of Truman. — Greenville Advocate.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Amon Jones is having a big to-do at his furniture store this week end. He's giving away a lot of little prizes and one great big 7½ foot prize. The big prize is a home freezer. You don't have to do anything to win. Just go down to his store at certain hours and the valuable prizes will be given away. Sounds worth investigating.

Amon has done a lot of building and redecorating in there lately. He has added a balcony but not to stand under with a guitar serenading a beautiful gal, his is all stocked with the latest in furniture to give him added floor space. Things were getting a bit too crowded downstairs. Amon will have a most attractive store when he gets straightened up this week.

Speaking of remodeling brings us to Bell Hardware Company. Jimmy has moved to new quarters after 15 years at the same old stand on 7th Street North. Now the store is next door to Levine Dry Goods where O. P. Klinner Furniture Company was. Bell's new home gives them much needed floor space and when they finish decorating will be most attractive. In the old store Jimmie had his office back in a dark corner and when you went hunting for him you could always slip up on him before he could get away. But not now. He has put his office on a platform in the rear of the store overlooking the whole building and he can spot you when you enter the front door. Salesmen or bill collectors don't have a chance.

Buck Roberts tells us that Buddy made the Dean's List at Marion Institute the first semester. That's quite a stunt at Marion Military Institute, and we want to congratulate Buddy and let him know we're keeping our fingers crossed for him to repeat this semester.

Things we see around—the mechanic, dirty, greasy, fresh from underneath a car or truck, crossing the street the other day, dodging traffic, balancing two chocolate sundies in paper cups, delivering them to fellow mechanics. . . Neal Harrell, one of our most popular commissioners, has given up smoking after 43 years. Says he keeps two or three packs scattered around still but after nine weeks they don't bother him any more. . . Rube Wyatt isn't at the Dixie Barber Shop any more. Last Saturday he moved to Service Barber Shop next to the Dixie Cafe, and says he'll be a regular barber there from now on. . . Helen Parrish really fixed our evening Monday. She recommended a picture show that had us all excited and our blood pressure doing flip-flops. We took an extra vitamin pill, got out our strongest eye glasses, and headed fo the movie. Well, somewhere along the line the film had been cut and pasted back together. Ever who had done the cutting had pasted the last of the picture to the front and vice-versa. The middle had been taken out and pasted at either end. To tell you the truth you could hardly tell where you had come in. You just looked until you got tired and went home. Only that was the trouble—you didn't get tired. It was about bathing beauty contest winners. The wife finally dragged us away some time around midnight. But we never did figure out where the story started or ended.

APPLESAUCE TREAT FROM DRIED APPLES

Auburn, Ala. — Dried or evaporated apple rings on the market today—a modern version of the apples grandmother used to dry — contain more moisture than most dried apples; therefore, they will make dishes just as delicious as the ones made with fresh apples.

A recipe which gives good success with dried apples is one recommended by Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist. Here are the ingredients: Two cus of dried or evaporated apple rings, 4 cups of water, pinch of salt, 2 tablespoons of sugar, and 1-4 teasoon of lemon juice. To prepare the dish, wash apple rings and lace them in salted water. The next step is to cover apples and boil gently for 5 minutes or just until transparent. The cooked apples should be pressed through a colander while hot.

After sugar and lemon juice are stirred in, the result is about 4 cups of delicious applesauce.

There will be ice cream, drinks and everything you might want to eat; also a pretty girl cake. The Men's Methodist Club and the Women Society of Christian Service are sponsoring this supper. (answer to last week's puzzle)

Radio Preaching

Today there is a lot of radio preaching, or preaching done through and by this modern method of radio. And it is well and good that there is a place given for religious services over the air. Some of these religious services you hear over your radio are paid for and supported by the people who listen to them, and appreciate such a program; while others are given through the courtesy of the radio management, and the local pastors give of their time and talent to the listening public, and there is no asking for donations or the sending in of any money to help keep the program on the air. . . .Well, we have noticed that the people who stand by and appreciate the programs that cost money are often writing in and expressing their thanks and appreiation for their "type" of religious broadcast. That is well and good. But how about the folks who obtain as much inspiration and good out of the religious broadcast. such as the ',Morning De such as the "Morning Devotional" and the "Church Hour" on Sundays? These programs cost no one any thing, except the radio station and the time and talent of those who make these programs possible. Wouldn't it be well and good that if the listening public love and appreciate these free religious broadcasts for them to write in to some of these preachers, and even to the management of the radio station, and express their thanks and appreciation for this kind of spiritual and religious entertainment?

A. T. HICKMAN

Remember, church members, that they are your pastors that make these programs possible. Our local radio station make it possible for most every one to hear his own pastor or a pastor of his own denomination at least once between Sundays. And we pastors are happy for the privilege of sending out the Gospel over the ether waves right into your homes. But if you appreciate our service in this manner, let your radio pastor hear from you. It will encourage his heart to keep on keeping on. A card or a letter, or even a telephone call will be appreciated. Anything to let us know that you are being blessed by our efforts.

May God bless all radio preachers, and their listening audience.

Next Sunday you can hear the service of the Temple Church over WKLF from 11 to 12 o'clock. Let us hear from you if you get the broadcasts.

WHAT IS NEUROLOGY?

Neurology covers the physical diseases that affect the entire nervous system which includes the brain, its connecting spinal cord, located in the spine itself, and the many nerves extending from the spinal cord to various parts of the body.

Thus the nervous system is a complex structure of wiring that may be compared to a telephone system. The brain is the central office where all communications are received and sent. In other words, if we touch something see an object whether unconsciously or deliberately, a group of nerves goes into action on a message from the brain. Certain sections of the brain are charged with different responsibilities, so that actually to reach for the object a group of nerves directs the muscles necessary to bring up the arm and hand to pick up the object. In the same manner, your eyes notice a person or an object falling toward you. They in turn send the message to the central office in the brain. Again the relay is started and up come the arms to ward off the falling object.

When an infection, injury, disease or growth affects any part of the nervous system, one result is noticed and that is an interference in the telephone system, causing a blocking in the service. Thus if a certain part of the brain is affected, the result may be a paralysis of one side of the body. If, however, another part of the brain or the spinal cord is affected, the person may lose the use of both legs. If the back part of the brain, called the cerebellum, is affected, a condition develops which is evidenced by lack of muscular coordination. The victim will walk in a weaving fashion, much like a person does who is intoxicated.

These are some conditions that occur when the brain is affected. In the same manner when the nerves or wiring system are attacked, again interference in the telephone service is noted. If one nerve is affected, we may have neuritis, or if many nerves are involved, the results may be multiple or polyneuritis.

Nutritional deficiences may be the cause, or the taking of medicines either advertised or perhaps recommended by a friend. Thus self-diagnosis or self-medication may lead to the development of some form of neuritis, which will affect the telephone wires in various parts of the body. In neurology the physical changes of the nervous system are studied; and by a series of tests it is possible to check the patient's sensibility, thus establishing area or site involved.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I remove old varnish from furniture that is to be refinished?

A. Put three tablespoonfuls of cooking soda into a quart if water and apply generously with a rough cloth. Sandpaper will then remove the varnish very easily.

Q. How can I relieve tired nerves?

A. A remedy for tired nerves, that is often effective, is to place a hot water bottle at the base of the spine. This is also a remedy for insomnia.

Q. How can I remove rust that has formed on the porcelain sink or bathtub?

A. Rub the stains with kerosene. Rust stains that are caused by leaky faucets can be removed with lemon juice or vinegar.

Q. How can I avoid shrinking of the top crust when making jelly roll?

A. Turn the roll out of the baking tin upon a cloth wrung out of cold water. Then spread with jelly, and as it is rolled the steam from the wet cloth will prevent the shrinking and consequent cracking of the top crust of the roll.

Q. How can I remove from the wardrobe perspiration and cleaning odors that have gathered in garments?

A. Try hanging an aple, stuffed with cloves, in the wardrobe.

Q. How can avoid the unpleasant taste of castor oil?

A. By beating it with the white of an egg until both are thoroughly mixed. Also, it is more palatable if taken very cold.

Q. How can I make an unsightly flower pot more attractive?

A. Cover the flower vot with about three thicknesses of parraffin paper, then a layer of colored crepe paper. the parraffin paper prevents the moisture from coming through.

Q. How can I soften shoes that have stiffened after being wet?

A. The principal reason that wet leather shoes beome stiff is that they have dried too quickly, but when this happens, cold cream will help wonderfully to remove the stiffness.

Q. How can I prevent olive oil from becoming rancid?

A. Add a small amount of sugar to the oil.

Q. How can I have a smooth surface for the iron when ironing over buttons?

A. When ironing a garment that has large buttons, use several thicknesses of Turkish towels, or a blanket, for the ironing surface. Turn the garment button-side down and press on the wrong side. The buttons will sink into the soft padding, leaving a smooth surface for the iron.

Census Bureau Current Population Survey

The Census Bureau's Current Population Survey, from which the official government figures on employment and unemployment are obtained each month, will be conducted during the week of May 14 to 20, it was announced today by Program Supervisor Mrs. Helen Thornton from the office at Clanton, Ala. In the Current Population Survey, the Census Bureau interviews each month a representative cross-section of 25,000 households throughout the country, including many in the Chilton-Perry area.

This survey of employment and unemployment has been conducted each month for the past 10 years, and has provided published figures within 3 to 4 weeks after the interviewing is finished. There is a tremendous interest in these up-to-date figures on the employment situation at the present time, and their timely publication is most useful to Government, Business, Industry and other users of this information.

Specially trained enumerators have been used in the Current Population Survey since the beginning and they, of course, carry proper identification in the same manner as the temporary enumerators hired for the Population Census. As in the Census, Mrs. Thornton emphasized that all individual information reported in the survey is held in absolute confidence and only statistical summaries are ever published.

West End Baptist News—

Our pastor, Rev. R. E. Wilkins, filled his place in the pulpit on Sunday morning, bringing us a wonderful message.

The Rev. Frank Hill spoke to us at the evening hour. We enjoyed having Bro. Hill with us, and the fine message he brought.

The visiting preachers we had with us Sunday night were Rev. Maurice Hodgens and family, Rev. Frank Hill and family and Rev. George Brown. We welcome these visiting preachers and all other visitors.

We would like very much to see everyone out to Sunday School Sunday morning.

Everyone is happy to see our new church going up soon. Let everyone keep pushing forward and pray that it won't be too long until we see it going up in a big way.

Ladies of the W.M.U. of the West End Baptist Church met Monday, May 1st, at the church. Circle One had charge of the program. Mrs. I. J. Spiller, circle chairman, gave the devotional on "Hidden Treasures," followed with Mrs. Jim Blair, Mrs. Jesse Jones, Mrs. Palmer Taylor and Mrs. Howard Fulford, giving a very interesting "Fireside Chat" program on "Radio Missions" and I'm sure all those who heard it can readily see the great advantage of Christian broadcasitng all over the world.

A stewardship book will be taught on May 23 at the church, and all W.M.U. ladies are urged to keep this in mind and plan to attend.

Mrs. W. E. Owens was elected as our flower chairman.

Joint Ice Cream Party—

The West End Baptist Royal Ambassador Boys met at the church on Tuesday afternoon of last week and held their regular program meeting. In the absence of their leader, Mr. I. J. Spiller, Mrs. Spiller met with the boys.

After the R. A. program the Junior B.T.U. boys and their leader, Mrs. Jim Blair, joined them and the two groups of boys enjoyed an ice cream party. Games were played and the most fun was when boys took part in a popcorn eating contest. Later, ice cream, made by the B.T.U. boys, was served and lots of fun was had by the following:

Glenn Spiller, Jimmy and Charles Lowery, Charles Cobern, Kenneth Mims, Paul Earl Mims, J. C. Williamson, Billy and Cecil Lockhart, Mrs. Spiller and Mrs. Blair.

Birthday Luncheon For Three—

On Sunday, April 30, Mrs. I. J. Spiller honored her husband, Mr. Spiller, Mrs. Tom Powell and Mrs. R. E. Wilkins at a luncheon. Their birthdays being on Friday, April 28th. Spring garden flowers were used for decorations.

They "Say It With Berries" in Cullman County

I see by the Cullman papers that the whole county is sprucing up for the Strawberry Festival on May 5.

Everybody's looking forward to the big parade, and coronation of King W. C. Peinhardt and Queen Nell Childs at the Friday night ball.

They'll also have a junior king and queen, with pretty princesses and royal attendants. And the City of Cullman is all bedecked in her finest bib and tucker!

The annual Strawberry Festival is big doings for the folks that live in Cullman County—and mighty important to all Alabama. It brings a lot of visitors to our state, and carries Alabama's name throughout the nation.

From where I sit, the Cullman Strawberry Festival points up the American way of life. Chert road folks mingle with pavement folks and everybody respects the other fellow's right to have a good time.

The Sixth Graders

WHO IS A GOOD CITIZEN?

The Sixth Graders of the Clanton Elementary School recently wrote essays on the subject, "Who Is A Good Citizen?"

From each of the three sections two papers were selected to be read at the April P.-T.A. meeting. Ann Jester and Janice Wood reresented Mrs. Ed Propst's room; Katherine Ann Mayo and Curtis Baker, Mrs. Curry's room; Patsy Hayes and Billy Gene Wyatt, Mrs. L. C. Warr's room.

No prizes were awarded but first place went to each of the three whose essays appear—Patsy Hayes, Ann Jester and Katherine Mayo. These young people are to be commended.

Secial mention should be made of Patsy Hayes, member of the Better Citizens Club. Patsy's paper was the one paper out of the entire six to receive the unanimous vote of the judges.

Who Is A Good Citizen?

I am thrilled to have the oportunity to write about a Good Citizen, because I am a member of the Better Citizen's Club. We have been studying and practicing Good Citizenship all the year, and I think I know a Good Citizen when I see one. A Good Citizen chooses to do the right thing. He has respect for himself. He has self-control. He does not stop for the red light just because he sees a policeman watching, but because he wishes to obey the laws that have been made by the majority.

But the big aim in our club is "Serving Others." One could not possibly be a Good Citizen if he did not serve others. When one serves he must serve cheerfully. He must be democratic, kind, friendly. He must believe everyone should have equal rights. He accepts whatever the majority wishes. He must be cooperative. When he is asked to do or give something he will do his part. He will participate in every good cause. He works pleasantly with others.

He will also be deendable. He keeps his promises and does the task assigned to him. To be dependable he must by all means be honest and clean. He must not take anything that does not belong to him and he will not tell a falsehood. He does not drink. He must be loyal to God and his fellowman. He will not take God's name in vain, and he speaks well of his friends at all times. He is progressive. He does not hold on to the kerosene lamps and dirt roads when he has a chance to have electricity and pavement.

Again, let me repeat, a Good Citizen chooses to do right, serves others cheerfully, is democratic, is cooperative, is dependable and honest, is loyal and progressive. Another way of saying all this is that a truly Good Citizen serves according to the Golden Rule, and he loves his neighbor as himself.

PATSY HAYES.

Who Is A Good Citizen?

Every good citizen must learn to serve others, to be cooperative, honest, democratic, obedient, loyal and progressive.

In learning to serve others one must help his fellow man in every way possible. He must help those who are not as fortunate as he. He should give of his talents to those who need them most.

A good citizen must be cooperative with those he works with or plays with whever it may be. He should never be a bad sport at any time.

Honesty si one of the main points in good citizenship. One would never take anything that did not belong to him. He must always tell the truth, never leaving false impressions.

Being democratic one must respect other people's rights, and not try to be the whole show. If a man who is a good citizen, is head of a concern and has employees working under him, he will be fair to all of them. A good citizen minds his own business, refusing to meddle in others' affairs.

A good citizen should be obedient to the rules of his home, classroom and government. He will be loyal by obeying the laws made by a majority.

A good citizen is progressive. He will want youth to have the advantages of today. He will also be intelligent and well informed.

Let us work together to become better citizens of America.

ANN JESTER.

Who Is A Good Citizen?

Am I a good citizen? Sometimes I wonder. Who is a good citizen?

A good citizen is law-abiding. He does not try to run everything his own way. Just as a football game or any other game, canot be played effectively unless the players abide by the rules, so a modern democratic group cannot hope to accomplish its purpose unless the citizens obey the laws set up by the members. Second, a good citizen is "willing to cooerate by voluntarily and intelligently performing those special duties asked of him." Third, a good citizen seriously and conscientiously performs his duty, is always ready to help others at some cost to himself, and never leaves his jobs unfinished.

A good citizen helps create in his fellowman "an intellgient, just and righteous" opinion. The opinion of a person, or group, can rise no higher than the beliefs and the ideas of that person or group.

KATHERINE ANN MAYO.

Clanton Drive-In—

The Drive-In should be given a metal or some honor. We have had several improvements, but the one I am talking about now is just unbelievable. We have never seen such radiant beauty which Mr. Jackson and Mrs. Wilson have made in the last week.

I am talking about the lgihts which are along the fence. They bring out the beauty of the whole plot of ground around the theatre. The colors are blue, green, red and a bright yellow, which helps bring out the radiant beauty of the shrubbery, which is placed so fine, each piece looks like it was made only for the spot which it is in.

There are beautiful flowers along the road going to the ticket booth, which you can't see in the dark, but if you are early some night get out and look at the beautiful flowers. Again we say, congratulations!

FARMERS URGED TO SAVE LEGUME SEED

Auburn, Ala. — Plans should be completed for harvesting and properly storing seed of small grain, fescue, crimson clover, white clovers, Caley peas, blue lupine, vetch and other legumes.

S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, urges every farmer who has produced a crop of legumes seed to be sure to save enough to take care of his own farm needs first; then, any surplus of good seed may be sold. Present indications are that there will be a strong demand for legume seed this coming fall.

"The acreage of legume crops is being rapidly increased in Alabama to protect and improve the soil and to provide grazing for the increasing numbers of livestock on farms."

PRAISEWORTHY BULL

Natoinal honors have been awarded the Alabama Polytechnic Institute by The American Jersey Cattle Club in recognition of the outstanding Jersey bull owned by the Dairy Department. The bull, It Of Meridale, has been named a Senior Superior Sire, and it is one of the bulls being used in the Alabama Artificial Breeding Program.

CHECK FARM MACHINERY THAT HAS BEEN STORED

Most farm implements are used only a short time each year. For this reason, J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service specialist in farm mechanization, advises farmers to refer to the instruction manual that came with each machine before it is taken to the field. This precaution wil refresh the operator's memory on proper lubricating, adjusting and operation procedures.

Gaillard points out that the machine should be lubricated and checked to see that all bearings take grease or oil; the old grease may have dried out and hardened. Bearings that do not take grease should be taken apart and cleaned with a brush and kerosene.

"If the machine has been stored aside," says the specialist, "it is advisable to flood all moving parts with kerosene to cut rust, dried grease and dirt. Lubricate and operate machine to see that all parts are 'free' and that bearings do not heat."

MILK MAY BE KEPT IN REDUCING DIETS

Auburn, Ala. — Food elements in milk do not produce fat more readily than elements of other foods often times used in reducing diets. Therefore, those who are trying to reduce can still enjoy milk—one of the most essential foods.

J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Service dairyman, explains that an average glass of milk furnishes 135 calories while one glass of grape juice furnishes 200 calories and three slices of pineapple furnish 135 calories.

He adsd that milk is both the cheapest and the surest protection against nutritional deficiences which open the way to disease and life-long injuries.

GREEN AND BLUE TAG CRIMSON CLOVER SEED

Farmers, seedsmen, and others who buy certified seed of reseeding crimson clover this sprnig and summer will find two kinds of seed available—green tag and blue tag.

Ralph R. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service esed crop marketing specialist, states that the green tag will be labeled "Approved" and the blue tag "Certified," but both tags mean certified seed classes that are genetically pure.

He explains the difference in the two kinds of seed by saying that the blue tag certified seed are from plantings which have reseded one or more years. The green tag seed are seed harvested the first year from fields planted with blue tag certified seed.

Jones emphasizes the fact that farmers planting the green tag seed can certify their crop but not untli it has reseeded. Those who are interested should see the local county agent for complete details.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

J. A. Baker, C. P. Jones and W. A. Jones are members of the Corinth Conservation Club. This club is starting a program to conserve the wildlife of their community. A big step toward this ogal is being taken this spring. They have planted or are going to plant several wildlife borders of bicolor lespedeza and partridge peas. These seed were furnished this club free by the State Department of Conservation through the North Central Soil Conservation District. There should be more clubs of this type in Chilton County. As long as we slaughter our wildlife, burn our woods and destroy their feed and cover, our wildlife population will keep on decreasing. While, on the other hand, by increasing their food supply, protecting our wods from fire, and staying within the bag limit we can expect our wildlife to increase.

Complete soil and water conservation plans have been made or revised on the fololwing farms: R. O. Williams, George Jerrell, Samuel Blackmon, J. H. Johnson. The farmer's duty is to feed himself and his country. The best way to insure a future food supply for our nation is to conserve our soil and water now. We have lost too much of both already. The best way to do this is to put in to effect on every farm, a complete soil and water conservation plan.

Charles Robinson has planted six pounds of kudzu seed on approximately three acres of land. For a land builder, erosion control, hay and temporary grazing, kudzu is a hard plant to beat.

SCREWWORMS

Recent surveys indicate that the most wide-spread and destructive screwworm infestation of any previous year confronts Southeastern stockmen in 1950. Deaths and other losses caused by screwworms can be avoided if livestock growers will promptly treat all infestations with Smear 62 or Smear 82.

GENERAL RULES FOR REMOVAL OF STAINS

Treat stains as soon as possible after they occur; after they have dried or have been set by laundering, it may be very difficult or impossible to remove them.

Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, advises that the mildest treatment be used first. If the stain is not greasy, try sponging it with cold water. Sugary stains are easily removed with clear water. If the stain contains grease, a dry-cleaning fluid or soapsuds may do the trick.

"Some stains are combinations of several types and may require several kinds of treatment,' reveals the specialist. "For example, a fruit-flavored, ice-cream stain should be treated as a sugar, egg, grease, and fruit stain."

Improving Today's Home, Tomorrow's World

The thousands of farm women and housewives who are members of Alabama home demonstration clubs take seriously all year the business of building better homes. As illustrated in the above pictures, the club women center their efforts and attentions on all phases of home beautification. What could not be pictured are the love and spirit they foster in their work. These scenes were selected at random from the homes of members in various sections of the state.

Alabama's Farm Women Praised For Work In Home Clubs

THE week of April 30-May 6 is National Home Demonstration Week. All over America, members of that organization are telling the story of their work and making plans to live by this year's theme.

That theme is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World." It expresses the thought behind the many accomplishments of these farm women.

In a recent statement to Alabama's 42,000 members, State Home Agent Mrs. Lillie Maude Alexander praised the work of local clubs in all counties. She also congratulated state and county officers and committee chairmen who lead the clubs.

"You have achieved almost unbelievable goals," said the state agent. "Certainly through your efforts our state is gaining healthier and happier homes and better communities. Never has more home improvement been completed in a year's time."

Mrs. Alexander quoted figures to emphasize her statement. She said home club members improved 427 churches, 407 cemeteries, 129 club houses and 8,532 mailboxes in community projects. Furthermore, in home projects they remodeled 5,091 houses, built 2,800 new houses, and improved 10,461 kitchens, 228 bedrooms, 153 living rooms, and 133 dining rooms.

In regular meetings, the club women gave 4,603 demonstrations on food selection, preparation and nutrition. They gave 2,317 clothing demonstrations, which were climaxed with 54 dress revues; and gave 1,745 demonstrations on family life. Members studied everything from handicraft with carpenter's tools, paints and metals to parliamentary procedure for local farm organizations and world government.

Guiding the hands of these thousands of industrious homemakers in Alabama are the 67 county home demonstration agents and their assistants, four district agents and the A.P.I. Extension staff of women specialists.

This Issue

THE May issue of This Month In Rural Alabama is respectfully dedicated to Alabama's 42,000 home demonstration club members who are this week joining with sisters from other states in celebrating National Home Demonstration Week.

America will long be indebted to these rural housewives. In their clubs throughout the country, they are striving with determined effort and undying spirit to fashion the type of home we would like the next generation to remember.

Greetings From H. D. Prexy

THIS, the fifth National Home Demonstration Club Week, finds Alabama home demonstration club members in the midst of one of their busiest and most profitable years. With a great deal of pride and pleasure I greet you and extend my best wishes and congratulations for your progress and many fine accomplishments this year.

Each year home demonstration work in Alabama continues to grow. During the past year we have increased our membership, and we have also broadened the scope of our work.

Club chairmen of our four objectives have accomplished much through their carefully-planned workshops and work programs. With our workshop program we are making great strides in developing active, capable club leaders.

As we continue to develop leadership among rural women, home demonstration work will expand to reach more and more Alabama farm women.

Home demonstration work gives us a real opportunity to show our love for our neighbors; it is a work not only of self-improvement but of service to others.

GERTRUDE HOLLOWAY, president,
Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs.

Home Demonstration Embraces Wide Variety Of Services And Activities

Method Demonstration The demonstration "Kitchen Conveniences" was given at 29 Houston County home demonstration club meetings early this year. Remodeling old kitchens was discussed with consideration given to working areas and heights around the stove, sink, and refrigerator. Lid racks, knife racks, step shelves, and spice racks were made by club members to use in their own kitchens.

Above are two New Providence members making kitchen conveniences at a training meeting.

Hard Workers Make

A Busy Council In Lee

WIDE-AWAKE members of the home demonstration council in Lee County sponsor various worthwhile activities during the year.

A good example of the industry of the council is its scholarship fund, which at present is over $200 and which is growing each year with contributions from local clubs. With this fund, some deserving Lee County girl is given a chance to further her education.

Besides the small dues from each club which go to the council treasury, two cake sales were sponsored last year in Opelika with proceeds going to the council funds. Expenses consist of 4-H sponsored activities such as dress revues, Dairy Foods Contests, sending a girl to State Camp, and assistance with the county 4-H Rally. The council also sponsors a women's camp at Spring Villa each July for which women over the county lay aside household duties to enjoy the leisure of camp life.

Exhibits Pictured here are five outstanding members of home demonstration clubs in Fayette County posing with a prize quilt exhibit. They are, left to right, Mrs. A. L. Blakeney of Newtonville; Mrs. Pearl Avery of Concord, and Mrs. C. O. Belk of Belk. Seated from left to right are Mrs. Earline Matthews of Good Neighbors Club and Mrs. W. A. Jones of Hubbertville Club.

Club House Building Boom Grows In Montgomery County

AS the popularity of community organizations grows, ladies from the farms of Montgomery are realizing the need for community buildings and are making long strides toward getting them built.

For years community meetings were held in schools or churches, but with the consolidation of schools and the introduction of more recreational programs, the need for club houses became urgent for local clubs. Rising to meet the problem, the club women have already built five club houses and one club room; plans are underway for three more.

The Snowdoun Club House is a real community center. It is used by all community organizations and is in great demand for social affairs, 4-H parties and wedding receptions. It has a modern kitchen with ample cabinet space, hot and cold water and rest rooms and is beautifully decorated inside.

The Mt. Carmel, LaPine, and Westview Garden Clubs have similar houses, and a new club building will soon be completed at Pine Level.

Rural Youth Work A Major Project

THE home demonstration clubs of Coosa County are placing emphasis on rural youth objectives this year and are binding closer ties between home demonstration and 4-H Clubs.

Rural youth chairmen in some clubs are sponsoring parties monthly for the farm youth. Others are giving a party each quarter. The programs are opened with the 4-H Pledge so the boys and girls will know it is strictly a "4-H party."

Providence, Richville and Wayside rural youth leaders had a combined party recently at the Richville School. Some ninety to one hundred 4-H'ers and older youth attended this affair.

Some excellent 4-H programs were given in observance of 4-H Rural Life Sunday. The home demonstration rural youth chairmen directed the planning of these programs working with youth choirs, and 4-H Clubbers, who welcomed visitors, read the scripture and offered prayers. In many churches 4-H'ers gave special numbers, as solos, duets or quartets, and in 24 churches on Rural Youth Day green and white were used for decorations.

In several churches the minister took the 4-H Pledge as his text, discussing the training of the head, heart, hands and health.

Result Demonstration In her kitchen result demonstration last year Mrs. Adkins of St. Clair County built a new kitchen in her home. The new cabinets she included with separate filing compartments for dish pans, frying pans, pot tops, etc., are a feature she is especially proud of. Step shelves were built for canned foods and cleaning supplies, and other conveniences were added. From Mrs. Adkins' demonstration, other club members were able to pick up many new ideas.

Jefferson Clubs Concentrate On Making Voters Of Their Members

JEFFERSON County home demonstration club members intend to see to it that more women are eligible to appear at the ballot boxes with the right to express themselves as active citizens.

They have decided to have at least 50 per cent of their membership qualify as voters before the end of 1950.

And they're making progress. The first month this year 20 club members who never registered before paid a total of $376 in back poll tax. Two of these women, Mrs. Harry Douglas of Chalkville Club and Mrs. Ed. Turner of Bagley, paid $36 each. Mrs. Douglas registered with her daughter, Jane, who has just reached 21, and Mrs. Turner registered with her son who has also just reached the legal age for voting.

These mothers and others are getting ready to accept with their children the responsibilities of citizenship in a democracy.

"The older I've grown, the more I've learned the importance of trying to be an active citizen," says Mrs. Turner. "I've been saving butter and egg money for a long time in order to pay my poll tax, and it's one of the best purchases I ever made."

Handicrafts A hobby is about to turn into a business for Mrs. A. O. Mauldin. For 15 years the Blount County woman has whiled away vacant hours making figurines, plaques, and pictures at her home in Remlap. She now plans to erect a small sales shop on the highway in front of her home.

The Farm Women Work And Play With Great Spirit All Over Alabama

Quilt Show And Silver Tea

A big event for club women in Blount County is their Annual Quilt Show and Silver Tea.

Each year, local club chairmen collect all types of handicraft articles and quilts which are displayed attractively by county chairmen in charge of arrangements for the county event.

One club is responsible for decorations, while another prepares tea or punch for refreshments. Each club acts as hostess for one hour during the day.

Each guest registers and is served refreshments, after which she makes a tour of the exhibits. Members as well as visitors are amazed at every show by the fine color schemes, workmanship, and variety of articles displayed.

Leadership Typical of the fine county leaders in Alabama's home demonstration program is Mrs. Henry Boozer, of Anniston, president of the Calhoun County Home Demonstration Council.

An experienced worker, she was one of the founders of the Philmatic Club of Anniston over twenty-five years ago. Today she still exhibits keen interest in her neighbors and friends.

More For Young People In Marshall County Clubs

MARSHALL County home demonstration clubs are continuing their annual sponsorship of 4-H recognition meetings. And they added several additional features to the program for 1950.

Following dress and apron revues held in 36 4-H Clubs during February, home demonstration women in each community prepared and served a tea at each school honoring 4-H girls and inviting 4-H boys to join them.

One of the added features of the 1950 rural youth program was a climaxing tea at the county dress revue.

Rural Youth Sunday was observed in many of the churches with the young 4-Her's of each church having a short program, acting as ushers to take up collection, and singing in the choir. As another main project home demonstration clubs are continuing to work on the county camp site.

All during the year the farm women sponsor recreation and entertainment for youngsters of their county. Several clubs have already made plans for Easter Egg hunts, wiener roasts, and picnics.

Rural Youth Work Mrs. John Roach, rural youth chairman of the Big Cove Club in Madison County, is an active leader in her community. She holds regular meetings for the boys and girls, using her station wagon to get them to the events. Mrs. Roach is shown here with a group of young people at a recent neighborhood gathering.

Tours To See Alabama Held By Monroe Club Women

HOME demonstration club members in Monroe County make a tour each Spring to some point of interest in Alabama.

Last year 27 club women representing seven clubs were visitors to Mobile, where they toured Bellingrath Gardens.

On March 30th of this year the women journeyed to Jasmine Hill, near Wetumpka. Besides looking over the beautiful flower garden at Jasmine Hill, the women stopped by Montgomery to visit the Capitol, the First White House of the Confederacy and the Department of Archives and History. Thirty-five club women made the trip this year.

Five New Clubs In Chambers

FIVE new home demonstration clubs in one year must be something of a record for one county. That's how many Chambers County has added already this year.

But that's not all—county leaders are eyeing two more prospective clubs.

The organization of these new clubs makes it possible for every farm woman in Chambers County to be a home demonstration club member. Their total number of clubs at present is 24, and they boast a total membership of 670 housewives.

Welcome Signs In Coffee

AN outstanding county project in Alabama is the erection of community signs around home demonstration clubs in Coffee County.

The project is being directed by Mrs. Orell Parker, community activities chairman from Basin. At a county workshop the chairman suggested that other clubs make a visit to Basin to see the signs she had made there and make an effort to get the same thing done in each of the other 30 communities.

The ladies followed Mrs. Parker's suggestion and immediately began work. One club, New Hope, has already completed the job, and others are working on it.

The signs, besides marking the communities by name, list every adult and youth activity from school and church services to club meetings.

With Work And Spirit

Neman Builds A Meeting Place

CLUB members at Neman in Elmore County say it takes only a little time, planning, and work plus community spirit to turn a dream into a reality.

They offer as proof the serviceable new club house they just completed.

The Neman Home Demonstration Club and the Neman Community Club, both active organizations, planned and built the club house together. The old club house was the Neman school, a one-room building that served as a community center for many years.

It took lots of time and effort to make their dream come true. The groups set to work last January to build from the old school building material a house complete with meeting room and fully equipped kitchen.

The new Neman club house now stands completed, and it is more than a building; it is a symbol of cooperation among neighbors, love of community life, progress.

They Even Hold Barn Parties

THE night after the Arthur Wards finished their new barn last month they staged a barn party for their neighbors in Herbert-Mt. Union community in Conecuh County. The huge gathering that turned out proclaimed it the best party they ever had.

Quite naturally, entertainment at the big event was under the direction of the local home demonstration club.

Group singing was led by Mrs. L. C. Shaver and Mrs. P. W. Shaver. Games were led by Mrs. R. H. Harper, Mrs. J. T. Ward, and Mrs. Arthur Ward.

County Agent M. H. Huggins, introduced to the group by Mrs. R. H. Harper, home demonstration club president, made a talk on farm work and Home Agent Emelyn Reddoch gave a talk on "safety on the highways."

At the close of the meeting a delicious covered-dish supper was served to the more than fifty farm visitors.

The farm woman made her storage cabinets in a kitchen result demonstration at a cost of three dollars.

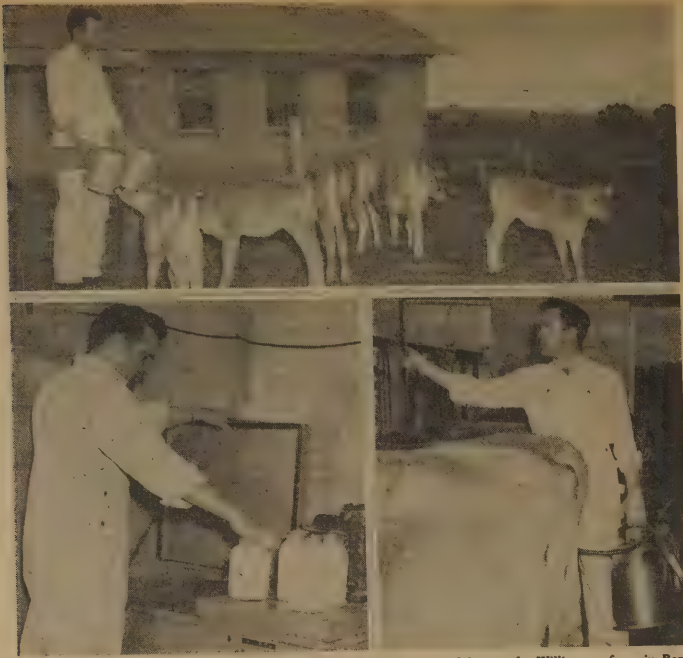
Cooking Tip. All pork, regardless of the cut, should be cooked to the well-done stage.



Young Zenas Williamson, a World War II veteran, operates the dairy on the Williamson farm in Randolph County. Now working on a partnership basis with his cousin Curtis, Zenas got his first training as a dairyman while a member of the Wedowee 4-H Club before the war.

At top, Zenas is shown feeding their crop of fine herd replacements, five of which are artificially sired heifers. Below, left, the young dairyman is putting bottled milk into the cooler in his modern milk room. At right, he is getting ready to start milking in the dairy's concrete block barn.

Williamsons Of Randolph

From Bales To Bottles For The Harvest

COTTON was king at one time on the Williamson farm in Randolph County, but it has been reduced in rank since dairying moved in as top income producer.

Seven years ago the Williamsons devoted their time to cotton—they had one of the biggest cotton farms in the county and used five families of tenants. But today the fields are green instead of white—the harvest is sold in bottles instead of bales.

When a milk route was started in Swagg community in 1943, Curtis Williamson immediately put his six grade cows to work and the milk company had a new customer. Of course the cows didn't give much milk, even after eating a lot of bought feed, because in the daytime they exercised on wasteland pasture covered with saplings and broom sedge.

The next year, Curtis planted his first grazing crop on the farm—one acre of alfalfa. And since that time green feed crops have been increasing along with the number of cows and the profits from dairying. Last year, the farm had 13 acres of alfalfa, 30 acres of ryegrass and crimson clover, 25 acres of kudzu, 65 acres of sericea and 20 acres of oats. More acres of alfalfa will be planted during 1950.

Partnership Formed

It was not until 1946 when Zenas Williamson came home from the war and joined Curtis as a partner that the boys really started into the dairy business in earnest. Since that time, besides increasing feed crop production, they have built a new milking barn and swelled their herd to 39 producing cows. They sell milk to three lunch rooms and in Wedowee plus some for manufacturing.

And they are still expanding. Breeding their cows by artificial means to get higher quality, they plan to build the herd to around 60 cows. Five artificially sired heifers are in the calf pens now and 11 other cows in the herd are bred to bulls in the state stud at Auburn.

Assistant County Agent Durell Davis points out that cotton has not suffered on the Williamson farm. "The land best suited to cotton is still being planted in it," says Davis, "and the farm is doing a better job with the crop than ever. While they will plant 18 acres less than their allotment this Spring, these boys will concentrate on making high yields on the acres planted."

The agent continues by emphasizing that the value of land on this farm is increasing, whereas under their old system soil was depleting year by year. Green fields in Summer and Winter plus good overall management are building for the Williamson cousins a better farm and raising their standard of living.

"Dairying has come to stay in Randolph," concludes Davis, "and Zenas and Curtis Williamson plan to stay with dairying."

This Month on the Farm

PLAN to treat some fence posts at home this year. Cut and peel the posts in the Spring so the bark can be easily removed. To dry, stack posts in the open to allow free circulation of air for at least 90 days.

WHY not follow a rotation of cotton, vetch, and corn? It is simple—any farmer can use it. It's paid a profit for 20 years in tests all over Alabama.

FOR good peanut yields, thick stands are necessary. Be sure to cultivate and handle to hold a good stand through to harvest. Be ready to dust for leaf spot control.

YOU can plant in May Sudan grass and O-too-tan soybeans for green grazing this Summer when your permanent pasture is not giving enough grazing. Also, now is the time to plan plantings of crimson clover-ryegrass, vetch and oats, and Caley peas to graze next Winter.

FARMERS who were unable to get cotton planted in April should get it planted as early in May as possible. Every day lost means a loss of about 10 pounds of seed cotton per acre in yield.

IT is important that new ponds which get water from a small stream or spring be poisoned with Derris to kill undesirable species of fish. If not killed, they may infest the new pond and overcrowd it before hatchery fish are delivered.

* * *

GREEN crops are important as poultry feed. Not only will they help you produce a good pullet, but they will also reduce the cost of putting this pullet in the laying house.

NOW is the time to spray beef cattle for horn flies, stable flies, and mosquitoes. These pests cause cows much misery and prevent them from gaining as they otherwise would. Use one pound of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder to four gallons of water and apply this to the beef cattle—not on producing dairy cattle.

FARMERS interested in getting hogs to market earlier and more economically will find green pastures and sanitary lots a big help. A group of tests showed that Spring pigs raised and fattened on clean green ground reached market weight a month earlier than pigs in dirty lots.

SOUTHERN pine beetles often cause considerable damage during dry weather in late Spring. This is especially true following Spring fires which occur before the grass is green. Check for attack by these pests and promptly apply control measures.

* * *

IF you want to get the most grazing out of your pastures, give them a chance to get well started. Pastures grazed closely in the Spring never fully recover during the remainder of the season.

Piny Woods To Pasture In Washington County

What can happen to a worthless area of piny woods when land reclamation machinery is put into operation is demonstrated on the farm of J. Collier Dees, Tibbie, Alabama. The above pictures were made in a 55-acre field on this Washington County farm this Spring. His need for more pasture plus PMA approval of land clearing and reclamation practices encouraged Dees to convert the worthless land to a field for grazing.

At right, County Agent Howard Moss and Farmer Dees, pointing, are appraising the hillside before reclamation work begins. They agree that it is of no value to the farm or farmer as it now stands. But at left, after the field was cleared, leveled, terraced and fertilized, it's a different story. At a cost of about $20 per acre the land is ready to become pasture in a fast growing livestock program. Men on the jeep are sowing a permanent pasture seed mixture.

Poultry Production Climbs

THE number of chicks hatched in Alabama increased 64.4 per cent in Alabama for January, 1950, over January, 1949, reports A.P.I. Extension Poultryman John P. Weeks.

Figures for these same two months in neighboring states of this region showed about a three per cent increase, Weeks added. He said while some states still hatch many times the number of chicks hatched in Alabama, this state now produces a third as many as the states of New Hampshire or Maryland, which are leaders in the field.

Facing The Challenge

Walker Farmer Has Model Farm

CHESTER GRACE, Jasper, Rt. 3, in Walker County, has a farm program that many Alabama farmers could use wisely as a pattern.

The Boldo Community farmer, who has 81 open-land acres on his farm, has planned his operation so that it will pay him extra cash this year even though he will have several acres less cotton than he had in 1949.

He began by having every acre on the farm covered with some type of green crop throughout the past Winter. He also has planned plenty of temporary Summer grazing to go with his 10 acres of improved permanent pasture. This Fall his plan calls for putting in four acres of alfalfa that he can use as hay and grazing to fill the gaps in his feeding program.

Grace has 14 acres of oats, vetch and crimson clover that are now topping out 14 hogs. This month he will plant in that field grain sorghum which will be ready to turn hogs on this Fall. His corn crop will consist of 35 acres, six of which are an early hybrid to be hogged off in July. Following the corn on this plot he will plant more grain sorghum and grazing crops for late Fall.

To make profitable use of the extra grain and grazing his farm will produce this year, Mr. Grace has five sows from which he expects two litters each, two milk cows and several common calves he is feeding for market. He also plans to buy six medium steers this Fall to help consume the feed.

Labor expense, too, will be cut down on the Grace farm this year. Power for operating will come from a medium tractor plus two mules; and with one tenant farmer, the owner believes he can handle most of the work. "Thanks to livestock doing their own harvesting, the Fall season won't crowd me so much this year," he feels.

Agent Advises

Use And Improve Land

GOOD land use and soil building are paying big dividends in the Tennessee Valley, according to L. L. Self, A.P.I. Extension district agent, Auburn. He backs his statement with some figures from Lawrence County T. V. A. unit test demonstration farmers.

Mr. Self points out that 26 U.T.D. farmers in this county increased their number of cattle from 335 to 420 in a year's time. They increased their number of brood sows from 63 to 87 and their market hogs from 381 to 542.

The 26 farmers sold nearly $40,000 worth of livestock produced in 1949 and expect to double that figure this year. They will market 30,000 bushels of corn and 450 tons of hay, harvested last Fall, through livestock.

The group of farmers will have for their animals 121 acres of alfalfa, 165 acres of sericea and 470 acres of improved pasture. The demonstrations they are carrying form part of a series in which the object is to make use of every acre of land on the farm. Chief among their goals is to keep some kind of cover on every acre.

"Experience shows that if sod crops, Winter legumes and other soil building practices are applied to increase yields a better land use program results," says the district agent. "Then cotton and livestock may be fitted into a better balanced farming program."

Sell More Milk, Theme Of A.D.A.

THREE representatives of the Alabama American Dairy Association returned from the annual Board meeting in Chicago last month with a determination to sell more milk. They are Lem Morrison, Greensboro; John Garrett, Montgomery; and Robert Brown, Opelika.

Mr. Morrison is president of the state organization which was started one year ago. John Garrett is a Montgomery County dairyman who is currently working for the Alabama Farm Bureau in a state-wide drive to stimulate local dairy organizations. Robert Brown is sales manager for Opelika Creamery.

Returning from the national visit, Garrett said Alabama people drink about half as much milk as the average U. S. consumer.

"To increase market demands for his product and to enable it to compete with other products, the dairyman has a real selling job to do. Even in Alabama we have so-called 'surplus' milk now. To sell more milk and have healthier folks, the dairy farmer must do his share in encouraging our people to drink more milk," the dairyman declared.

"Too many consumers are led to believe milk is just another beverage," added Brown. "We need to sell the idea that milk is nature's best food and one of the most economical."

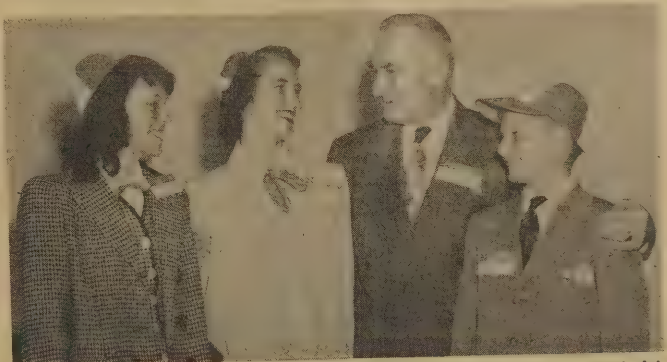
THE average Alabamian consumes less than ½ pint of fluid milk per day while the U. S. consumption is 1.03 pints per day.



Pat On The Back From Business When the business men of Birmingham decided to entertain their young friends from rural areas of Alabama last month, they staged a two-day party the youngsters will never forget. The boys and girls they invited were county and state officers of the 4-H Clubs in the state. And every county was represented. James A. Beaty, manager of the agricultural division, Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, was a congenial host to the young farm leaders. He is shown here, second from right, talking with Louise Power, left, of Henry County; Barbara Gilliland, Coosa, and Donald Huff, Escambia.

County Agent W. H. Cowan, extreme right, and Soil Conservation Technician George M. Burns, left, are busy in the picture above explaining to Timber Marketing Specialist Jake Mathews that it is not necessary for all hillside land to be in pine trees. They are kneeling in a field of crimson clover on G. W. Sentell's farm near Ashland. Mathews was there to examine the stand of young pines in the background.

Almost To A Farm

Green Carpets Drape The Fields Of Clay County

IT takes but a short ride down any highway in Clay County to see how farmers there are doing their share toward making Alabama green for livestock and making more profit in farming.

On that drive, the observer sees green on nearly every hillside and strips of rich grazing running beside the branches in lowlands.

Many counties in the state have more total acres devoted to temporary and perennial grazing, but none has a higher percentage of farmers with grazing arrangements that will supply their livestock with green feed the year around.

County Agent W. H. Cowan reported this Spring that more farmers had green crops during the past Winter than ever before in the history of this small county. He says he has watched these farms for eight years, and the improvements that have been made are remarkable.

The county agent might mention any one of a hundred farmers in explaining the progress of pasture lands in Clay, but the example he happened to point to in a recent report was on the farm of G. W. Sentell of near Ashland. He told of an early Spring visit with Sentell on which he saw a 25-acre seed patch of reseeding crimson clover already ankle deep.

Sentell has 260 acres on which he plans to develop a beef cattle farm program. In addition to 25 acres of crimson clover, he has 10 acres of kudzu for Summer grazing and hay. This year he will make still more plantings of both kudzu and crimson clover. Seed for the crimson planting will be harvested from his own field; he is buying 30 pounds of kudzu seed.

This farmer has only a few beef cattle at present but is following the advice of his county agent in waiting to develop his grazing system before buying more. Other crops his plan calls for are fescue, ryegrass, oats, white Dutch and Ladino clovers, common lespedeza, and Dallis grass.

All of the Sentell farm will not be used in the beef program. The farmer has 25 acres of pines planted in 1937 that he plans to keep in forests. Protected against fire and otherwise well managed, the pine trees have grown rapidly and will soon be bringing in returns. In thinning operations this year Sentell says he can get several hundred posts and lots of firewood from the young forest.

Show Place For Livestock

The big oval topped building near Kilby Prison, Montgomery, is beginning to look like what it will soon be known as—one of the finest state livestock coliseums in the South. The above picture, made in March, shows the structure as the last section of roof was being poured.

Along the Way

with

P. O. DAVIS

DIRECTOR, A.P.I. EXTENSION SERVICE

ONE inevitable fact is that each person must die sometime, somewhere. There is, of course, nothing new in saying this; but there are new facts as to causes of death.

And there are new and important facts as to how to avoid illness and how to live longer with better health. These facts are of vital concern to each of us.

The U. S. Public Health Service has statistics on diseases and other things that end the lives of people. Three years ago (1947) diseases of the heart and blood vessels ended the lives of 626,000 people, or nearly 2,000 people daily in the United States. This group topped the list of human killers.

No less than 21 distinct types of heart diseases are known, but three of them caused 90 per cent of all damaged hearts. Cancer was next with 190,000 deaths in one year. Alabama had 2,800. Broken down, this means three deaths per day in Alabama, or one for every eight hours, for cancer alone.

Accidents killed about half as many as cancer, the total in this group being 100,000. Nephritis (kidney disease) killed 80,000, pneumonia 62,000, tuberculosis 48,000.

Nearly one of each two deaths, after the age of 45, is caused by heart diseases. Add to these those caused by cancer, and we find that most people after middle age and older die of one of these two diseases,—heart and cancer.

This raises a question as to what we individually can do to prevent any illness but especially heart disease and cancer. Specifics are not available but certain things are essential to healthy bodies and minds. They are:

1) Enough but not too much good food, containing all of the elements essential to a strong and healthy body.

2) Moderation in all that we do. Intemperance in anything is bad and harmful.

3) Sanitary conditions for living and working.

4) Plenty of outdoor exercise without excesses.

5) Regular attention to all body needs.

6) Regular contact with a family physician for advice and service.

I like to emphasize food. It is easy for anyone to get basic facts as to what foods to eat and amounts needed to supply the daily needs of a child or a grown person, either man or woman. (See your home demonstration agent.)

People who do heavy physical work require, of course, more food than those who don't. Information is available as to food needs for people living and working under different conditions.

A quart of milk a day, for example, is needed by each child or young person. Older people don't need as much. Eggs are an excellent food. A combination of milk, eggs, meat, cereals, and vegetables are, of course, big essentials.

People who eat improperly endanger themselves by inviting diseases and illness. This applies to too much, too little, or the wrong kind.

A check-up by a physician as often as advised by him is a mighty good practice. Often in this way trouble is found before it goes too far and is corrected before great damage is done.

Cancer is a notable example of this sort of disease. It is not fatal—as many people believe—if it is discovered in its early stages and treated properly. If it is not discovered until it goes too far it is fatal.

Dairyman L. E. Watkins is shown above loading milk onto the truck operated by routeman Ernest Honea (left). At right, below, the farmer is discussing the quality of one of his cows with County Agent John Pate, and at left, with the help of his young son Maurice, he is putting milk into his modern cooler.

DeKalb Farmer Grows

Out Of Cotton And Into Dairying

L. E. WATKINS had always figured he'd make a pretty good dairyman. He liked cows and for years had been keeping one or two on the farm. But this month, three years after he decided to do something about dairying, it surprised even him to find how much he had done.

Back in 1947 the DeKalb farmer began selling grade B milk from three cows, watched the small but helpful checks roll in every month, and then set about dairying in earnest. Watkins, like other shrewd farmers, knew feed must come before cows. He switched a few acres from cotton to clovers and grasses. He found a few idle acres that could be put to work, thus adding to his feed program.

Then Watkins turned his thoughts to more cows. Keeping heifer calves dropped by his herd, he carefully bought a few purebred cows to keep pace with his expanding grazing program. Money from milk checks went back into good animals, fertilizers, and seed.

Things went so smoothly that last year Watkins felt even Sand Mountain cotton couldn't hold its own with the robust dairy set-up. Out went the cotton; in came more grazing and grain crops and cows.

Out on his 74 acres at Henager, Rt. 2, Watkins is sure he chose the right business. Looking over his herd of 13 cows and about that many heifers, he said recently, "Nothing can beat dairying. I would be lost without it."

He pointed to his new grade A dairy house, his rolling acres of grazing, and a big woods that soon would be cleared and in pasture. He also pointed to 12 acres being made ready to grow a hundred bushels of corn on every acre.

"All these things have taken work—plenty of hard work," said Watkins. "But I can tell you there's one business that's harder: cotton farming."

Forester Declares

Alabama Lumber Still A Good Bet For Building

HAVE you heard that lumber on the market today is not as good as it was in the past? Don't you believe it!

A.P.I. Extension Forester I. R. Martin says today's lumber is machined better, graded better, and seasoned better than formerly. In addition to these facts, he points out that a wider selection of species and items is available.

Strong competition between dealers and between materials has resulted in bringing lumber on the market that is not what it should be in respect to size, grade, and seasoning, grants the forester. But that does not mean that good lumber is not available at economical prices; it simply means that care and discrimination are necessary in buying.

Martin explains that a good, dry, well-built frame house is in practically no danger from decay if a few normal precautions are taken. He recommends building on a well-drained site and constructing the house so that moisture cannot accumulate in joints or pockets.

Get well-seasoned lumber, he adds, and don't let it lie on the ground after being delivered to the job. Untreated lumber should not come in contact with the soil or with foundations or walls which are damp. Neither should the lumber be embedded in concrete or masonry. Wood flooring, unless chemically preserved, should never be laid directly on the soil or on concrete that is in contact with the soil.

If builders and owners keep in mind that dry wood will not decay, they can construct good frame buildings with lumber bought carefully on today's market, declares Martin.

Demand, Price Situation Told By State Economist

DEMAND for farm products generally continues stable at a relatively high level.

According to Foy Helms, A.P.I. Extension economist, prices received by farmers are likely to average close to present levels during the next two months.

Industrial production averaged higher in January than in December but was probably somewhat lower in February as the result of curtailments in coal mining operations and automobile output, says Helms. Construction activity declined less than seasonably from December and remained well above the level of January, 1949. The general wholesale price level has been quite stable since November.

Consumer income is also high and is being augmented by veterans' insurance refunds, which are expected to increase the flow to individuals by approximately three per cent for the first four or five months of the year. Unemployment rose to four and a half million persons in early January, a post war record. The rise was due largely to seasonal declines in farm and construction employment and the mid-winter lull in trade.

The value of U. S. agricultural exports in the second half of 1949 was the lowest since the end of the war, reflecting declines in both prices and quantities.

Here's The Plan

Chicken Of Tomorrow Contest

TO find a broiler that will exactly meet the requirements of the broiler industry and the housewife, Alabama will again this year have a state chicken of tomorrow contest. Any breeder, hatcheryman, or poultry grower in the state is eligible to compete.

Since the regular growing period for broilers in Alabama is ten weeks or less, the Executive Committee agreed to base the Alabama contest on a ten-week growing period. The birds will not be entered in the regional competition of the national contest.

The contest will be held August 8, 1950, at the Alabama Poultry Association's annual meeting in Auburn. This means the chicks must be hatched the week of June 5-9—the eggs set May 15 to 19.

An entry will consist of 100 straight run chicks. No contestant may enter more than three entries of any one breed or cross breed, the committee decided; however, a joint entry may be made by a grower and breeder or hatcheryman.

Contestants will wingband the chicks with bands furnished free of charge by the Chicken-of-Tomorrow National Committee and will select fifteen of the best cockerels for judging. Entries must be in Auburn at the dressing plant by 9 a. m., August 8.

Poultrymen wishing to enter the contest will notify John P. Weeks, chairman of the Alabama Chicken-of-Tomorrow Executive Committee, PMA Building, Auburn, Alabama, by June 1, 1950. Other members of the committee are F. G. Bridges, president, Alabama Poultry Association; Pyron Keener, chief, Poultry Division, State Department of Agriculture; and D. F. King, head, A.P.I. Poultry Department.

The contest is sponsored by the Alabama Poultry Association and the A & P Tea Company in cooperation with A.P.I.

Watch Moisture, Depth In Storing Lupine Seed

By J. L. BUTT, Assistant Engineer
A.P.I. Experiment Station

IF blue lupine seed are to be stored safely, certain precautions are necessary, according to results of experiments conducted for the last two years by agricultural engineers in cooperation with plant physiologists of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station.

In these tests, the average moisture content of the seed when combined ranged between 12 and 20 per cent. Since all seed on a stalk of lupine do not mature at the same time, each lot of combined seed contained a mixture of both high and low moisture content seed.

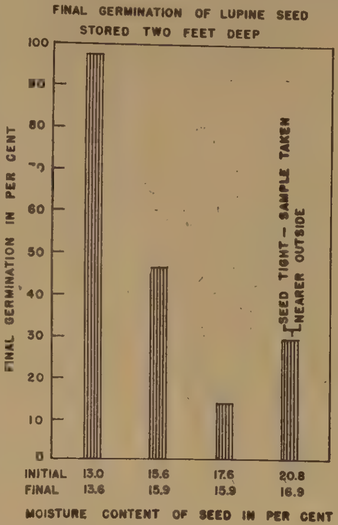
Small-scale storage experiments and observations of bulk-stored lupine seed have been made with seed stored at various depths and at different initial moisture contents. Changes in both germination and moisture content of the seed were recorded during the storage period.

Results show that where seed were stored in thin layers, about three inches deep, in a well ventilated building, the moisture content of all lots was the same after three months. However, the germination of seed initially stored at moisture contents higher than 15 per cent was reduced.

Based on these results, seed that are to be saved by spreading in thin layers of three inches or less and turning occasionally should not contain more than 15 per cent initial moisture. They should be cleaned before storing and should be ventilated during dry weather to lower the moisture content as rapidly as possible.

Seed stored at greater depth presented an entirely different problem. Bulk-stored seed did not lose moisture to the air rapidly; therefore, the moisture content at depths of one to two feet remained as high for six months as it was initially. Heat produced tended to accumulate in these seed. Therefore, a lower initial storage moisture content was required to prevent a reduction in germination than was necessary for seed spread three inches deep.

Seed stored at these depths containing 13 per cent initial moisture kept satisfactorily during 1948 as shown in the following chart.



However, since 1948 was a favorable year for storage, a moisture content of 12 per cent at time of storage is recommended to prevent losses in germination in the event of an unfavorable season. The seed should be kept in dry, weather-proof sheds and checked occasionally to be sure that the moisture content remains low.

Grazing Is Important To Hogs In Corn Fields

PIGS going into the corn field or feed lot this Summer will make faster and cheaper gains if they have plenty of green grazing.

G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension hog production specialist, names alfalfa, kudzu, and Ladino clover as some of the best grazing crops for this period. But since many good hog raisers won't have these crops ready by then, they will need to use other crops that can be planted and made ready for hog grazing in a few weeks.

"O-too-tan soybeans provide excellent temporary green grazing for hogs," advises Phillips. "A patch planted next to or in the middle of a corn field will be a wise investment and a paying proposition."

However, it is not recommended that soybeans be interplanted with corn. They make a good grazing crop for pigs when planted separately, but in the drill with corn they cut the grain yield just the same as grass does, the specialist warns.

Whiteside, Anniston, president; and Fred Moore, Auburn, secretary-treasurer.

Research Results
in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

BROILERS fed two-thirds mash and one-third grain gained up to 30 per cent more during a 14-day fattening period than broilers finished on mash alone. The feed cost per pound of gain was two to four and one-half cents cheaper for chickens receiving mash and grain than for those fed mash only. It made very little difference in feed efficiency and gain in body weight whether corn, wheat, or milo was used as the source of grain.

WEED KILLER has been used successfully to kill coffee bean and other pest weeds in corn at the Gulf Coast Substation. Two applications of 2,4-D were made. The first treatment was applied after weeds appeared in the corn following the last cultivation; the second application was made 20 days later. The mixture used was one pint of 2,4-D to five gallons of water. The solution was applied with low-gallonage nozzles at the rate of about five gallons per acre.

SUMMER GRAZING has been furnished mainly by lespedeza sericea and by grasses that follow Winter clovers in the pasture experiments at Auburn. Grasses that have been used with success are Johnson, coastal Bermuda, fescue, and Dallis. Even native crab grass when following a good crop of clover has furnished very good Summer pasture.

GRAIN SORGHUM is usually a safer grain crop for late June or early July planting than corn. In a six-year study on the Main Station farm at Auburn, grain sorghum planted about June 15 yielded about 37 bushels per acre compared to 22 bushels of corn planted on the same date.

HIGH QUALITY fruit juices have been prepared from Young berries and Boysenberries in tests at the Main Station. Highest quality was obtained from fully ripe berries.

FOR EASY PEELING, now is a good time to cut fence posts. Work by the Forestry Department indicates that bark can be removed from freshly cut posts more readily in the Spring than in other seasons. Posts cut, peeled, and properly stacked now should be ready by midsummer for preservative treatment with pentachlorophenol or copper naphthenate.

FERTILIZING FARM PONDS should have been started by May. Properly fertilized and managed ponds may be expected to yield 150 to 250 pounds of fish per acre per year. Best results have been obtained by applying 100 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer plus 10 pounds of nitrate of soda or five pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre. Fertilizer applications should be made at regular intervals throughout the Summer to maintain a dark color of the water so that an object cannot be seen at a depth of 15 inches.

* * *

INCREASED EFFICIENCY on the farm will partially cushion the squeeze on farm incomes likely to result from lower prices and very little change in production expenses and marketing costs. Farm management research results indicate that for greatest efficiency, emphasis must be directed towards higher production per man, per acre, per machine, per building, and per head of livestock.

Attendence At Crippled Children's Clinic Biggest Yet

One hundred and thirty-four children were registered at the clinic for crippled children and adults on Wednesday, May 4. The clinic was held in the basement of the Methodist Church. This clinic is sponsored locally by the Chilton County Society for Crippled Children and Adults of which Mr. I. S. Levine is chairman. Volunteers from the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Miss Louise Foshee, Superintendent James H. Boockholdt and Mrs. Mary English Preyer, all of the Education Department; Miss Carolyn Montgomery of the Health Department; and Margaret Lee, of the Welfare Department assisted the staff of the State Crippled Children's Service in conducting the clinic.

Dr. H. Earle Conwell, Orthopedic Diagnostician and Surgeon for the State Crippled Children's Service checked all patients who are already receiving treatment and diagnosed all new cases. Dr. Conwell's recommendatoins for patients will be followed up by the District Orthopedic Nurse of the State Crippled Children's Service, Miss Thelma N. Walker, and the District Social Worker of the Crippled Children's Service, Miss Glendine Wilson, in cooperation with the local Health, Welfare and Education Departments.

Mr. G. G. McFaden of the Vocational Rehabilitation Service, was at the clinic to advise with the handicapped adults who had orthopedic disabilities.

Organizations from the following churches provided lunches for the children: Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist, Assembly of God, Church of Christ, Catholic, and Seventh-Day Adventist; also the Music Appreciation Club, Clanton Study Club, Kiwanis Club and Lions Clubs. The Pilot Club provided the milk. Recreation in the form of story-telling, drawing, reading, etc., was provided for the children who had to wait to see the doctor.

Treatment is provided for these children by the State Crippled Children's Service of which the Chilton County Chapter of the Alabama Society assist financially. These clinics are made possible by the funds collected from the Easter Seal Campaign. At the present time Chilton County has only raised about one-third of the quota set for this county which is $2,000. When you contribute to the Easter Seal Campaign you are helping to provide treatment to Chilton County's cripples. If you have not made your contribution and wish to make one, you can send it to Mr. I. S. Levine, County Chairman. Don't confuse this drive with the March of Dimes. Funds collected are used to treat children with all types of handicaps. If you did not purchase Easter Seals, it is not too late to join your local chapter of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Builders of Clanton

ONE OF A SERIES

OTTO JONES

EARL PARRISH

Otto Jones and Earl Parrish (the Gold Dust Twins), are old fixtures at Clanton's First National Bank. The truth is, they have been there just about as long as the bank has. Where the bank was organized November 19, 1919, Otto joined the force in November, 1922. Earl came in a year and a half later May, 1924.

It goes without saying the First National Bank wouldn't be the First National Bank without the two likeable and popular young men just mentioned above.

In 1947 Mr. John C. Page resigned as cashier and Otto Jones was promoted to his office and was elected to the presidency the following year. Earl Parrish was then made Cashier which position he now holds. Other personnel are: James (Buck) Daniels, Hubert Thompson, Hazel Leach, Era Robinson and Dorothy Nelson.

Incidentally as to whether the Gold Dust Twins are successful in their chosen profession, the First National Bank records show 1949 to be the biggest year in the bank's history.

Otto and Earl's friends in Chilton County and Central Alabama are numbered in the thousands and you will find it a pleasure to do business with the First National Bank.

Something New

The Election Party at the courthouse was one of the finest things presented here for quite a while. That is, it created more interest and drew a bigger crowd.

City Grill, Clanton Laundry and Radio Station WKLF were responsible, and during the course of the evening and early morning hundreds and hundreds of people learned immediately the results of the election in the various beats of Chilton County as well as regular reports of the state at large, through a direct wire to the courtroom.

It was well worth the while and money spent by the sponsors and they are to be congratulated on their public service.

We Know, Don't We?

The first primary is now over and everyone is getting a well deserved rest except the newspaper editor. After everyone has voted we had to stay up until 3:00 Wednesday morning to get all of the returns, then we we home for a few hours sleep, coming back to work at 8:30. We spent from 8:30 until 10:30 adding up all the returns and then we spent from 10:30 to 12:30 reporting the results to The Birmingham News, United Press, Birmingham Post, Tuscaloosa News and had numerous calls from people all over Alabama. At one time Wednesday morning the telephone operator told us that we had five long distance calls waiting for us. We then worked until 1:00 Thursday morning and saw that we couldn't complete all the work before daylight, therefore we went home for a few hours sleep, returning to work at 8:00 Thursday morning. We now have all the returns compelted for you in this issue of The Press, even though it is a day late. — Centreville Press.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

We don't believe one of the candidates in the recent election accepted defeat as gracefully as did Mr. G. C. Walker. Early next morning when we met him at the post office his laugh was just as hearty and friendly as it was during his campaign. Because a man doesn't always win at the polls isn't necessarily a sign that he has no friends or the votes he received represents all his friends. There could be many reasons why one of your friends couldn't vote for you. More than likely all candidates might be your friends, one surely couldn't vote for everybody. We sincerely appreciate Mr. Walker's attitude and applaud him for it. Remember the lines:

"It's easy enough to be pleasant
When life goes along like a song.
But the man worth while,
Is the man who can smile
When everything goes dead wrong. . ."

A card comes from Major T. B. Deramus who is stationed about nine miles outside of London, England. Says he likes the people very much. Also says the weather is colder there than he left it here at home. Best part was that he missed his hometown paper, so we hastened to get one going each week to his new adress. In case you're interested its Major T. B. Deramus, APO 125, care PM, N.Y., N. Y.

Here's a good one: The little boy was talking to the elderly visitor who had come to stay for a while: "So you are my grandmother, are you?" he asked. "Yes, Johnnie, I'm your grandmother on your father's side," the lady answered. "Well," stated the boy, "you're on the wrong side; you'll soon find that out."

Mrs. A. D. Smith was a bit doubtful that the paragraph we wrote last week when the fellow went off and left his wife at the service station, was true. It happened at Jimmy's just below the Smith Grocery there in South Clanton. But that's nothing to the one we read about in a farm paper. It told of the fellow flagging down a truck and telling the driver his wife had to be rushed to the hospital. The driver told him to get his wife and suitcase and "pile" in. The fellow was excited about becoming a father and was rushing around like a chicken with his head cut off. He got the suitcase and threw it in the back, rushed back in the house for first one thing and the other and then told the driver to get going. About half way to the hospital he stopped the driver and said: "Hey, wait a minute, man, we've come off and left my wife."

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I keep plants moist for several days without watering?

A. Set a bowl of water above the level of the plant. Twist several strands of darning wool together, and soak them in water. Place one end of this wick at the bottom of the bowl and let the other end hang over the plant. A steady drip will continue until the bowl is empty.

Q. How can I hide a spot on the wall paper that cannot be removed?

A. About the only resource is to hang a picture or a tapestry over the spot, and in this way conceal the stain until time to repaper the walls.

Q. How can I treat an insect bite?

A. Moisten some baking soda and apply to the insect bite, and it will give relief. This is also good for a superficial burn.

Q. How can I peel tomatoes easily?

A. Hold the tomato under a running faucet and go over it with a knife blade, not cutting, but merely pressing the blade against the skin. Then take the tomato from under the water and see how readily the skin is removed.

Q. How can I clean arificial fruit and flowers?

A. Dip them in and out of white soapsuds several times; then rinse by dipping in clear water containing a few drops of ammonia.

Q. How can I remove perspiration stains from a garment?

A. Try sponging the spot with white vinegar, and wiping dry with a soft clean cloth.

Q. How can I use jelly that has crystallized?

A. Do not throw away last year's jelly that has crystallized. It can be made into a delicious syrup for hot cakes merely by adding 1-2 glass of water to each glass of jelly and heating just enough to dissolve.

Q. How can I prevent creases when ironing linen suits?

A. Iron the inner pockets and the heavy seams first, when pressing linen suits. This will do away with creases when the garments are given the final touches.

Q. How can I give a rich brown crust to sponge cake?

A. Sift some granulated sugar over the top of the cake before putting it into the oven.

Q. How can I keep baby's mouth clean?

A. A solution of one teaspoonful of boracic acid to twenty teaspoonfuls of water is excellent for this purpose. Use a clean swab made by twisting clean absorbent cotton tightly around a toothpick, and wash out the mouth twice daily. This may prevent many complications of the stomach.

ROUGH LUMBER

When clearing land this Spring, it should be remembered that some of the rough trees can be custom sawed to make rough lumber for repairs to farm buildings.

The Candidate with Courage

The big campaign is over, the election is passed. Some candidates won their race, while others lost in the race. Some have another chance, maybe they will make it this time; or will they?

A. T. HICKMAN

Friends, what impressed me about this campaign is this; some of the candidates had the courage to ask the support of Gospel ministers, others did not have that courage. Twice on the streets of Clanton I was stopped by candidates who were passing thru that took me to be a Gospel minister, they asked for my support in their race for the office they were running for. Then some of our own local candidates came to me early in the campaign and asked that I support them in their race. Now, I know that it takes courage to ask an old-fashioned Gospel preacher to support a candidate, for if he does, then that preacher is going to expect that man, if elected, to stand for the same truths and principles which he himself stands for.

Not all of the candidates had this courage to ask the support of the Gospel pastors. And mark it down in your little "day-book," if a candidate does not have the courage to ask the support of the Gospel ministers, he would not have the courage to support the high and noble principles which the Gospel ministers stand for, if he were elected.

Now this has raised the question in your mind: "Should a preacher take any part in politics?" I will gladly answer that question. Not as a preacher, but as a citizen. The Gospel preachers are citizens of the community in which they live. We should be interested in the welfare of our state and community as any one else. Our influence should be felt on the side of good government. All ministers of the Gospel of Christ should so conduct themselves in the community in which they live, and then study to be informed as to the need of the community, and lend his support toward that need. Yes, you will find all good wide-awake Gospel citizens do.

May God bless those who are placed at the head of our local, state and national government. And may they give us the type of good government that all good American citizens desire.

READING DIFFICULTIES IN CHILDREN

The ability to read is a most important factor in a child's development. It is not only broadening culturally, but is promotes a social understanding. Unfortunately, many children have reading difficulties which, if corrected, would prevent their development into maladjusted adolescents and adults. While reading readiness is generally considered by the age of six, it should be remembered that the mental and not the physical age is important. Some children can read simple sentences at the age of five and even four.

Reading difficulties stem from many causes. Very often, an eye defect is involved. And then again other physical and mental factors are the cause for this condition, which is medically identified as dyslexia.

A child with reading difficulties need not be mentally deficient, since many physical factors are involved, making the problem one for the physician and educator alike. According to a summary of the National Society for the Study of Education, such physical deficiences cover malnutrition, fatigue, infactions, defective glandular activities, bodily injuries and defects, visual and auditory defects. Other factors include educational immaturity, general emotional instability, and inadequate teaching.

Intelligence means the ability or capacity to learn. Next to it a healthy, good functioning body is essential to the learning process. The child with reading difficulty, because of the unsureness, the uncertainty in forming the oral word, is subjected to the unkind ridicule of his little asosciates. And his defect takes on such an emotional tempest that many characteristics are apt to develop, leaving the child unhapy, inclined to withdraw from companionship and become secretive.

Children with reading difficulties should be given a careful examination to rule out the presence of physical and mental factors that may be responsible. And the environment of the home should be studied, since the child reacts so strongly to the influences about him. Once the cause is determined and remedial measures instituted, progerss will be noted.

YOU can have fun figuring out your message from the Orient by use of this pleasant little letter puzzle. If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract from 7. If more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract from 12. Now take this result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT at the top of this puzzle. Then, starting at the upper left corner, check each one of your large key letters as it appears from left to right. Below the key letters is a code message for you.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I wonder.

Many have been much interested in the fine improvements going on at Thorsby ball grounds.

Sunday morning as I passed the ball grounds on my way to Sunday School and church, I was concerned to see the gathering of boys and men and cars; not at the church, but at the ball grounds, evidently not at all interested in the fact that church bells rang to invite them to come and give God a chance in their lives—or did they go to church later?

When this is taken as a sample of events the country over, I wonder what about the future of our land and of all of the indifferent seekers after pleasure out of season when religion should have attention.

Another wonder.

A short time ago people were asked to pray that the Lord would have mercy and send the right kind of weather to save our peach crop.

We have had some excellent crops and excellent Peach Festivals. But many have not been pleased at the public dance item in the Festival program. Protests made against the dance were disregarded and the dance went on.

I wonder just how the prayers for a crop, so that there may be a peach festival, with dance, are evaluated at the Throne of Grace and awards.

I wonder how long God will continue to be patient with this age of gradual degeneracy, seeing that the present trends are so similar to Bible times when destruction came.

I wonder.

Best wishes,
I. ALVA HART.

MRS. JESSE ALVIN SASSER

MISS ALEE STEWART JOHNSON WEDS JESSE ALVIN SASSER IN CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY

Amidst traditional wedding charm and beauty the marriage of Miss Alee Stewart Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Napoleon Strock Johnson, and the late Dr. Johnson of Clanton and Jesse Alvin Sasser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse John Sasser of Brantley was solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church of Clanton on April 20th, at 5:30 p.m. with the Reverend John Smith officiating.

A channel arch of gracefully arranged Oregon huckleberry, palms and fronds of woodwardia framed a handsome medallion composed of wedding-white gladioli, carnations, stock and Easter lilies. The elegant beauty of the center motif was reflected by the white cathedral candles burning in seven-branched candelabra tied with Easter lilies and white satin streamers.

The candles were lighted by Zeke Sasser and Ben D. Roberts.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. W. L. Longshore of Birmingham, organist. Henry Grady Heflin, Jr., of Clanton, baritone, sang O Perfect Love and Oh Promise Me.

The maid of honor, Miss Priscilla Johnson, of Montgomery, sister of the bride, wore a maize dress of French organza over maize taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice, Johnny collar, tiny self-trim buttons and a sash of maize taffeta. The full skirt paneled with white embroidery was floor-length.

She carried a crescent bouquet of rare Hawaiian croton, golden dawn rose buds and blue delphinium tied with maize satin streamers.

The bride's other attendants were bridesmatron, Mrs. L. H. Bodden of Clanton; bridesmaid, Miss Betty Sasser of Brantley, niece of the groom.

Junior bridesmaids were Nancy Wilbanks of Alex City, niece of the bride; and Ann Deason of Clanton. They were gowned in dresses like the maid of honor's dress and carried identical bouquets.

The ring bearer, Master Crawford Young, Jr., of Thorsby, nephew of the bride, wearing a miniature replica of the summer formals worn by the groom and his attendants carried the rings on a satin pillow.

Serving as best man was Frank Taylor Weed of Brantley. Groomsmen were Zeke Sasser of Montgomery, brother of the groom and Ben D. Roberts of Clanton, nephew of the bride.

Joseph Samuel Johnson of Clanton gave his sister in marriage.

The bride's beauty was enhanced by her wedding gown by Milgrin of antique ivory slipper satin. The bodice was tight-fitting, the neckline heart-shaped and the skirt extended into a demi-train. The veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of orange blossoms and extended beyond the edge of the train of the gown. The bride wore a cameo lavaliere, gift of the groom.

She carried her grandfather's prayer book showered with satin ribbons. From this 75-year-old prayer book belonging to the late Dr. W. E. Stewart, the double ring marriage ceremony was read by the minister. In the reverential quiet that prevailed Mr. Heflin sang malotte's arrangement of The Lord's Prayer.

Romantic as springtime was the colonial home of the bride, the scene of a reception immediately following the wedding. A southern setting of waxed magnolia leaves and wedding-white flowers emphasized the traditional bridal colors of white and green.

Burning white tapers in crystal candelabra and white gladioli, stock and carnations in crystal bowls were used artistically in the dining room.

The bride's table was covered with white satin overlaid with a banquet cloth of hand wrought lace. The double ring wedding cake embossed in bridal rose buds and lilies of the valley was centered on a mirrored plaque outlined with tulle puffs caught at the corners into bride knots. An heirloom bowl of cut glass containing rose buds of bridal white graced the table. In the mints and the Neapolitan ice cream the bridal motif of green and white was repeated.

Cutting the cake were Mrs. Bruce Elliott of Birmingham and Mrs. Robert Powers of Clanton.

Mrs. Paul Page was assisted in serving by Mesdames T. C. Cassidy, Douglass Barton, John Higgins, J. E. Nivens, C. J. Carlisle, Francis Speaks, James Minor, Jeff Miller, W. O. Miller, Clair Norris, and Misses Belle Downey, Ramona Morgan and Pat Plyler.

Others assisting were Mrs. Harold Lawrence who kept the bride's book; Mrs. Erle Ellis who rendered music during the evening; and, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, aunt of the bride, who assisted in receiving the guests.

The bride's mother was attired in a gown of black chiffon and point d'Alencon. Her corsage was purple throated orchid.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Zeke Sasser and Charles, Miss Alee Stewart, Miss Priscilla Johnson, of Montgomery; Mrs. W. L. Longshore, Mrs. V. J. Elmore, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cassidy, Dr. Jake Neighbors, Miss Frances Dauphin, Mrs. Clyde Walker, Mrs. Jim Martin, Mrs. Bruce Elliott, Miss Evelyn Strock, Mr. and Mrs. James Wall, Mrs. Gilbert Branson, Mrs. L. C. Ross, of Birmingham; Frank Taylor Weed and Miss Betty Sasser of Brantley; Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Turner, Sr., Mrs. Annie Welch, P. C. Morgan, Jr., Miss Belle Downey, Miss Romano Morgan, Miss Colleen Register, Miss Eunice Matthews, Miss Rachel Lightfoot, of Luverne; Mrs. Sid Redmond, Mrs. W. L. Warren, Mrs. Frank K. Price, of Troy.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Neighbors and Gilbert Branson, of Goodwater; Mr. and Mrs. Sim Wilbanks, Amelia and Nancy Wilbanks of Alex City; Miss Myra Curtis, of Glenwood; Mr. M. O. Bodiford, of Patsburg; Mrs. Douglas Barton, of Tuscaloosa; r. and Mrs. W. C. Young, Myra, Crawford and Charles Young, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins, of Thorsby; Mr. and Mrs. Dunklin Strock, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Strock, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fort, Verbena; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Strock, of Cooper; Mrs. Paul Page, of Marbury.

For going away the bride chose a suit of navy faille ensembled with white blouse, red topper and navy accessories. Her small hat of navy straw was wreathed in red roses. Her corsage was a white orchid.

After a short wedding trip the bridal couple will be at home in Columbus, Ga.

HUDDLESTON THANKS VOTERS

To the Voters of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit:

I am overwhelmed by your decisive endorsement of my candidacy for Solicitor of this Circuit in the May 2nd primary election. I am especially gratified not only because you gave me the largest vote and the largest majority ever received by any candidate for this office in this Circuit, but especially because you did this in the face of the fact that I was so confined to court duties that I could not see many of you during this campaign; and also because certain political figures concentrated their efforts particularly against me.

I am sure that this circuit has set an example to the entire state, if such were needed, that considerations of long terms will forever be submerged to what the people consider the best interests of their children, their families and the protection of the finances of the people.

I am particularly proud of the fact that I did not utter one derogatory remark against my estimable young opponent, and so advised my supporters. Such statements made against me are entirely forgiven. I wish for this young attorney a successful career, and should he decide to begin the practice of law, I assure him of just and fair treatment from the solicitor's office of this circuit.

I wish to particularly emphasize my gratitude to those who supported me and to those who busied themselves with the details of my campaign when I could not do so. I also wish as strongly to emphasize the entire lack of any revengeful feeling in my heart against anyone, and to extend the hand of friendship and fair treatment to those who voted against me.

Very respectfully,
WINSTON HUDDLESTON.

An Eye-Opener

TO THE COUNTY VOTERS:

The letter of Horace Popwell in last week's paper should be an eye-opener to the voters of Chilton County. In a clear and concise presentation, one cannot fail to be impressed with the plain, unvarnished facts as shown in the Popwell letter.

Success of any representative is measured by the benefits that accrue to the county or district through his efforts. Then, the constituents of Charlie Cox are extremely fortunate, since considerably more than one hundred thousand dollars worth of benefits have been awarded to Chilton County, through his untiring vigilance and effort.

Mr. Cox has served as our representative for eight consecutive years. Most assuredly, the earlier years would not reveal an average of the sum total. The vote who has the wisdom to do a bit of reasoning, would readily and truly conclude that in the beginning, much time, patience and talent are consumed in becoming established on the field. Experience of various types must be acquired, and even then, failure may be the portion of the unfortunate voters who did not give themselves over to the use of common sense in voting, but gave ear to persuasion, thereby placing in control of their possibilities a misfitting candidate.

With such remarkable fruition of benefits that characterize the labors of Mr. Cox, nothing short of base ingratitude would prompt the voters to be careless in going to the polls on May 30th to cast their ballots or to do anything else in their power to bring about a faithful servant's return to the work for which he is so eminently fitted.

Truly, it is up to the voters to exercise diligence and judgement and to play the game fairly. Otherwise we have ourselves to thank for privations of the returns that would otherwise be ours. Mr. Popwell's letter in last week's issue of The Union-Banner is verily an eye-opener concerning the responsibility of the voters in returning a thoroughly capable man to the service for which he is unquestionably fitted.

A VOTER AND A TAXPAYER.

Alabama Industry Days June 15, 16 and 17th

Birmingham, Ala. — The rapidly expanding industrial empire of this state has resulted in another first for Alabama.

A program sponsored by the Associated Industries of Alabama in cooperation with the Alabama Press Association and the University of Alabama's Department of Journalism has been officially proclaimed Alabama Industry Days and will be on a statewide basis during June 15, 16 and 17.

In a statement made today by Paul A. Redmond, Chairman of the Alabama Industry Days Committee, and President of Alabama Mills, Inc., the program was described as the "most outstanding promotional event ever to take place in Alabama."

Mr. Redmond, a past president of the Associated Industries, and presently one of the Association's directors, stated that "in view of the many official days each year in which we honor some person, some object, or some segment of our population, it was felt that the industry which serves as the backbone of each community, each state and our nation as a whole, should take such an opportunity to acquaint the people with the facts of its functions."

According to the Industry Days Chairman, a program is being planned during the three days for every county, and every large community within each county, in Alabama.

"This program is designed to acquaint the public with Alabama Industry, its place in the community life of Alabama, and what industry means to the individual community," Mr. Redmond said.

Mr. Redmond pointed out that there are more than 4,000 manufacturing plants in Alabama employing more than 200,000 people annually. "These plants provide family incomes which directly affect more than 800,000 people, and countless others more than," he said, "and we feel that these people should have an opportunity to become better acquainted with the medium which affords them the necessities and luxuries of life. The Alabama Industry Days program wil do just that."

"In many counties and communities," he continued "we have committees already hard at work. These committees are arranging outstanding programs for the Industry Days celebration, which will include plant visitations, community rallies, outstanding speakers, high school bands and industrial exhibits."

Stressing Alabama-grown, Alabama-processed, and Alabama-made products will also be one of the major objectives of the program.

In order to accomplish this objective, Mr. Redmond said that industrial concerns all over the state were being asked to contribute 175 samples of one of their farm's best products for this program. The companies will send these 175 sample products to the Industrial Arts Building, Fairgrounds, Birmingham, where they will be compiled into kits for distribution to every county in the state, and to the larger communities within the counties, for display during this three-day period.

This part of the program will be handled through the members of the Alabama Press Association and other newspaper editors and publishers all over the State. The local editors are being asked to secure a prominent window in the community for the purpose of displaying the Alabama products during June 15, 16 and 17.

Mr. Redmond emphasized that this program was not restricted to members of the Associated Industries of Alabama. He urged all other manufacturers in this state who want to participate in the contribution of sample products for the kits to communicate with the Associated Industries of Alabama office, Comer Building, Birmingham.

Through the Department of Journalism at the University of Alabama, a corps of advanced journalism students will assimilate and draft articles on all firms who participate in this promotion. These articles, will in turn, be turned over to the Secretary-Manager of the Press Association for final dissemination to all editors and publishers in Alabama.

The merchants over the state are also being asked to cooperate in making this one of the most outstanding programs ever attempted to acquaint the people with their home-grown,-made, and processed products. They will feature the Alabama products, and in many instances are expected to run sales on these products during the three-day interval.

Commenting on the future aspects of this program, Mr. Redmond stated "We are proud that Alabama has taken the lead in promoting such a program for the common good of all its people. It definitely is another first for our state. We feel that this program will not only be an annual affair in Alabama, but in the foreseeable future it will become national in its scope."

Groundwork has already been laid in making Industry Days an annual event in Alabama, through an official proclamation from the Governor's office. Following is a quotation from the Governor's proclamation:

"WHEREAS, the great industrial growth of this State in recent years has resulted in national recognition as a cooperative effort on the part of all the people; and

"WHEREAS, all the people including industry, the press, professional groups, the farmer, laborer, and other workers have made this vast industrial progress possible; and

"WHEREAS, there are many official days designated for persons, projects, and the like; and

"WHEREAS, the people of this State are entitled, but have never had a full opportunity to know the industrial concerns and their products, which have made possible the greater utilization of the vast resources of this State;

"NOW, THEREFORE, I, James E. Folsom, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby proclaim, fix, and designate, and appoint the 15th, 16th and 17th of June, 1950, as ALABAMA INDUSTRY DAYS."

The proclamation, making Alabama Industry Days official, was signed by the Governor on March 27.

SEED PRODUCTION

Some Alabama farmers are preparing to grow seed to sell for cash which will make up for income that would have been made if the peanut and cotton acreage had not ben cut.

"THE BETTER SPEECH CLUB" POEMS

Poems composed by members of The Better Speech Club in honor of their mothers:

MY MOTHER

My mother's so sweet,
good and kind!
A helper true in her
I find.
She's understanding and able to guide
Why, I'll always need her by my side.
She's helping now to make me be
The sort of boy who's trouble free.
Now oft when burdens have pressed me sore,
She helped me to banish them by the score.
Advice she's eager and able to give
And teach a boy how he should live.
When problems I tackle
in vain,
She's able to make them
very plain.
A mother like this is worthy, I say,
And I love her more and more each day.
—PHILLIP SHELTON.

MOTHER DEAR

O mother dear, you bring me cheer
And happiness throughout the year.
Without your loving, precious care
I could not learn my joys to share
Nor how to form my words in prayer.
And I confess, I'm like the bee
Who takes sweet nectar
from the tree.
I know if life should catch me ill
Your precious kiss could cure me still.
And now that I am oft away
There's healing in your love today.
—KATHERYN LITTLE.

MOTHER DEAR

I have such a sweet, devoted mother!
I know that like her, there is no other.
She guides me in both work and play
And always has kind words to say.
When I am sad and in distress,
She soothes me with a sweet caress.
She taught my childish lips to pray
As I commune with God each day.
Oh, mother to me will never grow old,
For God molded her heart of the purest gold.
She overcomes both sin and strife.
Why she's the grandest thing in my life!
—KATHARENE ANN MAYO.

MOTHER

Mother, dearest, mother mine,
I love you more each day.
Your calm, contented, peaceful life
Will never let me stray.
Though hard I often work
and play
And maybe seem to roam,
'Tis you my thoughts are always of,
Yes, you and Dad and home.
You've always guarded me from harm,
In youth protected me;
And now that I am older grown,
Dearer you've grown to me.
I really love my classmates
all
And hold them very dear,
But none can compare with you, mother,
No one anywhere!
—CURTIS BAKER.

MY MOTHER

When my mother caresses me,
I think how unlucky I would be,
Without my mother's soothing kiss.
I think of the nice things
I would miss
If I didn't have my mother.
I think of my mother's kindly hands.
When I'm disheartened,
she understands.
When I was a baby, she cared for me.
Now that I'm older, she's helping me be
The kind of lady my dreams could see.
What would I be without
my mother?
—ELIZABETH OGLESBY.

A MESSAGE TO MOTHER

'Tis sweet to have a mother's love
And know she always cares,
'Tis great to have her confidence,
Her tender hope, her prayers.
In all my ups and downs of life
To have her warm concern.
'Tis sweet to kiss her every night
And love her in return.
—CELESTE DEASON.

MY MOTHER

I really love my mother,
And I show it every day
In the many things I do
In a gentle, helpful way.
And when it comes to lessons,
Well, I always do my work,
For it thrills my mother always
To see I do not shirk.
—BARBARA ANN JONES.

Loose boards or nails in steps and stairs have caused many a fall. Another common fall hazard is clutter on stairs—toys, boxes, etc.

Apple sauce will have a better flavor if the apples are peeled before cooking. When apples are cooked unpeeled and then strained, the sauce may have a bitter taste from the peel. Cook the sauce rapidly in a covered pan.

CHILTON COUNTY LAGGING ON CANCER GOAL

Reports from volunteer workers in the drive for funds to fight cancer indicate that Chilton County is lagging on its goal of $875.00, County Campaign Chairman Dent Williams said today. He heads the drive here for the American Cancer Society.

"I'm not seriously concerned yet because those people our volunteers have called on are responding generously. And they have more calls to make.

"But the tempo of contributions does have to be stepped up if Chilton County is not to fall short of giving its fair share in this state-wide and nationwide fight to bring cancer under control," the chairman explained.

"This is not a question of giving some money just because 'it's the thing to do and I have to give something.' It's sending our dollars to fight a threat that hangs over each one of us. . . .man, woman and child. . . .personally. Right here in Alabama cancer is killing an average of seven persons every day. At its present rate, it will kill more than 352,000 Alabamians unless we do something about it.

"And there is something we can do about it. Our money will finance the tremendous tasks of teaching all of us to know the facts about cancer, of providing service for cancer patients and of research to find the causes and cure for all types of cancer. Chilton County is not going to fail. I'm sure of that."

Contributions may be sent to American Cancer Society campaign headquarters, at Dent Williams Motor Co., or by adressing your envelope to "Cancer," Clanton, Ala.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PLAN WINTER GRAZING

To the inexperienced, it may seem strange to read an article about crimson clover and ryegrass for winter grazing at this time of year.

"But," declares J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "those who want to provide good green grazing for their livestock next winter must do some planning right now. In other words, one should set some good land aside that can be plowed in June and fallowed until time to plant crimson clover and ryegrass."

The specialist adds that in the southern half of the state, farmers may need to wait a little later before starting land to fallow. However, if late fall and winter grazing are wanted, seed must be planted on a fallowed seed bed.

Veteran's Children Aided By Poppy Day Contributions

Children left in need by the death or disability of a veteran father will be among those who benefit from Poppy Day, to the observed here on May 27, the Saturday before Memorial Day, by the wearing of poppies in honor of the war dead.

How the wearing of a poppy helps some child of a veteran was described by Mrs. E. J. Morris, Child Welfare Chairman of Chilton County Unit No. 6 of the American Legion Auxiliary, which is sponsoring Poppy Day here.

"Funds from Poppy Day contributions enable our Auxiliary Unit to be ready to come to the rescue of any child of a veteran we find in need," Mrs. Morris explained. We believe that no child should suffer because his father served for America, and we are carrying forward constantly an effective child welfare program to aid children of veterans, as well as to improve conditions for all children.

When a person drops a coin into the box carried by a volunteer poppy day worker, he is helping us care for these innocent little victims of war, when death, disability or other war-born causes breaks up the family of a veteran, it is the children who suffer most.

Mrs. Morris will be among the auxiliary volunteers who will be on the streets here all day on Poppy Day offering memorial poppies to be worn in honor of the war dead and receiving contributions for the auxiliary's work for disabled veterans and needy children of veterans.

MORE BOXES NEEDED

Chilton County Beat 4 needs more polling places. Unless something is done to relieve the election officials of the heavy count in this Beat it will soon be impossible to get efficient help at the polls on election day.

The officials at Beat 4, Box 1, finished the counting of votes at 7 or 8 o'clock the following morning which add up to 24 continuous hours at the polling place. That's too much to ask of any citizen.

There are 1,127 registered voters in Beat 4, Box 1. There are 716 in Box 2; 454 in Box 3 and 491 in Box 4. Thus according to the Code of Alabama it is mandatory, that the governing body of Chilton County divide Boxes 1 and 2. In other words Beat 4 should have six polling places instead of four. The Code of Alabama of 1940 says: "ELECTION PRECINCTS AND DISTRICTS—The counties in this state as now divided into precincts, and the boundaries of such precincts as now defined, shall so remain until changed by order of the court of county commissioners or board of revenue, or other governing board of the county. Whenever such election precincts, as now existing, contain more than five hundred legal voters, said election precincts shall be divided or subdivided into election districts. . . .

The Code further advises: "SECTION IS MANDATORY. . . .This section makes it mandatory that if any of the election precincts, as now existing in any of the counties of the state contain more than five hundred legal voters, such election precincts shall be divided or subdivided into election districts. Rep. Atty. Gen. 1928-30 p. 1004. . . .

Thus it is clear that instead of the four boxes in Beat 4 the Commissioners of Chilton County should subdivide the present boxes so as to distribute the balloting and vote counting into six or even seven boxes.

It is a step that should be made in the interest of better voting conditions in our county.

Grand Champion Brings $2286 At Birmingham Fat Stock Show

Birmingham, Ala. (Special)—A Hereford calf, owned by Charles Lee Stallings of Stevenson, Jackson County, was judged grand champion of the 1950 Birmingham Fat Stock show. The judging took place in front of the grandstand at Fair Park last Thursday before a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Woodward Iron Company paid this year's top price of $2.25 per pound for the grand champion which is 18 months old and weighed 1016 pounds. Young Stallings, a 17-year old FFA boy who raised the grand champion, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Stallings of Stevenson.

Monroe Rooks, Chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, announced that the Birmingham Stock Show is now the largest livestock show east of the Mississippi River. This year 324 fine calves from 23 counties were exhibited by 4-H and FFA boys and girls. The purchase price of these calves averaged about 5c per pound over the current market price. A total of about 260,000 pounds was sold for approximately $90,000. It is estimated that about 50,000 people attended the Stock Show and Wild West Show presented in conjunction with it.

Following the purchase of the Grand Champion, B. C. Colcord, President of Woodward Iron Company, said:

"The Woodward Iron Company purchased this Grand Champion in the hope that Alabama's livestock progress would be benefited. I congratulate Charles Stallings on exhibiting the Grand Champion; he certainly deserves the honor. We can all be proud of the outstanding work being done by our 4-H and FFA members and their advisers, as well as our excellent Extension Service. In my opinion, Alabama is destined to become the livestock center of the Southeast and perhaps of the nation. I sincerely hope that the purchase of this Grand Champion will offer encouragement to other 4-H and FFA members. We in Southern industry realize that agricultural prosperity is essential to our industrial prosperity."

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

We understand the powers that be, are contemplating extending the Clanton city limits down our way. We would like that. It would allow us to raise cain once in a while about what goes on, or doesn't go on around the City Hall. It would enable us to run for Mayor. Then we would have some excuse for looking old and worried—like Leo Thompson. O.K., so we already look older and more worried than Leo, but we haven't got any excuse for it. You know, if we were Mayor, or running for Mayor, our platform would read something like this. . . .to give the ladies (ladies always come first, you know) all the good things they want and deserve, all the time they want away from household duties and their everyday endless obligations to the cook stove and the dish pan. All the sweets and rich deserts they so regularly crave, with no worry of the extra pounds it would add to here, and to there. That should sway the lady vote, and now as to the male vote. . . .the laughingly referred to, stronger sex—the man that is, could depend on the candidate to fight to the last ditch for his right to have nights out with no explanation, just as the lady has the afternoons out with no explanations. He should go without shaving when he feels like it and no questions, (or should we say no cussing). Should he feel better without a tie—then no tie—He should be allowed at least one dollar a week spending money without having to account for every penny. Could sing in the bathtub, smoke a pipe in the parlor, or roam the house in his sock feet if the notion pleases him. That, ladies and gentlemen. is a rough sample of what we want the next candidate to stand for. Course the better-half wouldn't ever stand for it, but we can dream.

The Goodyear Store has moved into their new home and have a mighty pretty display. Mr. Swafford, the manager, and Mr. Higgins, his assistant, are nice friendly fellows you will like to know. Go by to see their new store and meet them.

Sgt. Morehead, the new recruiting officer for this territory, came in to see us this week. He replaces Sgt. Aussant, who has gone to Fort Bragg. Clanton and Chilton County will miss the Aussants. Folks around here grew very fond of them. Joan graduates this year and we understand will go to college in Alabama. Maybe after the Sergeant retires from active duty with the U. S. Army he will come back to Chilton County and make his home. Once you get to live in this county, you seldom get away from it, for very long.

Looks like Clanton will have a first class Motel. Already boasting one of the finest Tourist Courts in the South and one of the best small town hotels anywhere, now added to the list will be the Motel. It will be located one-mile South of town on U. S. 31. Construction has already started on the project.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Although totals are not yet complete, and contributions are still being received, we of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults wish to say "thank you" to every one who participated in or contributed to the 1950 Easter Seal Campaign.

The goal set for the 1950 campaign was nearly reached in every county in the state. Some counties have exceeded their goal and we hope as the late-comers send in their contribution, the other counties will reach their goal so that we can give more service to the handicapped children and adults in Alabama.

Our work will go on throughout the year and we count upon the continued interest and support of our friends throughout all of the twelve months ahead. It is their understanding of a great humanitarian cause that makes possible its work.

Thank you

Sincerely yours,
MARY RUTH CRAWFORD,
Field Representative.

(answer to last week's puzzle)

Rich, But Poor

The Nizam of Hyderabad may not be the richest man in the world, but according to reports, it takes him days to count his money. His money and fabulous jewels are stored in an air-conditioned vault that only he ever enters. The latest estimate of his wealth made by himself and a group of close friends, shows these figures:

A. T. HICKMAN

Gold and silver, and currency notes $73,500,000. Sales of his bullion through the Reserve Bank of India fetched $34,650,000. Crown jewels and heirlooms $21,000,000. These figures amounts to $129,150,000. But no one knows exactly the value of the Nizam's wealth. However, some of his household have made a guess that the Nizam must have about $1,500,000,000. And even though he has all this wealth the Nizam takes but little interest in the outside world, and he eats only one meal a day.

Jesus said, "What is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" And again Jesus said, "That a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. For it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Then He adds this statement, "With God all things are possible."

In other words, it is not impossible for a rich man to be saved, if he will only meet the condition of Salvation. Jesus said, "If any man come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow Me." There must be self denial, and a heart faith in Jesus Christ, and a willingness on our part to do His will, in order for any one to be saved. To the poor, the invitation is, "Come without money and without price. . .Come and drink of the Water of Life freely."

Friend, you may belong to the poor class in this world, but remember, that a little that a righteous man hath is far better than the riches of many wicked. And the blessings of the Lord maketh rich, and adds no sorrow therewith. Salvation for the soul of man is a free gift of God to man. We are saved by his grace, through faith, not of good works, nor of money, fame or honor, but it is the gift of God bestowed upon the sinner who will believe in, and accept Jesus Christ as Saviour. a Some are rich, but yet poor, while others are poor, but rich.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I effect a pleasing variation in the taste of pie crust?

A. Try using a couple of tablespoonfuls of peanut butter, or the grated rinds of oranges or lemons. The use of orange juice or cream cheese to moisten the dough, instead of water, is also effective.

Q. How can I clean concrete floors successfully?

A. Scrub the floors with a gallon of water, to which has been added a pound of lime and a handful of salt.

Q. How can I make a good plant fertilizer?

A. The earth around plants can be enriched by watering with a solution of 150 grains of glue to two gallons of water.

Q. How can I make a substitute for yeast cakes?

A. Take a small quantity of bread dough, stiffen it with corn meal, roll it out to the required thickness, then cut into squares and allow to dry. Place these cubes in a box that is not air-tight.

Q. How can I clean zinc?

A. Rub carefully with kerosene and then polish with newspapers. The kerosene and printers' ink on the newspaper is a combination that will remove all stains.

Q. How can I keep woolens soft and fluffy when laundering?

A. The water in which woolens are rinsed should be exactly the same temperature as the water in which they are washed, to keep them nice and soft.

Q. What is a good substitute for mucilage, when one finds that the only stamp available has no mucilage on it?

A. All necessary is to moisten the mucilage flap of another envelope, run the stamp quickly over the dampened part, then place on the letter to be mailed.

Q. How can I prevent custards from becoming watery?

A. Set the custards in a pan of warm water when placing in the oven, and bake only until a silver knife, when inserted in the center, comes out clean.

Q. How can I remove scorch spots from linen?

A. If not scorched too badly, rub the linen with a cut onion and then soak in cold water.

Q. How can I clean terra cotta effectively?

A. Make a solution of potash by dissolving in a half pint of warm water as much of the potash as it will absorb. Then stir in enough sawdust to bring the solution to a consistency of paste; cover the terra cotta with this paste and leave it for at least a day. Then wash off with cold water and clean with non-fluffy cloths.

Your Health

SINUSITIS

People, after a certain age, normally have eight sinuses. There are the accessory or paranasal sinuses, which lie within the bony structure of the skull; the frontal sinuses, located just above the root of the nose, the antrums situated in the cheek bones; the remaining two are behind the inner nasal cavity. Interestingly enough, the frontal sinuses are not present at birth, but begin their formation at about the seventh or eighth year.

It is believed that the function of the sinuses is to lighten the weight of the skull and give resonance and quality to the human voice. They also help in conditioning inhaled air by warming and moistening it.

When an infection attacks any one of the sinuses, the complaint is characterized with symptoms much like the common cold—sneezing, tickling and itching of the nasal passages, draining of the nasal secretions and a soreness in the affected areas. Because of the swelling of the nasal tissue, there is difficulty in breathing. Also allergy seems to be a factor in many cases of sinusitis.

Some of the newer medications have been beneficial in relieving sinusitis, particularly in the acute stage. However, very often the condition becomes chronic, and the passages swell and close, thus preventing the drainage of the infectious secretions. When this occurs, instruments very often are required to open the passages. Strangely, the location of the sinuses in the head does not aid in easy drainage.

The victim of sinusitis is the target of many marketed "cureallls.' Because the lining of the nose and its general makeup is sensitive, a person would be wise to refrain from their use unless recommended by a physician. More harm than good can be accomplished, unless properly administered.

An examination is in order because frequently polyps or growths in the nasal passages are present. These create an obstruction which ultimately causes symptoms that mimic those of sinusitis.

If an examination rules out the presence of bacteria or sensitivity, x-rays prove that no malformation exists, it is frequently necessary to check the emotional background of the person since very often tension is a factor in this disturbance.

BEST WAYS TO KEEP DIRT OUT OF MILK

Auburn, Ala. — Successful dairymen agree that clean milk means satisfied customers and more sales.

J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Service dairyman, states that the first step in clean milk production is to keep hair on the cow's udder, flank, hind legs, belly and tail clipped short.

He believes that cows should be kept well-groomed. Also, just before milking each cow, one should massage and wipe teats and udder with a cloth wrung out of warm water containing a disinfectant.

"Unclean barns, floors, walls and ceilings expose the milk to mediment by particles of dirt falling or blowing into the milk," warns the specialist. "This condition can be prevented by keeping the interior of the barn free from dust, cobwebs, chaff, and manure."

Parrish further states that flies and other insects should be kept away from milk and the utensils used in the dairy. This job may be done by keeping the barnyard and surroundings free of places where flies breed and feed. And, last but not least, dairy utensils, such as pails, strainers, milking machine parts, and milk cans should be properly cleaned and kept free of dust.

MR. BOOZER WRITES VOTERS

To The Voters Of Alabama:

I want to thank everyone who had a part in my race for Governor of Alabama, and tell them I appreciate them, and the work they did for me, very much.

The people have spoken, and I am willing to abide by their decision. I just hope whoever leads this great state will do everything in his power to build it, as I think Alabama is the best state in the Southland, and could be made into one of the best in the nation. Let's all work for a bigger and better Alabama.

Yours sincerely,

ELBERT BOOZER

SWEETPOTATO AND TRUCK CROP TIPS

Auburn, Ala. — Early planted sweetpotatoes should be side dressed with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda about 30 days after setting the plants. The soda will help push the plants along so that more vine cuttings will be available early in June.

"Other truck crops may need a little extra nitrogen to keep them growing vigorously," asserts John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist. "This fact is especially true on lighter soils where leaching is greater. Usually a side dressing is applied five or six weeks after planting at a rate of 100 to 200 pounds per acre. The time and amount will vary on different crops. Truck crop growers may want to contact the local county agent for specific recommendations."

NOW IS THE TIME TO PLAN WINTER GRAZING

To the inexperienced, it may seem strange to read an article about crimson clover and ryegrass for winter grazing at this time of year.

"But," declares J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "those who want to provide good green grazing for their livestock next winter must do some planning right now. In other words, one should set some good land aside that can be plowed in June and fallowed until time to plant crimson clover and ryegrass."

The specialist adds that in the southern half of the state, farmers may need to wait a little later before starting land to fallow. However, if late fall and winter grazing are wanted, seed must be planted on a fallowed seed bed.

PUT THE RIGHT CROP ON THE RIGHT LAND

To get the most out of labor, seed and fertilizer, put each crop on the land suited to it.

"Then,' says S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, "treat each crop in accordance with practices and measures that have been tested by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station and proved by many Alabama farmers.'

The local county agent has complete details on crops adapted to Alabama conditions.

A DEMOCRATIC MESSAGE!

To The People Of The 6th Congressional District:

On May 2nd the Democrats of this State regained control of the State Executive Committee by a comfortable majority. Approximately 100,000 votes were cast for the DEMOCRATIC Candidates in the 6th Congressional District in this race. . .thus giving them a clear majority of the total votes, although three Dixiecrats were declared elected.

It is manifest that the 6th District should place a majority of Democrats on this Committee, and that the will of the majority of the people, as expressed on May 2 both in this District and throughout the State of Alabama, should prevail. Our District in particular should have a strong voice on the State Executive Committee.

We urge you to go to the polls on May 30th and exercise your important duty of voting in the run-off election. We further urge the election of the following men who led the Democratic Ticket in this District on May 2nd. . .

THESE MEN ARE LOYAL Democrats NOT "Dixiecrats" VOTE FOR ALL FIVE

JOHN M. HIGGINS WRITES TO THE VOTERS

Dear Friends:

I want to thank all of you for the very fine support you gave me and the other States Rights Democrats on May 2nd.

I received 10,188 votes in the district, placing seventh in a field of 23 candidates. Excluding Tuscaloosa, I received more votes than any other candidate in the total of the seven smaller counties.

Whether I win or lose in the second primary, I shall always be grateful for this fine support received on May 2.

We elected three men from Tuscaloosa in the first primary and there are three more men from Tuscaloosa in the run-off. If these men were to be elected, Tuscaloosa would have six committeemen and the other seven counties would have only two.

Many of our friends in Tuscaloosa are realizing that it is not right for Tuscaloosa to have all or nearly all of these committee seats and we are getting a lot of assurances of support by the fair-minded people of Tuscaloosa for candidates from the smaller counties.

The following States Rights candidates are all from the smaller counties: John M. Higgins of Chilton, Coleman Long of Perry, Percy Norwood of Sumter, Herbert Milstead of Shelby and Winston Withers of Hale.

None of these men hold any political office of profit, and all are engaged in making their living in their respective communities. Among these five men are farmers, veterans, lawyers, one lumberman and one pharmacist.

Remember that if these en are elected they will oppose the handpicking from Washington of delegates and electors in 1952, and they will strive to protect your right to a free primary to settle this question in 1952.

Remember also that our County of Chilton has not been represented on this committee in eight years.

The States Rights candidates carried Chilton County by two to one in the first primary and we earnestly solicit everyone to help us put this over for the remaining five seats on May 30.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN M. HIGGINS.

The long-range prospects for profits from beef cattle appear to be one of the most promising opportunities for many farmers in Alabama; this situation calls for an increase of cows and heifers in beef breeding herds.

POLISHED RICE IS A SOURCE OF PROTEIN

Our bodies make much better use of proteins in polished rice than they do of proteins in enriched white flour, according to Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

For growth and repair of body tissues, protein foods are necessary. Cereal products like bread and rice are not especially good sources of protein. However, many people whose diets do not include much meat, eggs, or dairy products must depend to a great extent on the protein in cereal grains.

Since tests show that rice protein is nearly three times as valuable for growth is the protein in enriched flour, perhaps rice should be served more often.

AGING COTTON SEED

Many farmers in Alabama make a practice of planting cottonseed that are two years old. In this length of time, seed-borne diseases have had time to "die off."

Motion savers: Cut out unnecessary jobs and combine others, and put away furnishings and objects that require extra care.

SUMMER EROSION

Farmers can greatly reduce serious summer erosion by practicing contour farming, mending weak places in terraces, and putting terrace outlets in good condition before summer downpours begin.

THE MEMOIRS OF A CENSUS ENUMERATOR

(By Gertrude Nivens)

Our hearts were young and gay as we tripped into class for our enumerators training. There were sixteen of us in the crew, four were urban and the others rural enumerators. We were getting ready to do our bit in the greatest quiz game in all history—the 17th Decennial Census of the United States of America—the 1950 Census will give over 150,000,000 people in this country and perhaps 4,000,000 more in the U. S. Territories and possessions, an opportunity of telling the Government about themselves.

Mr. Thomas Kennedy, a recent graduate of Auburn, was our Crew Leader. He received his degree in Industrial Engineering on February 22 of this year, after three years at Auburn and was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. We consider him second to none as a teacher, leader and friend. Not only is he a good leader, but he proved himself a good follower of all the comprehensive instructions prepared for the training program by the Census Bureau in Washington. Always, he was ready to lend a listening ear to our woes, problems and achievements. Never once did he lose patience or behave other than the fine Southern Gentleman he is. To him, for the thorough training we received, and to his sound advice, we owe much of the success we made in our District.

For the better part of a week our minds absorbed like a sponge the many facts we must know to be an enumerator. With trembling knees and a quaking heart we went out to do our practice enumerating. Green, is the word that describes and expresses how we felt about our ability to put into practice the training we had received. Many times that day one or the other of us had to grin at the respondent shamefacedly, and admit we were new. Fortunately they grinned back and we dug into our past folio and brought out our best friend, old reference manual, and soon we were again on the right track. Truly the best informed individual is not always the one who knows the most, but the one who knows where to find it.

Learn we did, and gained added confidence daily as we continued on with our task. Our adventures as a census enumerator will be an experience we shall never forget. There were many incidents, humorous, pathetic, grim and gay, but on the whole all was as well as we could wish for. We have always liked people and our personal contacts with the respondents in our District confirmed our suspicion that people are mighty fine folks.

We believe Chilton County is the garden spot of the earth and we may find that we are famous for our fine large families as well as our big lucious Chilco Peaches. Our largest enumerated family in one household were feeding three meals a day to sixteen members of the family.

We combed our territory with a fine tooth comb. Our task was to enumerate all the people living in our district and believe you me we got them all! There were no flag pole sitters to climb up and enumerate, but we did enumerate one family thru the closed bathroom door. The lady of the house was taking her bath, so we hollered the questions and she called back the answers. We did not see her but have no reason to believe she isn't enumerated along with the rest of her household.

Then there was the kind family that kept the taxi waiting at the door while they answered our queries. And that lovely lady who sat on her porch for more than an hour, postponing her trip to town until we had time to get to her home and fill in the proper lines and spaces.

There were no serious accidents for which we are most grateful, but one day in a rural area we stepped upon a veranda before we noted it might be classed as a dilapidated dwelling unit. We beat a tatoo on the door with our sore knuckles—nobody home—so back down the steps we carefully picked our way, when crash! we fell through a broken plank and sprawled out on the ground with sand in our hair and our feelings at an all time low. For a few days thereafter we limped up to the doors of our respondents.

Of course we had no time to chat or linger in small talks with the good people we met. Many times we would so loved to have tarried and visited with the elderly shut-ins who welcomed even the census taker into their long lonesome days. Our hearts were moved with compassion for the many people who were ill, and yet so patient in answering our questions. One day when we were tired and had called on a family where there was a sick mother, we did apologize for intruding and tried to hurry as best we could, then as we closed the door, the voice of that dear sick lady followered us: "Now wasn't she a nice kind lady." For those words we are most grateful and we do remember you in our prayers even though we couldn't tarry to visit.

All wasn't sunny skies and fair weather. One afternoon a cloud formed overhead and the rain descended in torrents. Without a car, raincoat or hat we would have been soaked except a kind couple took us in and made us welcome. It's a small world, we were strangers to each other but we discovered the head of the house was one in whose home we used to visit as a wee lassie many years ago. While the rain pattered on the roof we opened the door of memories and recalled many incidents of long ago. The phonagraph with its big horn and cylinder shaped records. Our favorites were "Baby Rose" and "Whistling Jim—and that delicious lye hominy his mother use to make!

When the skies were smiling again his lovely lady put her blue raincoat on us to protect us from any dampness. People are nice.

These are incidents which might be multiplied many times over. There were occasions when we were chased by geese and by dogs. But most animals were friendly and we recall one freckled-faced lad wanted to know if we took their dogies census too.

Of course the facts of the census are strictly confidential and cannot be revealed. One dear lady asked us to go up the street and then come back and tell her friend's age, we explained tactfully that was against the law. She laughed gaily and said she only wanted to find out if she could trust us before she and her household were enumerated. Most people we found were not age conscious, contrary to popular opinion. There was the colored family who were not sure of their ages—one said, "I'se the biggest but I think we've had him the longest."

Not all of our respondents could answer back. There was the deaf mute family, we wrote all the questions and they wrote back the answers. Then one day we visited a home where the mother was a deaf mute but the father wasn't. She wrote us a note, "Hold the baby while I go to the field and get my husband." We discovered he had been trying to stay at home or nearby in the fields until the day the census taker came.

The Census rapidly nears the the end. Now we have a new definition for the sweetest sound on earth. It's footsteps coming to the door after you've knocked or rung the bell.

Should you hear a strange language, men and women speaking knowingly of Ed's, I.C.R.'s, PI's, Form 17FLD" and other intelligable sounds, then groan and mutter Agriculture Questionnaire, don't run for the nearest storm cellar or call the F.B.I. You have just bumped into census enumerators or Crew Leaders and their boss.

Seriously, we enjoyed our work and we believe most people liked us too. We predict when the 1960 census enumerators go around there will be a number of children, both male and female, under ten years of age who will give their name as, Decennial Census Doe.

Time marches on and we are now editing and tabulating clerks in the district office. We like our work and think the office personnel is swell.

Mr. L. C. Warr, a former beloved high school principal, is the capable, efficient district supervisor over eight counties. He commands the respect and admiration of us all.

Miss Mary Griffin of Marion, Ala., is assistant supervisor and our "Boss Lady." To know her is to love her and we don't want to send her back when the work is finished. She is a beautiful blond, blue-eyed Miss and we'd like to transplant her among our own Chilco beauties for keeps.

Alabama Industry Days To Show State's Great Industrial Advancement

Birmingham, Ala. — Sleepy South? Backward Alabama? Who says so?

Throughout the country eyes will be cast on Alabama during June 15, 16, 17, in a "show me" manner. And the industrial stars which have fallen on Alabama in ever-increasing numbers during the past few years will be the answer to those who look upon our state as backward and unprogressive.

For these three days, which have been officially proclaimed "Alabama Industry Days" by the Governor, the industrial might of Alabama will go on exhibit in every county in the state.

Instead of bringing up the rear of its 47 other sister states, Alabama will march to the top of the list as the first state in the nation to honor the industries which provide the means of livelihood for its 2,920,000 plus citizens.

The program is being sponsored by the Associated Industries of Alabama in cooperation with the Alabama Press Association and the University's Department of Journalism.

While the program is being designed to acquaint every community in the state with what industry means to that particular community, the public will also be acquainted with the general industrial growth of the state over the past decade or so.

Internationally known for its abundant natural resources, Alabama is the only spot in the nation where iron ore, coal and limestone are found together in commercial quantities. The Birmingham area alone produces nearly all of the iron and steel products in the Southeast.

But the Alabama story is not exclusively iron and steel. Ranking fourth in the nation in output of cotton textiles, Alabama finds itself clinging to the second spot among largest growers of cotton in the Southeast.

Alabama's lumber industry ranks third in the nation—behind Washington and Oregon—and boasts more than 20,000,000 acres of forest land. The state's 15 paper manufacturing plants and countless lumber mills find in Alabama a happy climate in which to operate. Among the larger paper manufacturing plants in the state are Gulf States Paper Corporation at Tuscaloosa, and International Paper Company, and Hollingsworth and Whitney at Mobile.

Still the picture of Alabama's larger industries is not complete without a quick run-down on the textile industry. Headed by such state-wide companies as Alabama Mills, West Point Manufacturing Co., Avondale Mills and Dwight Manufacturing Company, textile manufacturing is represented by 146 such plants. These plants have active plant equipment valued at more than $67 million; employ almost 49,000 people; and. in 1949 had a sales volume of approximately $432,600,000.

In addition to this, Alabama boasts the second most important port in the Southeast. In veiw of this, it is easily recognized that foreign trade is a major factor in the Alabama economy. The vast facilities of the Alabama State Docks at Mobile presently permit simultaneous docking of 22 ships, which last year transported commodities valued at more than $60,000,000.

These are but brief summaries of the industrial growth of Alabama which will be stressed during the celebration of Alabama's—and the nation's—first official "Industry Days."

Ascorbic acid is now being added to apple juice. Not only does it increase the Vitamin C content, but it also enhances the keeping qualities and retains original flavor and color better than usual methods.

Here's a "Shining Example"

Seems like every youngster in town was down in front of the V.F.W. home last Saturday morning having fluorescent tape put on the back fender of his bicycle by Smiley Roberts, our local post commander.

"It shines in the dark," says Smiley. "When a car's headlights hit this tape at night, it reflects right back — even at distances where you wouldn't notice the bike itself. With just this little extra effort on our part, we're protecting both the drivers and youngsters in town from accidents."

I want to congratulate the vets on this example of public spirit. Community Volunteering, you might call it — for the common good. Like the way the beer retailers voluntarily co-operate with the Brewers' Self-Regulation Program whereby their premises are carefully kept clean and bright and law-abiding—for the public's benefit.

From where I sit, whether it's riding a bicycle or running a business, it pays to follow the time-tested rule of "Safety First."

PLEASANT GROVE METHODIST

Our crowd was somewhat off Sunday, but we have some sickness and people going home and various places celebrating Mother's Day. Let us all remember that next Sunday is our regular preaching day. The last quarterly conference for the Clanton-Circuit will be held here next Sunday night beginning at 7:30. Dr. Carlton Preer, District Superintendent, will bring the evening message after which he will hold the quarterly conference.

We would like to say something about our Spring revival. Rv. O. H. Vanlandingham from Tennessee did some wonderful preaching. He did not get to stay the time scheduled for the meeting on the account of being called back home.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Arthur Henley is in the hospital in Birmingham, Ala. We wish her a speedy recovery as she is missed so much in our church.

As another official Mother's Day has passed we wonder if we mothers are worthy of this honor. To many mothers there is a perpetual Mother's Day. Just the simple little remembrances of love every day. Not the gaily-bound corsage, the fancy greeting cards, the expensive gift, the dearest gift and the gift that would bring the most joy and happiness to most mothers is that her children live clean Christian lives. May God help us mothers to live clean, pure lives, trusting and faithful to our Lord, that we may be worthy of this high honor.

Graduation exercises will be held at the Maplesville High School auditorium next Friday night, May 19th, at 8 o'clock.

Ford does it again

Ford's the first car ever to receive the coveted New York Fashion Academy medal in two consecutive years

All the world of Fashion looks to New York's famed Fashion Academy as an authority on style. So it's no wonder Ford is proud to receive their medal as "Fashion Car of the Year" for the second straight year. Never before was a car honored by two Fashion Academy Awards in a row! Here's proof that Ford has succeeded in bringing style to the low-price field—that even far costlier cars can't match.

Named "Fashion Car of the Year" second year in a row

And handsome is as handsome does. A "Test Drive" will show you the quality that makes the '50 Ford the one fine car in its field. You'll feel the smooth, quiet getaway power of Ford's new V-8 engine (or advanced "Six" if you prefer). You'll feel the 35% easier acting King Size Brakes. You'll feel the "Mid Ship" comfort of Ford's 13-way stronger "Lifeguard" Body . . . now "sound-conditioned." Yes, here's quality you'll see, hear and feel when you "Test Drive" the '50 Ford.

CENSUS TAKERS MISS YOU? DON'T LET THAT WORRY YOU

Don't get worried if you think you haven't been included in the Census. You won't be missed.

The assurance was given today by Lloyd C. Warr, District Supervisor for the Sixth Congressional District.

We still have quite a bit of "clean-up work" to do yet, which is in charge of Johnny G. Vines, enumerator for Chilton County at large, with Thomas Kennedy who has been given an extension of time and authorized to take over the Counties of Chilton, Shelby, Bibb and Tuscaloosa, including the City of Tuscaloosa as Crew Leader, in general supervivsory work in a similar capacity.

Many people who think they have been missed in the Census, have been counted. In these instances the information has been given by the other members of the household and failed to tell the others concerned.

Mr. Warr also gave assurance that before the Census is completed every report of a missing person will be followed up. But for the present he urged residents not to worry if they don't think they have been included in the Census.

EXPERIMENTAL WORK NOW GOING ON AT CHILTON STATION

Research is now underway on truck crops, fruits, and nuts at the Chilton Area Horticulture Substation, of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station, according to C. C. Carlton, Superintendent.

Mr. Carlton said that a program of experimental work has been set up, based on more important crops grown in this area and on minor crops that might be grown more extensively if some of the problems of handling are answered by research work.

He pointed out that the Substation was created by an act of the Alabama Legislature in 1947 to conduct research on truck crops, fruits, and nuts of commercial importance to Central Alabama, and to develop new crops for this area.

He explained that the research program at present is divided into eight different phases. Tests are in progress on the cost of producing such crops as sweet corn, tomatoes, sweetpotatoe, and bunch bean for canning.

Variety tests are being conducted on peaches, pole beans, bush beans, field peas, roasting and sweet corn, tomatoes, watermelons, pimento peppers, bunch graes, mascadine grapes, plums, strawberries and raspberries.

Cultural methods of strawberries, tomatoes, peaches and sweetpotatoes are being studied. Insect control experiments are in progress on certain fruits and vegetables.

Other work underway includes seed multiplication of better varieties of Alagold pumpkin, field peas, pimento pepper, pole beans and bunch beans; weed and grass control in sweet corn, and development of foundation seed stock of sweetpotatoes.

Carlton pointed out that visitors are always welcome at the Substation which is located two miles east of Thorsby.

CLANTON STUDENT AT UNIVERSITY

Whenever a shriek of laughter issues from a crowd of people at the University of Alabama, John Ed Scott of Clanton is likely to be the center of attention.

John Ed, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Scott, is well known at school for his sharp wit, his love of clowning and likable personality.

A graduate of Marion Military Institute, Scott entered the University of Alabama—to use his own words—"probably the greenest freshman in the school's history." His stories of "rush week" and of his first football trips at Alabama are unusual to say the least.

One of John Ed's favorite pastimes is music. While in high school he had his own orchestra. "Leading that band was the most fun that I've ever had," he explains. "At Marion the musicians were given special week-end privileges. The trips that we took away from school were great."

Scott is very fond of telling the story of how he went to the Alabama-Texas Sugar Bowl game. It seems that he became a member of the Million Dollar Band just before the New Year's Day football game. As soon as he had made the trip with the band, John Ed resigned. He still laughs occasionally about this bit of shrewdness.

Although not particularly studious, John Ed makes much better than average grades in the Commerce school of the University. He is majoring in salesmanship and upon graduation hopes to return to Clanton, where he will assist his father in the managing of their dry goods store, Mullins & Scott.

"My favorite sport is golf," says John Ed, who plays almost every afternoon that he has a chance. He has only been playing a short while, but because of his steady practicing, already shoots consistently in the high 30s.

GROWING SOYBEANS FOR OIL

Those who plan to grow soybeans in 1950 should arrange far enough in advance for the services of a combine so it will be available when needed.

For safety be sure the bedroom is arranged to allow a clear passageway to doors. See that electric fixtures give clear, well-diffused light throughout the room, with three-way switches at doors and within easy reach of the bed.

REMOVE STAINS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Auburn, Ala. — Most stains on clothing may be removed easily at home, but remember that prompt treatment is one of the most important rules.

Certain stains require certain treatments. This fact is why Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, says that the nature of the stain should be known, if possible. When an unsuitable remover is used the stain may be "set" so that its removal becomes difficult or even impossible.

Bleaches and other chemicals strong enough to remove stains will usually attack dyestuffs and fabrics. It is, therefore, necessary to handle colored fabrics carefully. They should be treated rapidly and rinsed thoroughly.

See the local home demonstration agent for further details on removing stains.

PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

HOG CHOLERA STILL NO. 1 HOG KILLER

Other diseases may hit harder in some communities, but the nation's No. 1 swine killer is still hog cholera.

Thousands of outbreaks are reported every year. The disease seems to run in cycles, some years being much worse than others.

Just as human tuberculosis is most frequently transmitted by tuberculous people, most new outbreaks of hog cholera can be traced to direct or indirect contact with cholera-infected swine.

A typical case of hog cholera.

Some outbreaks have been caused by feeding garbage containing uncooked pork scraps, by virus present in rivers and creeks, by carrier birds, or by the virus being carried on people's shoes, and even on truck and wagon wheels.

Careless or inexperienced use of vaccinating virus also may start an outbreak. In such cases, instead of protecting the animals, the unskilled vaccinator actually is giving them the disease.

Usually, once introduced into a drove, hog cholera spreads rapidly from hog to hog, killing most animals it infects. This high death loss is one of the most typical symptoms of the disease, although in some forms it kills slowly.

All breeds of swine are susceptible. At one time it was thought that the mulefoot hog was immune, but research veterinarians disproved this idea.

In view of the many ways which hog cholera virus can be spread—by garbage feeding, unskilled vaccination, streams, visitors, tires, insects and birds — the only safe protection against it in regions where it has occurred, is by vaccination of pigs around weaning time.

An occasional pause between calls is the kind of "break" your party line neighbors will reward — by showing you equal consideration. Besides, it frees your line for incoming calls that you might otherwise miss!

4 Easy Steps to Party Line Harmony

- Give others a chance.
- Release line in emergencies.
- Give called party time to answer.

Commissioners Plead For Help In Keeping County Roads Free From Trash

A plea comes from the Commissioners of the County this week for the help of the citizens of this county to keep the trash off the roads and out of the ditches.

In a prepared statement the Commissioners and Judge W. L. Parrish said:

The Commissioners Court wishes to call attention to the obstruction of ditches along the roads in the County.

We have had some cooperation since the other appeal, but still others go along, build sheds right where it makes it utterly impossible to work the roads, still others throw anything in the ditches, go off leaving the ditch full of logs, planks or slabs with nails or spikes. This not only obstruct the water flow turning water into road, thereby washing roads, but the spikes in the slabs and things in the ditches puncture and sometimes completely ruin a Patrol tire and tube.

These things are paid for out of your tax money. Will you please be more courteous about this? The Court will appreciate your cooperation in these things.

Let us again ask that you please cooperate with your neighbors and the County in making your Community a better place to live.

Please do not pass this appeal up lightly, we need your help, and again we thank you for your cooperation.

THE COMMISSIONERS COURT,
W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate.
V. O. Lenoir, Comm. 1st Dist.
Hoyt Freeman, Comm. 2nd Dist.
Neal H. Harrell, Comm. 3rd Dist.

HUMAN COST OF WAR VICTORIES SHOWN IN WINDOW DISPLAY

Cost of America's world war victories in the lives of young Americans is vividly depicted in a display now to be seen in the street window of the Thrifty Store.

Central feature of the striking window display is a battle cemetery in miniature with its crosses "row on row." Between the crosses, as they grew in the cemetery in France and Belgium, are the bright red poppies which the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute on Poppy Day, Saturday to be worn in honor of the war dead.

The display was arranged by the Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. Albert Haack, assisted by Mrs. L. A. Lambert. Use of the display window was donated to the Auxiliary for the week by Mr. G. A. Weed, manager of the store, and war souvenirs appearing in the display were loaned by members of the American Legion.

"On Poppy Day, everyone in Clanton will have an opportunity to show that they remember and honor those who sacrificed their lives that we might live in freedom," said Mrs. Lambert, President of the Chilton County Unit.

"It will be tiring, unaccustomed work for me," she said, "but I feel it is just about the most worthwhile work I can ever do; it keeps fresh the inspiring memory of the war dead and brings aid to those stricken defenders of our country who are still within the reach of human help."

Two Arrested In Local Tavern Fight

Ike Bice, owner and operator of Ike's Place, about two miles north of Clanton on the Birmingham Highway, was seriously injured in a fight Saturday night at his place. Exact cause of the fight was not learned, but it is reported that Bice suffered the loss of one eye and probably both, from a lick on the head.

Hugo Smith and Herbert Dennis were arrested, according to reports from the Sheriff's office, and brought to jail where they later made bond.

Information Wednesday was to the effect that Bice, who is in St. Margaret's Hospital at Montgomery, is resting well and that his other eye can probably be saved.

HOMECOMING — OLD FELLOWSHIP CHURCH

The first Sunday in June is the Annual Homecoming of Old Fellowship Church, Dallas County, 20 miles north of Selma. Members of Old New Hope, Valley Creek, Welcome and Shiloh churches will also join the homecoming.

Best of singers, fellowship and dinner. One thousand people expected to attend. — W. A. Seymore, Chairman.

There will be loud speakers for the convenience of those who cannot get into the house. All lovers of sacred music, both listeners and singers are invited.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES 75 BOYS AND GIRLS

The Chilton County High School closed the 1949-50 session this week with two well attended programs. At the First Baptist Church Sunday night Reverend Carlisle Miller, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Panama City, Fla., brought a very forceful message to the graduates. He used the lesson of the talents as found in the Book of Luke. His question was, "What are you going to do with what you have?" He charged the members of the class to meet the problems of life by clear analysis and not to offer excuses for failures. The glee club of the high school furnished the music for this program.

Monday afternoon at the high school gymnasium Dr. Hallie Farmer of Alabama College, Montevallo, spoke to the class of the Atomic world in which we live and the challenge that this age brings to all active men and women. She cautioned these boys and girls about the way the world would look upon them from now on. Up to now they have been school boys and girls and many of their short comings have been overlooked, but from now on they are men and women and must assume such responsibility in the world. She urged them to qualify as voters as soon as they reach the voting age and discharge this responsibility in helping to bring better government to the democratic state of America.

ATOMIC RESEARCH MAY LEAD TO NEW TRIUMPHS OVER CANCER

New frontiers in the ancient fight against cancer are forecast by recent atomic research, according to the final program in the "For the Living" series to be presented on Tuesday, May 30th, over Station WKLF, in cooperatiin with the American Cancer Society

Development of radio-active substances makes it easier to trace and treat cancerous areas in the body, points out the broadcast. The strides made through the use of atomic by-products are dramatized by screen stars Edward G. Robinson and Sam Jaffe in a quarter-hour program to be heard over WKLF on Tuesday at 8:45. This broadcast of "For the Living" will conclude the present series which has been offered by WKLF in cooperation with the American Cancer Society.

Mr. Robinson, aided by other favorites of screen and radio, has acted as narrator on all 13 broadcasts of the series. The musical accompaniment is under the direction of Lyn Murray and all scripts were written by Hu Chain, well-known author of documentary radio programs.

"For the Living" has been part of the American Cancer Society's continuing campaign to educate the American people against the dangers of cancer—the dread affliction which takes nearly 200,000 lives every year in this country alone. Awareness and quick action to halt cancer is the persistent message behind each program presented.

PENSION MEETING NEXT SATURDAY

The Chilton County Old-Age Pension Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the courthouse this coming Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. All members are urged to attend, and visitors are always welcome. Let's keep working for pensions.—T. W. Bryan, Chairman.

Builders of Clanton

ONE OF A SERIES

This week's "Builder of Clanton" is another home product, having been reared in the Enterprise Community where he attended grammar school and Junior High. His four years at high school were spent at Verbena.

Upon graduation at Verbena High School Howard Boockholdt attended Jacksonville State Teachers College for two years and then completed his college work at Auburn. He has also done some post-graduate work at Auburn.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Boockholdt of Enterprise Community, Howard relates that his father and mother are living in the second home since they were married nearly a half century ago and it is only the third place that Mr. Boockholdt Senior has ever lived.

After he was graduated at Auburn Mr. Boockholdt returned to his home county and started teaching at Enterprise, later going to Butler County for one year and returning to take the position as principal at Stanton.

While Superintendent of Education, Delos P. Culp, appointed Mr. Boockholdt Transportation Supervisor and after one year when Mr. Culp resigned to complete his degrees, Boockholdt was named County Superintendent of Education.

He has remained in that office since and according to a recent vote of the citizens of the county has done a fine job. In the May 2nd Primary Election he was nominated by the Democratic Party as their standard bearer for that office in the general election in November.

Mr. Boockholdt is very popular with the educational forces in the county and through the years has devoted his time and talents to the betterment of education.

He is a builder of the men and women of tomorrow.

Att'y.-Gen. "Calls Off" Aid In County Shortage Cases?

Has the Attorney General called off his aid to the local Solicitor and Circuit Solicitor in prosecuting the remaining cases in the shortage trials?

That is the report reaching the writer. It was rumored here Wednesday that Attorney General Carmichael had sent word to the solicitors that no more aid would be coming from his office and that the remaining six cases would have to be handled without their help.

THE BIGGEST EVENT IN THE HISTORY OF CHILTON COUNTY

That's what Bob Taber, Chairman of the 1950 Peach Festival promises for July 19, when the fourth annual Chilton County "Salute to Peaches" begins.

Speaking for all the members of the Steering Committee, which met Tuesday night at the City Grill, Mr. Taber said that the plans which are now being made are beyond any doubt the most elaborate designs for a festival that have ever been undertaken. It is not only expected that more bands and marching exhibitions will be present for the parade this year, but it is also believed that more girls will enter the Queen's Contest than have ever participated before.

The contest will get underway very soon, Mr. Taber said, and all Chilton County girls who are single, and between the ages of 15-25 are invited to enter. They will be judged this year on talent and on their appearance in evening gowns. The bathing suit part of the contest will be eliminated.

All clubs and civic groups of the County are also urged to select girls to represent their organizations in the Festival. It is hoped that this choosing of Club Queens will begin in the very near future, as the big Queen Contest will be held a week BEFORE the Festival this year. The Steering Committee made this change in the plans Tuesday night, so that the pictures of the Queen and the contestants can be included in the printed program which highlights the events of the Festival.

Another question which received great consideration at the recent Committee was the subject of the floats which are to participate in the parade. It was decided that all floats of a commercial nature will be strictly excluded, and that any float that enters the Festival must carry the theme CHILTON COUNTY PEACHES ARE TOPS!

MISSED FOUR DAYS IN 36 SCHOOL YEARS

"Get up, boys, and get your breakfast or you will miss the school bus," was the plea of Mrs. Elton Ousley of the Pletcher Community for 15 or 16 years. Elton probably helped occasionally with the razor strap. Anyway, they seemed to be very successful in getting the boys on their way, because the three boys pictured above put in a total of 36 school terms missing only four days. They are the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Ousley.

They all finished Isabella High School after having done Junior High School and Elementary work at Vermont.

Leo (left) finished last year with perfect attendance record of 12 years. Bobby (center) finished this year with the record. Otis (right) was unfortunate enough to have the mumps or measles during the school term and lost 4 days. All participated in school activities, especially sports and always managed to show mother an acceptable report card at the end of the month. Each had his turn at driving a County bus.

Much credit goes to the boys and parents. Parents who are able to inspire children to attain such a record of achievement and attendance deserve our congratulations. So here goes: Congratulations, Ousley Family of Maplesville, Rt. 2.

To Our Seniors

Time marches on and again time has come to wish to our many young men and women who are graduating this year, "God's Speed." Many, many things need doing and it is the young and the ambitious, who get things done. Young men and young women who are optimistic and unafraid, who vision a better America and a better world, are what we need.

Encourage them. Urge them on to higher education and guide them when possible to a higher place in the sun. We have the finest boys and girls in the world in Chilton County.

Our hope of tomorrow may be the boy who threw your newspaper, delivered your groceries, or ran your errands, yesterday.

Let Us Hope

Mayor C. Fenn Jones has hope of an auditorium seating several thousand people for use of the people of Clanton and Chilton County. Let us hope the Mayor is right.

According to the present outlook the auditorium may be built at the National Guard Armory on Airport Road. The building would be constructed by the federal government we understand, with help from the City and County. Full details have not been worked out Mayor Jones stated last week.

We are pitifully in need of an auditorium here and the need is more obvious every day. Any legitimate means would be justified and we wouldn't be too cranky as to where the auditorium stood—if we could only have an auditorium.

Gordon Persons

The News extends congratulations to Gordon Persons upon his winning the race for governor of Alabama on May 2. Phillip Hamm, runner-up, but lagging considerably, is in line for favorable mention in that he waived his privilege to a run-off because he believed his chances would be slim. We believe he is right, although he had a strong backing and we will say he had the best organization of any of the 15 candidates.

There is little doubt but that Gordon Persons will make the sort of governor that all the people will appreciate. This newspaper saw in him the qualities and the ability that go to make Alabama a good, conservative governor. He is honest and he wants to, and will, do a good job. He says he will travel the middle of the road in his policies, and the people have given him their stamp of approval. — Opp News.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Dick Hayes has completed the lighting on his used car lot and the results are good. That corner looks "real citified" nights when one goes to the post office for their mail. He has put a line of colored neon tubes around the lot and has several other lighted signs on the lot which make it attractive for blocks either way. Hot stuff!

Looks like the local Peach Festival Committee has got down to business and with the cooperation of all Chilton County businessmen will make the 1950 festival a success. Bob Taber, Donald Merchant, Helen Parrish and "Kirk" Kirkpatrick, are the backfield with Bob Taber carrying the ball. However, this week he put another man in the backfield when he called in Al Haack. Al will take care of the advertising job for the Peach Festival programs. That's down Al's alley, as he is studying advertising and working for some advertising medium in Clanton, can't recall just who. Anyway, we're behind the whole crew and when they need good old worthless advice and coaching they can always call on us. We know less about more things than anybody in town.

Left Joe Campbell's name off the list who journeyed to Florida the other week with the Kiwanians. Joe and the family made the trip. Joe says it's mighty funny to him that when he goes out of town alone we never fail to print it, and spell the name exactly right. But let him go out of town and take his family and we leave him off the list. We'll probably get killed for saying this, but when he goes out of town alone that's when Joe makes news.

It certainly isn't a man's world. When he's born they ask: "How's the mother?" When he's married they say: "What a beautiful bride," and when he dies they ask: "How much did he leave her?"

A worried man walked into the office of the Rent Control Administration, and asked if anyone could tell him who his landlord was. They informed the fellow that his landlord was the man who he paid his rent to. "I don't pay no rent,' he told them, "you see, about nine years ago I found me a vacant house and moved in. I been there ever since and I ain't paid no rent." "Well then," the man said, "What are you worrying about. You have no complaint." "Oh, yes I have," the fellow returned, "If somebody don't fix that roof, I'm gonna move out."

You know, if we didn't know him better we would accuse Vic Heard (pardon us, Judge Victor J. Heard), of playing pranks. The other a.m. he joined us in a cup of coffee. We enjoyed the conversation very much. When he took leave ahead of us (we always let the other fellow leave first, to see if he will pay the check) he called back and said he was paying for the refreshments. We thanked him heartily, as is our custom. Then when we left our perch on the stool the young lady informed us that the good Judge had meant well but had only left a copper instead of a dime, and would we be so kind as to reimburse the establishment for the java. We did, but our faith in the integrity of the courts is shaken.

Saw Jimmy Bell's picture in the paper Friday night last. He has been elected second vice-president of the Alabama Retail Hardware Association. They just completed their annual Convention and election of officers in Birmingham. Congratulations are in order to Jimmy for bringing this honor to Chilton County and to his family and business. We're all proud of him.

C. C. H. S. Baccalaureate Service

Last Sunday night I attended the baccalaureate service of the Senior Class of the Chilton County High School. Indeed, it was a grand and glorious service. Too much praise cannot be given to our Mr. Hicks and his staff of fine teachers for the excellent work they are doing training our young people. Of course, a much better job could be done with more and better co-operation from the parents of those fine boys and girls who are to become the leading citizens of our community within a few short years.

A. T. HICKMAN

There are three institutions that are character builders, viz.: The home, the church and the school. If these 3 institutions will do their best for the growing child, then there will be no outside power that can and will destroy the bright future of any boy and girl. The only thing that could prevent any youth from being what he should be after the home, the church, and the school have done their good part, would be his own desire to go wrong. Let us hope that all the boys and girls of this 1950 Senior Class will become great men and women. With the good foundation already laid, they ought to be able to build themselves into useful citizens of this great country of ours.

One feature of this great service last Sunday night was the sermon delivered by the Rev. Carlisle Miller, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Panama City, Fla. It was a timely message. And we could tell from the tone of Pastor Miller's voice that he was speaking right out of his heart. Every word was fitly spoken; and remember the words of wise old Solomon, "Words fitly spoken are like apples of gold in pictures of silver." Indeed, the words spoken by Pastor Miller were like apples of gold in pictures of silver.

I pray that the Senior Class will not soon forget that sermon. Bro. Miller's subject was, "What Will You Do With What You Have?" The subject was based upon the parable of the talents, Scripture reading in Matt. 25:14-30. Young people, are you going to add to what you already have, or, are you going to throw away and burn up and destroy your usefulness? Brother Miller did not fail to ask the important question in closing his message: "What are you going to do with Jesus Christ?" He did urge all to accept Christ as their Lord and personal Saviour.

My congratulations goes to Mr. Hicks and all the other teachers, and to the Senior Class, as well as to Brother Miller for his fine talk.

ALCOHOL STIMULATION

The idea that alcohol acts as a stimulant to the nervous system of man is no longer held in pharmacologic circles, says a medical consultant in answer to a question in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Small doses of alcohol appear to have a stimulating action by giving the drinker a feeling of well-being and increased self confidence, but unfortunately with a loss of judgment and the ability of self criticism," the consultant points out.

"The apparent stimulation is the result of the narcotic action of alcohol on the inhibitions. This depressant action involves first of all the higher centers of the brain, which are responsible for acquiescence to the habits of civilization.

"The dulling of the feeling of responsibility allows the more primitive cerebral functions to dominate. The fallacy of the stimulating effect of alcohol is greatly enhanced by the drinker who is convinced that he is performing better when he is under the influence. One doctor has aptly compared this apparent stimulation to a car on a hillside. Alcohol releases the brakes but does not cause the car to run better.

"The feeling of warmth after taking alcohol is deceptive, because this feeling is associated with rapid heat loss."

The consultant cited a German researcher who referred to the manifastations usually attributed to the stimulating effect of alcohol as the results of a beginning paralysis of certain parts of the brain.

"In the psychic sphere, the finer grades of attention, judgment, reflection and ability to comprehend are first lost," the consultant quoted the German researcher as saying. "This serves to explain the typical behavior of persons under the influence of alcoholic drinks.

"The soldier becomes more courageous since he observes the danger less, and reflects upon it less. The speaker is not tormented and influenced by the proximity of the public; he, therefore, speaks more freely and with more anmiation. One's self-appraisal raises greatly. Often one is astounded at the ease with which he expresses his thoughts and with the keeness of his judgment in matters which are beyond his mental sphere when sober, and is later ashamed of this delusion.

"The drunken individual attributes to himself great muscular strength and wastes this through unaccustomed and useless exhibitions of strength without thinking of the harm which may ensue, while the sober person willingly spares his strength."

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I mix a good fire extinguishing fluid?

A. Put 3 pounds of salt into 1 gallon of water, and to this add 1½ Lbs. of sal ammoniac. This liquid should be bottled. When a blaze is discovered, pour the solution on it.

Q. How can I be sure that coffee is fresh?

A. Coffee is fresh if the crack in the beam is almost invisible. There will be little flavor and aroma if the crack is widely spread. If the coffee is freshly ground the aroma is evident when the package or can is opened.

Q. How can I give a window of ordinary glass a frosted appearance?

A. Dissolve Epsom salts in cold water, and then paint the solution on the glass.

Q. How can I test the heat of the hot-water bag?

A. The temperature of the hot-water bag should always be tested against one's cheek before placing it on a sick person, as it might cause a burn. A burn should be carefully avoided, as it can be serious to a bedridden person.

Q. How can I remove labels that are pasted on pillow slips and similar articles?

A. By placing a wet cloth on the wrong side, then setting a hot iron on it for a few seconds. Or, hold over the steam coming from the spout of the teakettle.

Q. How can I give an added flavor to my coffee?

A. Try adding a few drops of vanilla to the coffee immediately before serving.

Q. How can I easily grease baking pans?

A. Wrap a piece of clean muslin around the point of a fork, and use this for greasing the baking pans. This muslin can be burned and a fresh piece used the next time. A supply of muslin pieces can be kept on hand for this purpose, as a convenience.

Q. How can I remove lemon juice and other acid stains from a garment?

A. By the use of ammonia. This also applies to perspiration stains whih have changed the color of a garment.

Q. How can I prolong the wear of silk hosiery and silk underwear?

A. Add a small amount of vinegar to the last rinse water. The vinegar will dissolve the soap and insure longer wear.

Q. How can I prevent cracking of linoleum when rolling it?

A. Do not try to roll linoleum for storing until it has been placed before a fire for a few hours and has become thoroughly warm. Otherwise it is sure to crack.

MACEDONIA

The attendance for both services Sunday were small.

The Y.W.A. program was presented at church last Wednesday night. It was a play-like radio program. The most important question that came before the group was, "Should Baptists Use the Radio in Their Evangelistic Efforts at Home and Abroad?" The Y.W.A. Quartet sang a song while two members took the silver offering. Mrs. Morris, our Counselor, gave a radio script. Four of the members gave talks on different subjects. The secretary Floretta Nix, was absent, so the minutes and roll were omitted. The meeting adjourned by Mrs. Marion Cofer leading the group in prayer.

The Y.W.A. members should remember all the shut-ins, especially Mrs. Berdie Hudgins, Margaret Hudgins and Mrs. Pearl Cleckler. They need our prayers each day.

The Y.W.A. meetings are presented each second and fourth Wednesday nights at 7:30 before prayer meeting at the church. Everyone is invited to attend these meetings any time.

There are nine members in our Y.W.A. now. Two have been added from Pleasant Grove. We are very glad to have them help us out.

Everyone remember prayer meeting each Wednesday night. Come and bring someone with you.

ARTIFICIAL BREEDING IS PROVING ITS WORTH

Artificial breeding is helping Alabama dairymen breed cows to good bulls that are miles away.

"It's a sound plan for a farmer to use artificial breeding, provided an association exists in his county," declares Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist. "Recently a twenty-cow dairyman started breeding his cows artificially. To get all the cows 'settled' artificially cost him $100. The cost of keeping a bull on the farm had been amounting to $250 per year. Therefore, artificial breeding saved this man $150 and eliminated the danger of keeping a bull on the farm."

REMOVE TOENAILS FROM BREEDING COCKERELS

Hatchery supply flock owners of broiler strains occasionally lose hens that have had their backs torn by heavy males. A. A. Middleton, owner of the Alabama State Hatchery, Dothan, solved the problem on his farm by removing the toenails of his breeding cocks with an electric debeaker. He reports that no hens have been injured since he started removing toenails from breeding cockerels.

PINE TREE DISEASE

Pine trees that have been weakened by the orange canker disease should be salvaged. Diseased limbs on pines used for ornamental purposes should be cut off during the winter months, but dangerously diseased trees should be cut down before they are blown over onto valuable property.

DIXIE 18 HYBRID SEED CORN

If you intended to plant Dixie 18 hybrid seed corn this spring but can't find it, don't blame your seedsman or others. It is a new hybrid, and there are not enough seed of it to meet the demand.

With him are Mrs. Flora Hill, Demopolis, left, and Mrs. C. C. Cox, Carrollton, right. More than 300 delegates attended the meeting and heard a statement from Governor-elect Gordon Persons to the effect he would favor legislation for better treatment and care of Alabama's TB victims. His statement was read by Marc Ray Clement, Tuscaloosa, chairman of the association's legislative committee which will ask the next legislature to provide at least $2.00 per day for victims in the state's TB hospitals.

C. B. Cox says Chilton County needs more paved roads, more money for schools and old-age pensions.

ROSALIND OWENS TO GRADUATE FROM BLUE MOUNTAIN COLLEGE

Rosalind Owens, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Owens of Moulton, formerly of Clanton, will graduate from Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Miss., on June 5th, with a major in music theory and English, receiving both the B.A. and B.M. degrees.

She was presented by Mr. John Detroy, Jr., in her senior piano recital on April 29, in the Modena Lowery Berry Auditorium. Her program featured the following selections: Sonata, Opus 10, No. 1, Beethoven; Concerto, Opus 54, Schumann; Scherzo in B flat minor, Chopin; Fantasiestuke (Phantasy Pieces), Schumann; Claire de Lune, Debussy; Reflets dans l'eau, Debussy; La Plus que lente, Debussy. Mr. Detroy played the orchestral accompaniment on the second piano for Schumann's Concerto, Op. 54.

During her four years at Blue Mountain, Rosalind has been active in various phases of campus activity and has served in several important capacities. She has been both pianist and devotional vice president on the B.S.U. Executive Council and was treasurer of her class during her sophomore year. For two years she has served as assistant editor of "The Mountain Breeze."

She has also served as literary editor and feature editor of "The Mountaineer" and as a member of the "B. B. Seer" staff. Her junior year she was elected a groomman in the Junior-Freshman Wedding and this year she is a senior representative in the May Court. This year she has been the organist for chapel and also organist for the Junior-Freshman Wedding. In the recent ping-pong tournament Rosalind was winner in the Eunomian society and captured second place in the inter-society finals. This past week she received the Florence Connally Tyler Award, presented annually to the student who, in the opinion of the student body most naturally exemplifies the "fruit" of the Christian spirit as depicted in Galatians 5:22.

Rosalind has already been accepted by the School of Church Music at the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky., where she will major in organ.

LOOK WHAT THE BOLL WEEVILS GET AWAY WITH!

This hungry little thief usually steals 1 out of every 7 bales of cotton made in Alabama. And last year the boll weevil carried off 1 out of every 4 bales.

BUT YOU CAN STOP HIM . . .

Use 20 per cent toxaphene or a 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT. On each acre use 8 to 14 pounds of poison per dusting, depending on size of cotton.

When plants are fruiting freely – about lay-by time – start dusting if boll weevil infestation is 25 per cent or higher. Make 3 applications of poison 5 days apart.

Check fields 10 days after third dusting. If infestation is still 25 per cent or higher, dust three more times – 5 days between dustings.

In August, when boll weevils are moving from field to field, dust 3 or 4 more times every 4 days to protect top bolls.

YOUR DECISION On May 30th

Friends of the Sixth Congressional District:

On May 2nd you elected three States Rights Democrats to serve on your State Democratic Executive Committee. All of these men are from Tuscaloosa.

The Five remaining seats will be filled on May 30th. The five States Rights run-off Candidates received 50,564 votes and the five Trumanite Candidates received 46,412 votes in the first primary. These results clearly demonstrate that the majority in the Sixth District favors the States Rights Democrats.

However some of the people are still undecided and some have not been informed of the REAL ISSUES. Please consider the following facts and ask yourself these questions. YOUR DECISION WILL GOVERN YOUR FUTURE WAY OF LIFE.

1. William Boyle, a politician from the PENDERGAST MACHINE OF KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI, has recently been elected Chairman of the Democratic National Committee in Washington. William Dawson, A NEGRO POLITICIAN FROM CHICAGO, Illinois, was appointed Vice-Chairman.

Do you favor blindly following the leadership of these men in Democratic party affairs?

Do you want to see these men control party affairs in Alabama through the election of a Trumanite majority on our State Committee?

2. The State Democratic Executive Committee under Sections 336 and 389, Title 17, Code of Alabama, has the power to appoint convention delegates and presidential electors, WITHOUT referring the matter to the people in a primary election. THE TRUMANITES INTEND TO APPOINT THESE MEN, PLEDGED TO TRUMAN AND HIS UNKNOWN RUNNING MATE AND PROGRAM, if they get control. If the Trumanites win on May 30th, you will have no further chance to influence the Democratic platform or choose the Democratic nominee for President in 1952.

Do you want your vote TIED TO TRUMAN NOW, including the possibility that William Dawson, THE NEGRO VICE-CHAIRMAN OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE, will be Truman's running mate in 1952?

3. Three men from Tuscaloosa were elected to the Committee on May 2nd, leaving five more places to be filled in the run-off. Of the ten run-off candidates, Partlow, deGraffenried and Mayfield are from Tuscaloosa. If these three are elected, Tuscaloosa will have six places on the Committee and the seven rural Counties will get only two seats.

Do you think this would be fair to Chilton and the other small rural counties?

The answer of the States Rights Democrats to the questions is NO!

The States Rights candidates are pledged to give you an open primary in 1952. If you favor Truman and his program, we will respect your right to a free choice. IF YOU WANT A CHANGE IN THE NATIONAL PARTY LEADERSHIP, YOU WILL BE GIVEN THE OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE YOUR VOTE EFFECTIVE. The following States Rights Democrats are from the rural counties. They will be able to represent YOU, because they know your problems.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

N. E. Samuels, Clanton, has an excellent sericea pasture on his farm. Mr. Samuels has just mowed the sericea for the first time this year. By mowing, he is able to keep the sericea tender so that his stock will eat it better. Also by mowing he keeps the weeds down and can save a considerable amount of hay off of his pasture area. Another important item in maintaining a sericea pasture is fertilizer. Use liberal amounts of both potash and phosphate. A sericea pasture should have a minimum of 500 pounds of 0-14-10 or 10-12-20 per year to enable it to make its best growth. You will also find that the fertilizer makes the sericea more tasty to your cattle and workstock. They like it better when it is fertilized.

Tom Childress, Jemison Route 1, has a good stand of Pensacola Bahia grass. He planted approximately two and three-quarter acres with 10 Lbs. of seed. This grass is not too well known in Chilton County but it has good possibilities as a summer grazing plant. It works well with a reseeding legume such as crimson clover, manganese burr clover, gradiflora vetch, or caley peas. More farmers in this county might give this combination a try.

Mr. Hunter Rasco, Jemison Route 1, has some Kentucky 31 fescue, that looks very good at this time of the year. This fescue was planted last fall and grazed all winter and from its appearance now, it will make a good seed crop for first year fescue.

W. L. Parrish, Clanton, has an excellent stand of sericea that was planted this spring in a field that was in a heavy sod of carpet grass. The land was turned and then disked until the carpet grass was killed. This is just additional proof that it pays to do a good job of land preparation when planting sericea or for any other crop.

Parsley butter, made by mixing one tablespoon of chopped parsley with one-fourth cup of butter and two tablespoons of lemon juice, is delicious when spread on fish.

HOG CHOLERA STILL NO. 1 HOG KILLER

Other diseases may hit harder in some communities, but the nation's No. 1 swine killer is still hog cholera.

Thousands of outbreaks are reported every year. The disease seems to run in cycles, some years being much worse than others.

A typical case of hog cholera.

Just as human tuberculosis is most frequently transmitted by tuberculous people, most new outbreaks of hog cholera can be traced to direct or indirect contact with cholera-infected swine.

Some outbreaks have been caused by feeding garbage containing uncooked pork scraps, by virus present in rivers and creeks, by carrier birds, or by the virus being carried on people's shoes, and even on truck and wagon wheels.

Careless or inexperienced use of vaccinating virus also may start an outbreak. In such cases, instead of protecting the animals, the unskilled vaccinator actually is giving them the disease.

Usually, once introduced into a drove, hog cholera spreads rapidly from hog to hog, killing most animals it infects. This high death loss is one of the most typical symptoms of the disease, although in some forms it kills slowly.

All breeds of swine are susceptible. At one time it was thought that the mulefoot hog was immune, but research veterinarians disproved this idea.

In view of the many ways which hog cholera virus can be spread—by garbage feeding, unskilled vaccination, streams, visitors, tires, insects and birds — the only safe protection against it in regions where it has occurred, is by vaccination of pigs around weaning time.

REMOVE STAINS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Auburn, Ala. — Most stains on clothing may be removed easily at home, but remember that prompt treatment is one of the most important rules.

Certain stains require certain treatments. This fact is why Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, says that the nature of the stain should be known, if possible. When an unsuitable remover is used the stain may be "set" so that its removal becomes difficult or even impossible.

Bleaches and other chemicals strong enough to remove stains will usually attack dyestuffs and fabrics. It is, therefore, necessary to handle colored fabrics carefully. They should be treated rapidly and rinsed thoroughly.

See the local home demonstration agent for further details on removing stains.

C. B. Cox will introduce and support a bill to place collection of sales tax on the wholesaler.

WINNER OF GRAND CHAMPION CALF

John Marvin Williams catches on fast.

This is the first year he's raised calves. And he did no less than win the grand champion of Chilton County.

Along with the grand champion award goes $100 given by the Birmingham News and Radio Station WSGN.

For the past five years The Birmingham News and Radio Station WSGN have given the winners of the county shows $100 to buy a calf. Winners must feed and show the calf the following year.

To make its county winner eligible for the award the county must do two things:

It must enter at least eight calves in the Birmingham show.

It must have its own county show.

This year sixteen awards go to 4-H and FFA boys and girls. In all The Birmingham News and Station WSGN have given 98 awards in five. In short, some $9,800 has been invested in Alabama's youthful farmers.

John is the son of W. A. Williams of Route 4, Clanton, Alabama. He's 11 years old and is in the fifth grade at Baker Junior High. John loves to fish and operate the tractor on his Dad's farm.

The calf that John showed was a 950-pound Angus, which he has named Billy. In June, John, his parents and adviser will be the guests of The Birmingham News and Radio Station WSGN at a barbecue for the winners. The awards will be made then. There will also be special entertainment for the guests.

With boys like John Marvin Williams interested in the livestock industry things will continue to look up in Alabama. In 1946 only 34% of the cattle shown graded prime or choice. In 1950, 59% of all cattle shown graded prime or choice. This is a good sign of results from these young folks' work.

GIVE FARM MACHINERY THE VERY BEST OF CARE

Auburn, Ala. — Farmers find it a good practice to check for loose bolts, screws, and parts out of adjustment when lubricating a machine. Loose bolts wear oblong holes or get lost, resulting in serious damage to the machine. Parts out of adjustment result in rapid wear, possible breakage, and inefficient operation.

J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service specialist in farm mechanization. reveals that too tight chains, canvases and belts cause rapid wear of bearings and the parts themselves. Safety devices that are stuck will not function when a machine encounters an obstruction. They should be "freed" by soaking with kerosene, and then they should be lubricated properly.

The specialist further states that plow hitches adjusted too high will cause rapid wear of share point, requiring repointing or a new share. Mower cutter bars that have no lead or are out of adjustment may cause breakage of the knife.

Better rural housing, made possible for farmers through the Jones-Sparkman Farm Housing Act of 1949, has already helped many families in Alabama and throughout the Soeth. Since the first loan in the Nation was made on November 17, 1949, to Vaughn Jones of Scottsboro, Alabama, 758 farm families have received a total of $3,025,000 in loans with which to build or remodel their homes or other farm buildings. Alabama, with 32 loans totaling $140,500 by the middle of March, was the sixth leading state in the Nation in number of families helped. Texas and Georgia, with 60 loans each, were leading all other states. Approximately 1200 of the 20,000 applications for housing loans received to date were in Alabama, ranking it third in the Nation behind Georgia and Texas.

Illustrated, above, are examples of some of the Alabama and Georgia loans made to date. Pictures 1-2-3 and 4 show before and after interior and exterior views of the Vaughn L. Jones loan, of Scottsboro, Alabama. Pictures 5 and 6 show before and after dwelling of William Burke, Catoosa County, Georgia. Picture 7 shows the new home of Hubert G. Herndon, of Rutledge, Georgia, first construction in the Nation to be completed after receiving a Farm Housing Loan. The Herndon family lived with his in-laws prior to completion of the new dwelling. Pictures 8 and 9 show the before and after dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Donovan, of Chilton County, Alabama as Mrs. Donovan waves goodby to the old and heads toward her new home.

MANY FARMERS BUY HOMES UNDER FARM HOUSING ACT

The Act was written by Senator John Sparkman and Congressman Bob Jones, both of Alabama. They introduced it in the Senate and House concurrently and actively and successively worked for its passage. Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, is a sponsor of the law, and vigorously supported it.

In addition to authorizing loans for new homes, loans are available to qualified applicants for repairing and modernizing old homes and for building and repairing barns, poultry houses, and other farm buildings necessary for a complete farm unit. Full details can be obtained from the county Farmers Home Administration offices.

Latest reports show that more than 1,000 farmers have received loans under the Act. In Alabama 118 housing loans have been approved, and applications for 110 more loans are under consideration. The Washington Office of Farmers Home Administration states that the program is now moving at a very satisfactory pace.

"Careful studies," Sparkman and Jones said, "showed that farmers of the South need the helps provided under our Act more than farm owners in any other section of the nation. We are gratified that farm owners all over the nation, but especially of Alabama, are taking advantage of this law."

COX'S RECORD AT JEMISON

In order that the voters of the county may know just what happened in regard to the Legislature enlarging the corporate limits of the Town of Jemison, I am relating the facts regarding same:

I got up a petition protesting the extension of the limits, and a majority of the 35 or 40 property owners affected signed the petition. A meeting was held at Jemison by the Town Council and interested citizens, and Mr. Cox and Mr. Gulledge were both present. The petition was presented at the meeting, although Mr. Cox stated that a petition would have no bearing with him. A vote was taken at the meeting and a majority voted against the extension. Mr. Cox and Mr. Gulledge were not satisfied, so another meeting was called, and they agreed to abide by the decision of this next meeting. There was better attendance at the second meeting, and the vote also showed a majority of the property owners affected to be against annexation. Two nights later a meeting was held for the colored people affected, and they likewise voted even more heavily against annexation. Mr. Cox and Mr. Gulledge were aware of these votes.

The Bill to extend the town corporate limits was made a law just the same. I asked Mr. Cox after the law was passed on what ground it was passed, and he replied that three of the heaviest taxpayers up there asked him to pass it and he did it.—H. Wilson, Jemison Route 2.

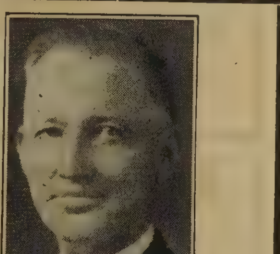
I Appreciate



The many courtesies and expressions of support extended me by so many of the voters during the run-off campaign for the Legislature.

During this campaign I have seen the voters and have discussed with them the issues of this election and the problems which will come before the next Legislature. I am convinced that the voters of this County recognize the importance of the job to be done in the Legislature during the next four years and by their votes next Tuesday will give me the opportunity to work with our other elected officials in completing our splendid road-building program now in progress. If re-elected next Tuesday I will give my best efforts towards securing more paved roads, more mony for schools, and every available dollar for increased old age pensions.

I have had two opportunities to abolish the Commissioners Court. I have refused both times and will refuse again.

RUMORS

Beware of false prophets bearing strange and ugly rumors during the closing days of this campaign. I have publicly stated my position on the issues in this election through the County papers, on the radio, and personally to the voters. Any last minute rumors contrary to my published platform are untrue and peddled to becloud the issues and confuse the voters. I would not want to be elected on false rumors and certainly I do not want to be defeated by false rumors. Let's keep the issues straight and elect the man who can best serve the people of this County in the Legislature during the next four years.

If you honor me with election next Tuesday I promise to work faithfully to redeem every pledge I have made and to give my very best efforts in promoting the interests of Chilton County and the welfare of our people. To this end I earnestly solicit your vote and support of my candidacy for re-election to the Legislature on Tuesday, May 30th.

Sincerely,

C. B. COX

FASHION SUGGESTIONS CONCERNING SLEEVES

Auburn, Ala. — Dresses and blouses with a suggestion of a sleeve are more becoming and practical for women generally than the extremely cut, bare-shoulder styles featured in some of the new fashions, according to Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

She points out that the completely sleeveless garment is most appropriate for young girls. But for older women, slight cap sleeves, brief kimono sleeves, winged sleeves, or a straight band finish around the armhole are more attractive. These fashions are just as cool for summer, economical, and usually easier to make.

"When making a sleeveless dress," says Miss Ellis, "mark the armhole according to the pattern but cut the shoulder wider. Then, when the dress is basted and tried on, the edge can be trimmed to suit the wearer. If the dress is cut to extend beyond the shoulder, as in cap or kimono sleeves, it is easily finished by rolling or hemming. A band of straight-cut fabric is another easy finish."

MOWING PASTURES

The chief purpose of mowing permanent pastures is to control weeds and bushes.

DAIRY FOODS POPULAR

The average American is eating 13 per cent more dairy foods than in 1939, according to a survey by the National Dairy Council.

BEST WAYS TO REMOVE DIRT FROM FURNITURE

Furniture that has had too many heavy applications of wax or polish without sufficient rubbing and polishing gathers and holds dirt and dust.

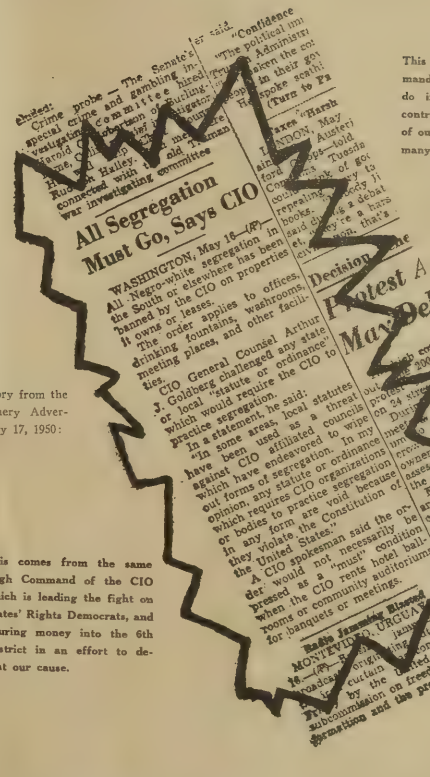
Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist states that dirt found on varnished furniture may be removed with soap and water or with linseed oil, turpentine and hot water. Furniture finished with a shellac or cheap varnish, however, should not be washed with water as it may turn white.

A simple cake icing may be made by placing a plain chocolate candy bar on a cake while it is still hot. The heat of the cake melts the chocolate, thus providing an appetizing icing.

To improve the flavor of cherry, peach, or apricot pie, sprinkle the fruit with a few drops of almont extract. To fruit pies which are a little flat in flavor add the juice of half a lemon.

This is what the High Command of the CIO intends to do in Alabama, by remote control, and in open defiance of our laws and the wishes of many of its own members.

News story from the Montgomery Advertiser, May 17, 1950:



All Segregation Must Go, Says CIO

WASHINGTON, May 16—(AP)—All Negro-white segregation in the South or elsewhere has been banned by the CIO on properties it owns or leases.

The order applies to offices, drinking fountains, washrooms, meeting places, and other facilities.

CIO General Counsel Arthur J. Goldberg challenged any state or local "statute or ordinance" which would require the CIO to practice segregation.

In a statement, he said: "In some areas, local statutes have been used as a threat against CIO affiliated councils which have endeavored to wipe out forms of segregation. In my opinion, any statute or ordinance which requires CIO organizations or bodies to practice segregation in any form are void because they violate the Constitution of the United States."

A CIO spokesman said the order would not necessarily be pressed as a "must" condition when the CIO rents hotel ballrooms or community auditoriums for banquets or meetings.

This comes from the same High Command of the CIO which is leading the fight on States' Rights Democrats, and pouring money into the 6th District in an effort to defeat our cause.

THERE ARE 2 BIG ISSUES IN THIS CAMPAIGN!

ISSUE NO. 1 IS TRUMANISM

ISSUE NO. 1 IS TRUMANISM. . .The States' Rights Democrats do not believe Alabama should be hog-tied and delivered to Harry Truman two years and six months ahead of time. They believe in a free and open primary in 1950—so that you will NOT be committed to support Truman without knowing either his running mate or his platform. They believe that the Alabama Plan, whereby people can send free electors to Washington, if they choose, is the only answer to the national "Democratic" leadership which robbed us of our veto power by abolishing the two-thirds rule. States' Rights Democrats do not believe that the South should be FORCED to support Truman and his anti-Southern program, which includes his infamous "Civil Rights" bill, just so that a few of our politicians can hold on to their patronage in Washington. They do not believe that the basic policy of the Democratic Party — the right of the states to handle their own affairs—should be scrapped so that a selfish few can get more out of the government.

ISSUE NO. 2 IS FAIR REPRESENTATION

Up to 1938, Tuscaloosa County never had more than two of the Sixth District's eight places on the State Democratic Executive Committee. By courtesy, it permitted the other seven counties to have the remaining six places. On May 2, THREE men from Tuscaloosa County were elected to the committee in the first primary. We believe that, by the laws of common sense and fair play, Tuscaloosa should permit the remaining seven counties to have the other five places on the committee. We are confident that the fair-minded people of Tuscaloosa will agree with this statement.

If you want an open primary and fair representation — and men on your committee who are fighting for principle, and not for patronage, then vote for the FIVE States' Rights Democrats listed at right.

You must vote for FIVE — and be sure to vote. If we can elect these five States' Rights Democrats in the Sixth District, the committee will be too closely balanced to deliver Alabama to Truman without giving you a free primary.

THIS is the time to save yourself from being hog-tied. Go to the polls next Tuesday!

Baseball—

The Lomax baseball team played the Verbena team last Saturday night at Verbena. Verbena came out on top by one run. It is reported that our boys made a real good showing.

You who went, saw something new. Yep You guessed it, new uniforms! They are an off gray with a large "L" on them. They really look nice.

Folks, we've got the makings of a fine baseball team. All they need is your support, and you can't say you can support them by sitting at home. Go to their games and yell. I know the players will appreciate it.

July 19th To Be Day Of Biggest Peach Festival Yet

The spotlight swings and all roads point to July 19 for the big, gala 1950 Peach Festival to be held in Clanton to promote all over the country the theme: "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops."

Bob Taber and Donald Merchant, working in close conjunction with their steering committees, are planning one of the biggest Peach Festivals in the history of Chilton County. Committee Chairmen and their co-chairmen have been appointed and all of these people met with the Festival chairman and their co-chairman at 7:30 last Tuesday night at the City Grill, Clanton, and mapped final plans before the real work gets underway.

Of course the Festival will feature the Peach Queen and King as it has in the past and indications are now that there will be many more entrants for the Queen contest. It is expected that more entrants from throughout the county will be entered this year.

Attempts are now being made to obtain the University of Alabama Band, the Maxwell Field Band, The Drum and Bugle Corps of American Legion Post Number, Montgomery, as well as many others including high school bands that will be available at the time of the Festival, July 19.

If every one comes and if every man, woman and child from throughout the state attends to pay honor to Chilton's Peach, and lines up the sidewalks of Clanton on July 19 to watch this colorful event, it will be the event we've all been dreaming about and an afternoon of fun and entertainment that we'll never forget.

The events of entertainment that will come on the night of the Festival are likely not to be forgotten for a long time. James Carl Martin has been chosen chairman and he promises to think up a form of entertainment that will really allow us to make merry and to be gayer than we've been in years.

In commenting on the progress of the 1950 Peach Festival so far, Bob Taber, Chairman, said: "Every undertaking has to have the full cooperation and good wishes of every person connected with it, or it cannot be a complete success. I would like to state right now that without the fine cooperation I have had so far from my co-chairman, Mr. Merchant, and the full steering committee, plans would not have progressed as far and as splendidly as they have. I am looking forward to one of the best Peach Festivals in the history of the county and it will only be so through the continued cooperation of everyone."

The following chairmen and co-chairmen have so far been selected:

Publicity — Helen Parrish, chairman; Farrell Gibbons, co-chairman; Ben Tucker and Gene Wyatt, newspapermen.

Entertainment — James Carl Martin, chairman.

Grounds — Cohen Stapp, chairman; Ernie Henson, co-chairman.

Floats — Dent Williams, chairman; Leonard Bosworth, co-chairman.

Food — C. B. Ramsey, chairman; John Higgins, co-chairman.

Selection and Entertainment of King and Queen — Mrs. Herbert Klinner, chairman; Mrs. E. R. Piper, co-chairman.

Advertising — A. L. Haack, chairman; Sam Mims, co-chairman.

Parade — Luther Kendrick, chairman; Thomas Childress, co-chairman.

Finance — R. H. Kirkpatrick, chairman; Leonard Bosworth, co-chairman.

Safety — Ralph Morrison, chairman; A. L. Livingston, co-chairman.

Entertaining Honor Guests — Leo Thompson, chairman; J. Archie Ogburn, co-chairman.

Alabama Industry Days To Be Of Interest To Everyone

Industry Days Exhibit Makes Big Hit At Meet Of Editors-Publishers

Birmingham, Ala. — Ask the men and women who have seen it and they'll tell you it's a smash hit.

The "it" refers to the Alabama Industry Days exhibit. The men and women who've seen it are the editors and publishers from over the state who gathered at the University of Alabama last week end to attend the Doyle L. Buckles Institute.

A preview of the exhibit was arranged for the Institute meeting, and more than sixty editors and publishers representing every section of Alabama got first-hand information on this program which promises to be one of the greatest promotions in the state's history.

The program is sponsored by the Associated Industries of Alabama in cooperation with the Alabama Press Association and the University of Alabama's Department of Journalism.

More than eighty-five industrial firms throughout the state have contributed samples of their Alabama-made products to go into the display. These products represent a wide diversification of industry, and in compiling the exhibits everything from fence posts to textile products, and from cricket boxes to tractors will be shown.

And the exhibit is not limited to the interest of only one or two members of the family. There's something in it which will be right down the alley for each member of the household—including cows, hogs, dogs, cats and even the pesky insects.

Feminine appeal is evident in the exhibit where the finest corduroys and chambrays are displayed, as well as the process through which Milady's hat must pass before it finally reaches her as the consumer. That's from the apparel angle, but she'll be interested too in seeing all the good things manufactured and processed right here in Alabama for the family table.

Canned goods of all types are shown. There's vegetables, syrup, flour, meal, pickles, peanut butter, identification of the state's best ice cream, peanut butter sandwiches and jams.

And, oh yes, for Blue Monday and the family wash, there's clothes line handy.

For the handyman around the house, there are tools to meet every need, floor drains, pipe valves and fittings, pulleys, work caps, paint, brick, metal laths, nuts, rivets and bolts.

The youngsters will go for the miniature tractor—an exact replica of the one manufactured in Gadsden, Ala.—Dad's fishing Cricket Box and other gadgets.

There's canned dog food, horsemeat, and other things for Fido, and a whiz-bang new pesticide—advertised as the best in the country—to bombard those persistent mosquitoes this summer.

That's only the high spots in the great exhibit—one of which will be placed in every county in the state, and in the larger communities in Alabama where there is a newspaper, during June 15-16-17.

Best part of it all, though, is that it's all made right here in Alabama—WHAT ALABAMA MAKES, MAKE ALABAMA.

Mr. Jones had experience in the banking and insurance field prior to assuming the post of State Adjutant for the American Legion in 1931.

He is and always has been keenly interested in the youth of Alabama, and played a great part in the establishment of the Alabama Boys State which is a yearly program of training the youth of Alabama in government.

Since coming to Birmingham to assume his present position with AIA in March, 1944, he has distinguished himself as one of the most outstanding association executives in the country. A close and constant observer of State and National Governmental policies and the problems of labor-management relations, he has made many appearances representing business and industry before the people of this state.

Active in many civic enterprises, Mr. Jones is a member of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club; Inter-Club Council of Birmingham; past Chairman Americanism Committee, Ala. American Legion; and, holds the rank of Colonel, Brigade Adjutant, Alabama State Guard.

Carmichael Makes Statement In Dept. Withdrawal

The news story regarding the withdrawal of the attorney general's office in the prosecution of the defendants in the county shortage cases which appeared in this paper last week is true.

In conversation with Attorney General Albert Carmichael Monday he stated that he felt that his office had given as much of their time as possible to the prosecution of the cases and that important work in other counties of the state required their immediate attention.

He also stated that he felt that the heaviest and most important part of the work had been done and having to "pull out" to give attention elsewhere, thought that now was the time.

Six of the ten indicted are yet to be tried.

TIME OF DAY TO BE DISCONTINUED BY BELL TELEPHONE CO.

The "time-of-day" service will be discontinued by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, effective June 5, in the interest of better service, it was announced today by P. J. Kreis, manager of the company.

In the past, Clanton telephone operators have given the time of day when requested, but now the city has grown and the telephone switchboards are so busy handling a large number of calls from a large number of telephones that the practice of giving the time of the day slows down telephone service for everyone.

In expressing regret for the necessity of discontinuing this practice, Mr. Kreis said the time-of-day service will be stopped in the interest of better service for Clanton customers. "The understanding and cooperation of our subscribers will be greatly appreciated," Mr. Kreis said.

J. S. (Jim) PLOTT

In the Democratic Primary held Tuesday, J. S. (Jim) Plott of Verbena, won over the encumbent, C. B. Cox, by a margin of more than 200 votes.

In conversation Wednesday Mr. Plott stated that he sincerely thanked all the voters for their honest effort in his behalf and for those who had worried about the change in county government they could rest assured that no change would be attempted, so long as he had any say so in the matter.

He stated further: "My friends have certainly stood by me throughout this campaign and if elected in November I will certainly stand by them for the next four years.

NEW ORGANIZATION OF LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE

You will soon be hearing a great deal about an organization of local young people here in Clanton, the Associated Producers, who are planning to present during this summer a series of entertainments for the people of Clanton and the surrounding area. The Associated Producers wish to promote a higher level of entertainment than is usually available to us during the summer months and to give the talented young people here an opportunity to associate themselves with musical and dramatic programs heretofore unoffered in our community.

As an example of the unusual and pleasurable offerings of the summer, the group of Associated Producers is presenting several of our most accomplished young pianists in a concert for two pianos on June 13. The program, including music to suit many musical tastes, will be released at an early date.

This concert will be the first of the Associated Producers' presentations. To follow will be drama, choral music and guest artists, one of whom will be Mrs. Carlisle Miller who will be well remembered for her exquisite violin playing heard all too seldom here in Clanton. Present plans are to work toward a permanent Little Theatre for Clanton where all of our young people may work together, exploiting their various talents in a group enterprise for their own pleasure and your enjoyment.

THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to everyone for their deeds of kindness, consoling words and the beautiful floral offering at the death of our husband and father. God bless you every one is our prayer.—Mrs. A. J. Davis and Family.

Director Of Agricultural Committee, State Chamber Of Comm. Visits; Offers Aid

J. Edgar Moreno visited Clanton Monday and brought an offer from the State Chamber of Commerce that will be of interest to all of Chilton County. The Agricultural Committee of which Mr. Moreno is director is offering the aid and assistance of the best minds in Alabama, to further agriculture in the various counties where the aid is asked.

Below is the full program offered by the State Chamber Committee and the list of prominent Alabamians giving their service to the cause.

It is believed that a state-wide committee can be of great help to county leaders in meeting their greatest needs, solving their agricultural problems and discovering new possibilities. This committee will be glad to have local leaders discuss with us their needs and tell us what they have in mind doing to obtain desired results. These leaders are therefore urged to give the Agricultural Committee of the State Chamber an opportunity to come into their communities and discuss with them their agricultural problems and possibilities. Members of this Committee represent associations, institutions, banks, distributors, industrial and utility companies the best course to pursue in an attempt to meet the needs of local communities. It is recognized that many local leaders need assistance of such a group.

If local plans are proven sound, the Agricultural Committee of the State Chamber will undertake to explore fields and possibilities beyond the reach of leadership available in the county with a view to being of definite help to them. In other words, our job is to take up where they leave off and supply for them the statewide leadership they might need after they have, and only after they have, done all they can for themselves. These needs may be:

1. Finances beyond their ability to obtain—maybe a system of financing by private enterprise heretofore not developed.
2. Processing plants for local products.
3. Factories to supplement farms.
4. Markets for local farm production.
5. Sources of supply of production materials or machinery and equipment best suited to their needs, at prices and terms they can afford.

These are merely examples. Requests for assistance beyond the prerogative of our committee will be referred to the proper committee of the State Chamber.

The Agricultural Committee of the State Chamber will merely furnish the coordinated leadership needed by county leaders and we hope will inspire many counties to come to the committee for assistance. In working with the county leader the Agricultural Committee will seek advice and guidance from the following:

1. Alabama Agricultural Extension Service.
2. Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station.
3. Vocational Agriculture Division, State Department of Education.
4. Financial institutions.
5. Processors—meat, milk, fruits, vegetables, etc.
6. Alabama Farm Implement Association.
7. Alabama Seedsmen Association.
8. Marketing organizations.
9. Distributors of food, feed and farm supplies.
10. Soil conservationists.
11. Industrial, railroad and power companies and others now employing field men to do work similar to what is proposed here.
12. Successful farmers following approved practices of soil conservation, land use and diversification.
13. Local Chambers of Commerce and Civic Clubs.
14. Newspapers.

Local leaders are urged to communicate with Mr. J. Edgar Moreno, Director, Agricultural Committee, Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, Montgomery, or with the Chairman or any member of the Agricultural Committee if they have problems or programs they would like to discuss with members of this committee.

AA - Alcholic Anonymous

What a blessing Alcoholic Anonymous has been to this community.

Within it's short life here dozens have been saved from the evils of alcohol and returned to useful lives, holding their responsible jobs again, and making their home life a thing of pleasure instead of a place filled with sorrow, shame and misery.

Look around you at the people you know who were on the down grade, now "on the way back." People you see most every day that no amount of talking to could reach, have joined the AA's, and are doing their part and spending most of their leisure time helping others.

Our hats off to the AA's. More power to them.

Sure We Want Gas - But

We are sure the people of Clanton want natural gas. It's convenience is undisputed and the fact that natural gas could be available might influence industry to choose Clanton as a mill site, a factory site, or whatever the case may be.

But we are also just as sure that Clanton does not want natural gas unless the cost of that gas is in keeping with the cost in other cities and towns in this territory. It could also be an instrument in keeping new industry from coming to Clanton.

We urge the City Council and Mayor to weigh well all facts before signing contracts that may bind our residents to high gas rates for years to come.

Better that we wait a while longer for our natural gas.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Thirsty days has September,
April, June and November.
All the rest are thirsty too,
'Cause Nivens took their Mountain Dew.

Funny maybe to some. . . .the lady at the beauty parlor who without paying too much attention to signs, sat in the comfortable looking chair. She was awaiting her turn with the beauty operator. When arising she had a half dozen beautiful black stripes down the back of her pretty white dress. The chair had been freshly painted . . . .Pat Hamilton coming out of his store Wednesday. He had fished all morning and caught nothing. Vowed he'd catch a fish before dark if it took him all night. . . .Ruben Gore, our efficient night policeman laying in the weeds along the L. & N. tracks all in the line of duty. He was "laying" for a known pervert who had been giving trouble. He was successful and the offender is behind bars. . . . Because of the diligence of our law enforcement officers we wouldn't be surprised if the price on whiskey doesn't go up. The boys are after the bootleggers. . . .Watch the store windows for the Industry Days displays. June 15, 16, and 17, are the days. All the merchants are taking part and giving away a lot of valuable prizes to their customers.

Speaking of Industry Days this month reminds us that the Alabama display will be in the windows at Watson's. Mr. Linton has kindly consented to the use of his windows and we are informed the display will be here some time within the next four or five days. It will contain a sample of every commodity manufactured in Alabama. Watch this window for it.

A report this week from the Department of Health, Montgomery, says of the 381 animal heads received and examined from all parts of the state last year and found to be positive for rabies 1 was from Chilton. The report is most incomplete. It doesn't say whether the animal was a dog, cat, fox, horse, cow, elephant, or what. All we know is the something from this county had rabies last year.

Did you hear about the local storekeeper who had everything in his store insured but the clock. He said it didn't need to be insured. Everybody watched that.

Social Note: If, when you are carving a chicken at the table, the fowl should slip off the platter into the lap of a guest, don't lost your poise or get flustered, be very courteous, smile and say: "May I trouble you for the chicken, please?"

We tried to make Yam Dankees out of our four county banks last week. We had them celebrating Memorial Day when they don't. The Memorial Day that we celebrate here in the Deep South is Confederate Memorial Day on April 26th. We're sorry we made this blunder cause we don't want no Johnny Rebs after our scalp.

POWER OF X-RAY IN CANCER CURES TOLD BY "FOR THE LIVING" PROGRAM

How a little girl, wiser than her parents, recognized symptoms of cancer in her grandmother and thus helped save a life, is the theme of the latest "For The Living" program, to be heard over WKLF on Tuesday a.m. at 8:45.

With Edward G. Robinson in the starring role, this broadcast tells about the power of X-ray, competently administered, as a cure for cancer in its early stages. The program is being presented by WKLF, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, as a public service. Special music, directed by Hollywood's Lyn Murray, has been composed by Castelnovo Tedesco. The script is the work of radio writer, Hu Chain.

"For the Living" has been prepared as part of the American Cancer Society's constant drive to educate the American public to the dangers of cancer. Figures show that one out of every two families is hit by this dread killer, second largest taker of lives among all diseases. The program's primary message is that cancer can be cured if detected early enough and the victim seeks immediate medical aid. It also stresses that only three weapons are known to be effective against cancer—surgery, radium and X-ray.

DRIFTING WEED KILLER INJURIOUS TO COTTON

Auburn, Ala. — If cotton leaves become narrow, long, thick and frazzled on the edges, it is usually safe to assume that someone in the community has been using one of the weed killers, such as 2, 4-D.

"Cotton yields may be greatly reduced, particularly if injury occurs in the fruiting stage," reveals O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist. "For this reason, farmers who use 2, 4-D or other weed killers should take every precaution to prevent spray from drifting to nearby cotton fields or other susceptible plants. Instances of spray materials drifting over 500 yards were reported in 1948 and 1949. With this fact in mind. weed killers should be applied only on a still day."

He adds that coarse sprays are less likely to drift than fine high-pressure sprays. It is advisable to use a boom hood to prevent drift, and it should be remembered that the ester forms of 2, 4-D are more dangerous to use than the sodium salt or ammine salt forms.

Even though drift of the ester is prevented, it will be found that when the wind changes it is possible that fumes will injure cotton or other plants subject to damage.

Debts

"Owe no man anything," is a Scripture we find in Rom. 13:8. Debts are binding on the mind, life and soul of any person. Very few people but what despise a debt of any kind. We do not like to be in debt. We had rather pay as we go, and if we cannot pay, then don't go. All debts should be paid by the debtors. And it goes without saying, every honest person will put forth efforts to pay his debt.

A. T. HICKMAN

Some people owe debts of money. They have borrowed money; all such should be paid. Some owe debts on things which they have bought on time payments, or on credit. These debts should be paid. Some owe debts for service rendered them by another. Perhaps the doctor bills have not been paid; the man who worked for hire has not been paid his wage, and there is still the house or office rent due long past. . .Then there is our National debt that has got to be paid by some generation, if not this present generation, then those that are unborn, but will be born to pay for the folly of extravagance of their forefathers.

Then there are different kinds of debts. There is the debt of an apology. Very often we hear of some one owing another an apology for some offense or injury done. This sort of debt should likewise be paid. It should not go on, and on, unpaid. The debtor should pay the apology and bring freedom and happyness to his own soul, and to the life of others.

Friend reader, think over your back life; make a check-up on your debt sheet, and see if you owe some one an apology, and if you do, pay it today. Then there are debts of gratitude. Favors of kindness have been rendered by one to another, and not once any words of appreciation and gratitude have been spoken by the one receiving the favor or kindness. These debts should likewise be paid. Money cannot pay some debts, and a debt of gratitude is one that money cannot pay. This debt is paid by the attitude of the person's mind and soul. It finds its source from within the heart, and not from the pocket or hands. One of the sins of the last days is, "Unthankfulness." (II Tim. 3:2).

Life is too short, death is too sure; the Judgment too great, to be disobedient to God, disloyal to our government and dishonest with our fellowman.

GLAUCOMA

Although a South American scientist has devised a new technique which is claimed to be faster and easier to read than Braille and which enables the blind to read raised dots and dashes on a card, one must still care for his most precious vision.

No other eye disease causes so much blindness as glaucoma, which causes loss of vision as a result of pressure damage to the optic nerve. Increased pressure develops when the clear fluids which normally fill the eye are dammed back by defects in the drainage system, arising in the course of the disease.

Two or three persons out of every 100 over forty years of age have glaucoma without knowing it. Motor car accidents are among those that occur due to the narrowed visual fields resulting from glaucoma. Early diagnosis and prompt treatment makes it possible to delay the progress of glaucoma and maintain vision.

The word glaucoma, meaning sea-green, first appeared in the writings of Hippocrates, although he did not recognize the difference between glaucoma, cataract and other causes of blindness. He used the term to describe in a general way blindness coming on with increasing years associated with the bluish green tint of the pupil.

Glaucoma has now become more common than tuberculosis and is attributed partly to the emotional strain of modern civilization and partly to heredity. Many cases of glaucoma reach the ophthalmologist after it is too late for effective treatment. The public should become educated to seek help at the first indication of eye trouble. Periodic eye examination should become routine after a person has reached middle age.

In some places glaucoma clinics have been established where persons may have their eyes examined properly, for the public needs to become conscious of the danger of glaucoma.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I handle plaster of Paris, that is used for filling cracks in plaster, to prevent it from hardening so quickly?

A. Mix the plaster of Paris with vinegar instead of water. It can be used far more successfully because it will not harden for about an hour. Push the plaster into the cracks and smooth with a putty or table knife.

Q. How can I keep a can of paint that has been partly used, and it is not wished to cover the can securely?

A. Stir the paint thoroughly, then fill to the top with water. When needed, pour off the water very carefully.

Q. How can I give a fragrant scent to a room?

A. Fill a bowl or vase half full of warm water, and add a few drops of violet water or violet perfume.

Q. How can I tighten the sewing machine belt?

A. It is often unnecessary to remove the sewing machine belt in order to tighten it. A few drops of machine oil on the wheel will usually bring desired results.

Q. How can I effectively remove dirt which has become ground into the hands after working around the car or furnace?

A. Rub vaseline jelly thoroughly into the hands, let it remain for at least fifteen minutes, and then wash the hands and see how easily the dirt is removed.

Q. How can I clean velvet flowers?

A. Merely rub some dry bran on the soiled parts, then brush off. Repeat if necessary.

Q. How can I remedy an oily skin?

A. Wash the face every morning and night in water, in which a pinch of borax has been dissolved. This will remove the oily shine, and also cleanse the skin.

Q. How can I remove rust from steel?

A. First rub with sweet oil, allowing the oil to remain on the steel for twenty-four hours, and then sprinkle with unslacked lime and rub off.

Q. How can I make really crisp potato chips?

A. Steam the potatoes for fifteen minutes before frying potato chips. This not only saves time and fat, but makes the chips more crisp.

Q. How can I remedy the little cracks and checks that appear in china, majolica, or earthenware?

A. Try boiling these pieces in milk. The dishes will usually look as good as new.

YOU can have fun figuring out your message from the Orient by use of this pleasant little letter puzzle. If the number of letters in your first name is 5 or less, subtract from 7. If more than 5 letters in your first name, subtract from 13. Now take this result and find your key letter in the word ORIENT at the top of this puzzle. Then, starting at the upper left corner, check each one of your large key letters as it appears from left to right. Below the key letters is a code message for you.

● What our visitors will see during Alabama Industry Days, does not exist in the "Welfare State" countries of Europe and Asia. Over there the governments operate all industries and strips workers of the right to work where they please, assigns them to jobs, takes away the profit incentive, production lags, wages are low, and prices are high. No competition, so quality is poor. Here, we still have our enterprise system under which free workers can maintain the highest standards of living on earth and keep their self-respect

Perhaps there would be more power in our praying if there was more cheer in our giving.

Everything they say about us helps. If they lie about us, we are so glad it is a lie we can't get mad. If they tell the truth about us, we are so sorry we can't get mad, so we always stay in a good humor.

Our language is called "The mother tongue," because father seldom gets a chance to use it.

In the past, telephone operators have given the time of day when requested. But now the city has grown and the telephone switchboards are so busy handling a larger number of calls from a larger number of telephones that the practice of giving time of day slows down telephone service for everyone.

We regret the necessity of discontinuing this service. Your cooperation will help in furnishing the best possible telephone service for all.

Game fishing is usually slow during this particular period each year. That is the lull between Spring and Summer when the Crappie have finished spawning and Bass have not begun to school. At this time Crappie fishing has revolved to spot fishing provided you can find the spots at the right time of day. Smallmouth Bass are being caught early in the mornings and late in the evenings. The most effective bait being used on the Coosa Lakes are flies, top water and shallow running plugs, live minnows and worms.

Fishing may be in a slump but the natural, ever changing beauty of the Coosa Lakes is superb. Mountain Laurel and other flowering plants are in full bloom adding much to the delight of a day's outing. Any family can picnic and enjoy this wealth of outdoor recreation.

Many are receiving their attractive Whopper-Catcher membership certificates for entering qualifying catches in the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest. The certificate is 8 in. x 10 in., suitable for framing and it gives the details of your catch such as your name, kind of fish, date caught and location. You will be proud to display this certificate to back up your fish yarn as to how you managed to the catch.

The Whopper-Catcher of the week is C. E. Horn, Sylacauga. Mr. Horn fished Blue Springs Creek, Lake Lay, with red worms and caught a fine 14-ounce Shellcracker Bream, as reported by weigh-in officer, Charlie Depoister, Blue Springs Fishing Camp, Lake Lay.

E. G. Johnson's Store, near Clanton, reports: J. P. Johnson, Clanton, had some tussle with a 3 pound 4 ounce Smallmouth Bass. This big fellow took the line, pole and the whole works under the boat, for a time, Mr. Johnson thought he was going under the boat too, but expert maneuvering finally subdued this fighting gamester. The catch was made at Lake Mitchell and red worms were used as bait.

Joe Stanton's Fishing Camp, Weoka Creek, Lake Jordan, reports: W. D. Stanton, Montgomery, snagged a 4 pound Largemouth Bass with a fly rod and live minnow. The scene of action was near Joe's Camp.

Safety Comment of the Day: Wearing a life preserver is an indication of wise prudence dictated by experience and is not a sissy practice. In small boats, non-swimmers should wear life preservers at all times when under way.—"HAVE FUN SAFELY."

PLANTING NEARING END; HARVESTING BEGUN ON SOME STATE CROPS

Montgomery, Ala. — After a somewhat slow start, farming operations are now making good progress in Alabama.

Spring planting is being pushed nearer completion in the northern counties, and the harvesting of oats and legume seed is well underway in many southern sections.

Farmers in almost every cotton growing section are well along with their chopping, and the condition of the crop appears good. Boll weevils, however, are putting in their appearance in many northern sections of the state.

Alabama's corn crop is off to a good start, with planting almost completed on farms in the northern counties. In the south some early corn is already being laid by.

Peanuts are also making favorable progress, but the crop is still slightly behind schedule.

Harvesting of crimson clover seed is active in the southern half of the state. Yield outlook is favorable, however, some loss from hail and heavy rains has been suffered by Autauga County farmers.

Saving of lupine seed is underway in the south and will become increasingly active during the coming week. Oats are also being harvested in the extreme southern portions of the state.

Pastures in every section are furnishing plentiful grazing and Alabama livestock appears in good condition.

From the Gulf Coastal Area, potato shipments continue in heavy volume. Some farmers in this section have begun harvesting their cucumber crops, but so far marketings have been light.

KEEP VEGETABLES IN HOME FREEZER

Home freezer owners will be glad to know that frozen vegetables, properly prepared, are safe from spoilage bacteria.

Tests by the New York Agricultural Experiment Station showed that vegetables frozen in still air at zero degrees Fahrenheit were safe from bacteria that would cause spoilage. The very rapid freezing methods brought bacterial growth in these vegetables practically to a standstill, so that the number of bacteria did not increase. The home freezer at slower rates allowed the bacteria to increase slightly frozen, the vegetables were entirely frozen, but the increase was so slight that the scientists did not consider it significant.

Farmers often run into dry weather just when a crop is maturing and needs water most. Fortunately it is possible for many Alabama truck crop farmers to make their own rain by the use of irrigation.

MAY SINGING AT PROVIDENCE ONE OF THE BEST

The Fourth Sunday in May Singing, held at Providence (Beat 16) last Sunday, was one of the best. Everybody was in high spirits and in the mood for giving out their best. Old friends met at this annual affair and enjoyed loving fellowship with each other, some having been a number of years since they had seen the other.

Many dedications were given in honor of those passed on and several numbers were sung for Uncle Riley Robinson who was present at this session. If he lives till next February 11th he will have reached the age of 100. He is one of the Charter Members of this annual May singing and stated last Sunday that he had not missed a single session since its beginning 65 years ago.

The program for the day was as follows:

The singing was called to order at 10 o'clock by R. M. Robinson who sang the first number, followed with prayer by W. J. Cox. Directors for the morning were S. V. Miller, Lonza Bates, Rev. Floyd Smith, W. J. Cox, Lelyn Powell, Mary Ella Bailey, Gloria Robinson, Mary Clyde Calloway, Frances Bates, Myra Mims, Margaret Calloway, Calvin Robinson, G. C. Robinson, Floyd Bailey, Irene Mims, Delene Bates, Charlie Davenport, T. E. Wyatt and Marion W. Easterling.

At the noon hour lunch was spread under the big oaks and everybody enjoyed a great feast together. There was plenty of food for everyone, and enough left for another crowd as large as the first.

Directors for the afternoon included: R. M. Robinson, Marion W. Easterling, Steve Baker, G. C. Powell, A. O. Boswell, Jesse Mitchell, T. E. Wyatt, Lonza Bates, S. V. Miller, Rev. Floyd Smith, W. J. Cox, Calvin Robinson, Irene Mims, Lloyd Boswell, Gloria Robinson, and Uncle Riley Robinson gave the congregation a number, "All Hail The Power," which everyone enjoyed.

The Davenport Quartet from Pletcher rendered seveeal numbers during the day. Also a very fine quartet number was sung by Marion W. Easterling, T. E. Wyatt, Steve Baker and Mrs. Irene Mims, which was arranged by Marion W. Easterling.

Pianists for the day were Miss Mary Ella Bailey, Mrs. Delene Bates and Marion W. Easterling.

CHASTEEN - MARCUS

The home of the bride was lighted with candles for the marriage Friday afternoon, May 19th, of Miss Ruth Christine Chasteen and Donald Hugh Marcus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evans Sidney Chasteen. Mr. Marcus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander Marcus.

The vows were said at a 4:00 p.m. service at which the Rev. John C. Rountree officiated.

Arrangements of white gladioli, pink roses, honeysuckle, and smilax decorated the altar that was arranged in front of the mantel in the living room. Candles in 7 branch candelabra were lighted by Brady Jones, cousin of the bride. Miss Betty Lois Conway, vocalist, presented "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Dora Frances Grooms. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin by Wagner was played by Miss Mary Judeen Culp, niece of the bride for the processional. Soft music was played by Miss Culp throughout the ceremony, for the recessional she presented the traditional Wedding March from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn.

Miss Mary Louise Marcus, sister of the groom, was honor attendant. Brides maids were Miss Jo Ann Foshee, Miss Mabel Alice Jackson and Miss Norma Jacqueline Smitherman. The honor attendant wore white organdy with bouffant skirt over taffeta. Her flowers were white carnations worn in her hair as a halo. The bridesmaids were gowned alike in green organdy with bouffant skirts over taffeta. Their flowers were corsages of red roses. All of the attendants wore white nylon gloves. White lace hats completed their costumes.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, the Rev. Ernest Jones, wore a dress of white ninon fashioned with a low neck line and double pointed collars. The skirt featured tucks and drapery of self material. Her gloves were white nylon and a white lace picture hat completed her outfit. Her flowers were a corsage of four dwarf white orchids with lavendar throats tied with white ribbon.

John Evans Culp, nephew of the bride, served Mr. Marcus as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Chasteen entertained the wedding party and guests immediately following the ceremony.

Mrs. Casteen wore a bemberg sheer in a floral print, and Mrs. Marcus, mother of the groom, was in blue crepe.

The bride's table, covered with handmade lace over pale rose, held the three tiered wedding cake decorated with white wedding bells and roses and a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Elwood Ross Aycock, sister of the bride, cut the cake. Serving were Miss Laura Ann Ratliff and Miss Mary Judeen Culp. Mrs. Winston Culp, sister of the bride, was at the punch table. Mrs. Andrew Chasteen was in charge of the bride's book, assisted by Miss Laura Ann Ratliff. Miss Dora Frances Grooms and Miss Betty Lois Conway presented a musical program.

The couple left for a short wedding trip. The bride's traveling dress was green triple sheer with which she wore a white hat and green accessories.

THERE'S A NEW SPARK NOW!!

IS THIS BOLL WEEVIL COOKING ON YOUR STOVE?

Last year the boll weevil destroyed 50 million dollars' worth of cotton – enough money to buy an automatic stove for every farm family in Alabama. He will do it again, if you don't stop him.

HERE'S HOW TO DO IT . . .

Use 20 per cent toxaphene or a 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT. On each acre use 8 to 14 pounds of poison per dusting, depending on size of cotton.

When plants are fruiting freely – about lay-by time – start dusting if boll weevil infestation is 25 per cent or higher. Make 3 applications of poison 5 days apart.

Check fields 10 days after third dusting. If infestation is still 25 per cent or higher, dust three more times – 5 days between dustings.

In August, when weevils are moving from field to field, dust 3 or 4 more times every 4 days to protect top bolls.

MUSIC CLUB FINISHES YEAR'S PROGRAMS WITH BANQUET

"And time on tiptoe lingers
When voices rise in song."

This couplet provided the theme for the entire program of the banquet with which the Clanton Music Appreciation Club finished its year's work in May. The speeches, toasts, group singing, place cards and programs were built on the idea of "Steps in Music."

The welcome address reviewed the club's purposes and accomplishments in furthernig community appreciation of music. Mrs. Erle Ellis, out going president, summarized the musical activities of Clanton young people in the various colleges they are now attending. The new president, Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, who is a graduate of the Music Department of Judson College, outlined future club plans by showing what can be done in Clanton to promote enjoyment of good music.

Miss Patricia Huddleston, daughter of the newly elected president, was guest soloist and sang, "Without A Song," "Mighty Lak A Rose," "One Song," "Through The Years," and other favorites.

Members of the club wrote the verse to all the songs which the entire group sang to the music of popular lyrics, such as "Juanita." Other members also made and decorated the programs and place cards to illustrate the banquet theme.

The dining room of the Methodist Church was the setting for this occasion. Colonial nosegays and candles—both in pastels—and baskets of mixed Spring flowers were used throughout.

At the speakers' table were Mr. and Mrs. Grady Heflin (the latter being District Director of the State Federation of Music Clubs); Mrs. Erle Ellis; Mrs. W. E. Huddleston; Mrs. Henry Jones, local teacher of piano; and Miss Patricia Huddleston.

Other members and guests included Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Levine; Mrs. Leonard Farley, Mrs. Arthur Bazzell, Mrs. Claude Craig and her mother, Mrs. Etta Kuhn; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Klinner; Miss Elizabeth Barton; Mrs. Ben Williams; Mrs. J. The Clanton Music Appreciation Club concluded its current year of regular programs by featuring Mrs. W. B. Crowe, Jr., in a demonstration of old dance forms. Mrs. Joe Mullins introduced the program with a discussion of basic dance forms which Mrs. Crowe illustrated. The sarabande, the minuet, the gavotte, and the waltz. With a candle lighting ceremony Mrs. Erle Ellis, president of the club for the past two years, installed new officers for the 1950-52 seasons:

PATTERN SELECTION FOR SPRING FROCKS

Auburn, Ala. — Some patterns are designed for either heavy, stiff, flimsy or soft fabric.

Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, reveals that patterns for large plaid and checked fabrics are simpler than those for small all-over designs or solid color fabrics. A pattern with decorative details such as small tuck, top stitching and shirring fails to show up in an all-over designed fabric.

"Patterns with gathering, shirring, small buttons, and buttonholes, tiny tucks, unpressed pleats, drapes, or ruffles are especially suitable to soft, sheer or light-weight fabrics, such as voiles, crepes and silk prints," emphasizes the specialist.

She adds that patterns designed for large pockets, large pleats, bound buttonholes, large buttons and top stitching are more adaptable to firmer, heavier fabrics, such as linen, chambray, sharkskin and wool.

FOR BEST PERFORMANCE KEEP TRACTORS CLEAN

Farmers in this area can get better performance from their tractors and the same time eliminate a serious fire hazard if they remove accumulations of dirt and grease from the tractor engine.

"Dirt and grease slow down the removal of heat from the motor and speed decay of the rubber coverings on wires," states J. T Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service specialist in farm mechanization. "Dirt and grease are responsible for hundreds of tractors catching fire each summer, causing serious damage to the tractor and in some instances injuring the operator."

The specialist also warns farmers that tractor brakes should be periodically checked and corrected if found to be faulty. The life of the tractor operator is more important than the small amount of time and money required to keep a tractor in good repair.

The local county agent or tractor dealer can help farmers with problems concerning tractors.

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES

DEDICATED TO SERVE THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY AND CENTRAL ALABAMA

VOL. XXVIII — CLANTON, ALABAMA — THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1950 — NUMBER 23

Peach Festival Committee Active; Queen Sponsors Name Their Representatives

Water shows, singings, baseball, hillbilly shows, drill teams and band concerts are just a part of the huge entertainment that's in store this year for the gala 1950 Chilton County Peach Festival, promoting the never-ending theme that "Chilton County Peaches Are Tops."

That's the word from the Peach Festival headquarters as plans begin to take shape and progress goes forward as meetings galore are conducted by all committee chairmen, co-chairmen and their workers in an effort to make the 1950 Festival the best yet.

During the afternoon of the Festival, July 19th, there will be a baseball game conducted at Clanton's City Park. And on the same afternoon "Bull" Spicer, park director, has promised one of the best water shows that has ever been witnessed in Central Alabama at the City Park pool. Working with the cooperation of Henry Grady Heflin, in his own right an expert swimmer, Mr. Spicer will have all kinds of diving exhibitions as well as swimming races and water games. Plans also may be formulated in a day or so to conduct a singing in the Chilton County courthouse.

James Carl Martin, chairman of the entertainment committee, has announced a bang-up list of entertainment on the night of the Festival. These festivities will be conducted under the lights at the football field adjacent to the Chilton County High School. Mr. Martin has just announced the signing of Joe Rumore and Rebe and Rabe for a full 45 minutes of fun-packed, clean entertainment. Martin also announced that clowns, dancers, drill teams and others that will go to make up one of the biggest variety shows to hit Chilton County will be on hand for the thousands of persons from all over the South that are expected to be in attendance that night.

At this immediate writing, Mrs. L. A. Lambert and her committee have started a brand new approach in the sponsorship of the entrants for the Queen Contest for the festival. Mrs. Lambert and her committee, in an effort to throw the doors wider open to all girls who aspire to one of the highest honors in Chilton County, that of becoming Peach Queen for 1950, are contacting all Chilton County merchants in an effort to have them sponsor a girl in the Festival. In the past some girls have reported that they would like to enter the Peach Festival Contest if they could be sponsored. Mrs. Lambert's committee reports that this will in no way cause any expense to the sponsor unless he so desires to do something special for his entrant.

In making this announcement, Mrs. Lambert further pointed out that entrants will also be sponsored by the many Civic Clubs throughout Chilton County as they have in the past. Mrs. Lambert also urged that all girls wishing a sponsor and who wanted to enter the Peach Queen Contest should get in touch with her or call Radio Station WKLF and leave their names and addresses. The age limit for the entrants runs from 15 to 25 years of age and they must be unmarried.

The barbecue committee, under the direction of Mr. Cecil Ramsey, has already made big plans for their part of the festivities. Mr. Ramsey reported Wednesday afternoon that selection of the pit site has already been made and that construction of the "big hole" has already gotten underway. Mr. Green Griffin is assisting Mr. Ramsey on this project.

A Correction

It was reported in a news release from Alabama College last week that Miss Ella Mae Johnson would receive her degree this summer and that is the way we reported it. Since that time however, we learned that Miss Johnson did graduate Monday and we are very sorry we reported it different. We could only follow the report from the college.

We heartily congratulate Miss Johnson and beg forgiveness for the error. Our sincere best wishes to she and all the young girls who finished their work at Montevallo Monday. May they find joy and happiness, each in her own chosen field. — The Editor.

Local Students Graduate At University

Several local young people were graduated from the University of Alabama in ceremonies Tuesday of this week. Among some called to our attention were Miss Melba Studdard who graduated with honors, having recently won a scholarship.

Jimmie Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Walker, received his degree. Mrs. Fannie Jo (Broadhead) Hickman, wife of Andrew Hickman, was another who finished Tuesday. Emma Frank McRae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle McRae, received her degree.

Eighteen hundred and seventeen students in all finished this week, and according to best information, it was the biggest graduating class in the history of the school. A local citizen who attended the exercises reported that the statement was made that scholarship record at the school was the highest it had ever been.

Clanton Gains 647 In 1950 Census; County Population Decreases More Than 1,000

The 1950 Census figures have been released and final count shows Clanton to have gained 647 inhabitants. At the same time it shows Chilton County's population to have decreased by 1,114 persons. This count since the 1940 Census.

It seems that dwelling units have increased a great deal more than the population, although it is still difficult to get a house to live in. In 1940 there were 7,012 dwelling units in the county and 27,955 people. In 1950 there are 7,683 dwelling units and only 26,841 persons. That is an increase of 671 dwelling units and a decrease of 1,114 inhabitants.

For comparison of the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census the figures are:

City of Clanton, 1950	4,631
City of Clanton, 1940	3,983
Chilton County, 1950	26,841
Chilton County, 1940	27,955

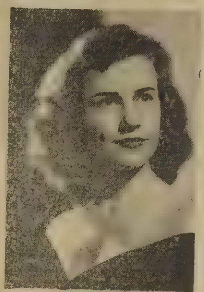
Two Piano Program Presented By Associated Producers At Gymnasium Next Tuesday Evening At 7:45

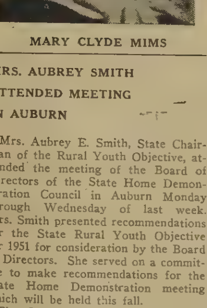
A two piano program with a featured Birmingham singer is the first in a series of summer programs sponsored by Assocaited Producers, and it will feature local teams of exceptional piano talent next Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the Chilton County High School gymnasium.

The Associated Producers, a group of Clanton young people intent on bringing something new in cultural entertainment to Chilton County and the surrounding territory, has planned to present a varied musical program to suit musical tastes of all kinds. Classical, romantic and popular compositions will be performed along with the songs of beautiful Mary Evelyn Patton, a recent scholarship winner in the "Miss Alabama" contest.



MARY EVELYN PATTON

AUDREY POPWELL



MARY CLYDE MIMS

Local piano teams are composed of college and high school students who will perform two piano music never before performed before the general public in Clanton. The classical division will feature Sarah Madge Mullins and Lenore Oglesby, due-pianists, who will perform the difficult "Kinder Concerto in B flat" by Mozart.

Following the concerto, Miss Patton will perform a section of operatic and art songs. In this group are "Son Pochi Fiori" from L'Amico Fritz by Nascagni, "Le Fille de Cadiz" by Leo Delibes, and "The Star" by Rogers.

The second section of the program will feature two teams performing selections from the Romantic period. Dorothy Mi[illegible] and Warrena Willis will perform "Hopak" by Moussorgsky, and Evely[illegible] ones and Myron Levine will perfo[illegible] the Chopin "Waltz in D flat."

Another [illegible]oup of art songs by Miss Patton wi[illegible]ollow. The beautiful Campbell-Ti[illegible]n "A Spirit Flower" and "L'Adorable Hantise" by Raberg compose this group.

In order to suit the fans of popular music, Mary Clyde Mims and Audrey Popwell, students at Alabama College who are known for their piano virtuosity not only in Clanton but throughout the state, will perform musical comedy, movie background, and standard dance music in intriguing arrangements for two pianos by Merkur.

"Intermezzo" from the Ingrid Bergman movie by the same name will be followed by Sigmund Romberg and Victor Herbert light operatic music sung by Miss Patton. For her closing selections she will sing "Serenade" by Romberg, "Thine Alone" by Herbert, and "One Kiss" by Romberg.

After the Provost Intermezzo" Miss Mims and Miss Popwell will conclude the concert with Vincent Youmans' "Tea for Two" and "When Day Is Done," by Katcher.

This program has been designed to suit every music lover in Clanton, but suggestions are always appreciated by the Associated Producers.

Admission to this first program of the series will be 75 and 50 cents. Among later attractions during this summer will be Mrs. Carlisle Miller, violinist, an operatic program, a choral program, an operette and drama.

LIONS-KIWANIS BASEBALL GAME

Let's play baseball! And that's just what is going to take place come the night of June 16th, in Clanton's City Park. It seems that several months ago, or was it weeks ago, that the Clanton Kiwanis Club challenged the Clanton Lions Club to a baseball game. Well, according to an announcement made this week by Lions President, Julian Evans, the challenge has been met and accepted and the date for the big game has finally been set. The time is 7:30 p.m., and it promises to be the game of the year. Surely there will be a brand of baseball that Clanton and Chilton County very seldom get a chance to witness.

Admission to the game as 25c and 50c and the proceeds will be used for local charities.

Father's Day

June 18th is Father's Day. Being a father and subject to all the disadvantage and advantages of the title, we are in a position to speak from and with. (That is from experience and with authority.)

First let us say, a father is unpredictable. He may, at times, be used as a door mat by the whole family, and at other times raise the roof right off the house if his coffee is too cold, his soup too hot, or the cat drags his feet while crossing the living room rug.

A father is careless. Ask any wife. Just pick one at random, and ask her. You'll find they all leave their clothes scattered, their shaving gear all over the bathroom and have to be nagged into taking a bath or changing their socks.

They're thoughtless. So long as they are comfortable the rest of the world can go hang. Give them a book or a magazine or a newspaper and the house can all but cave in, burn down, blow away, or disintergrate, and papa will continue his idle pursuit.

Ornery. Except at times. Doesn't like to be managed or admit that the "little woman" wears the pants. Sulks when he doesn't get his way. All in all we don't understand giving the guy a special day to call his own.

And look at the money he would save.

Farming And Safety

It should come as a distinct shock to everyone to learn that farming is the third most hazardous occupation in America. Farmers have always known that their job is a hard one, calling for long hours, careful planning, and a keen understanding of the close relationship between nature and science that are necessary to produce enough food each year to feed 150,000,000 citizens —not to mention much of the rest of the world.

However, perhaps even the farmer does not realize how hazardous his job really is. According to the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, which is cooperating with the President's Conference on Industrial Safety to emphasize the need for greater occupational safety, one farmer in every 15 is temporarily or permanently injured while plowing a field, milking a cow, riding a tractor, or doing any number of other chores.

Last year in America, more than 300,000 farmers suffered disabling injuries on their jobs. 4,400 others weren't so lucky. They were killed by falls, machinery, animals, or other "potential hazards."

Statistics show that 22 percent of disabling injuries on farms occurred last year between January and March, 26 percent from April to June, 31 percent from July to September, and 21 percent in the last quarter of the year. Naturally, as these figures indicate, the summer months are the most hazardous months of the year for the working farmer.

Unless care is taken, accidents will kill an average of 48 American farm residents, every day during the next 12 months. These deaths and accidents on our farms cost the nation $75,000,000 each year. Who can measure the added cost in human lives and human suffering? Farmers everywhere might well remember these figures.

Hill & Sparkman Get Help Against Boll Weevil For Alabama Farmers

Alabama Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman have secured special help from the Department of Agriculture to aid Alabama cotton farmers in meeting the boll weevil threat which already has become serious in several Alabama areas.

At the request of Senators Hill and Sparkman, the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine has reallocated June funds for the control of emergency outbreaks of insects to give additional funds for stepping up this work in Alabama. The Bureau has just authorized additional funds to State Entomogolist, W. A. Ruffin, of the Alabama Extension Service to intensify the boll weevil control program.

Under the program the Extension Service and the Bureau of Entomology combine forces to ascertain and inform farmers as to the location and extent of boll weevil infestations. Under the program farmers are advised as to the most effective type of poison and suggestions are made as to when and how to apply the poison for best results. Effort is also made to help insure dealers in danger areas of adequate supplies of boll weevil poison to meet the needs of the farmers in those areas. Dealers having difficulty in securing their requirements of poison from manufacturers are assisted by the Bureau in locating and acquiring their needs.

Hill and Sparkman have called on the Farmers Home Demonstration to render every possible assistance in meeting the boll weevil danger. According to the Alabama Senators, the Farmers Home Administration is now surveying several counties in North Alabama where the infestation is currently more severe to anticipate the credit needs of farmers in purchasing poison dust.

Alabama was declared a disaster area last year as a result of crop losses caused by the boll weevil and heavy rains. Hill and Sparkman stated that the Farmers Home Administration made 1990 crop disaster loans to Alabama farmers during last fall and this spring amounting to $1,148,000.00. Most of these loans Hill and Sparkman said were made to farmers who suffered serious losses from the boll weevil.

It is expected that the Farmers Home Administration will be able to make additional loans for poison to those farmers who have already received disaster loans and through split loan arrangements with local banks and farmer suppliers be able to meet the poison purchase needs of farmers.

Hill and Sparkman urged Alabama farmers to keep themselves informed through the County Agents as to the degree of infestations in their immediate areas and to take every precaution to protect their crops through dusting where needed.

Census Bureau Current Population Survey

The Census Bureau's Current Population Survey, from which official government figures on employment and unemployment are obtained each month, will be conducted during the week of June 11 to 17, it was announced today by Program Supervisor Helen N. Thornton from the District office here in Clanton. In the Current Population Survey, the Census Bureau interviews each month a representative cross-section of 25,000 households throughout the country, including many in Chilton and Perry counties.

In the survey, households are generally interviewed every month for a period of about six months and are then replaced by others. By interviewing the same people each month, it is possible to get information not otherwise available on many important aspects of employment. For example, the Census Bureau finds out how many people working one month has lost their jobs by the following months, how many previously unemployed workers find jobs from one month to the next, how many persons change from one type of work to another, and so forth.

In addition to questions on employment and unemployment, information is obtained from time to time on other subjects of interest to various civic, business, labor and government groups. Some of the subjects covered in the course of a year, for example, are school enrollment, migration, disability and trends in family size.

Highly trained enumerators have been used in the Current Population Survey since the beginning, and they of course, are all required to show proper identification. Mrs. Thornton emphasized that all individual information reported in the survey, as in the Census, is held in absolute confidence and only statistical summaries are ever published.

(answer to last week's puzzle)

Friendship

Friendship has been called the greatest of all "ships." It is far better to have friends than to have money. A true friend is a person that loves you inspite of all your defects and faults. A real friend will stand by you when all others have turned away. A friend will praise and rejoice with you in all your success, and he will encourage you when you fail. He will lift you up when you are down. He loves you for what you are, and not for what you have to offer. A true friend will love you, trust you, sympathize with you, rejoice with you, and weep with you, and when you offend him, he will forgive you. A real true friend's love lingers like the eternal stars in the heavens, never grows dim, even on the darkest night. friendship gives it's support to others.

A. T. HICKMAN

A soldier told of his being wounded in time of battle: "Did you not fall at once," said one. "No," he replied, "The boys saw I was hurt and wounded, and they gathered so closely about me I could not fall."

Many times in life a person is knocked down, wounded grievously by temptation, malice, or other malignant foes, and because he is so wounded many forsake him; but then is the time true friendship comes in and supports the weak and wounded. For friendship understands.

Jonathan and David had such friendship for each other. Their hearts and souls were knitted together. Jonathan loved David as his own soul. This friendship was based on a common interest. In the two men was the same substance, fibre, texture, strength and quality. They were of the same noble, courageous, holy, generous, and devout character. Their friendship was nothing else than a complete union of feeling on all subjects. Their friendship was unselfish in character. Jonathan was the son of king Saul, and was heir-apparent to the throne of his father; while David was only a poor young man, and promised nothing toward Jonathan in the way of material things. But Jonathan did not think of what he might get out of David by being his friend, but what he could be to David by being his friend.

Jesus Christ is this kind of Friend. He is a Friend that sticketh closer than a brother. And this is the type of friendship that should characterize our own hearts. Such a friend is worth the search of a life time; but happy are those who find such friendship early in life. Happy are you if you find him before you die.

HAY FEVER

Hay fever occurs in three seasons of the year. There is the spring variety caused by the pollens of such trees as oak, birch, hickory elm, ash and poplar, which extends from early April to early June. The summer type of seasonal hay fever that comes in the middle or at the end of May and stays until the middle of July is caused by grass pollens. The fall type of hay fever, caused chiefly by ragweed, runs from mid-August to the first frost around October.

Hay fever causes characteristic symtoms which vary in intensity depending upon individual sensitivity to the offending agent. There are violent seizures of sneezing, watery discharge from the nose, eyes itchy and congested, and nose obstructed which frequently develops into sinus infection.

The seasonal occurrence of hay fever is in most instances definite, beginning and ending at approximately the same date each year for each patient. Many sufferers of hay fever are subject to all three types of the disturbance, and more than half of the victims of hay fever are affected by more than one allergen, or offending pollen or agent. Furthermore hay fever is no respecter of persons, occurring in both sexes, and usually begins some time between the ages of 10 and 30 years.

Injections of pollen extracts to which a person is sensitive protects to some extent. The newer anti-histaminic drugs, while they do not cure hay fever, do very often offer some relief. Removal of a patient to districts where the offending pollens do not prevail is the best treatment—although in most cases, this is not practical.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I keep my mattresses, pillows, and blankets in a sanitary condition?

A. These articles will be kept in a sanitary condition, and will also wear longer, if they are placed in the sun one day every week or ten days. This treatment will give them a fresh odor that is very pleasant upon retiring.

Q. How can I curl feathers?

A. Feathers can be curled by heating them before a fire, then stroking each one with the back of a knife blade.

Q. How can I ascertain if dye is a "fast color?"

A. Dampen a small piece of the dyed cloth and then rub it on a piece of clean white paper. If it leaves no stain, the dye is "fast."

Q. How can I prevent people passing outside my windows from seeing through the screens?

A. Paint the screens with aluminum paint, or with white paint thinned with turpentine. A person on the inside will be able to look out, but one on the outside cannot see in.

Q. What is a good lubricant for the food chopper?

A. Glycerine is an excellent lubricant for the food chopper, egg whip, and other kitchen utensils. It will not affect the taste of the food.

Q. How can I make poppyseed stick to rolls?

A. If you have trouble in making the poppyseed stick, try brushing the rolls with water before sprinkling on the poppyseed.

Q. How can I prevent silk, or any other very thin goods, from drawing or puckering when stitching it on the sewing machine?

A. Place a sheet of white paper beneath the material and it will prevent any drawing or puckering. The paper can be easily removed when the work is finished.

Q. How can I clean fingers that are stained from preparing raw vegetables?

A. Dip the fingers into a solution of very strong tea for a short time; then wash with soap and water.

Q. How can I drive away ants?

A. Smear the cracks and corners of their haunts with balsam of peru. Sulphur will also drive away ants.

Q. How can I make the ironing of starched garments much easier?

A. The task of ironing starched garments can be made much lighter if lard, the size of a bean, is added to every half gallon of starch before boiling.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

A. B. Carter, Lomax, has planted approximately three acres of kudzu. Seed were applied at the rate of about two pounds per acre. This kudzu was planted on land that was erodded so badly that row cropping wasn't profitable. The kudzu will act as a land builder, erosion controller and will furnish a quality hay and temporary grazing. Mr. Carter also has a good stand of lespedeza sericea on approximately twelve acres of steep, badly erodded land. This sericea was planted this spring.

Are you planning on making a last week in June planting of sericea? If so, you should start preparing your land now. Turn land now and fallow until the planting date.

Earl Hayes, Thorsby Route 1, reports that he has a good stand of kudzu. For best results from planting kudzu seed, give it clean cultivation the first year.

Cleve Mims, G. U. Mims, Charlie Childress, N. L. (Buck) Roberts, C. C. Carlton, and the Experiment Station are some of the farmers that are planning on harvesting Kentucky 31 fescue seed. This is a very promising grass and more farmers should give it a try. If it is possible, every farmer in Chilton County that is interested in livestock production should go by and see Mr. Cleve Mims's [illegible]nting. It was planted last fall.

DAIRYMEN ADVISED TO CONSIDER IRRIGATION

Auburn, Ala. — More and more dairymen are becoming interested in pasture irrigation, according to Lawrence Ennis, API... Extension Service soil engineering specialist.

He points out that the dry late summer and fall months last year made feed bills go up and milk production come down. Therefore, to meet this problem, a good, well-designed portable sprinkler system seems to be practical, especially where an ample supply of water is available. While initial costs of irrigation equiment are high, there is very little depreciation, and a good irrigation system will furnish needed water for many years.

If you plan to do some landscape planning for your home this summer, be careful in selecting your plants. Keep plants low beneath windows. Doors, on the other hand, usually look best with taller shrubs on either side.

PILGRIM REST

Bro. George Hamm filled his regular appointment here Sunday and Sunday night. Not too many were present for Sunday School and morning service, but the attendance was very good in the evening.

The church agreed upon a general working and cleaning at the church and cemetery. The date will be announced later. Watch for it and let's see that nothing interferes with our duty to our church and community.

The homecoming and singing will be held here the third Sunday in July. The revival will follow. The Rev. Luzelle Gray of Pell City will be bringing the messages. Let's make our plans now to attend every service.

Miss Naomi Sims of Selma spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Addison Chandler. — Martha Tallant, Reporter.

We at ALABAMA MILLS, Inc. are happy to join in the Statewide Observance of

ALABAMA INDUSTRY DAYS

June 15, 16 and 17

ALL OVER ALABAMA on these three days your payroll producing Industries will lay out a special welcome mat for all residents of their respective communities. Their purpose is to get better acquainted with their fellow-citizens, to show what Industry means to community life, to help promote the knowledge of and demand for Alabama-grown, Alabama-processed, Alabama-made and Alabama-distributed products.

Open House will be the rule in the State's plants and factories. Industry will get a chance to tell its story on the scene, and the public will have the opportunity to observe at close range the great and vital part Industry is having in the development of Alabama.

Observance of Alabama Industry Days is a state-wide event sponsored by the Associated Industries of Alabama, the Alabama Press Association, and the School of Journalism of the University of Alabama, ALABAMA MILLS, INC. is proudly cooperating, and cordially invites you, the citizens of this community, to join with us in this community get-together.

Your visit to our plant on Friday, June 16, will be a real stimulant to us, and we believe it will be most interesting and beneficial to you. We are anxious to show you around and tell you about our plant . . . anything you want to know. We'd like for you to meet our trained, alert employees and see them turn out the high-grade textile products in which many Alabama communities have a tremendous stake . . . in employment, in payrolls and purchasing power, in all sorts of other community-wide benefits.

You'll see things in our plant and in other Alabama Industries that you couldn't see in many other countries. For in Alabama and America we operate under the free enterprise system—not the "welfare state" which has sent many other nations tumbling to bankruptcy, poverty, despair and totalitarianism.

So we look forward to seeing you on Friday, June 16. From your look-see, we are entirely confident, will come a still greater measure of good will and friendly understanding between the Industries of Alabama and the fine communities which they serve.

We Want You to Visit Us! On Friday June 16!

On June 16, ALABAMA MILLS, INC. will hold open house in all its Plants.

Visiting hours 9 A.M. to 12 noon, and 2 to 5 P.M. Children under 12 years of age cannot be allowed. Children between 12 and 16 will have to be accompanied by a parent or an older person.

YOU will be welcome. It will be our pleasure to say "Howdy, Neighbor" and to give the citizens of this community and county some on-the-scene demonstrations of what Alabama Mills, Inc. is doing to promote the growth and prosperity of the community.

HERE are some of the things we are doing—in which YOU and all of your neighbors have a vital stake:

ALABAMA MILLS, INC. provides employment for 3,351 citizens. The annual payroll is about $7,390,340.52 a year. This sizable sum pours into community trade channels, vastly increasing its purchasing power and benefiting everybody.

You'll get the rest of the story during Alabama Industry Days.

NONE of these worthwhile achievements would have been possible in many countries, where "welfare states" have supplanted liberty and opportunity. No wonder we Americans are not willing to swap off our way of doing things!

Trucks Loaded With Industry Day Exhibits To Cover State

Birmingham, Alabama. Loaded to capacity with Alabama-made products, three six-wheeler trucks carrying Alabama Industry Days's exhibits will cover every nook and cranny in the state this week.

Approximately 150 towns will be visited by these trucks during the week, and each of these communities will receive one of the industrial exhibits to be displayed during the Alabama Industry Days Program on June 15, 16 and 17. In some towns plans have been made to put the exhibits on display immediately and leave them up through the three official days in order that more people might have the opportunity to become better acquainted with these Alabama products and the companies who make them.

The program is sponsored by the Associated Industries of Alabama in cooperation with the Alabama Press Association and the Department of Journalism of the University of Alabama.

Each truck will carry approximately fifty exhibits, and each exhibit will be composed of some 87 different products—all of which are made or processed here in Alabama.

In order to expedite the delivery of these displays, the State has been divided into three sections. Each truck will cover one section of the state. Final distribution of all the exhibits is expected to be completed by June 10, and in order to do this, each truck must average approximately 200 miles daily, while delivering an average of nine exhibits.

Appropriately decorated with Alabama Industry Days signs, the three trucks left Birmingham early Monday morning. In charge of the truck covering north Alabama was D. Trotter Jones, Executive Vice President of the Associated Industries of Alabama, while Wallace C. Journey, AIA Field Executive and Clinton R. Milstead, Director of Public Relations were in charge of trucks covering south and central Alabama respectively.

In the meantime, other fronts on the Alabama Industry Days Program were busy.

Off for Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and a 10-day all-expense paid vacation trip was Carolyn Moore. chubby, freckled-faced 13-year-old Greenville Junior High School student and winner of the Industry Days Radio contest on "Why There Should Be a Day Set Aside for Industry in Alabama."

Accompanying the Greenville youngster was her mother, Mrs. Vernice Moore, secretary to a local Greenville furniture company official. Carolyn's winning statement-There should be a day set aside for industry in Alabama because "the wheels of industry have paved the road to development and progress for Alabama and her people"-was selected by the judges as being the best from among the several hundred entries received.

The Greenville couple left aboard the crack streamliner "South Wind" from Montgomery on June 3 and will return to Alabama on June 14 in time to participate in the Alabama Industry Days Program.

Elaborate plans have been made in many communities for their Industry Days rally day, too.

In Clanton the committee has lined up a 32-male industrial chorus to participate in their program. The chorus is composed of employees from every department of the American Cast Iron Pipe Company and is under the direction of Mr. Raymond Anderson, Director of Music at Birmingham-Southern College. He has, for the past several years, directed music for the Birmingham Starlight Opera series in Birmingham. Also appearing in the program, at which there will be a public drawing of prizes, will be an outstanding speaker discussing industry. The Clanton High School band will also be on parade to liven up the proceedings.

Aliceville is another town which has gone all out in observance of the first Alabama Industry Days. This thriving community anticipates a total attendance of some 2,000 more than its entire population. Here, too, the high school band will be on hand. Prof. C. E. Bounds, Head, Department of Journalism at the University of Alabama, will deliver the guest address, and some 1,000 4-H club members are scheduled to parade through the town. Here the public drawing will be part of a program which promises to rank with one of the best in the state.

In Jasper, Alabama, the Industry Days committee has lined up a Civic Fair as the feature attraction of their program. A speaker, high school band and other trimmings give promise to making this one of the better programs in the state during June 15, 16 and 17.

Capitalizing on their Radio Contest Winner, Carolyn Moore, Greenville's enthusiastic committee has arranged a program to take the town by storm. In addition to Dr. J. L. Brakefield, noted Alabama lecturer who will give the main address, and Miss Moore, the committee has arranged for a public drawing of prizes, parades, high school bands and other interesting features.

But these are but a few of the towns which have in store for them a real treat in honor of their industry. Dadeville, Decatur, Winfield, Wetumpka, Fayette, Bessemer, and many other communities have planned similar outstanding programs.

Approximately 150 towns in all will have one of the Alabama Industry Days industrial exhibits, and many of these will participate in the program through plant visitations and speakers on behalf of industry. The Associated Industries of Alabama has distributed some 20,000 attractive red and white banners and backdrops throughout the entire state in publicizing this event.

The eyes of the nation will be focused on Alabama next week. From all appearances, what they see-they'll like.

FUTURE BROOD SOWS

It is omportant that future brood sows receive the proper feed from the start. It should be remembered that too much corn "burns them out" and usually causes them to bring small litters of runty pigs. Feed whole oats to growing gilts regularly.

SWEET CORN

To prolong the supply of sweet corn fresh from the garden, a planting should be made in the early part of June in all parts of the state. In the central and northern parts of the state, a final planting may be made as late as June 15.

EARLY COTTON DUSTING OFTEN NOT NECESSARY

Auburn, Ala. — Except where weevils are numerous enough in fields of young cotton to damage stands, poisons should not be applied early in the growing season, according to W. A. Ruffin, A.P.I. Extension Service entomologist.

He declares that cotton in most parts of the state should be poisoned only in July and August. July dusting aids cotton plants in setting a crop by reducing boll weevil admage, and August dusting protects bolls from weevil damage.

"For the control of boll weevils," says the specialist, "the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station has found that 50 to 75 pounds of poison for each acre of cotton should be stocked. Tests show that toxaphene and the 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT are the best cotton poisons."

FARMERS CAN KNOW THEIR LAND BETTER

The first step in conserving and making the best use of farm land is to find out the characteristics of each soil type on the farm.

S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, states that the local soil conservation district can arrange for the technical help that a farmer might need in making a soil study. A soil scientist will examine the land and make a map of it. With the help of an auger, he studies each soil layer. He notes those features that make a difference in the way the land should be used or treated; then he marks on the map the kind of soil, slope of the land, kind and degree of erosion damage, wet areas, overflow hazards and other important information.

START THE FALL AND WINTER GARDEN EARLY

An early start goes a long way to insure the success of the fall and winter garden.

"Early and careful preparation of the soil is the first step that is needed," advises J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist. "Land that has been cultivated during the spring will require less preparation than will land that has not been plowed recently. Better results will be obtained if the land is well pulverized and free of clods and turf at least two weeks before time to plant."

Mr. Ford adds that if the land needs to be fumigated for nematodes or wire worms, it should be done at the time the fertilizer is put in the ground.

TIME-SAVERS FOR THE POULTRY FLOCK OWNER

Auburn, Ala. — There is a considerable variation in the amount of time and labor spent in caring for poultry flocks throughout the state.

John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist, reveals that some growers care for their hens in less than one-third the time required by other growers with the same number of birds.

"Some of the time-savers," says Weeks, "include keeping flocks of 300 to 1,000 birds in one room; using automatic water fountains arranging a feed storage room in or adjacent to pens; using community nests grouped near the door; establishing an egg room close to the laying house, preferably a basement or cellar where the temperature can be kept low; careful planning so that everything possible can be done on one trip through the house; and improvising handy methods of disposal of litter and ways to add new litter to the house, such as double doors that can be entered with wagons and manure spreaders."

CAN GREEN APPLES FOR USE IN PIES

"Pare and cut apples into uniform pieces," says Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist. "To prevent darkening, place the fruit in a mild salt and vinegar solution made by dissolving two tablespoons of salt and two tablespoons of vinegar in each gallon of water. Drain and rinse; then boil apples in a No. 1 syrup for three to five minutes. Place them in containers and cover with syrup."

Miss Curtis adds that the apples should be processed in a waterbath canner at 212 degrees F.—pint and quart jars, 15 minutes; No. 2 and No. 3 tin cans, 10 minutes.

GARMENT CAN IMPROVE SHOULDER APPEARANCE

Fortunate is the woman of today who has square shoulders since so much emphasis is placed on shoulders.

Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, states that the remedy for sloping shoulders are raglan and semi-raglan sleeves, since it is hard to have a snug fitting armscye.

She also points out that broad, soft collars and short capes are good. Deep yokes and shoulder trimmings are successful, too.

"Always remember," says the specialist, "if the hips are wider than the shoulders, although the shoulders are square, they must appear to be in proportion; therefore, emphasis must be placed on shoulders."

Garments to be stored should be thoroughly cleaned to destroy all forms of moths already in them. Laundering in a strong solution of neutral soap or dry cleaning will do this. Place clean garments immediately in sealed paper bags or boxes, and they will be perfectly safe. Moths will not eat through paper.

EARLY BIRD CATCHES THE WORM but . . .

late dusting catches the boll weevil!

Early dusting does not pay!

On A.P.I. Experiment Station fields for the last 3 years, 3 or 4 toxaphene dustings in June made 70 pounds of seed cotton per acre less than undusted cotton in the same field.

Seven to 11 toxaphene dustings in July and August made 754 pounds of seed cotton more than undusted cotton.

to stop the boll weevil:

Use 20 per cent toxaphene or a 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT. On each acre use 8 to 14 pounds of poison per dusting, depending on size of cotton.

When plants are fruiting freely – about lay-by time – start dusting if boll weevil infestation is 25 per cent or higher. Make 3 applications of poison 5 days apart.

Check fields 10 days after third dusting. If infestation is still 25 per cent or higher, dust three more times – 5 days between dustings.

In August, when weevils are moving from field to field, dust 3 or 4 more times every 4 days to protect top bolls.

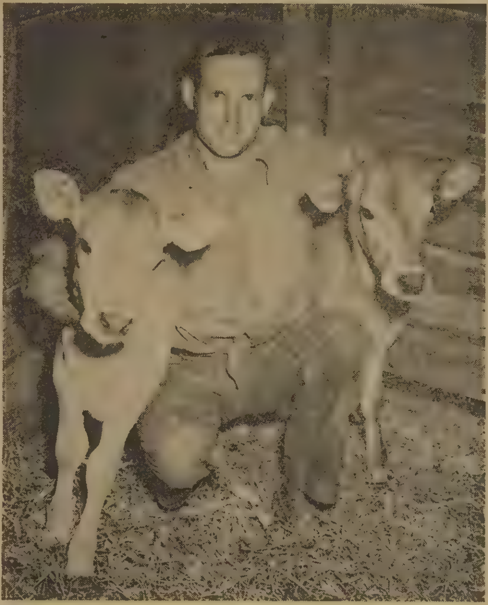
Looks Like Another Good Crop Of Milk Cows For Alabama Herds ---

Along with other products there's a fine crop of new milk cows springing up this season in Alabama. This year's calf crop is the best ever seen in the state.

Leading dairymen say the crop is a result of growing interest in dairying and the use of wise breeding practices. One leading factor, they hold, is the growing influence of artificial breeding.

All over the state farmers like young Jerry Hart, Falkville, Ala., are taking full advantage of the new breeding service. Here Jerry is demonstrating the value of artificial breeding with two newcomers in his herd. The heifer at left was sired by a proven bull through artificial insemination. The other calf is the daughter of an ordinary Jersey bull. Hart says anybody can see the difference in these two animals, even at the tender age of three weeks.



It's Hogging Season

Grain To Pork To Market

ANOTHER corn hogging season is moving onto the scene in Alabama. Many farmers will be turning pigs on fields of early hybrids this month.

Last year some producers in the state began hogging corn in June. What's more, they kept the animals harvesting their own grain until along in April this Spring.

This means both Spring and Fall farrowed pigs were fattened on some farms without hand feeding. Corn was harvested 10 months out of 12 by hogging.

Hog Specialist G. B. Phillips reminds state growers to handle their hogging program wisely this year. To top last year's record, the producer must keep several practices in mind, he adds.

Remember in hogging corn that the best program is one that sends Spring pigs to market early—before Winter runs on the market, says Phillips.

Remember that corn hogged too early is wasted. Wait until the grain can be "rubbed off" the cob.

Remember white corn is as good as yellow corn for hogging if green grazing is also at hand.

State Farmers Check Cotton In National Classing Program

ALABAMA is a leader in the use of free government classing of cotton. Last year the state had classed 390,115 bales—more than any other southeastern state. This figure represented 46 per cent of the entire '49 crop.

This service to cotton growers in the United States was made available under the Smith-Doxey Act. And Alabama's outstanding participation is credited to the work of one-variety cotton improvement associations. There are 369 of these organized cotton communities in the state. And each of the clubs gets classing service for its members.

Government leaders remind farmers in these groups that classing service must be applied for each year. Community associations, they suggest, should hold meetings early this Summer to handle applications.

Cotton Improvement Specialist O. N. Andrews, of the A.P.I. Extension Service, reports that some communities are already holding meetings. He says they are electing new officers, bringing membership lists up to date, getting acreage figures from members and completing records for each farmer.

To Rage Again

The Boll Weevil Battle

LAST year Alabama farmers watched with red-rimmed eyes as the boll weevil played havoc with their number one cash crop.

Never in their lives had many of the growers seen such ruin in cotton fields. They were caught flat-footed. They were amazed, shocked and disgusted. By the hundreds they gave up without a fight.

By the end of the harvest season it was clear to all that $50,000,000 had been clipped from the state's cotton income.

Farm leaders who make it their business to know about insects warn producers that the battle may be repeated in 1950. They offer little hope that farmers can get by this year without a boll weevil fight.

These same experts encourage farmers to be ready when the alarm is sounded. In the same breath they caution against wasting poisons with early dustings.

"Do not fire until you see the whites of their eyes" is good advice in waging war against this dangerous pest. Early spraying and dusting do not control boll weevils.

"Poison the boll weevil when it will do the most good," entomologists advise. "This is when the plants are setting and maturing their crop. That fact has been proved in numerous tests by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station."

They explain that some plots dusted three or four times during June make lower yields than plots getting no dust at all.

Of course, killing boll weevils requires first the right poison. Dusts recommended for use this year are 20 per cent toxaphene and a 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT.

In a normal year these poisons used at five-day intervals for seven applications will give good control. Use eight to 12 pounds of poison per acre. The amount is varied depending on the size of cotton at the time of each dusting.

But remember, for best results poison must be applied when the stalk is putting on and maturing bolls.

Flash--Emergency!

REPORTS are that boll weevils are already stripping young cotton stalks of leaves and buds in North Alabama. Many farmers there have had to use poison to keep the pests from destroying their stands.

Watch your cotton! This could happen in other sections.

Never before has the weevil caused such a problem this early in the season.

While entomologists are advising the growers to use dust to protect young stands, they warn that the worst is yet to come. Protecting the stalks will amount to nothing if later swarms of weevils cut the crop off when it is forming and maturing.

More Ham And Bacon Aim Of These Hog Producers

Here are two of the 21 hogs bought this Winter in Morgan County for the purpose of breeding lean meat into some of the chubby, too-fat porkers already on farms. They are registered Yorkshires—large boned, bacon hogs.

The gilt at right is owned by Wade Vest of Falkville (with her in the clover patch is Assistant Agent Luther Douglas) and the boar below belongs to Jerry Hart, also of Falkville (shown).

Watch Out! May Be Blackleg

BLACKLEG is turning up here and there in beef herds over the state. This disease, likely to start at any time, may kill some of the best cattle in a herd before it is known.

Every cattleman should be on guard and watch closely for blackleg by checking his herd regularly. When it attacks he must act quickly.

His move is to immediately purchase enough vaccine to treat all cattle three months to three years of age in his herd. It will be necessary to vaccinate all calves less than six months of age again if they are to be kept safe.

Since vaccination costs run only about 10 cents per animal, no farmer should run the risk of losing valuable cattle.

Plenty Potato Slips Going along with Cullman County's plan to handle more and better potato slips this year, Farmer Wallace Hathcock built two large electric hotbeds on his farm at Cullman, Rt. 6. The beds cost him something over $500 and a lot of hard work, but he believes they will prove worth it.

Twenty by 60 feet in size, each of the hotbeds was seeded with 100 pounds of certified Louisiana Copper Skins. Hathcock expects to sell something like 250,000 slips to other growers after planting his own crop of 30 acres from the beds.

With the farmer, right above, is County Agent H. G. Pinkston. The two men are examining the wooden sides of the bed which Hathcock explains will be replaced with concrete in a year or two if his project works out. The underground electric coils, he says, are permanent.

Their Hogs Too Chubby

Morgan Hog Growers Introduce Bacon Breed

A hog can be too fat and chubby to bring the best price on today's market. Many Alabama farmers are finding that out as they count their profits from pork production.

A group of Morgan County hog growers found it out last year, and in the Fall they decided to do something about it.

After watching their animals go across the scales to market, compete in hog shows, and fill their lard cans to running over, members of the Morgan County Swine Breeders' Association—made up of purebred breeders of all breeds—decided that they had been selecting the little round pigs from their litters too long.

They're just too fat in type; that's all that is wrong with our market hogs, they decided. We've got to breed out the chubbiness.

They could think of no better way of doing this than to raise some long, bony, bacon-type hogs to cross on their local specimens. The farmers reasoned that the product of such a cross would give them a hog the packers would clamor for. Although bacon breeds have not been recommended for use in the state, these growers determined to try it.

Bought 20 Yorkshires

Deciding on the Yorkshire breed to handle the chore for them, association leaders got in touch with the National Yorkshire Breeders' Association to arrange for the purchase of some gilts and one male. Each member who got one of the gilts would pay for his animal and raise some purebreds to sell locally. By that means they would scatter the lean hogs all over the county.

And the plan is going ahead. At present they have 20 of the big gilts and one boar on various farms. Some of the females are already big enough for service, and before long they will be farrowing litters of registered pigs.

Jerry Hart, young farmer of near Falkville, bought the boar to be used in the project. It came from Maryland at a cost of $150, but Jerry didn't have to worry about where the cash came from; members who had bought gilts paid him enough $5.00 service fees in advance to help him pay for the prize animal. The boar will be used by members of the association and by all other farmers who are willing to pay, Hart explains.

Assistant Agent Luther Douglas, who is working with the farmers in their projects, says these hogs will serve a dual purpose. Besides breeding the "cob rollers" out of local herds, the Yorkshires will bring a neat profit to producers of purebreds, the agent believes. Some neighboring farmers are already placing bids for the registered animals.

Exhausting Air From Cans Prevents Canning Losses

By HUBERT HARRIS, Associate Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

LOSSES in canning plant or home canning operations caused from buckling of cans may be prevented by exhausting the air from the product and from the head space of the can.

Insufficient exhausting causes excessive strain on cans during processing. Tests conducted by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station have shown that when the pressure is released on the retort or pressure cooker, a permanent buckling of end seams often occurs if the air is not properly exhausted. During storage, air in cans that have bulged causes corrosion of metal containers and in many cases discoloration and spoilage of the product.

With glass jars, exhausting is usually done during the final cooking process. Since tin cans are usually sealed before they enter the retort or pressure cooker for final processing, these containers require a special exhausting operation prior to sealing.

These tests have also shown that buckling of No. 2 cans occurs when an average of about 41 pounds per square inch of pressure are applied to the inner surface of the can. With No. 3 cans, about 22 pounds per square inch caused the ends to buckle.

Pressure Tests

Tests made to determine the amount of pressure developed in cans when sealed at different temperatures prior to pressure processing revealed that No. 3 cans sealed at 140°F. developed 23 pounds per square inch internal pressure when heated to 240°F. and 27 pounds when heated to 250°F. Even at the lower processing temperature, the internal can pressure was in excess of the amount of pressure required in the experiments to buckle No. 3 cans. Sealing the cans at lower temperatures resulted in correspondingly higher internal can pressures, while sealing at higher temperatures reduced internal pressure during processing. A sealing temperature of 180°F. was required to eliminate danger of buckling of No. 3 cans when processed at 250°F. (15 pounds pressure).

The amount of buckling was also affected by several factors other than sealing temperature. In an experiment in which all products were sealed at the same temperature, products that heat slowly, such as cream style corn, resulted in considerably more buckling than products that heat rapidly such as snap beans. The amount of buckling was also greater with cans having one inch head space than with similar cans having only ¼-inch head space.

Million Broilers Is Mark Set For Year In Cleburne

CLEBURNE County farmers are raising market broilers at the rate of nearly a million a year.

Since the first of January sixty-three poultrymen have raised 313,000; County Agent T. A. Ventress says they will sell three times as many before the end of the year.

Talking about the rapid rate of growth in this industry, Ventress points out that in 1946-47 there were only 14 producers in the county—and they marketed less than 3,200 birds.

The average farmer will sell from two to four flocks from his houses during the year, continued the agent. Houses range in size from 2,000 to 12,000 capacity, and on some farms—there are as many as four separate units.

100,000 Dollars

"These farmers will earn over $100,000 for their work and investment during 1950," predicts Ventress. "And this does not include the value of manure and feed sacks they will have for use in farming."

One farmer, H. C. Jackson, of Bowdon, Georgia, Rt. 3, fertilized five and one-half acres of crimson clover and ryegrass with manure from his poultry house. He says the crop did not need additional fertilizer to furnish grazing for 11 cattle since January 1.

Started In 1944

Some of the old-time broiler growers have increased over-all crop yields on their entire farms by using manure. In some cases, yields of corn, cotton, and oats have been doubled, the agent declares.

The broiler work in Cleburne was started in 1944 by four farmers, J. P. Creamer, M. B. Gibbs, R. G. Pullen, and H. C. Jackson. Since that time production has spread all over the county by leaps and bounds. Products from there are well known now in poultry houses at Anniston, Gadsden, Birmingham, and other cities.

SCREWWORMS. Recent surveys indicate that the most wide-spread and destructive screwworm infestation of any previous year confronts Southeastern stockmen in 1950. Deaths and other losses caused by screwworms can be avoided if livestock growers will promptly treat all infestations with Smear 62 or Smear 82.

Cooking Was Hard Work Here

There's a move on among farm women in Alabama to make their kitchens into places of beauty and convenience. One of the latest to complete her job of remodeling is Mrs. Herschel McEwen, of Rockford.

The Coosa County home demonstration club member is shown here at the beginning of her project last Fall. Mrs. McEwen, right, is explaining to her home agent that she is going to have modern cabinets for storing things now stacked around on top of furniture.

Salute To Cedar Hill

During the past 18 months farm families in Cedar Hill Community of Limestone County have brought about unbelievable changes in the appearance and activity of their settlement. They have done so by joining hands in what is becoming known as one of the strongest community farm clubs in Alabama and the South.

With almost 100 per cent cooperation in all their projects, the farm folks have tackled cotton improvement, corn production, livestock and pasture work, home beautification and even highway development.

The pictures here show two examples of the work that is going on at Cedar Hill. The group at left is standing at the driveway entrance to Farm Club President O. C. Scott's home. Improved mailboxes like this one and signs telling of projects on the farms may be seen all over the neighborhood. Shown, left to right, are Home Agent Clodessa Norton; Farmer Pitts Mitchell, vice-president of the local club; County Agent F. K. Agee; and Community Life Specialist George Sargent, A.P.I. Extension Service, Auburn.

Proper Plowing Pays

Cultivation Makes A Difference In Growing Corn

ARE Alabama farmers cutting down corn yields with the wrong kind of cultivation? Experts say that is exactly what they are doing.

The corn stalk, like any other plant, gets water and food through its feeder roots. When a farmer plows his corn too often, too deep, or too late, he destroys these roots and lowers yields.

"And yet cultivation of this kind is common on many farms," says D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension agronomist. "Before we can get top yields, we must do a better job of plowing."

The specialist says the big reason for cultivating corn is to destroy weeds. And more or deeper plowing than is necessary does more harm than good. For example a furrow four inches deep and six inches from the plant cuts two-thirds of the corn's feeder roots.

Only two or three shallow cultivations are needed when corn is planted thick in narrow rows and is well fertilized. This corn grows off very fast, crowds out the weeds, and "takes charge" of the land quickly. It can be "layed by" early.

If weeds get an early start, it is wise to use a spiked-tooth harrow or a rotary hoe even before the plants come up. This does away with plowing the corn when stalks are just getting started.

In six-year tests at the University of Illinois yields varied from 84 bushels per acre with shallow cultivation to 62 bushels when plowed deep enough to prune roots. The 22 extra bushels were made by saving roots of the corn.

So it is wise for farmers to remember the plants' roots when plowing corn. Keeping this in mind can save Alabama many a bushel of food and feed.

Now It's Easy Here is what Mrs. McEwen's kitchen looks like now. Besides refinishing her walls, floors and ceilings, she has installed convenient wall and floor cabinets and arranged kitchen units close together for ease of working.

"It surely is nice not to have to walk yourself to death in your kitchen," is the club member's thought. "It is well worth what the remodeling cost."

With Mrs. McEwen in this picture is her teen-age daughter, Judy.

Pike Plans 100 Field Exhibits

PIKE County farmers are conducting more than 100 demonstrations on the production of cotton, corn and peanuts this year, reports H. J. Carter, county agent.

These demonstrations are part of a statewide program to show the results of good practices in increasing yields of these crops. The object is to get the average corn yield to 30 bushels or more per acre; the average cotton yield to a bale or more per acre; and the average peanut yield to 1,000 pounds or more.

Carter points out that a large number of whole-farm corn demonstrations are in operation this year in addition to the one-acre demonstration plots being handled by club boys and farmers.

Digging For Cheap Cropland

The big ditch J. C. Cole is standing in added five acres of fertile crop land to his dad's farm near Decatur. It did that by draining a big swamp. The 350-foot drain is five feet deep and about nine feet across at ground level. It was blasted with 120 pounds of Navy surplus demolition blocks at a cost of $38. Standing on the bank is County Agent L. T. Wagnon, who helped the Morgan County farmer with the ditching project. Wagnon points out that in addition to adding five new acres, the drainage improved several surrounding acres on which crops often drowned.

Commercial Seed Crops Mean Harvest Of Dollars In Macon

MACON County farmers will harvest many an acre of seed crops before they're done this year. And that harvest will bring in plenty of cash.

The producers expect to cash in a million dollars from their 13,000 acres of seeds.

Growers in this central Alabama county are ahead of most sections in seed production. For the past several seasons they have supplied a big helping of the blue lupine seed planted in South Alabama. They have established acreages of several certified seed crops and already own combines and other equipment for harvesting and processing.

This Spring they combined seed from 4,000 acres of blue lupine, 2,000 acres of Caley peas, 1,000 acres of crimson clover, 400 acres of white clovers, 400 acres of oats, 150 acres of button clover, 100 acres of fescue. This fall they will harvest seed from 500 acres of lespedeza sericea, 1,500 acres of certified cotton and 1,000 acres of velvet beans.

County agent M. F. Whatley says seed production is stepping into the picture along with livestock. Together the two will make up losses resulting from the crop control program.

County Agent M. F. Whatley took great pride this Spring in going with the photographer around Macon county and showing him fine crops of seed on various farms.

This Month on the Farm

by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

HOGS are real conservationists. According to tests in the corn belt, hogs produce more manure per 100 pounds of body weight than any other domestic farm animal. What's more, they add more plant food elements per ton of droppings. This soil-conserving manure can best be used by keeping hogs on green grazing. This month—and the other eleven—is a good time to build land by hogging.

LAY-BY corn early. Do not plow it to death. Records of 452 members of the 100 bushel club in 1949 show that most of them plowed the corn two or three times. Many plowed only one time.

BECAUSE of the rush to get row crops planted on time, many farmers neglected to repair broken and weak terraces. This needed repair work should be done before July rains set in.

PROPER breeding to good bulls and culling out poor cows are musts for Alabama dairymen. Production per cow is the biggest single factor holding down dairy development. This is especially true in areas with markets for manufactured milk.

Along the Way

P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, A.P.I. EXTENSION SERVICE

A good way to learn is by comparison. And I like to compare Alabama with other states. Last month I did this in New Mexico.

My first impression concerned their rainfall. At Albuquerque, where we visited, the annual rainfall is eight inches compared with 50 to 60 inches in Alabama. Their state average is about 12 inches.

A friend there told us that from last September to the first of this May they had one-half inch of rain, including snow. But they were not greatly concerned. In fact, they are adjusted to little rainfall and make efficient use of water.

Everything that grows well must be watered. Lawns, for example, are watered daily unless water is rationed, in which case lawns are allowed to parch.

One Hundred To One

I saw one big block of land which supports about one cow per 100 acres. I wondered if a cow could do that much walking. Some of them do.

This 100 acres reminded me that in Alabama we are looking forward to one acre carrying a cow most of the year, and some acres are now doing it. That New Mexico land would do as much as ours with our rainfall. Lack of water is their limiting factor.

My visit to New Mexico was caused by a river improvement project near Albuquerque. The federal government is building a dam above the city for flood and sediment control and irrigation.

Most water which feeds that river comes from snowfall in the mountains at the source of the river. Snows melt in the early Summer, freeing the water to rush back to the sea. It is a foamy mass. Each state served by this river gets its portion of the water, under an interstate agreement.

Their rivers are dry most of the year. As we stood and looked at a dry river, I thought of the Alabama, the Tombigbee, the Coosa, the Tallapoosa, the Tennessee, the Chattahoochee, the Warrior, and other Alabama streams which flow every day in the year.

Alabama's Advantage

We do very little irrigating in Alabama, but we should do more and more. In this way, we'll avoid much damage by temporary droughts. Pastures, as well as vegetable crops and other plants, can be irrigated to good advantage in Alabama.

In addition to irrigation and flood control, our rivers provide navigation, which they don't have in those western streams. Their water supply is inadequate.

There are very few trees in that country. Most of them are on the mountains, which rob the clouds of their moisture, and along the streams. In fact, rivers out there at this season of the year are marked by a few trees and grass growing along the river or in the river bed.

Most of their agriculture is by irrigation; but in some parts of the state they have enough rain for dry-land farming. Grains and livestock are their major farm products.

After seeing what they can do with so little water, I marvel at the opportunities which we have in Alabama.

With wise use we can have conservation, not only of water, but of land and other things. Minerals, of course, are consumed and gone, but not so with land, with water, and also with trees and other plants if we keep the land producing wisely.

Used Selective Cutting

At left, Jake Mathews, pointing, and W. Lee Wadsworth are appraising pines left on Wadsworth's three-acre plot after $240 worth of timber was cut from the area.

At upper right, Mathews is explaining to Mr. Wadsworth the value of cutting trees near the ground. The stump besides Mathews' hat will offer little encouragement to pine beetles, while the taller stump beside Wadsworth will leave lots of dead wood. Besides, cutting the tree low gives the producer more board feet of timber, reminds the specialist.

At lower right, Wadsworth and Mathews stand beside a stack of posts that came from the tract of saw timber. After 90 days of curing, these posts will be treated to look like the one Mathews is holding.

For Fifty Dollars Farmer Saves Valuable Harvest Of Timber

IT cost the Alabama farmer many a dollar and plenty of top soil to learn how to market timber. But at last the sawmiller who would clean cut forests is getting a kick in the pants.

W. Lee Wadsworth and his son, Ed, proved that last Winter handling a stand of pines on their farm near Cropwell. They demonstrated that the method of marketing used can mean a big difference in dollars and cents over a period of years.

The Wadsworths had been offered $300 for the privilege of clean cutting their three-acre woodlot. Before trading with the buyer, however, they talked with County Agent H. L. Eubanks, who advised them to have the stand examined by a forester. Getting their approval, the agent contacted Jake Mathews, A.P.I. Extension timber marketing specialist, and asked him to visit the St. Clair County farm.

When Mathews looked over the trees, he told Ed he could probably sell $250 worth of timber by selective cutting. He reminded them too that this would leave them a stand of trees for the future. He then offered to mark the trees for cutting.

Going along with Mathews' suggestion and using him to help, the Wadsworths cut $240 worth of timber from the three-acre tract. Then they cut smaller trees to make some 200 fence posts. From tops and scrub trees they cut several cords of fire wood.

"The beauty of the operation," exclaims Wadsworth, "is that we still have our stand of timber, and in four or five years we can make another cutting of equal value. If we had traded with the lumberman for a clean cut, our forest would have been destroyed, and the hillside would have suffered."

By calling on the forester for advice and following his suggestions, these farmers received almost as much for their timber as they had been offered. And for the less than $50 difference they have a valuable crop of pines.

Ed Wadsworth and his dad picked up several other profitable ideas from Mathews. For example, they learned to cut trees at ground level instead of leaving high stumps to encourage insects. And they learned to peel posts away from the forest area and remove tree tops from the woods. Mathews explained to them that these dead woods, if left among live trees, encourage pine beetles.

All in all, it's a good bet the Wadsworths will continue to protect their forest and keep it working. They know timber production is a lasting business.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE to peel fence posts relatively easy. Properly stacked posts usually require about three months seasoning during dry Summer weather before being treated by the cold-soak method.

Lee County Reporters All these smiling farm ladies are club reporters of home demonstration clubs in Lee County. They were assembled for this picture while attending a recent officers meeting in Opelika. In all 55 leaders were present to work on plans for club work during the Summer. They are, left to right, Mrs. E. T. Conway, Wire Road; Miss Frances Bozeman, Pine Grove; Mrs. J. R. Moore, Moore's Mill; Mrs. L. R. Kerr, Auburn Heights; Mrs. W. P. Atkins, Beat Six; Mrs. Tom Sharman, Beulah; and Mrs. Ben Andrews, Gold Hill.

At left is Edward Black, of Fayette County, and Joe Roberts, timber marketing specialist, right, looking over the farmer's woodlot. Black is using this area as a community demonstration on forestry management.

Black is pictured above stacking up a year's supply of stove wood, which came from the tree tops and small timber cut in thinning the lot. The Bluff Community farmer got 3,800 board feet of saw timber from the two acres and still has a good stand for future cuttings.

Young Fayette Farmer Finds Forest Profitable

NOT many folks claim an average net income of $33 per acre every year on their crop land—much less on the family wood lot. But that's the record Edward Black, of the Bluff Community, has made during the past 15 years.

And what's more, the Fayette County farmer has set out to do even better with his two acres of trees. Working with Joe Roberts, A.P.I. Extension timber marketing specialist, Black has determined to demonstrate to his neighbors just what can be done with a hillside forest.

Farmer Black has been working with timber since he was barely big enough to ride a log wagon. And since he moved on his own farm 15 years ago, he has been doing what the foresters call a good job of stand improvement and thinning.

When he decided to use his lot as a community demonstration, the farmer called on Roberts, and together they cruised the timber, making sample borings to check the growth rate of the trees. They came to the conclusion that the trees were still too thick. So more cutting was in order.

With Roberts marking and Black chopping, the men cleared 3,800 board feet of saw timber from the area. In addition to a good sized check for the lumber he sold, Black got several cords of fire wood from tops, limbs, and smaller trees.

The farmer didn't destroy his forest with this cutting—he was simply thinning it by selective cutting. He still has a fine stand of young timber.

A Pasture Demonstration?

The above picture appears more like a yard beautification demonstration than a pasture—and that's why the job was started. But the lawn is made up of several varieties of recommended pasture grasses.

Converted from an old school house, the building in Ashland is now used by Clay County to provide office space for several government workers. One of those workers is County Agent W. H. Cowan, who helped with the landscaping plan. While working on it, Cowan hit on the idea of planting different grasses and clovers on the big lawn.

So now when the farm leader talks to a farmer about planting crimson clover, white Dutch clover, ryegrass, fescue, Ladino, or Dallis grass he takes him around to the side of the office building and shows him a plot of it.

Longer Staple Length Cotton Aim Of Henry County Growers

DESPITE the fact that boll weevils crippled their acreage yields, Henry County farmers set some new records in quality cotton in '49. This fact was disclosed in a recent report on classing and grading in the county.

Out of 4,769 bales of cotton classed last year, 4,105 averaged one inch or longer in staple length, reports Hoyt Warren, county agent. Of these 1,800 bales average one and 1/32 inches in staple length. Only 11 bales ran 7/8 inch, and two bales measured 13/16 inch.

It was almost impossible to find a bale of one inch cotton in Henry County a year ago, reminds Warren. This big change was brought on through the county cotton improvement program in which breeders seed were produced in the county.

It is also significant that of 4,769 bales classed 4,085 were normal in preparation. Warren credits all these results to farmers in the county who are entering into the new cotton program with great interest.

Southerners Eating Better Meals Than In Past Years

WE haven't found a way to improve "Southern Fried Chicken"—don't want one. But in lots of ways Southern meals are changing, they tell us.

According to Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension nutritionist, meals have been changing considerably in recent years, changing for the better. Records of foods used by white and Negro families in 1935 and 1948 show many differences.

Every family checked in recent studies had a wider variety of foods in 1948. The trend is toward more purchased products with the greatest increase in white bread, ready-prepared cookies or cakes, and crackers.

White families used more ready prepared cereals in 1948 than in 1936, and many of them used more pancake mix instead of mixing their own batter. Negro families used more spaghetti and macaroni.

Miss Hulsey added that more fruit is being served at Southern dinner tables today. Twelve years ago as many as one-sixth of the Negro families were eating no fruit. The 1948 records show them eating canned peaches, oranges, and apples. White families also used more fruit and of a much greater variety.

Green, Blue Tags On Crimson Clover Seed For Sale In State

CRIMSON clover fanciers who wish to buy certified seed of the reseeding type this Summer will find two kinds available—"Approved" and "Certified."

The approved seed will be labeled with a green tag and the certified seed with a blue tag. Both tags, however, mean certified seed classes that are genetically pure, says R. R. Jones, seed crops marketing specialist, A.P.I. Extension Service.

Jones explains the difference in the two kinds of seed by saying that certified seed are from plantings which have reseeded one or more years. Approved seed are those harvested the first year from fields planted with certified seed.

Planters of both classes may certify their crop next year, but in the case of approved seed plantings the crop cannot be certified until it has reseeded.

Weeds Are Thieves In Pastures

CUTTING weeds in permanent pasture does for it what cultivating does for a field crop. Both jobs are done for the purpose of controlling weeds.

"Weeds in fields or pastures use moisture and plant food needed by the productive plants," warns D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension agronomist. "Weeds crowd out pasture plants and, along with bushes, prevent livestock from grazing pasture uniformly."

The agronomist further states that mowing the permanent pasture this Spring will help control curled dock, Canada thistle, sow thistle, pepper grass, plantains, and sheep sorrel. The operation also helps prevent wild onions from producing bulblets and seed.

In general permanent pastures should be mowed every Spring to control Winter weeds that flower and produce seed at this time, says Harbor. If this work is done, bushes will automatically be controlled too.

Home-Made Equipment. Many home-made pieces of farm equipment are useful, but it is wise to keep safety in mind when they are designed.

Signs Of Better Farming Along with their brothers and sisters on farms in other counties, members of Randolph County 4-H Clubs are putting on a drive to get 4-H signs hanging in front of the homes of all active club members. This project is being sponsored in Alabama by the state bankers association.

Above, Gerald Boggs, Wedowee, Rt. 1, is being presented one of the signs by John Robert Harris, banker from Wadley. Looking on are Mrs. Larkin Waters, Wedowee, and Anita Stewart, Almond, another club member. The presentation was made at a recent banquet honoring 4-H Club voluntary local leaders in Randolph.

Grandfather Of Crimson In Talladega County

"WHAT is it you want to know, Son?" asked an old fellow with a long white beard, who was standing knee deep in a field of clover.

HILL WATSON

The old gentleman was T. J. Watson, 77, a Talladega County farmer. And he was being questioned by a group of visitors from seven Southern states who came to Alabama recently to study crimson clover.

It was inevitable that these visiting farmers end up at this farm near Lincoln, Ala., because when it comes to crimson clover Mr. Watson knows all the answers. In that part of the state he is known as "the grandfather of Talladega reseeding crimson."

The farmer says he first planted the clover on his farm back in the early twenties when he was in the seed business. His partner got some seed nobody wanted to buy—so Watson took them home and seeded them.

"Every year since, there has been reseeding crimson on my farm," he explains. "It is hard to remember how I got along without it."

Mr. Watson doesn't even know how many acres of this Winter and Spring grazing crop he has on his farm. He is sure, however, that it adds up to something over 400 acres. He and his son use it for grazing beef cows in Winter, but so great is the demand for seed that they are harvesting them on most of their fields.

Standing with "Grandfather" Watson in the picture is County Agent O. V. Hill, who has worked closely with the Talladega Crimson Clover Association in developing the crop in that area.

Seed Production. Some Alabama farmers are preparing to grow seed to sell for cash. These crops will make up for income lost by peanut and cotton acreage cuts.

More Classed Jerseys In Ala.

TWELVE more registered Jerseys in Alabama have been classified for type under the program of the American Jersey Cattle Club.

The classification rated the animals for type, comparing them against the breed's score of 100 points for a perfect animal.

In this classification, the first for these breeders, 12 animals were rated by Dr. M. P. Jarnagin of the University of Georgia, official classifier for the Club. He scored all females in the herd that have had at least one calf and all bulls over two years old.

Eight animals were ranked as Good Plus under the American Jersey Cattle Club's classification system, and four animals were scored as Good, to give an average score of 80.83 per cent. The animals are owned by Shirley Doss, Danville; Arthur Lee, Jr., Danville; Willard and Billy Penn, Danville; Fred W. Glasgow, Falkville; Grady Bailey, Falkville; W. E. Ryan and Sons, Hartselle, and Benjamin F. Bean, Hartselle.

Higher Corn Yields Race Is On Again In Alabama

THEY'RE OFF! Alabama corn growers—young and old—are busy again with demonstrations on thick spacing and high fertilization.

Interest in corn production is riding higher in the state than ever before. And county agents' reports indicate there will be more corn demonstrations this year than in either of the past two seasons. Last year farmers raised the state average yield from 15 bushels in '48 to 21.5 bushels per acre. They hope to give it another boost in '50.

Four types of corn demonstrations are open to farmers this year, explains J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension agronomist, Auburn. The one-acre thick-spacing, high fertilization demonstration is most popular. It will be conducted by 4-H Clubbers and adults. Corn is spaced thickly and is fertilized before planting with 600 pounds of complete fertilizer. Then it is side dressed with nitrogen equivalent to 400 pounds of nitrate of soda.

Also conducted will be five-acre, 10-acre, and whole-farm corn demonstrations. Fertilizing and planting practices for these are about the same as the special demonstrations with one exception. Three hundred pounds of commercial fertilizer are used at planting instead of 600, explains Lowery. Certificates will be awarded in various counties to producers who have enrolled in the corn demonstration program. They will be required to measure their corn, submit reports on their demonstrations, and produce accurate figures on yields.

Although many growers will make yields ranging from 100 to 200 bushels per acre, Lowery says a state average of 30 bushels would be a fine goal to reach. He urges all demonstrators and other farmers to follow carefully county agents' recommendations for cultivating corn.

Is Your Bread The Best?

CORN bread—like fried chicken—holds a stand of importance in the Southern diet. It's much more important than chicken, however, because it is a part of the daily ration in most homes.

For the family's sake then, it is important that the housewife use the best corn meal available in baking bread.

And the best meal is enriched meal, declare nutritionists and food specialists.

These experts discovered long ago that the absence of vital minerals in the average family's food causes individuals to have nervous ailments, anemia and weak bones. They also found that a powdered mixture of these elements can easily be added to corn meal as it is ground. The mixture costs little, is tasteless, and is easily added through the use of a little metal hopper.

Grist millers in Alabama are prepared to give consumers this mixture if they want and demand it. Food Enrichment Specialist John Bell, A.P.I. Extension Service, reports that approximately 500 mills scattered throughout all counties are equipped to use corn meal enrichment. Any family who wants that extra service may have it.

Bell urges both farmers and housewives to insist on the enriched product. By taking full advantage of it, they can make Alabama's next generation stronger and more resistant to disease, he believes.

Ginners Owe A Debt

LAST year thousands of bales of cotton were lowered a full grade or more by gin damage. For this the farmer paid with loss of dollars.

If ginners will get gins ready for work ahead of time, they can greatly reduce such losses. And they owe this service to the producer.

Besides tuning their equipment for best operation, the ginner needs to replace worn parts such as saws, ribs and brushes. For example, saws that have been sharpened too many times are destructive. When they are worn down one-eighth of an inch, they cut the gin load by 20 per cent. It's wise to sharpen saws only five times, engineers say.

Damage is also caused by ribs worn to make openings too wide. These openings should not be more than three saw thicknesses.

Brushes also may cause damage. When bristles are worn weak and allow cotton to go through the roll box several times before doffing, the grade of lint is hurt.

One Henry County Farmer Never Has Bad Fishing Luck

FOR years R. O. Ezell watched hustlers and lazy folks rush off to pass away a few hours on banks of streams and lakes. With so many fishermen on all sides he figured bait production could be a mighty good business.

And now the Henry County farmer is proving he was right.

Ezell knew that some fishermen like crickets and others want worms. He decided to raise both.

With County Agent Hoyt Warren he started checking to find out how to grow the two baits. He also made several visits to other bait farms to pick up some inside dope. He had very little trouble finding out about crickets, but with worms it was different. He found that each producer has his own formula for organic matter in worm beds and none wanted to tell his secrets. So the farmer went back to Abbeville and began experimenting.

Before long he came up with a substance all his own that would do the job. He put in his worm beds and got his crickets started. Sales were good. He was in business.

The farmer also did some work with crickets. At present he has 18 boxes loaded with all sizes of the live bream lures. These, along with his 33 worm beds, keep him pretty busy.

This Spring Ezell has sold over 40,000 worms; fishermen everywhere are clamoring for his bait. He receives orders from places as far off as South Carolina.

Farmer Ezell is not settling down though. He says he will keep expanding his business as fast as he can get organic matter to fill his beds.

R. O. Ezell says the big job in growing red worms is sorting out those of fishing size. Helping the farmer with that job here is a part-time helper, Latt Kelley (left above). In filling large orders Ezell weighs worms instead of counting them.

Ezell is shown (right) checking the temperature in one of his 18 cricket boxes. He says the crickets are very sensitive to changes in temperature and require constant care.

Post Treating Made Easy

THERE'S more than one way to skin a cat. And here's one more way to skin pine fence posts.

J. C. (Cal) Sharp (in white overalls) doesn't claim the rigs above were invented by him. But he's quick to point out how easy the peeler is made.

A spool with flanges on both ends and in the center is welded onto a shaft. Several chains run from the center flange to each end flange. These chains have slack in them so that as the spool turns fast (by tractor power) they tend to wrap half-way around pine poles. This knocks off the bark in a hurry.

In the top picture is Sharp's tank he uses for treating posts. In the bottom picture County Agent Earnest Stewart and Sharp check one of the posts the peeler has turned out.

And how about the cost of this outfit? Sharp says about $80 covers everything.

Research Results

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

FOUR APPLICATIONS of sulfur-copper-DDT dust to runner peanuts gave an average increase in yields of almost 500 pounds per acre in tests at the Wiregrass Substation during the last three years. Profits from sulfur-copper-DDT were greater than from sulfur-DDT or dusting sulfur alone.

THE NEWLY DEVELOPED mild White Giant is an excellent pole snap bean to use fresh, canned, or frozen. If harvested when the beans are full grown and the pods are becoming yellow, they may be quickly and easily shelled in mechanical shellers at local canneries.

MARKETING RESEARCH indicates that consumers normally pay different prices for different grades of a product. Farmers, therefore, should always keep themselves posted on grades and grade values in different markets and, insofar as possible, produce and sell on a grade basis.

EARLY BREAKING of land for oats is recommended by the Black Belt Substation. Studies show that by breaking Black Belt land for oats during June or July the soil has time to resettle, thereby reducing the amount of damage from tramping when grazed in Winter. Early breaking also creates a reservoir to store moisture from Summer rains to insure early germination of oats planted in September.

EARLY HEGARI AND MARTIN'S COMBINE grain sorghum have been the leading varieties for grain production in tests conducted by the station. Both of these varieties yield well and are short enough to combine easily. Martin's combine will stand up better and has given the most satisfactory results in northern Alabama. However, in central Alabama, hegari has given better yields.

A SAMPLE OF QUAIL shot at the Maytag Game Reserve near Union Springs last season shows that 77 per cent of the birds bagged were young of the current year. This indicates a successful nesting season last Summer.

KUDZU, SERICEA, AND ALFALFA have been the most reliable grazing crops for the critical pasture months of June and October at the Main Station. Ladino clover has also provided good grazing during the month of June.

* * *

PROPER DUSTING of cotton was more profitable during 1949 than in any other season since boll weevil control began. In tests where the insecticide was applied while the crop was being set and matured, gains in yields from dusting averaged 766 to 1,243 pounds of seed cotton per acre on land that produced an average of about a half bale per acre without dust.

DUSTED COTTON produced an average of 754 more pounds of seed cotton per acre over a three-year period than undusted cotton in 73 experiments on land that averaged almost a bale per acre without dust.

COMMON INSECTS of roses were controlled in 1949 with successive applications of an all-purpose dust containing Fermate, sulfur, DDT, and rotenone.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES

DEDICATED TO SERVE THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY AND CENTRAL ALABAMA

VOL. XXVIII — CLANTON, ALABAMA — THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1950 — NUMBER 24

Associated Producers Win Acclaim In First Program

Recently under the dual handicap of sweltering heat and gymnasium acoustics, a group of young people designating themselves as Associated Producers, brought new distinction to Clanton in an entertaining and capably executed duo-piano program inaugurating a series of summer entertainments. The four teams who performed, and their guest star, Mary Evelyn Patton, soprano, of Birmingham, are to be congratulated for the good beginning they have given the series. Their program had a professional flavor that was unexpected in so young a group, and artistic merit that needed no aid from the sentimental appreciation we always give our own children.

This program and those to follow are reminiscent of the Little Theatre groups in the larger cities or perhaps the summer theatre workshops familiar to the East, except that they are more varied. The general feeling among the audience was pride that the young people of Clanton are voluntarily pouring their energies into such worthwhile projects, that they are willing to do the required hard work at a time when they might so easily give themselves over to the usual vacation pursuits, and that in their wholesome absorption in music there is a desire to share with others. A salute to the Associated Producers for all they plan to contribute to our summer's pleasure and to that one "producer" whose special project was the duo-piano program.

General supervisor is Ben E. Harris, associate state supervisor, Trade and Industrial Education.

Supervising instruction will be O. P. Richardson, supervisor of school bus operation and maintenance, and A. E. Houk, state coordinator of motor transportation training.

The conference and workshop will be conducted under two general headings: Elements Necessary in a Sound Transportation Program, and A Planned Summer Work Program.

Radio Stars To Appear Here

Three widely known personalities will appear here for one night only at the First Baptist Church, Clanton, on Tuesday, June 20, 1950, at 7:30 p.m.

Pat B. Withrow, Jr., in addition to his radio appearances and his work as National Director of Veterans Hospital programs, is widely known as a speaker, humorist and song leader. Mr. Withrow will head the unit, which presents a full hour of music entertainment and experiences in the veterans hospital.

The program will also feature the talents of Ivy and Al Walsh, who for the past year have been touring the veterans hospital throughout the nation. They have devoted their lives to bringing enrichment and enjoyment to others, but none have been as appreciative as the men and women who are still confined to these hospitals. They sing solos and duets accompanied by Ivy's Frontalini accordian. Many letters have been received commending this happy couple on the quality of their voices and the inspiration they give to the church people as well as the hospital patients.

These artists are appearing here in the interest of the Veterans Hospital program, now in its 5th year of continuous operation. This is a non-profit organization devoted to taking inspirational entertainment into the veterans hospital, and presenting bedside radios to the wounded men. The entire work is carried on in the name of, and on behalf of, the Protestant Churches of America.

The variety and inspiration of this unusual program has made it the outstanding event of the season in hundreds of communities where these artists have been enthusiastically received.

You are cordially invited to attend and to meet these radio stars in person. Admission free.

Cooperation Of Employer Is Needed

Guy Higgins, the commanding officer, of the local unit National Guar says that the cooperation of the employers is needed if the local member of the National Guard unit are to b properly trained.

On July 9 through July 23, the Guard will go to Fort McClellan at Anniston for their summer encampment. According to Higgins, this training is vitally necessary if the men are to be trained as they should be. Too, satisfactory training on the part of the guardsman exempts him from Selective Service.

Mr. Higgins stated that he thought it was the duty of the local businessmen to allow their employees who are members of the Guard, to have these two weeks away from their duties, so that they can take part in this training.

THAT AUDITORIUM AGAIN

It looks like all will be peace and harmony from now on between the Committee for an auditorium for Clanton, and the Mayor and Council.

Differences as to the ability to build, where, what, when, how, etc., etc., etc., have been ironed out and it looks like action on the movement will be taken soon.

The Mayor stated this week that it was his purpose and desire to build an auditorium for Clanton during his administration and he would begin work to that end.

All of this is music to the ears of we everyday citizens who know the needs of the auditorium but can't understand the why's and why nots, as to accomplishing the aim. To put it mildly we repeat for the umpsteenth time, we're definitely for the movement, we're glad the movement is progressing, and we're here and now offering our cooperation in every way to the end of securing said auditorium for Clanton.

DARK WHITE WAY

That's a dark whiteway on U. S. 31 running through our town. On a clear night one can see for several feet. Can even find your automobile, if you left the parking lights burning.

That perhaps is a bit overdrawn, but we hope it gets the idea over. U. S. 31 needs the whiteway completed. Second Avenue was first to complete the whiteway and it's worth can be readily seen. It is a distinct improvement and a valuable advertisement as well to our growing city.

Why can't the property owners on the highway get together and put a whiteway on U. S. 31? Being so heavily traveled it's value to our community would be much greater than the one first completed.

GO AT OUR EXPENSE

Elsewhere in this issue of the Chilton County News you can read of a little gift from us to you. It is two tickets to the Drive-In Theatre with each subscription to the News.

We want to make new friends and new customers, so we are offering our friendship with a small gift. Of course we couldn't refuse old friends the same opportunity, so the offer goes for old friends as well as new.

DID YOU GET COUNTED?

The Census Bureau, which reports that the 1950 census is about completed, appeals "to all who believe they have not been enumerated" to get "in touch with the local census supervisor."

We have no way of knowing whether every resident of Chilton County has been counted or not, but if there is any reader who has reason to suspect that he, or she, has been omitted, it would be timely to get in touch with the proper official.

The census, if it is to serve the purposes of the nation, should be as complete as possible. Consequently, every resident should be counted. If anyone has been overlooked and knows that he, or she, has been overlooked, a prompt step should be taken to correct the count.

HAPPINESS AND SELF-CONTROL

The peace and happiness of the average citizen of Chilton County does not depend upon the amount of money possessed, the success of any organization to which he belongs, or the outcome of any great struggle abroad.

The contentment that makes for human happiness is within the reach of every individual who is able to face life with a philosophy that solves personal problems. The acceptance of religious tenets often provides the answer, whether these religious beliefs are adopted as an individual or as a member of some religious organization.

The capacity of the individual for self-control is the key to happiness and contentment. It is a product that you cannot buy, or receive, as a gift. It is within the reach of all but is obtained by very few.

--By BEN

We failed to name all those who received their college degrees last week. As the various colleges made their reports we published the names but some failed to get the names on the lists and others failed to send lists at all. In another story in this issue you will find other local people who received their degrees last week. We hope this time we haven't omitted anyone, but if we did and it was you, holler.

Charles Speer, for instance, is one that we left off. Charles graduated at Howard but his name didn't appear on the list sent us from Howard. Although Charles was raised here he was listed there as a resident of Birmingham, and of course, they didn't send us any names of students listed from Birmingham. Charles is a smart boy, having worked his way through school. He is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Penton of Route 1, who thinks he is a very smart boy, also.

Hope you are getting ready to come to Clanton for the Alabama Industry Days, today, tomorrow and Saturday.

All the merchants are giving away nice prizes to their friends and customers besides a lot of nice entertainment Saturday on the vacant lot across the street from Clanton Laundry & Dry Cleaning Company.

We want to be present at the baseball game Friday night between the Clanton Kiwanis Club and the Clanton Lions Club. Being much less active than in years gone by, we will be able to appreciate the effort it will take for some of those fellows to operate. For instance when Joe Campbell starts running the bases and meets Earl Parrish head-on somewhere between first and second base, one can feel the impact clear back to West End. It will jar Mrs. Campbell even if she doesn't attend and is peacefully sitting at home away out Second Avenue, West. Things like that is what you can look forward to Friday night under the lights at City Park. Also think of the impact when the Lions and the Kiwanians give all this money to local charities. Right-Here-At-Home. No deducts, no paid directors, no paid assistants, or help.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I make a cement for water pipe joints?

A. A good cement for steam and water pipe joints can be made as follows: Mix 10 lbs. of yellow ocher, 4 lbs. ground litharge, 4 lbs. whiting, and ½-lb. hemp, cut up fine. Mix these ingredients with linseed oil to the consistency of putty. Of course a smaller quantity can be made, using same proportion.

Q. How can I keep pansies blooming all summer?

A. Pick the blossoms before they fade; give liquid manure after midsummer; remove a part of the plant with the blossoms after the season is well advanced.

Q. How can I keep small mosquitoes from getting in through the mesh of screens?

A. The tiny mosquitoes that work their way through the mesh of screens can be kept out if the screens are wiped with kerosene every day or two.

Q. How can I improve the flavor of sweet potatoes?

A. Before putting the sweet potatoes in the oven, grease them with lard; they will then peel easily, without waste. A tablespoonful of sugar added to the water in which they are boiled will improve the flavor.

Q. How can I prevent sunstroke?

A. The weakest part of the spine is at the back of the neck. When in danger of sunstroke, see that the back of the neck is well protected from the sun's rays.

Q. How can I most effectively destroy ant-beds in my lawn?

A. Stir them up with a stick and then pour boiling water over them.

Q. How can I make better coffee?

A. Always warm the coffee pot before making coffee. Then sprinkle a little salt on the coffee before pouring on the boiling water, and the flavor will be greatly improved.

Q. How can I prevent rust on pipes of the furnace and range when putting them away for the summer?

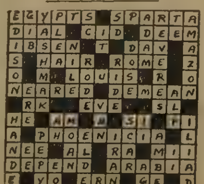
A. Rub them thoroughly with kerosene before storing them away, and they will not rust.

Q. How can I avoid having moths infest blankets that are not in use?

A. Scatter slices of yellow soap in the folds. Then wrap securely in newspapers.

Q. How can I prevent the dying of newly planted rose bushes?

A. One authority says that the most frequent cause of loss of a newly planted rose bush is insufficient packing of the roots. The soil should be pounded thoroughly following each spadeful of dirt that is placed in the hole.



(answer to last week's puzzle)

Father's Day

In the city of Spokane, Wash., back in the year of 1910, there was a woman by the name of Mrs. J. B. Todd who wanted to pay tribute to her own father, Wm. J. Smart, who had been both Dad and Mom to his motherless children. Her efforts in paying high tribute to her own father became somewhat a movement in her community. The Ministerial Association of the city of Spokane, and other organizations joined her in promoting the idea of "Father's Day." The movement soon spread over the nation, and it was in 1924 that the 3rd Sunday of June became the recognized day of tribute to all fathers.

A. T. HICKMAN

The Day has not as yet become as great in the minds of some people as that of Mother's Day. Perhaps this is because of sentimental reasons. But year after year, Father's Day is more and more recognized by the people of America. And it is my hope that Father's Day will become as great in the minds of the people as that of Mother's Day.

Here in Chilton County the Father's Day idea is still new to some people. But we pastors and other church workers are promoting the Day, or shall I say, we are promoting the spirit of paying tribute to all fathers. For several years now we have had a special Father's Day program at the Temple Church. And we have noticed others are taking to the idea of holding special services in honor to Fatherhood on this third Sunday in June.

The father is the 'king' of the household; the mother may be considered the 'queen' of the home. The father is the head of the home, and should be the leader in all phases of the home-life, including religion. No father is what he should be if he is not a Christian, and a leader in religion in his home.

Abraham was a God-fearing and God-loving father. He lead his household in the faith of God, and commanded his children after him. David manifested his love for his children by teaching them the good and right way, and through much prayer for his sons and daughters. Job was an ideal father. A perfect man; and he prayed for his sons and daughters every day; sanctified them to God, Job would rise early in the morning and offer sacrifices to God for his children, saying, "It may be that my sons have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts." Thus did Job continually. . .We invite all fathers to our special service next Sunday at Temple Church.

STOMACH CANCER

Cancer research is being constantly pushed forward in this country, and there is increasing hope for the patient with cancer of the stomach. Advances in surgical preparation and techniques, better trained anesthetists, and more skillful after-operation care are giving the cancer patient longer life.

Cancer of the stomach is said to be the most common type of cancer in males and the most common cause of cancer deaths. It is responsible for one-third of all deaths from cancer in white males and one-fifth in white females. Also four times as many men as women suffer from this type of cancer.

Cancer of the stomach appears late in life, 93 per cent after the age of 40 and 73 per cent after the age of 50. The only known treatment for this type of cancer is complete surgical removal, and this must be done before the cancer has spread to other parts of the body. Early diagnosis is absolutely necessary and this is where the tragedy of cancer of the stomach occurs for early symptoms are usually indefinite.

A large percentage of patients with cancer of the stomach comes to the physician too late for curative surgery. Symptoms of stomach cancer include nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite, loss of weight, anemia, and a "stomach consciousness." Indigestion in a person who has previously been well or a sensation of fullness after meals are symptoms that should be investigated, especially if they appear in males over forty years of age.

Only by an investigation of early symptoms can cancer be detected. One-half of patients with cancer of the stomach are too late for surgery by the time they see a surgeon. So do not put off having that examination. If you wait, it can be too late.

Recently the chapter elected new officers: President, Willard Smith; vice-president, Walter Taylor; reporter, Carter Davis; secretary, Downey Chappell; adviser, Donald Hayes.

Five members of the Maplesville chapter were present at the F.F.A. Convention at Auburn, Ala., June 8-10. Hillard Smith and Harvey Smith received the State farmers degree; also Hillard won a scholarship for the best citizen of Maplesville High this year. Carter Davis and Downey Chappell were delegates at the convention in Auburn.

Our adviser, Mr. Carlos Owens, showed us a nice time while at the convention.

The chapter is planning a trip to Florida this summer—the last week in July.—Reporter, Carter Davis.

TIPS ON PUTTING IN CORRECT HEMS

Auburn, Ala. — Some fine points useful to women who make their own clothes or alter hems on ready-made garments are offered by Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

She says that careful instead of slipshod hem work rewards the woman who would be well-groomed, and thus the garment gives better returns for the time and money spent.

"For an accurate hemline," states the specialist, "here is a suggestion which may be new to many sewers. After marking the hem and turning it up, pin close to the edge of the folded hemline—instead of the usual pinning at the top of the hem. Put pins in at right angles to the hemline so you can baste over them and baste close to the fold. After basting, remove pins and press."

She adds that two inches is a good width for the hem. With a small transparent ruler and chalk pencil, it's easy to mark an even line around the hem and then cut along it.

KEEPING QUALITY OF BROWN 'N SERVE ITEM

Questions are arising concerning the keeping quality of pressure-baked products under hot, humid conditions.

"Experiments in the Laboratories of the American Institute of Baking," reveals Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, "show that the keeping qualities of brown 'n serve products are as good as those of the completely baked rolls. The housewife will find therefore that she may keep brown 'n serve products under the same conditions as she ordinarily keeps finished baked foods, and experience no undue difficulty with mold.."

She adds that unlike the fully-baked products, the brown 'n serve rolls and bread may be refrigerated.

GRADEN FRESH

"Fresh" is the big word in marketing vegetables. Right-out-of-the-garden quality is what the homemaker wants, and if she cannot find it, she will very likely buy some canned food.

An old coffee percolator is an excellent vessel for cooking fresh asparagus. Stand the asparagus in the percolator, add boiling water, cover, and cook. Thus the asparagus tips will be steamed beautifully while the stems are cooked to a perfect tenderness.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Kentucky 31 fescue and La. white clover was observed Saturday on Cleve Mims's farm by W. L. Parrish, J. L. Pilgreen, R. V. Watson and C. C. Gay. The growth of both the clover and grass are excellent. A few days earlier Mr. Mims was asked what he thought about his pasture and he stated, "That is the grazenist stuff that I have ever seen."

Unless the grass and weeds are extremely bad, don't graze or cut off first year sericea. Grazing the grass off or clipping with a mower close enough to cut the sericea will weaken the root system for future crops.

Don't forget to work the young kudzu seedlings. Keeping them clean cultivated the first year gives you kudzu to graze or hay sooner.

How much is soil and water conservation worth? J. Sam Johnson and Howard Abbott are receiving $2.50 plus family milk from four milch cows daily. These cows are grazing off serciea lespedeza. Several years ago, this land would have been called sub-marginal or unfit for anything except trees. Crimson clover will be seeded on the sericea this fall.

Bicolor Lespedeza and partridge peas for wildlife (quail) were given to Dick Hayes and farmers of the Mars Hill Community.

Baked apples that are different and delicious may be made by peeling the skin of the apples in stripes from stem to blossom. Then core, and fill the centers with mincemeat and bake.

Many white foods, such as macaroni, creamed or mashed potatoes, or rice, may be given a brighter and more appetizing look by sprinkling them with paprika, chopped parsley, or chives. Eye appeal is important in rousing appetities.

Use Good Horse Sense

If you dust cotton for boll weevils early (just after crop comes up) and keep dusting until crop is made, you throw away money and time.

Why?

The A.P.I. Experiment Station tests in 1948 showed that 10 dustings, made early and late, actually made less cotton than 7 dustings late in the season.

And in 1949 tests, 14 dustings made early and late made less cotton than 9 dustings made while cotton was setting and maturing the crop.

So, use good horse sense! Dust only when dusting pays.

Beat the boll weevil this way:

Use 20 per cent toxaphene or a 3-5 mixture of BHC-DDT. On each acre use 8 to 14 pounds of poison per dusting, depending on size of cotton.

When plants are fruiting freely — about lay-by time — start dusting if boll weevil infestation is 25 per cent or higher. Make 3 applications of poison 5 days apart.

Check fields 10 days after third dusting. If infestation is still 25 per cent or higher, dust three more times — 5 days between dustings.

In August, when weevils are moving from field to field, dust 3 or 4 more times every 4 days to protect top bolls.

Let's Tidy Up A Little!

Professor Nichols, our local historian, came in last week mighty upset. "Joe," he says, "This thing has gone too far—it's an outrage!"

"This thing" had to do with the way folks are getting careless about paper and trash around town. Especially with the way picnickers have messed up Memorial Park—where we have the flagpole, cannon, and the War Monument.

So we called a Town Meeting to do something once and for all. The Professor outlined the problem, and then Andy—who owns the Green Gardens—stood up and told us how to set things right.

From where I sit, Andy was a natural to help us in this. He's had experience in the Brewers' Self-Regulation Program—where the beer retailers co-operate to keep their property neat and slicked up. Andy is head of the big volunteer clean-up drive we're going to have. And like the Brewers' program, this one's going to last all year 'round with every week Clean Up Week! How about your town?

THERE'S A NEW SPARK NOW!!

What Good Is A "Natural Resource" Without Industry?

OIL and other minerals below ground, good soil, abundant forests, the water in the streams, a healthful climate —all are "natural resources" contributing little or nothing to man's well-being until somebody does something with them to make them useful to human beings.

When somebody does something—such as drilling oil wells to recover the oil, digging mines to get the metal or coal, cultivating fields so that crops may be grown, cutting and curing the timber for housing, furniture and other needs;

using the waters in the rivers for transportation or power, publicizing to others the climate of a region—industry is born.

Industry, to satisfy human wants, uses the brainpower, labor and wealth of people together with the materials and forces of nature to produce and deliver goods and services.

The improved well-being of man has ever been dependent on the use of his natural resources — not on the mere existence of them. Industry — whether that of the farm or the city — intelligently applied to the conversion of natural resources into forms to provide food, clothing, shelter, warmth, health, enjoyment, leisure — has ever been the means of improving man's lot.

Perhaps this is a thought worth considering not only during "Alabama Industry Week," but during all weeks. Alabama industry has done, and is doing, much to provide for Alabama people better living than they would enjoy if Albama's abundant natural resources remained undeveloped.

As more and more industry makes use of these resources, or, in other words, as more industrial development takes place, the living standard of more and more Alabamians will be improved.

Of interest here and throughout this community was the wedding on Tuesday night, June 6th, at 8:00 p.m. of Miss Earline Davis and Rev. Harold Rickman at the Pell City Wesleyan Methodist Church.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Davis of Pell City, Ala. Rev. Rickman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rickman, of Asheville, N. C. The Rev. C. R. Rickman, brother of the groom and a member of the faculty of Wesleyan Methodist College, Central, S. C., performed the ceremony.

Miss Marilyn Shows, Pianist, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Miss Lou Ann Houser, Soloist, of Knoxville, Tenn., presented the nuptial music.

The church was beautifully decorated with a huge background of greenery, baskets of white gladiolias and chrysanthemums, high lighted with six-seven branched candelabra attractively arranged.

To complete the serene beauty of the occasion there was a simple white satin altar at which the bride and groom knelt following the nuptial vows.

The bride, attired in the traditional white slipper satin, and wearing a full length lace veil attached to a tiara of seed pearls, was given in marriage by her father.

The white prayer book she carried was topped with a white orchid, while streamers gracefully hung from the side, tied in occasional knots with tube roses.

Miss Naomi Davis served as maid of honor; Miss Mae Bell Davis, Mrs. J. W. Benton and Mrs. Thomas B. Belle, all were gowned in pastel shades of taffeta and carried nosegays of carnations and tube roses. The candle lighters, Mrs. F. L. Atcheson and Miss Hardie Davis, wore gowns which completed the pastel array of taffeta. The bride was very fortunate in having all of her sisters as attendants.

Carol Rickman, twin brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Ponder Frederick, Willett Vess and Talmadge Hughey.

The mother of the bride wore an attractive orchid dress with beige accessories. The groom's mother was attired in navy blue with white accessories.

Following the wedding there was a reception in the Avondale banquet hall. The beautiful tiered wedding cake, placed on a lace-covered table in the center of the room, was served with lime sherbert punch to more than a hundred guests.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a navy blue suit with white accessories, and chose for her flower a white orchid. so big in service . . . . . . so little in cost

FARM ACCIDENTS DO EXTRACT HIGH TOLLS

Each year, according to estimates of the National Safety Council, farm people sustain about 17,500 fatalities from accidents; 1,500,000 disabling injuries caused by accidents; and 35,000 buildings destroyed by fire. The annual losses represented by these accidents and fires exceed $1,000,000,000. The cost represents the equivalent of an annual tax of $35 per year to every farm resident throughout the Nation.

"Most of this could be prevented if farm people would learn and practice safety rules to eliminate the unsafe habits and conditions that cause accidents," asserts P. O. Davis, A.P.I. Agricultural Extension Service director.

He adds that the reason more and more people are accidentally killed or injured is not because the instinct of self preservation is waning. It's because the number of hazards are increasing.

SPRAYING TOMATOES MEANS MORE PROFIT

Auburn, Ala. — Tomatoes should be sprayed or dusted before any disease shows up or when the very first signs appear, according to John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist.

He points out that when tomato diseases reach an advanced stage, sprays or dusts are not effective. Such diseases as late blight, Septoria leaf spot and anthracnose can be controlled by a thorough job of dusting or spraying. Dusts are not effective against wilts or mosaic.

"Tomatoes should be treated every seven to 10 days with one of the following materials," advises Bagby. "Dusts containing either six per cent Zineb (Z-78 or Parzate) or six per cent copper plus 50 per cent Cryolite should be effective in controlling diseases and tomato fruit worms. If a spray is preferred, use a mixture of one quart of liquid Parzate or one quart of Dithane D-14 plus three lbs. Cryolite to 50 gallons of water. To either of these materials add zinc and lime as directed on the container. It may be well to alternate these sprays with one containing four pounds of pure tribasic copper to 50 gallons of water to prevent stunting of plants in midsummer."

POULTRY ASSOCIATION SEEKS A BETTER CHICK

One of the outstanding features of the annual meeting of the Alabama Poultry Association this year will be the Chicken-of-Tomorrow Contest, states John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist.

It is a part of the national contest designed to find a frying chicken with all the outstanding qualities, such as meatier breasts and plumper drum sticks.

LIVESTOCK NECESSARY FOR SOUND LAND USE

Auburn, Ala. — Animals have always been associated with a permanently prosperous agriculture. This fact is true because much of the plant food consumed is returned to the soil. For example, steers return 90 per cent of the potash and 87 per cent of the phosphorous contained in their feed.

"Since most of the cultivated land in Alabama has sufficient slope to erode, and because dashing downpours are common over all the state, grassland farming must become an essential part of our agriculture," declares S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist. "Increased livestock production would, of course, follow."

MEMORIAL TREES

I. R. Martin, A.P.I. Agricultural Extension Service forester, suggests that memorial trees or even memorial forests be established to serve communities as recreation centers for youth and meditation places for adults. What memorial to those soldiers, sailors, or marines who did not return could be more beneficial?

SAFETY MINDED

Never string clothes lines across pathways or in areas where wood is chopped.

BROILER PRODUCTION

Last year Alabama broiler growers produced 10,491,000 birds which brought them $7,719,000.

GROWING PULLETS

Many flock owners find that they save labor by putting automatic water fountains on the range for pullets.

Church Items—

The Baptist W.M.U. met at the church Monday. In the absence of Mrs. Jack Hampton, Mrs. Sara Mitchell had charge of the program. Giving interesting discussions on the Co-Operative Program were Mrs. C. C. Bates, Mrs. H. M. Nix and Mrs. W. L. Hampton. The pastor, Rev. Evan Johnson, gave an inspiring devotional.

Thursday afternoon of this week the W.M.U. will observe the Day of Prayer for State Missions at 2:30. Every one is urged to attend this meeting.

At a recent speech in Birmingham Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, one who has worked and suffered, faced death many times, talked of the general conditions in our country rather than his own accomplishments. He expressed himself as appalled at "the broken moral fibre" of this nation. He feels that it is largely because we have wanted more of the material than the spiritual, an insane desire for constant pleasure, "a good time all the time" and the pleasure which appeal are not longer of the highest order. We have lowered our ideals to fit our desires.

When Capt. Rickenbacker says we as a nation suffer from a broken moral fibre we do well to listen—and to heed his words.

Let's go to God's house Sunday and worship that we may have a better community, country, state and nation.

PAUL A. REDMOND PAYS TRIBUTE TO CLANTON IN INDUSTRY DAYS VISIT

In a visit to Clanton last week, Paul A. Redmond, President of Alabama Mills, Inc., and State Chairman of the Industry Days Committee for Associated Industries of Alabama, paid special tribute to Clanton for "staging a grand show in behalf of your industry."

Mr. Redmond stopped in Clanton last week on a trip that carried him throughout the State of Alabama, the purpose of which was to see in person the Industry Days program being carried out in each of the seven communities where Alabama Mills, Inc., have plants located.

"It's gratifying to those of us who have had a part in the planning and promotion of this program to see the wholesome response which it has received from the good people of Clanton," Mr. Redmond said.

"We feel that through a program such as this, the people of every town in the state will have a better understanding of the industries whose payrolls are the very life blood of their community life," he said.

Speaking on behalf of his Company, Mr. Redmond said, "I wish to express our profound appreciation to all of our guests who took the time to visit our plant during the Open House celebration. May I assure you it was grand having you, and we want you to come back to see us often. Only through personal contact can we come to know and understand each other better which is so necessary for a continuing friendship."

Mr. Redmond also paid special tribute to all the employees who made the plant visitations so successful.

"I would be remiss in my privileges if I did not pay special tribute to all of the fine employees who contributed immeasurably to the success of this phase of our program," he said. Mr. Redmond stated that it was only through their "unselfish contribution of time and effort" that made the program possible.

"Whether we are the administrative branch or on the production line," he concluded, "we all enjoy as individuals the priceless heritage of freedom which enables us to maintain our way of life."

He added, "In no other country in the world today is this true."

Fifty-Six Beautiful Girls Qualify For Festival Queen

Mrs. L. A. Lambert, chairman of the Queen Committee in the 1950 Peach Festival, announced this week that 56 young ladies had entered the contest for Queen of the Festival. Serving with Mrs. Lambert are: Mrs. Erle Ellis, Mrs. E. R. Piper, Mrs. Reedie Taylor and Mrs. W. J. Preston.

According to Mrs. Lambert names have been coming in exceptionally well, and interest in this year's Peach Festival is greater than in years past. Last year there were only 12 contestants for Peach Queen.

The girls this year are sponsored by merchants of the various communities over Chilton County as well as by civic clubs and organizations. This creates a wider interest and tends to enlarge the group contesting for the honor of serving as Queen. The sponsorship of a girl does not cost the sponsor an entry fee. There is no expense unless the merchant who is sponsoring the young lady wishes to show his entry special attention in the way of a gift of appreciation.

The contest will officially close on July 1 and all names must be in before that date. Those who wish to enter a girl in the contest this year and are late in doing so, are urged to turn their entry in to Mrs. L. A. Lambert at once, or call radio station WKLF for details.

Mr. Lewis (Fibber) McGee has been named to replace Luther Kendrick as Chairman of the Parade Committee. Mr. Kendrick was unable to serve because of business reasons. Mr. Thomas Childress of Thorsby is co-chairman.

Another committee report this week was from Winfred Lecroy, chairman of the Exhibit Committee. He announces that Mr. Tom McCord, well known auctioneer of Montgomery, will auction the prize peaches at this year's Festival. Judges for the peaches will be announced in next week's Chilton County News.

JEMISON FFA WINS STATE PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE CONTEST RECENTLY

The Jemison Parliamentary Procedure team won first place in the state contest held in Auburn June 10. They were competing against district champions from all parts of Alabama. There were nine teams in all and they all gave the Jemison boys plenty of competition. Members of the team were Sidney Sample, President; Charles McGraw, Vice-President; Billy Cox, Secretary; Jack Miller, Treasurer; Kent Lowery, Reporter; Luther Giles, Adviser and Tommy Martin, Quizzer.

Four members of the Jemison FFA Chapter received the State Farmer Degree at the convention. These degrees were awarded for outstanding farming programs, active F.F.A. work and extra curricular school work. Members receiving these degrees were: Cecil Williams, Byron Hayes, Frank Jones and Sidney Sample.—Billy Gilmore, Reporter.

WHAT IS THE REASON?

Jemison, Alabama, June 20, 1950.

An open letter to:
Senator Gulledge
Representative Cox

Gentlemen:

I read in The Union-Banner of the proposed repeal of an Act aproved March 10, 1936, requiring the County Commissioners to advertise and receive competitive bids on all purchases exceeding $150.00.

As a citizen and taxpayer of Chilton County, I would like to know just who is behind this repeal of this Act and why do they want it repealed?

This Act was operative when the present members of the Commission took office and if my memory serves me right none of them had it in their platform that they would seek repeal of this Act or neither has there been anything published about a change.

I again insist you tell who wants it repealed. The people have a right to know.

I beg to remain yours for good, clean government.

Respectfully,

P. J. NORWOOD.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY GRADY HEFLIN ENTERTAIN

The Heflin-Deramus wedding party and relatives and friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grady Heflin on Thursday evening following the rehearsal.

Arrangements of magnolias, gardenias and white gladioli used in artistic profusion and slender white tapers in brass candelabra enhanced the beauty of the reception rooms.

Of unusual beauty was the banquet table covered with a cloth of linen and lace and centered with a mirrored plaque wreathed in fern and tiny colonial corsages. Two silver candelabra fastooned with gold tulle held slender burning tapers of white.

One end of the table held a large silver tray wreathed in frosted grape leaves, peaches, cherries and grapes. A fluted silver bowl on the tray contained assorted ices and creams molded as miniature fruits. Serving here were Mrs. Kenneth Howard of Auburn and Miss Margaret Ann Norwood of Decatur.

From a silver service at the other end of the table Mrs. Frank Hawkes of England, N. J., poured demi-tasses of coffee.

Silver trays of individual cakes embossed in pale green and white, mints in replicas of bridal flowers, and nuts completed the collection.

Soft music was provided during the evening by Joe Mullins, Jr., Henry Heflin and Mrs. Erle Ellis. Guests lingered in enjoyable conversation throughout the reception rooms, on the porches and in the gardens all en suite.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Heflin were Mrs. Samuel E. Johnson, Mrs. Joe Mullins, Mrs. Claude Craig and Miss Lurlene Harper.

Among the out-of-town guests enjoying this memorable evening of regalement were: Mr. and Mrs. Irby Deramus, Miss Mary Ann Deramus, Mrs. Barnett Deramus, Miss Carolyn Deramus, Jimmie Fort, Jr., Miss Hazel Messer, Mr. Hollis Hesser, Margaret Howard, Mrs. Guy Alred, of Montgomery; Mrs. A. B. Stanley, of Mitchell Dam; Julie Ann Cowan, of Hudlend; Katherine Deavers, of Birmingham; Mrs. Lawson Nelson, of Lavergne, Tenn.; "Bub" Agricola, of Gadsden; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkes, of Englewood, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Howard, of Auburn; Mr. Roy Frederick, Margaret Ann Norwood, of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Smith and Millicent Smith, from Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Thornton and Nell Thornton, of Montgomery; William DuBose, of Brewton; Sara Helen Duke, of Birmingham.

The Postman's Lot

It is becoming more and more difficult to be a postman.

In years past, the man who delivered to the folks at home had only a limited number of worries. There were the hounds whose barks were never so severe as their bites.

Then there were the youngsters who blamed the mail-man because the cereal company was slow in coming through with the promised airplane kit.

First-of-the-month always found householders who managed to indict the postman for the flood of bills that got left at the door.

In the old days, the postman could always point with pride to the writing of Herodotus, who penned, "Neither snow, nor rain, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

But these words failed to take cognizance of the Postmaster General and congressional committees. By cutting in half the postman's services, the PMG and the solons have, at the very least stayed them from the swift completion of at least fifty percent of their appointed rounds.—Star-News, Andalusia.

About Cats

At our house the kitten litters arrive at fairly regular intervals. We're fairly well accustomed to the experience. And one thing we note each time is that mamma cat never wants to produce her family where the people want her to.

Several days before her time she starts nosing into every dark and isolated corner. Her favorite spot is the editor's clothes closet. She slips in there every time the door is left open (which is often, we're sometimes reminded) and goes through a routine of peering, lolling about, and scratching away a cleared place for her encouchement.

When she is forcibly ejected and the door closed, she retreats dejectedly to the more open spaces only to dart back in the next time the way is clear. The nice clean, well-appointed box provided on the porch for her and her family she scorns, and only when the family has arrived and is without a resting place will she accept her box—tentatively. But all the time she is watching her chance, and whenever the doors are open she grabs a kitten in her mouth and starts to switch houses. Only when the kittens are big fellows, and she has failed many times to effect a change of housing facilities, will she accept the inevitable. It seems that cats, like harassed humans, have their troubles.—Montgomery Examiner.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Aren't there going to be a lot of pretty Peach Queen contestants this year? Oodles and oodles ot them have come in to see us about one thing and another and we do believe the peach queen crop gets prettier and prettier. It's a positive fact that our eye sight isn't getting any better, it has to be the girls.

Last Sunday was Father's Day. The wife gave us the nicest salad set with center piece (or something) to match. It was just what we wanted. Hu-m-mm.

Saw a horrible thing in South Clanton a while ago. A young fellow who looked to be in his early twenties, was sitting in the rear of a State truck, all bloody and torn as though he had been run through a briar patch. In fact that is just what had happened. Beneath him in a cage was the bloodhound that had run him down and ended his flight from justice. 'Twas a sad sight and bitter end for a boy so young.

What's this we read about a big sale at Reedie Taylor's Chicago Sales Company? From the looks of his windows at first we thought it was a Fire Sale. But upon closer inspection it clearly stated it was not a Fire Sale, it was a Remodeling Sale. It looked very much like the work of Marvin Marcus. He's the sign painter, you know. Marvin has offices in South Clanton. Reedie has a big ad in our favorite newspaper this week.

Judge W. L. Parrish and Chief Clerk Harold Smyer are two mighty pleased people. Mr. John C. Graham, State Auditor working at the courthouse, while in the Probate Office the other day made the statement that the books of the Chilton County Commissioners Court were the best kept in the State of Alabama. That is mighty good news to fellows who have worked hard and taken a lot, to see that things were straightened out in our county government.

It wasn't told to me I only heard it. This is the story of some birds so we will not call names. We will not call names because our game laws frown on things like caging little wild birds, and especially blue birds. But anyway it's a nice story and goes something like this: One of our leading citizens gets a big kick out of feeding birds. He would go out each evening and relax with his small feathered friends, throwing them crumbs and watching [illegible] that would gather round and eventually came the mocking birds and the wrens. After a week a rain crow made his appearance and for several days the bird lover was satisfied. But after a while he decided he would like very much for some blue birds to feed with him, but look as he may, there were no blue birds in the neighborhood. Some little boys who lived up the road assured him they could get him plenty blue birds. They did, to make a long story shorter, find and brought him six blue birds. Two grown ones and four little bittie blue birds. In placing the birds in a cage one grown one got away. Within a day the other grown one was dead. Now the bird feeder really had a problem—how to feed and raise four little blue birds. Another day passed and then there were three little birds. So, there was nothing to do but find a bird nest, rob it, and place the birds in it and hope the foster parents would feed and care for the blue birds. This was agreed and they set out in search of the nest and future home of the birds. A mocking bird nest was found with one little baby bird in it and the three blue birds were added to the bird family. Of course by this time the whole family of the bird man and all the neighbor kids were interested in the end of the bird family story and each watched with much concern to see how the mocking bird took to the small blue birds when she had left only one in the nest and groceries are so high, too. But the story ends happily. The latest report this morning is that the little blue birds have now feathered and are ready to start to fly and the old mocking birds don't know the difference, or at least don't show that they know the difference, and have cared for all the birds alike. So ends the tale.

Conscience

Some one has said that "Conscience is the voice of God in the soul of man, witnessing to our sinfulness, God's essential justice." The Bible gives us information as to what conscience is. It is the spirit of man himself, as the candle of the Lord searching all the inward parts of man's life; and it bears witness to man's thoughts, words and deeds. Some time in Scripture it is spoken of as the heart. "For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things. But if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence toward God." The conscience either accuses or excuses, condemns or justifies.

A. T. HICKMAN

On the part of the brethren of Joseph we find their conscience condemned them for the way they treated their brother. They said, "We are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear, therefore is this distress come upon us." Their conscience was the candle of the Lord to search out their deeds, and condemn them for the cruel treatment to their brother, Joseph. After David had numbered the people he felt his heart as it smote him. And David said unto the Lord, "I have sinned greatly in that I have done. I beseech thee, O Lord, take away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly.'

The first law of right conduct was the law of conscience which told Adam and Eve that they had sinned against God by eating of the tree that He told them not to eat of. From the Garden of Eden throughout all the ages since, the law of conscience has been the master guide for the human race; but without spiritual illumination conscience is a false guide. For the Bible speaks of defiled conscience, dead conscience, wicked and seared conscience. Such need to be purged, cleansed by the blood of Jesus Christ, and a heart faith in Him as the Saviour. Those who will obey an enlightened conscience cannot stray from the highway of holiness, for it is given as Gods greatest pilot to man to assist him throughout his earthly journey. It is better to have a good conscience, avoid of offense toward God and man, than to have ill-gotten gain. "Blessed are the pure in conscience."

Your Health

GERIATRICS

Thirty years from now medical practice will be largely geriatric, which means it will have to do with elderly people. Whereas ten years ago onefourth of the population of this country was over 45 years of age, it is estimated that in 1980 half of the people will be over 45. Even today there are more than ten million persons over 65 years of age.

The process of aging begins even before birth but it remains overshadowed by growth and development until man reaches full maturity, some time around 40 years of age. After maturity, the aging forces begin to set up the pattern for whatever insidious disability is to be the lot of the individual in later years.

Actually old age is not a disease but rather that period when the tissues and muscles of the body break down and lose their elasticity. Advancing years bring about many changes in the body which affect the kidneys, the heart, the eyes and the ears. Then there are cancer, arthritis, and the many changes in the glands of the body. And again there is the mental deterioration often associated with senility.

Aside from the physical well-being of the elderly person, there are the equally important psychological and social phases. Psychiatric problems, maladjustments, and behavior breakdowns occur at a high rate among elderly persons; and the prevention of phychiatric disorders among the aged is of prime importance. The elderly person needs affection, a feeling of belonging, of being independent, of being capable. He also needs to feel that his personality and conduct meet with the approval of others—this to give him self-esteem and confidence.

Wrong is the attitude of the aged not to try new things, for actually the capacity to learn is retained to an appreciable degree throughout life. Older persons should be encouraged to new fulfilments of life's enterprise. Small hobbies have yielded big dividends when put to use occupationally. Anything that provides a feeling of usefulness and a purpose in living is extremely important to every man and woman.

The years of prime achievement should be extended rather than the years of decrepit old age prolonged. Such is the aim of true geriatric medicine.

How Can I?

(By Anne Ashley)

Q. How can I remove scratches from silver?

A. Purchase a small quantity of putty powder, put it into a saucer, and add just enough olive oil to make a paste. Rub this paste on the silver with a soft flannel cloth; then polish with a chamois and the scratches will disappear.

Q. How can I make a good hot-weather salad?

A. A delicious salad can be made by spreading cream cheese over tomato slices, then arranging them in layers.

Q. How can I remedy a few small leaks in my garden hose?

A. Try painting the hose on the outside with a piable roofing paint. It will last at least another season.

Q. How can I clean a straw hat?

A. A good cleaner for the straw hat can be made by mixing corn meal, a strong solution of oxalic acid, and water, to a thick paste. Rub this into the straw thoroughly, allow to dry, and then brush it well.

Q. How can I remove tar or pitch stains from fabrics?

A. Sweet oil or lard rubbed over the tar or pitch stains will remove them. If the stains are on silk or worsted materials, it is better to rub them with alcohol.

Q. How can I keep ants and roaches from the kitchen and pantry?

A. Wash the kitchen and pantry shelves and woodwork with a hot, strong solution of alum water.

Q. How can I improve the appearance of the back yard fence?

A. Grape vines and blackberry bushes planted along the back fence are not only nice for the grapes and berries they produce, but will add to the appearance of the yard.

Q. How can I prevent lumps in brown sugar during warm weather?

A. The brown sugar will not become lumpy if it is kept in the refrigerator.

Q. How can I renovate an old grass rug that has become shabby and worn?

A. It can be restored wonderfully by giving it one or two coats of clear shellac. This will bring back the colors and luster.

Q. How can I prevent curtains from blowing out of the windows and becoming soiled?

A. Use lead dress-weights; these weights can be covered with material the same color as the curtains, then slipped into the bottom hems of the curtains. Using about five weights in each hem will make the curtains hang evenly.

Q. How can I bring more cream to the surface of milk?

A. Heat the milk until lukewarm, then chill it, and it will bring more cream to the surface.

TRIP TO WASHINGTON

When the Seaboard's Silver Comet left Birmingham's Terminal Station on May 23, twenty-three eager C.C. H.S. students were on board en route to their annual Beta Club trip, this year of Baltimore, Annapolis, Washington and Alexandria.

On arrival in Baltimore we found that our bus driver and guide, Bill Bach, was waiting outside the station. After making sure that all our baggage was on board, we piled in the bus for a tour of Baltimore. Our guide gave us a brief history of the city while we were en route to the Oriole Cafeteria where a quick lunch was eaten. All cavities filled, we proceeded to Fort McHenry where Frances Scott Key got the inspiration to write the "Star-Spangled Banner," and then on to Annapolis where we visited the U. S. Naval Academy. From Annapolis we were transported to the Martinique Hotel in Washington where we were given one hour to make ready for a tour of Washington by night, including stops at the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials.

It was hard to pull ourselves out of bed the next morning, but nevertheless we were all gathered in the lobby at 7:30 ready for an all day tour of Arlington Cemetery, Washington Zoo, the Lee Custis Mansion, Masonic Memorial to George Washington and Mt. Vernon. Sandwiched in between these tours was a delightful luncheon at Scott's Cafeteria. While at Arlington Cemetery we visited the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and were fortunate enough to see the changing of the guards. In Alexandria, Va., an old colonial town, we visited the Masonic Memorial to George Washington, where we saw the famed million dollar Persian rug. That evening some of us enjoyed swimming at the Ambassador Hotel while others skated at the American Skating Arena.

On Friday we visited the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the Pan American Union, the Washington Monument, the Supreme Court, the Congressional Library, the Capitol where we were conducted into the Senate Chamber and allowed to remain for a very short time, and the House Office Building where we visited Representative deGraffenreid's office. That afternoon we also explored the FBI Building, and later the Washington Cathedral. After this exhausting day the seats of the Capitol Theatre were very welcome to our tired bodies that evening, at which time we saw a very fine screen and stage presentation.

Saturday morning was spent touring Smithsonian Institute and the National Art Gallery. Most of the group ate at the National Art Gallery Cafeteria. There was no scheduled activity planned for the afternoon; therefore, we were free to do the things of our personal liking such as shopping, swimming and additional touring.

Church services were attended Sunday morning and afterward we boarded a bus and were taken to the Union Station, where we had leisurely lunch before leaving for home. We arrived in Birmingham at 10:45 Monday morning.

Students making the trip were:

Donna Klinner, Joanne Scott, Alice Deramus, Patricia Huddleston, Ann Huddleston, Margaret Kemp, Mary Anne Oglesby, Janie Lou Wade, Louise Golden, Margaret Foshee, Mary Jo Morgan, Jean Hocutt, Betty Kemp, Joe Phillip Klinner, Reedie Taylor, Aubrey Neeley, Edward Robinson, Benny Ray Tucker, Bobby Tucker, Buddie Burdette, David Wingard and Myron Levine.

The group was accompanied by Mr. J. R. Louland of the Seaboard Airline and Railroad Company, Miss Marguerite Perry, Mrs. Renfro Mullins, Mrs. W. A. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adair and Margaret Redden of Pace, Miss. —Beta Club Reporter, Myron Levine.

Local Lions Busily Sowing Happiness

Probably one of the happiest little girls in Chilton County is five-year-old Ada O'Dean Mims, of Route 3, Clanton, Ala. And the reason for her being in such high spirits is that the sight in her right eye has been restored.

Little Ada was about three years old when it all happened. At that time paralysis of the nerve of the right eye lid set in and the eye gradually closed, leaving Ada with the sight of only the left eye.

For several weeks she was without the use of that eye when she was noticed on the streets of Clanton by some members of the Clanton Lions Club. A quiet investigation was started by those men and a report was made to the full membership of the club. It was then and there decided that the Clanton Lions Club would do all in it's power to help pretty little Ada regain her full eyesight.

BEFORE

In October, 1949, she was operated on at the Alabama Sight Conservation Hospital, Birmingham. Not being successful in the first operation members of the local club continued in their efforts to bring the sight back to little Ada's right eye. Again in April, 1950, she was returned to the same hospital and this time the results were successful. At the same time doctors recommended glasses for the youngster and a special pair was made and fitted to Ada. The right eye glass has a crutch attached to it that slips up under the right eyelid and helps to support the lid to keep it open. The cost of all this medical attention? Members of the local Lions Club are prone to talk much about that phase of bringing happiness to little Ada. But the records will show that the full cost of the operations and the glasses was born by the Clanton Lions Club so that pretty little Ada O'Dean Mims might have the full use of her right eye once again.

Albert H. Haack, Jr., member of the WKLF commercial staff, has been elected president of the Clanton Lions Club for the coming year. The election took place Thursday night, June 1st, at the regular meeting of the Lions Club in the banquet room of the Dixie Cafe.

Installation of the new officers is slated to take place at special festivities the last Thursday night in June, which will also be Lions Ladies Night.

Others included to take office on the same night are: L. A. Lambert, first vice-president; Ott Miller, second vice-president; Bill Eiland, third vice-president; M. E. Lord, secretary; Herman Lecroy, treasurer; Earl Ellis, tail twister; Bob Taber, Lion Tamer; and Claire Norris and Gerald Weed, directors.

EGGS ARE DELICIOUS AND NUTRITIOUS, TOO

Eggs are "tops" in nutrition, according to Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

She points out that eggs are in the same top class with other protein foods, such as milk and meat. They contain three of the B vitamin plus Vitamins A and D. The egg yolk holds a rich store of iron for red blood cells as well as phosphorus and other minerals for the needs of the body.

"Eggs are a very versatile food, as they can be baked, broiled, cooked in the shell, fried, poached, scrambled or made into omelets," asserts the nutritionist. "They may also be combined with other foods. They are useful in binding, coating, garnishing, leavening, thickening, or in giving frame work to a dish. They also add color, flavor, richness and tenderness."

JEMISON INDEPENDENTS PLAY DRAPER PRISON

Tomorrow night, Friday, June 23, the Jemison Independent baseball team will tangle with the strong Draper Club. The locals will be out to square off the score after having lost to the visitors on their last meeting.

Draper always comes up with a tough club to whip, and any team that wins over them must always play smart baseball all the way.

The game will be played at Jemison, beginning at 8:00 p.m.

This will be the 13th game for the Jemison Club this season. Let's hope the number will be the lucky omen for the North Chilton boys. Thus far they have played 11 games this season, winning 7 and losing 4.

They have defeated the following teams: Buck Greek twice, Thorsby, Isabella, Belle Ellen, Calera and Selma Redbirds once each.

They have lost to: Thorsby twice, Mt. Olive and Clanton once each.

Centreville was due to play at Jemison Tuesday night, June 20th, hence; no report could be given at this writing due to publication date.

The Jemison team is managed this season by Kenneth Cobb who alternates in playing third base and catching. Only six regular players from last year's club are represented this season; the remaining players are principally young graduates from high school.

With the weather really warming up, the baseball fans are coming out each game in increasing numbers.

The Verbena team comes to Jemison for a game next Tuesday night, June 27th, and on July 4th a fiery club from Belle Ellen plays the Jemison team in a double-header. The first game beginning at 6:30 p.m.

WHITES' REUNION

On Saturday, June 10, members of the J.W.G. White families were present at their home in Jemison.

Among those present were: The five children, together with the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J.W.G. White, of Jemison; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. White and three sons, Gerald, George S. and Sherrell, of Isabella Community; Mr. and Mrs. Winford Jackson and two sons, James Edwin and Jerry Wayne, of Jemison; Mr. and Mrs. Reuben White and three sons—Jimmie, Billy and Mackie, of Pasagoula, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold White and son, Sonny, of East Point, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Archie White and daughter, Bonita, of Montgomery.

At noon a delightful lunch was spread. This was indeed a happy day for all present, as it was the first time the mother had seen her children together in seven years, and the first time to ever have all the grandchildren together at one time.

Ferrell Gibbons of Thorsby came to the home at high noon and made several group pictures. May the Lord bless us to have the privilege to all be together again before another seven years roll around.

MRS. ROSIE BAUGH IN METHODIST TRAINING CENTER

Lake Junaluska, N. C.—Mrs. Rosie Baugh, Maplesville, Ala., is attending the Methodist Youth Caravan Training Center here preparing voluntary service in local Methodist Churches during the next seven weeks.

Experienced in the direction of Christian youth work, Mrs. Baugh is one of 70 adult counselors who will work with 280 college young people as members of Caravan teams this summer. Caravaners will serve a total of 500 churches in the United States, Cuba and Hawaii this season.

Composed of four young people and one adult counselor, each Caravan team is especially trained to give leadership and direction to the development of a youth program fulfilling the ideals and purposes of the Methodist Youth Fellowship in each local church. They give suggestions for worship services, lead informal study groups, direct recreation, help initiate work projects, and interpret the youth program of the church to civic leaders.

Sponsored by staff members of the Methodist Board of Education, Nashville, Tenn., the five training centers are located at William Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa; Lake Junaluska, N. C.; McMurray College, Abilene, Tex.; Lycoming College, Williamsport, Pa.; and College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif.

Boll Weevil A Problem In Chilton County This Year

The weather has taken second place to the boll weevil as the topic of farm conversation. This year the boll weevil infestation is probably greater than it has ever been. For the past two years the winters have been unusually mild and a large population of overwintering weevils have emerged in the spring. Since the major part of Chilton County's farmers depend on cotton for their main income, it is only natural that the boll weevil infestation be a grave concern.

Even though the boll weevil problem presents a serious threat to a two million dollar crop, it does not mean that a normal crop cannot be made of cotton is poisoned properly.

The question has arisen as to how early cotton should be dusted. According to all experimental work conducted over a period of twenty years-three years, poisoning before July has never increased yields, and, in some cases, yields have actually been reduced with early poisoning. Cotton should be poisoned, however, as the plants start fruiting well. Normally, this will be early July. It is recommended that cotton poisoning be started July 10 and continued until cotton is matured. Ordinarily seven to nine applications will be required. It is very important that the dust be properly applied and timed. Cotton should be poisoned at intervals of five days until three or four applications have been applied. Weevil counts should be made after the first series of applications and when 25% of the green forms or squares are punctured cotton should again be poisoned using three or four applications.

In general, toxaphene and a 3-5 B.H.C., D.D.T. mixture is being recommended. Eight to twelve pounds of dust will be required for each dusting.

It is very important that when poisoning is once started it must be continued. While destroying boll weevils, other beneficial insects are destroyed and when poisoning is discontinued there are no natural enemies of the boll weevil and boll worm to hold them in check.

Many farmers question the advisability of poisoning because of the cost. Gains in cotton yield resulting from dusting should justify the added cost. During the three years 1947-49, 20% toxaphene dust has produced an average gain of 754 pounds per acre of seed cotton over undusted cotton. These tests were conducted in areas over the entire state. In 1949, a year of adverse weather conditions and high boll weevil infestation, toxaphene dust produced an increase in yield of 1,043 pounds per acre at Prattville field. At the price of cotton, toxaphene dust produced $125.00 worth of lint cotton. It is also interesting to note that cotton receiving three early dustings in June did not produce quite as much cotton as plots where dusting was started in early July.

Cotton dusting will be a must this year if a crop is expected. Dust should be bought now and stored in a dry place so that it will be on hand when needed. The cost of dusting will vary depending on weather conditions and size of plants. On the average $8.50 to $10.00 will be required to dust an acre of cotton. Any acre of cotton with a good stand and well fertilized is worth dusting.

LARGE ROOMS USED BY BROILER GROWER

Mr. H. G. Allen, Huffman, Alabama, says that labor is saved by growing broilers in large rooms.

John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist, states that this successful broiler grower has two broiler houses, each with a capacity of 5,000 birds. The houses have no partitions, and the 5,000 broilers run together after the brooder guards are removed. Mr. Allen has his feed room located near the houses so that very little time is spent in carrying feed.

"By aligning my feeders end to end for the entire length of each building and using coal skuttles to fill the feeders," says Mr. Allen, "five to six hours a day is all I need to take care of 10,000 birds until they are two weeks old. After this time, automatic waterers are put into use and only four hours per day are required."

HOME DEMONSTRATION AT MRS. S. A. JONES'S HOME

One of the most interesting meetings of the year for Home Demonstration Club members was held last week at the home of Mrs. S. A. Jones. A demonstration on "Sanding and Finishing Floors" was under the supervision of Miss Alice Peavey, Specialist in House Furnishings, from Auburn. Each club member attending the meeting had the opportunity to use the machines and learn to operate them and to apply the sealer which dries in 20 minutes regardless of the weather conditions.

Club members attending brought lunches which were spread picnic style at the noon hour.

The following Home Demonstration Club members attended: Mrs. Emmett Smith, Mrs. Robert McAfee, Mrs. Cleve Latham, Mrs. Amos Smith, Mrs. Parnell Ratliff, Mrs. Turner Eiland, Mrs. Kate Smith, Mrs. Gertie Mae Smith, Mrs. Hermie Cox, Mrs. Ester V. Duke, Mrs. B. H. Vickers, Mrs. H. M. Kelley, Mrs. F. C. Gibson, Mrs. Julian Morris, Mrs. L. A. Speaks, Mrs. B. L. Venable, Mrs. B. C. Lenoir, Mrs. Stanley Cost, Mrs. W. J. Preston, Mrs. Johnny Culpepper, Mrs. Aubrey Smith, Mrs. Alfred Penton, Mrs. B. F. Milam, Miss Eleanor Milam, Mrs. Homer W. Smith and the hostess, Mrs. S. A. Jones.

Plans for the demonstration were arranged by Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent.

BEWARE OF HAZARDS ON ALABAMA FARMS

Auburn, Ala. — Out on the farm a new crop of dangers is springing up with the introduction of electricity, new labor-saving machinery, new insect poisons, and new devices for doing many things. It isn't that these new "gadgets" are unsafe—the danger lies in their misuse and the lack of knowledge of what precautions to take in using them.

"To avoid danger, warns P. O. Davis, director of the A.P.I. Extension Service, "one must know of its existence. With new dangers created every day, the task of teaching people of their existence and how to avoid them is an enormous undertaking. But it is of tremendous importance to all of us. Thats the reason the week of July 23-29 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week. Why not plan to observe this special week by doing the things necessary to make the farm a safer place to work, live, and play?"

SETTING A GOAL AND WORKING FOR IT

William A. "Wig" Wilkins, a GI Farm Trainee of Enterprise Community, came on the Farm Training Program with some definite goals set up. He is now making a strong head-way toward achieving these goals.

William owned 115 acres of land when he started his training two years ago. He wanted a tractor, a hog unit, a small flock of laying hens, but most of all he and Mrs. Wilkins wanted a new house.

He now has a small tractor and the necessary equipment for it. He has two brood sows, one with a litter of seven pigs and the other one, believe it or not, farrowed 16 pigs, 14 of which are still living and doing fine. He has the proper housing and is caring for 150 laying hens. Last January he completed a three bedroom house.

William and his wife are carrying on a full scale farming program this year. They have 9 acres of cotton, 20 acres of corn, 1 acre of sweet potatoes, 4 acres of peas, ½ acre of bunch beans, 2 acres of sericea with two milch cows on it, 3-4 acre of alfalfa being grazed by his hogs, and 1 acre for their home garden. Last year he sold 8 top hogs, and he plans to sell more this year.

This is one GI Trainee who knew what he wanted and proceded to get it. He will readily admit that the GI Farm Training Program has been a large factor in helping them achieve these goals. William has only four more months of training left, and we think this trainee and his wife should be congratulated on the progress they have made.

WILLING WORKERS MEET

At seven o'clock on the night of June 12th members of the Willing Workers Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, met at the home of its teacher, Mrs. Luther E. Little.

The meeting began by each one present praying in unison the Lord's Prayer after which a challenging devotional message was brought to the group by Mrs. Joe N. Calloway. Following the devotional the challenge for a closer walk with the Master was carried on by a deeply spiritual and inspiring program given by Mrs. Raymond P. Mims in which she gave a resume of "The Baptists," an article in a recent issue of Look Magazine, and offering the book "The Greatest Story Ever Told" with its moving influence on its readers. To close the program Mrs. Mims used her record player to give to the group recordings of I Corinthians 13 and two prayer hymns, "Now the Day is Over" and "Rock of Ages," leaving each listener with a feeling of the need for a closer walk with the Master so that she might be more nearly worthy of her faith in Him and of His welcome to humanity's attempts to draw near to Him.

Business transacted consisted of ore planning for the enlargement of the membership of the class, planning for the attendance the coming Sunday by those present signing links of a chain who had not signed a link of the chain promising to be in the class next Sunday if at all possible. An offering for the class treasury was taken.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held Monday night, July 10, at the home of Mrs. Raymond P. Mims.

Retail Sales Increase 13 Per Cent In Chilton

The dollar volume of retail sales in Alabama increased 18 per cent over February with 64 of the counties in the state reporting sales above the previous month.

The March index of retail sales at 97.9 was 3 per cent below the same month a year ago and also for March, 1948, the monthly Retail Trade Report published by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Alabama discloses.

The preliminary retail sales index for April shows a continued, but small, increase over March.

Net retail sales in Alabama in the first quarter of the year were slightly below the first quarter in 1948-'49. Throughout the nation, first quarter sales were 4 per cent greater than for the same period in 1949.

During March business and industrial conditions in the state increased over February and most lines were above March, 1949.

All types of businesses reported increased sales in March over February. Clothing store sales increased 29 per cent over the previous month for the largest gain of any type of business reporting.

While 64 counties reported sales increases over February, 34 had a higher sales index than in March a year ago and 44 had a higher index than in March, 1948.

Shelby County recorded a 55 per cent increase in retail sales over February to pace the counties in the state. Primarily responsible for this gain was an increase of over 200 per cent in automobile sales.

Perry, Hale and Crenshaw counties were the three reporting sales below the previous month.

The index of net retail sales for March in Chilton County showed a 13 per cent increase over the previous month.

Donald Comer Heads Negro Hospital Drive

Designates July 11 as Good Will Day in Birmingham

Birmingham, Ala.—Tuesday, July 11, has been designated as Good Will Day in Birmingham. On this date it is expected that $60,000 will be raised to complete a campaign to build and equip a $750,000 Negro Hospital in Birmingham.

Sponsors of the drive point out that it is in the pattern of the Southern way of life, headed by an outstanding Methodist with a Jewish Co-chairman, to build exclusively for negroes a hospital which will be operated by the Catholic Sisters of Charity of Nazareth.

Chairman Donald Comer, renowned Alabama industrial leader, who conceived Good Will Day, is chairman of the board of Avondale Mills. He is internationally known for his contributions to good labor relations. Under the "Avondale Plan," which Mr. Comer likes to call "Partnership with People," the earnings of Avondale Mills are shared with approximately 7,000 employees. The Company has assisted a large percentage of the mills' employees to own their own homes.

Mr. Comer calls the Negro Hospital Fund Campaign a capital investment in good health and good community relations and a demonstration of how responsible white leaders care for the needs of Negro citizens.

Liberty Bell Here Saturday, July 1st

The symbol of the Savings Bonds Independence Drive, the Liberty Bell, will appear in Clanton on July 1st.

The national revival of the Independence spirit and the recollection of things past, began with a tap on a bronze bell in Philadelphia.

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder stood in Independence Hall in Philadelphia on May 15, a rubber-covered mallet in his hand. After a short speech, climaxing an hour-long four network broadcast, the Secretary gently tapped the hulk of copper next to him and the millions listening heard the Liberty Bell whisper.

That whisper has grown into shout and the voice of the Liberty Bell echoes throughout the country with the stirring message, "Save for your Independence."

Over two thousand communities will hear the voice of their Liberty Bell ring from gaily-decorated, spanking-new Ford trucks when their Liberty Bell visits them to highlight their lo- Independence Savings Bond Drive, between May 15 and July 4.

The bell that they will hear belongs to them. Fifty-two exact replicas of the Liberty Bell touring the fifty-eight states and other territories will be loaned to each state and territory at the conclusion of the Treasury's new bond campaign on July 4 by the Secretary of the Treasury, John W. Snyder. They will be loaned for permanent display.

These exact copies of the Liberty Bell were donated as a public service by America's copper industry to stimulated interest and participation in the nation's favorite thrift program in which millions of Americans have saved over $48 billion dollars.

When the Treasury announced in March that a Savings Bonds Drive would be conducted with the Liberty Bell as its symbol and "Save for your Independence" as its slogan, the copper industry volunteered an unprecedented suggestion.

They offered to have exact copies of the Liberty Bell made to provide impetus to the Drive. The Treasury accepted this generous offer, and Arthur L. Bigelow, one of America's foremost bellmasters, volunteered his assistance in designing the duplicate bells.

Bigelow, a professor of engineering as well as bellmaster ta Princeton University, made an exhaustive study of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia and a search for a foundry to produce the bells began.

The United States lacked a bell foundry of the type necessary to produce these bells in time for the drive's opening. A little town in France, called Annecy, where the art of bellmaking has been practiced for centuries, was selected for the task of making these bells and was welcomed by this little community, which served in the French resistance movement during the second World War.

Casting of the bells began in late March at the Annecy-le-Vieux, Haute Savoie, France, with the first shipment of thirteen bells arriving April 21.

The little community was excited about the project and poured the best of their craftsmanship and art into the molds that formed the Liberty Bells. They finished their first thirteen bells on time, and there was a warm welcome reception in New Jersey when they arrived on April 21.

Bellmasters claim that these bells, because of their exact similarity to the original, reproduce perfectly the sound of the long-silent Liberty Bell.

On July 1, the citizens of Chilton County will see their Liberty Bell. They will hear its voice at special ceremonies which are being arranged by J. Archie Ogburn, Chilton County Savings Bonds Chairman. Everyone is in the new Bond Drive dedicated to the furthering of everyman's ideal of a financially independent future.

Programs involving local dignitaries, celebrities, and the appearance of prominent business figures are being planned by the committee. The Liberty Bell replica will tell the time during the appearance here. Citizens will be reminded that it's "Time to Save for Independence" whenever they hear the bell's voice.

Don't fail to see your Liberty Bell. It's your bell, and a wonderful reminder of American ideals and American beliefs.

BE SURE TO ASK FOR ENRICHED CORN MEAL

Consumers want corn meal they buy to be manufactured under the same strict code of cleanliness that they demand for other foods, believes John P. Bell, A.P.I. Extension Service corn products marketing specialist.

He explains that the housewife who buys a bag of meal in an attractive package on which there is an enrichment label assuring her of the high food value of the contents, often becomes a repeat customer.

"Everyone," says Mr. Bell, "from the farmer who grows the corn to the customer will profit from better processed, enriched corn meal."

LUCKY ALABAMA HOGS TO HEAR DINNER BELL

Auburn, Ala. — The hog dinner bell will be ringing in thousands of Alabama corn fields in the near future.

"Alabama pigs and hogs have been harvesting corn cafeteria style since farmers learned that swine gather corn as clean as the average man," explains G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension Service hog production specialist. "Therefore, hog growers who planted extra early maturing hybrid corn will not have to carry corn from the crib for awhile.

Phillips adds that there is a best time to turn hogs into the corn field. Any farmer can tell the "ready stage" with little trouble. When grains are mature enough to rub off the ear with little effort, the corn field is ready for pigs and hogs.

TIPS FOR THOSE WITH FLAT CHEST AND BUST

Auburn, Ala. — Many women have a flat chest and large abdomen, observes Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

"To conceal this unfavorable contrast," says Miss Ellis, "wear dresses with collars that stop at the bust line with bright-colored bows or pins. Soft silk ties and soft jabots that fall over the bust line are recommended. Soft-draped collars are also effective."

The specialist emphasizes the fact that women who have flat busts can minimize this condition by wise use of soft material. One principle of design is that any portion which is small in proportion to the rest of the body may be decorated. Therefore, the person with the small bust must keep up with the trend of fashion that will camouflage her smallness.

Sign Placing HDC Objective

When you drive out the Selma Highway and see that attractive sign pointing toward Liberty Hill Church and Highland Church, you will know that the Baker Home Demonstration Club has been working on its Community Activities Objective

Putting up signs to name churches and give directions to visitors in the community is one of the objectives of the Chilton County Home Demonstration Council. Those signs in the Baker Community were placed on the roadside under the direction of Mrs. Johnnie Culpepper, President of Baker Club, and Mrs. Jewel Wright, Community Activities Chairman. These signs had been placed just before the Baker Club held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. Bernie Johnson.

In their enthusiasm over the erection of the signs the following ladies made a group picture: Mrs. Johnnie Culpepper, Mrs. Jewel Wright, Mrs. Homer W. Smith, Mrs. J. R. Hardy, Mrs. Dolphus Baker, Mrs. Mack Gray, Miss Annie Baker, Mrs. J. L. Malone, Mrs. Durward Mims, Mrs. Bernie Johnson, Mrs. Harris Hardy, Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Agent, and Miss Ann Brown, Assistant Home Agent.

The picture was taken by Miss Loyce Baker, who was a visitor to the Club.

Mr. Dave Tingle visited in Rome, Ga., during the week end. Mrs. Tingle and Janis returned home with him after a visit there.

LIBERTY BELL WILL BE ON DISPLAY HERE SATURDAY

For their formal opening next Saturday Messrs. Foshee have arranged to entertain their friends with what they think will be to everyone's liking. "Carmen" To Be Presented

The second concert in a series of summer attractions sponsored by the Associated Producers will consist of excerpts in concert form from the opera "Carmen." The concert will be Friday night at 7:45 o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Clanton.

One of the world's best known and best loved operas, "Carmen," is the story of a dashing and daring gypsy girl with many loves and few morals. Thrown against a background of lively scenes, reckless living and passionate loving, not even Carmen, the strongest character of her disastrous environment, can escape her fate. But she, unlike the others, dies happily convinced that her death was a result of a greater destiny, not the intense jealousy and rivalry of two conflicting lovers.

The role of the entrancing cigarette girl, Carmen, will be portrayed by Mrs. Erle Ellis, mezzo-soprano. Carmen's passonate and jealous lover, Don Jose, will be played by Scott Jackson, a visiting artist from Birmingham. Jackson, a veteran of Starlight Opera, is well-known over the entire state for his frequent appearances on radio and in concerts.
